The Ladies' Aid society of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer will meet Monday afternoon at 6 o'clock with Mrs. J. J. Langford.

See "The Silver Horde" Monday. It is a picturization of the famous novel supreme in story value and characterization. To be repeated Tuesday.

All Woodmen of the World, members of Camp Fire 42, are requested to be at the hall Monday night, as business of importance is to be transacted.

Miss Clara Bowers, who was re-elected to teach her school in Kershaw, will not return there next session, having been elected to teach in the Speers Street school of this city.

Here is a squib borrowed from a Newberry citizen: The June brides are plentiful, but did you ever see so many Summer brides? There are more Summer brides this year than ever before in this place.

Recorder's court was presided over by Alderman H. D. Whitaker on Tuesday morning in the absence of Mr. B. V. Chapman, who had not arrived at the hour owing to a trip to Laurens on legal business. Three persons who had parked their automobiles in the wrong position paid their little two dollars each, and five boys for disorderly conduct each paid a dollar.

What we don't understand. One of the things we do not understand is how intelligent people, men and women, at this late day, after all that has been said on the subject, and the many fines imposed, can be found parking their cars on the wrong side or in the wrong direction. Everybody by this time ought to know that all cars are to be parked on certain sides of the streets and in a certain position. Hunt up the ordinance and read it.

One speeder, Oliver Davis, paid his $15 Wednesday and one parker in wrong position the little $2 required by law. At the same time there were two cases of violation of the building code, each "victim" paying a fine of $5. No man can build without a permit, and he may as well get it beforehand, as this is another law that is going to be enforced. Chief Rodelsperger and his men are seeing that all laws are respected and obeyed, and all violators will be fined, regardless.

Rats are very numerous in this city, especially in the business section, and the population is increasing, the birth rate being awfully greater than the death rate. For protection against these varmints the merchants ought to get together and see if something can not be done to exterminate the pests or at least decrease the number. They are not only a nuisance; they are a peril. Organize a rat club and get to work and let's see if the race can't be annihilated. There are too many large families in stores, warehouses, etc.

B, First South Carolina Volunteer Infantry, Spanish-American war, will assemble at this place on Thursday, July 8th, 1920, to talk over old times and enjoy an old-fashioned barbecue dinner. We urge you to be with us. Return us a postal card at once, directed to the chairman, so that we can arrange for your entertainment."

Efrid-Kinard.

Lexington Dispatch-News, 23rd. A wedding beautiful in its simplicity was that of Miss Katherine Efrid to James C. Kinard of Newberry, which was solemnized Thursday evening at 7 o'clock on the lawn of the Efrid country home near Lexington. Through an aisle formed of daisy chains and rustic pedestals, which held baskets filled with shasta daisies and tied with yellow tulle, the bridal party proceeded down the front steps and across the side lawn to an improvised altar banked with fern and southern smilax. Here the impressive rite ceremony was performed by Rev. A. J. Bowers, D. D., of Newberry college and witnessed by only the relatives of the young couple. The wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played by Miss Marion Earhardt of Newberry.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Bertha Efrid, as first bridesmaid—Misses Annie Kinard of Newberry, sister of the groom, Caro Efrid of Lexington and Mary Ann Hiller of Chapin, cousins of the bride, Annie Caughman of Lexington and Margaret Renwick of Newberry. The bridesmaids wore girlish frocks of organdie in pastel shades and carried armfuls of shasta daisies tied with yellow tulle. The bride, a girl of beautiful brunette type, was exquisitely gowned in a simple dress of white net and carried a shower bouquet of shasta daisies. Immediately after the ceremony yellow and white ices and wedding cake were served by members of the bridal party.

During the informal reception Mr. and Mrs. Kinard slipped away in an automobile for a short trip, after which they will make their home in Newberry. Mrs. Kinard travelled in a smart suit of blue tricotine with a chic little hat of taffeta and straw.

Mrs. Kinard is the eldest daughter of Hon. and Mrs. D. F. Efrid and is valued by a wide circle of friends for her sweetness and gentleness. She is a graduate of Newberry college.

Mr. Kinard is an honor graduate of Newberry college, at which institution he is now professor of English.

The home was beautifully decorated in pink sweet peas, gladioli and daisies. In the sitting room the handsome wedding gifts were displayed.

Luncheon for Miss Efrid.

Misses Essie and Caro Efrid and Mrs. Jno. D. Carroll were hostesses Wednesday at a luncheon in honor of their cousin, Miss Katherine Efrid, a recent bride-elect. The house was artistically decorated in white and yellow poppies, daisies and nasturtiums carrying out a color scheme of yellow and white.

Covers were laid for twelve and the beautifully appointed table had for its centerpiece a large bowl of nasturtiums and ferns. The place cards were yellow and in the shape of tiny packages which held an appropriate souvenir for each guest. Individual baskets held yellow and white mints.

After an interesting game of cards Misses Katherine Efrid and Mary Ann Hiller, making the highest score cut the prize—a box of handkerchiefs, which was won by Miss Efrid. The honor guest was also presented with a dainty bit of handsome lingerie.

These present were: Mrs. S. J. Derrick of Newberry, Misses Katherine and Bertha Efrid, Mary Ann Hiller of Chapin, Margaret Renwick, Marion Earhardt and Annie Kinard of Newberry, Annie Caughman and Mrs. P. H. Shealy.

Of Interest to Ex-Soldiers.

