"I imagine I am in his office talking to him"

That's the secret of one business man's success in talking over the telephone.

He pictures himself face to face with the man with whom he is talking.

He "sees" his man over the telephone.

And he talks to him with added carefulness and consideration and courtesy, because he knows that all depends on his voice and manner of talking.

The practice of trying to "see" the man you are talking with goes a long way towards making all your telephone conversations pleasant and more of them profitable.

AMERICAN IS NOT SONGSTER

Seems That Real Musical Instinct Has Yet to Be Awakened in the United States.

The last quarter of a century the general feeling has spread abroad that America was quite a musical nation, and it is true that in the large cities of the eastern seaboard and quite far into the middle West there is a good deal of listening to music in the form of opera and concerts, given, for the most part, by imported musicians; but when we reach the great heart of the country we find that the natural instincts of the people are almost entirely starved, or at any rate, very poorly nourished. For a musical nation is not one which merely listens to music made by others, any more than a people is athletic if, instead of exercising themselves, they watch others indulge in gymnastics.

A musical people is one which considers music such an indispensable food and tonic for their own spirits and imaginations that they sing and play in every activity of daily life just as freely and naturally as they laugh and speak. For many centuries this has been true of all the great European nations—the Italians, French, Scotch, Irish, Scandinavians, Russians and others—and the result is the great body of folk song and folk dance which is the priceless heritage of all these nations.

Just why the American has not yet become a singing animal (as Aristotle said everyone was a social animal) is a difficult matter to explain, although, doubtless, if sufficient time were taken, reasonable causes might be suggested; but, at any rate, it is a fact. Surely one of the most direct products of this war will be the bringing home to the whole body politic of the value of music, for by means of the stress of war which is bringing the whole country together, a love of music may be carried into the most remote parts of the country.

Good regimental bands have always furnished one of the most sympathetic bonds between the body politic and the government of any given country, and we earnestly hope that more and more, both during the war and after it, we shall have in America a number of such bands which will consider it their pleasure and duty to play at all public and patriotic meetings, especially on national holidays, thus impressing upon all citizens the stimulating effect of martial music.

In a number of the camps in the middle West and in Texas we were told by officers and song leaders that there were drafted men who had come in from remote towns and settlements who had never seen any musical instruments, such as a pianoforte and violin, and who had no idea that men could make pleasing sounds with their vocal organs in connection with the uttering of words.

Economical Husband.

The conversation in the lobby of a Washington hotel turned to a subject of war-time economy when a fitting anecdote was related by Congressman Porter H. Dale of Vermont.

Recently the Browns moved into a new house, and not liking the wallpaper in the dining room, Mrs. Brown decided to have it repapered at her own expense. The work was done while Brown was at the office.

"I want you to look at the dining room, Jimmy," said little wifey when the old man returned at the dinner hour and was proudly led into that apartment. "How do you like it?"

"I like the paper all right," replied Brown, just a little emotionally, "but why in the world did you use paste in putting it on?"

"Paste!" was the wondering rejoinder of the good woman. "How else could I have put it on?"

"You should have put it on with tacks," declared the economical husband. "You don't suppose we are going to live in this house forever, do you?"—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Munition Brass to Cost Less.

Perfection of a new type of electric melting furnace that will reduce materially the cost of making brass for munitions, devised by H. W. Gillett, a government chemist, was announced by the bureau of mines. Patents have been assigned to Secretary of the Interior Lane as trustee.

Cornell university and brass manufacturers were among those who assisted during five years of development of the device. It is intended to supplant open crucibles in which zinc and copper are melted by fuel heat under present manufacturing methods.

Navy Superstition.

A visitor on a British battleship was dining with a group of officers when his fork accidentally struck a glass tumbler. As the glass resounded the officers shouted as one man. "Hun." On asking for an explanation the visitor was told that the ringing of a glass meant bad luck. One officer declared that on one ship he formerly commanded every time a glass was rung a man fell overboard. This is why officers now cry "Hun" when a table accident occurs, they hoping to transfer their bad luck to the enemy.

Population of the Earth.

In 1787 the population of the earth, according to Busching, was about 1,000,000,000; in 1800, according to Fabri and Stein, only 900,000,000; in 1833, according to Stein and Orschelman, 872,000,000. In 1855, it is estimated it at 1,266,000,000 and Kolb, in 1865, at 1,220,000,000. According to the latest calculations the earth is inhabited by 2,400,000,000 happy (?) human beings.—New York Tribune.

STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA, County of Newberry.

Andrew Jackson Gilliam, vs
Andrew Roland Gilliam,
Amanda Bertha Gilliam,
Mamie Louise Young,
Fred Wallace Gilliam,
James LeRoy Gilliam,
Josephine Elizabeth Gilliam,
Ruth Lee Gilliam and Margaret Burnett Gilliam.

By virtue of an order of the court in the above stated case the Master will sell at public outcry to the highest bidder, before the court house at Newberry, S. C., on Monday, sale day, August 5th, 1918, within the legal hours of sale the following described lands to-wit:

One-fourth of an acre, more or less with a dwelling located thereon, lying and being situated in the town of Newberry, county of Newberry, State of South Carolina, bounded now or formerly by Higgins or Boundary street, by lot of Lucy Wallace, lot of Maggie Taylor and lot of the estate of Riley Penn, deceased, the same being the identical lot of land conveyed to Josephine Elizabeth Gilliam by Chesley H. Cannon and William G. Mayes, by their deed recorded in the office of the clerk of court for Newberry county, South Carolina, at page 137 of Deed Book No. 9.

Terms of sale: The purchaser to pay one-half the purchase price in cash, the balance in twelve months from day of sale, which shall be secured by a bond of the purchaser and mortgage on the premises sold. The credit portion to bear interest at the rate of seven per cent per annum from day of sale. Said bond and mortgage to provide for a ten per cent attorney's fee in case of foreclosure by suit or put in the hands of an attorney for collection, of the amount due thereon, principal and interest: as attorney's fee, the said mortgage to provide for insurance of the dwelling on the premises by the mortgagor, and at his expense and assign the policy of insurance to the Master as additional security, with leave to the purchaser to pay all of the purchase price in cash. The purchaser will be required to deposit with the Master the sum of fifty dollars as evidence of good faith immediately upon the acceptance of his bid and shall be required to comply with the terms of sale within 10 days from the day of sale and upon his failure to do so the property will be resold at the former purchasers risk and forfeit the $50 deposited with Master at first sale.

The purchaser shall be required to pay all taxes on the premises, State, county and municipal for the year 1918.

And in case the purchaser fails to deposit $50 with the Master immediately upon the acceptance of his bid the Master will immediately resell without further notice said property as if no sale had been.

Purchaser to pay for papers and recording.
H. H. Rikard,
July 11, 1918. Master.

FIX ITINERARIES FOR CANDIDATES.

Winnshoro and Barnwell Opening Points.—Both Begin June 18.

The State.
The State and senatorial campaigns will open June 18, the former at Barnwell and the latter at Winnshoro. Both will close Friday, August
