WHAT CONSTITUTES DEMOCRACY?

Because Senator McLaughlin will not permit himself to be terrorized by a few political bandits, they follow him wherever he goes and endeavor by misrepresentation to do that which they have failed to do by force. One of the greatest commercial bodies in America paid the Senator the distinguished compliment to invite him to go to New York and deliver an address; among the other guests were Secretary of State Hay, and several Governors. Senator McLaughlin and Secretary of State Hay occupied seats of honor beside the toastmaster for the occasion, and the banqueters composed of the representative business men of New York. These gentlemen are not politicians, but merchants, brokers, bankers, manufacturers and capital furnishers for those who are developing the resources of the country. It is this class of men who are looked to for aid whenever the cotton crop is to be moved, it is to them we go when a cotton factory is to be built, and it is to them we call when money is wanted to furnish advances for the making of crops. These men could not be induced to accept public office, and yet they have as much love of country as the office seeking politician; the recent war developed the fact, that from this class there responded to the country's call as much patriotism as there was from the ranks of office holders; they shouldered their guns and went to Cuba, Philippines and to China, and did their full duty the same as others. When the war ended, they did not hover around the capitol and clamor for public position, but returned to their counting rooms and banks, factories, stores and offices, and it was this class, who first realized the changed conditions brought on by the war between the United States and Spain.

Senator McLaughlin was honored with an invitation to address the New York Chamber of Commerce, and his South Carolina opponents, display their jealous enmity in every line they write. We have read that New York speech with more than usual care, and if there is an utterance in it which is not sound and practical, we are at loss to discover it; Yet some of the newspaper editors of this State charge that it is teeming with Republican doctrine, and it is the last step towards making McLaughlin a full pledged Republican. This newspaper is not Republican, nor will it ever be, and if those who contend that McLaughlin is a Republican, would stop resorting to lying, and get right down to argument, and convince us that we are supporting a Republican, we would drop McLaughlin like a hot potato, but until we are convinced to the contrary, we shall continue endorsing McLaughlin's attitude on national questions as genuine Democratic principles.

McLaughlin endorses what he calls the "McKinley doctrine," which in his speech he has divided into four parts, and we call attention to these and ask our newspaper statesmen (?) to show us what is undemocratic there. In our opinion, there is very little party politics in his speech, it was more on the order of a discussion of a business policy. He was talking to business men who cared nothing whatever for party politics; in fact, these men are not party men, they vote for men representing measures, whether they be Democrats or Republicans. The only time since the war between the States, that a Democratic victory was had, was when this body of men approved the course of the Democratic party, and they supported and helped to elect Grover Cleveland, but when our Populist allies captured control of the party, and revolutionized the party's principles by inserting a lot of heresies into the Democratic platform, these men would not come with us and gave their support to the other side.

If the Democratic party ever comes to the front again, it will be when it returns to its reason, and wins back the men who gave us victory before, and it was to this class of men that Senator McLaughlin made his speech, which is being denounced as "Republicanism" by a class of politicians and editors who have determined to drive McLaughlin and his followers away from participation in the primary. Their only hope of defeating McLaughlin, is to prevent his running in the primary. They already have his word that if he cannot make his fight in the primary, he will not make it at all, and by a systematic effort they are trying to mislead the people into joining them in the trick to keep McLaughlin from going before the masses, hence they charge him with Republicanism and everything else, except taking whiskey rebates, getting groceries and brick from the State penitentiary without paying for them until exposed; nor do they charge him with becoming a director in a New Jersey corporation with a capital stock of $5,000,000, or with suddenly becoming largely interested in Mexican copper mines. They do not charge any of these things, but they do charge him with the fearful crime of wielding influence at the National Capitol, to the extent that he has kept this State from being covered with obnoxious office holders; they also charge him with being able to influence the government to send some of its money to banks in South Carolina, the same as it does for New York, and when a number of country developers such as the Southern Cotton Spinners Association, and the New York Chamber of Commerce call upon McLaughlin to address them, he foolishly accepts their invitation and pleads with them to invest their money in the South. These are the crimes McLaughlin has been guilty of and, of course, it makes him a Republican, and he should not be allowed to discuss national questions before his own people. We would like some of our party monitors to tell us just what constitutes a Democrat in this State. Is it a part of the party creed, that in order to remain in good standing, a man must go around with a pitchfork and whenever a Republican proposes a measure calculated to benefit the farmers of the South, "jab the pitchfork into his fat sides"? To remain in good standing, must one make excursions over the country and lecture on the subject "How Niggers are lynched in South Carolina" for a syndicate who run these lecturers the same as a theatrical manager runs troupes for all that can be made out of the business? Is it a part of Democratic creed that one must go over the country and denounce corporations and trusts, and abuse the State of New Jersey for being the incubator of fraudulent charters, and then become a director in a $5,000,000 product of this incubator? Is it absolutely necessary to hold fealty with the Democratic party, one must abuse the administration in power for giving appointments to Democrats, and then get all appointments possible for kinsmen?

If these things which we have enumerated are the absolute requirements to make one a loyal Democrat then we will have to admit that McLaughlin has not and is not loyal to his party, because, his entire record shows that every step taken by him was with a view to materially benefitting the South; every appointment secured through his influence, has gone to those who were no kin to him. He did not denounce corporations, nor is he a director of one. He does not "jab" a Republican "in his fat sides" for proposing a measure calculated to help the South, but joins with him to bring it to a successful finish. He does not take excursions over the country delivering lectures for a syndicate on the gruesome subject of lynching, where an admission fee is charged, but he does accept invitations to deliver addresses to audiences whose sympathies he seeks in aiding us to build up our material interests. If this course of conduct is undemocratic, then we want to see argument to prove it, instead of the miserably mean and belittling lies and flings. Readers of newspapers are entitled to fair dealing and, when a newspaper represents to its readers that which it knows is untrue, it simply swindles its patrons. There is too much of this sort of thing these days, and for this reason we want the people to be put in a position to judge for themselves. In another column we reproduce McLaughlin's New York speech and we want any of our readers to find anything, Republican in it.