The Y. M. C. A., through its educational department, is doing quite a fine work for former service men in the way of correspondence courses. These courses are splendidly gotten up and an ex-soldier can secure studies on any subject in which he may be interested, as the list is very extensive and enables men with a limited education, as well as the college man, to further his knowledge along any favorite study.

The funds available for this work in South Carolina have been allotted so much to each county. Newberry county was given $855 of which amount courses equalling $445 have been granted. This leaves a balance to the credit of Newberry county and Hal Kohn, who has charge of this work in this county, is very anxious to place the remainder. All that is necessary in order to secure a course is to make application to Mr. Kohn, showing discharge certificate, at the time. Then you make a selection of your favorite study and application is forwarded to the South Carolina headquarters, and if your application is accepted it will be but a short time until you will receive the books, etc., with which to pursue the work.

Each course costs a certain amount, depending on the text books, but if an application is accepted this amount is not charged to the applicant but to the county allotment. The maximum which any one former service man can ask for is a course, or several courses, which does not cost more than $100.

Death of Mr. Gaillard.

Mrs. J. M. Workman received a letter dated the 16th instant from Miss Lizzie Gaillard of Cedar Springs telling her of the death of Dr. Charles R. Gaillard, which occurred on the 15th out West where Dr. Gaillard was staying for the benefit of his health. The letter stated that a telegram had just been sent her by their brother, Mr. James Gaillard, who with his wife, had gone to the bedside of the dying man, advising that the body would be shipped to Spartanburg for burial the following Sunday, in Oakland cemetery, that city. People in Newberry remember Dr. Gaillard as a former boy living here with his parents and brothers and sisters. He was brought up in a Christian home and was an exemplary young man, growing and developing in the true virtues of a noble manhood of which his youth gave promise.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

"The Silver Horde."

In Rex Beach's "The Silver Horde" produced by Goldwyn, story interest vies with excellent acting for first place among the many good things that can be said about this production. "The Silver Horde" as a novel proved to be one of the most pronounced literary successes of the present day, not only in the volume of its sale, but also in the word-of-mouth notoriety that it inspired.

On the screen this tale of strife and love in the primitive North retains all of its plot strength and interest, and is further enhanced by the convincing realism in action which only the screen can offer. To the multitudinous readers of the book it will be very thrilling to see those wonderful characters, Boyd Emerson and Cherry Malotte, directing Big George's fight against the money-worshipping trust interests of New York, taking part on the side in a little romance which gradually eliminates the haughty Mildred Wayland as a factor and settles down to a plain case of mutual adoration between Emerson and Cherry.

The unpleasant, hateful people in the story such as Marsh, unprincipled head of the Marsh Canning company, Wayland, the financial power behind the concern, and Swanson, a prominent figure in Marsh's criminal schemes, are happily disposed of in a manner proportionate to their deserts, giving the picture a rounded-out and gratifying ending.

The cast of "The Silver Horde," which is the feature of the program at the opera house Monday and Tuesday, contains such noted screen favorites as Robert McKim, Myrtle Stedman, Frederick Stanton, Betty Blythe, Curtis Cooksey, Hector Sarno, Carl Clyde and R. D. MacLean. Frank Lloyd directed the production.

ADDRESS BY MRS. JETER TO MOTHERS AND GIRLS

Glenn-Lowry News. The Camp Fire girls invited their mothers to the May council fire. The meeting was held in the library, Miss Gladys Smith was received into the Cobedewi Camp Fire (seniors). Six Cobedewi Camp Fire girls, Gladys Children, Kate Ray, Ruth Giles, Virginia Mae Dees, and Bernice Cook were awarded the rank of wood gatherer. Many girls were awarded honors in all seven crafts.

The event of the evening was an address by Mrs. S. A. Jeter. By request she told the story of Newberry's hero, Calvin Crozier, and then spoke to the mothers and daughters present. Into this talk she drew three topics: (1) The attitude of mother toward her daughter's pleasure. (2) The attitude of a daughter toward her mother's pleasure. (3) The attitude of both mother and daughter toward dress. Her remarks were not only timely but most sympathetic and beautiful in thought. That she spoke from experience every mother present will testify. Some mothers were so impressed that out of the fullness of their hearts they spoke. The Camp Fires spoke by a rising vote of thanks. (Mrs. Jeter is indeed a capable and well loved woman. She, as at other times, responded most cheerfully to this call for her services.) In the course of her discussion, she spoke of how the Camp Fire impressed her. In her tribute to its fine spirit she said: "The girls, especially those from 14 to 20 years, need the best development and broadening that the mothers can provide. Fortunate indeed is the girl who spends this time inside the walls of a college where her whole nature of many interests is cared for. But for those who can't or who don't attend college, it seems to me that the best substitute is the Camp Fire and its activities. Founded upon true religious principles, it offers education of the heart, the hand, and the head. It prizes the health of a girl as it teaches her that her body is the 'Temple' of the Great Spirit. Were I a girl in my teens, I am sure that I would be a Camp Fire Girl." Did she not pay a glowing tribute to the Camp Fire?

Mr. W. M. Sherard was to have been present at this meeting. He was however, in Union (coming from Spartanburg) and telephoned his message to the Camp Fire Girls and their mothers. "Tell them," said he, "that that camping trip is all O. K. We'll have cars and go direct to Asheville from Whitmire. We will also come for the girls. Tell the mothers that I covet their daughters this trip which will be carefully chaperoned and will prove of untold value to the girls." Later in the evening Mr. Sherard arrived and enjoyed with the other guests the delicious ice cream and cake.