Editor The Manning Times:
Farmers in this section have about finished planting oats. The grain is sown in abundance, and if the seasons permit it we will have a good lot of small grain and forage for the coming year.
The crop failure has demoralized some people in this section, and they are moving to Darlington to take work in the factory and cotton mills.
Mr. Benjie Price of Wisacky visited this community recently.
The Paxville correspondent of THE TIMES seems to be faithful and wide awake. I hope he will continue giving us the news from that section.
Christmas is almost here and I really think it would be a fine idea if all correspondents would keep a sharp lookout for news items; I believe the news columns can be kept full.
I have heard a number of people compliment the enterprise of THE TIMES editor for furnishing such a pretty story to the readers as "Master and Slave," and I hope THE TIMES will continue publishing these stories; they make nice home reading and the ladies especially are fond of them. I know of several people who are sending THE TIMES to friends abroad on account of the story.
The many friends of Messrs. Smith & Dennis, who were in jail on the charge of burning Timmonsville, were gratified to learn that they had no trouble in giving bond and they feel very grateful to you, Mr. Editor, for the substantial aid you gave to them. Both of these unfortunate men are largely connected in Salem; in fact nearly every body is related to them by blood or marriage and when they were accused of this awful crime it was a great shock to those who have always known them to be straight-forward men. I hope they will be able to establish their innocence. Your editorial asking for a suspension of judgment was indeed timely and very proper, and favorably commented on over here.
There seems to be a diversity of opinion in this section about the wisdom of permitting stock to run a large during certain months in the year. I think that Doctor Woods had good reason for believing that a majority want the law to remain as now, so they can get clear of feeding during the late winter months, and those who are urging you to take action in this matter may not be able to secure to their petitions a majority. I think you are correct in this matter, in leaving it to the people to decide, you show that you have no personal interest, but want to do what a majority of those interested wish.
I do not see what the grand jury has done about the report of the expert filed with the Clerk of Court. I thought that body would make some recommendation with regard to it. They recommended the payment of certain school claims, which I think ought to be held up because it is a notorious fact that the people were swindled. In my opinion, the trustees that issued the pay certificates should be held responsible for these claims, and not the tax-payers. "B."

Midway and Sandy Grove wanting a law that would permit them to turn out their stock during the late winter months. Within the last two months quite a number from the Salem townships have asked us if we would not have the law repealed, and our reply was that we could do nothing until we had petitions signed by a majority in each township that the law effects.
We can say that the complaints about Mt Zion comes principally from those living in the adjoining township, who regard the exemption a hardship upon them unless those living in the exempted township will close in the township with a fence.
We hope we have made ourselves understood in this matter, and give our assurance that our interest in this matter is simply to comply with the wishes of the majority. [Editor The Times.]

Judge Buchanan is reported in the Bennettsville Correspondence of the News and Courier, as making an exhibition of himself which confirms the good judgment of the people in relegating him to private life.

If the German tariff does prevent the United States from shipping its foods to Germany, the results will be three fold: first, prices for food will rise in Germany; second, to enable workmen to live, wages there will have to be increased, thus increasing the cost of German made goods and limiting their sale abroad; third, vessels that now carry German freights abroad and bring back food stuffs will lose their return cargoes and thus be obliged to increase their outgoing freights, thus still further increasing the cost of German made goods, or forcing a lowering in their quality. But German goods now circulate by reason of their cheapness despite their inferiority and any increase in price or further reduction in quality will stop their sale altogether. In other words, Germany had better look before she leaps.

The Columbia State of yesterday delivers itself of a lecture to the Anderson people who lynched the negro fiend that shot a white lady because the food she gave him did not please him, and then urges the bringing to trial the lynchers. We do not favor lynch law, but when the State cries out against this crime it must be remembered that it claimed to have had positive information that G. R. Koester was guilty of lynching, but kept it suppressed until Koester was appointed to a lucrative office. The State can urge others to bring lynchers to trial, but it seems to reserve the right to only expose those for whom it has a personal dislike. In our opinion, consistency would require the State to sweep before it its own door, and let others alone, when it comes to the prosecution of lynchers.

Cold Comfort from Doctors.
Doctors say neuralgia is not dangerous. This is poor consolation to a sufferer who feels as if his face were pierced with hot needles and torn with a thousand pairs of pliers. A word of advice to him: stay indoors and use Perry Davis' Painkiller. The blessed freedom from pain which follows this treatment cannot be told. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

Jumped on a Ten-Penny Nail.
The little daughter of Mr. J. N. Powell jumped on an inverted rake made of ten-penny nails and thrust one nail entirely through her foot and a second one-half way through. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was promptly applied and five minutes later the pain had disappeared and no more suffering was experienced. In three days the child was wearing her shoes as usual and with absolutely no discomfort. Mr. Powell is a well known merchant of Portland, Me. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and heals such injuries without inflammation and in one-half the time required by the usual treatment. For sale by The R. B. Loryea Drug Store, Isaac M. "A Nine Days' Wonder."
The memorable reign of Lady Jane Grey is said to have given rise to the phrase, "A nine days' wonder." Lady Jane was proclaimed queen of England July 10, 1553, four days after the death of Edward VI. After the lapse of a period of nine days, on July 19, she relinquished her title to the crown, thus terminating her reign in the short space of a week and a half. A noted English historian says, "Thus we come to the end of the diary of that short and troubled reign that from its length is said to have given rise to the now (1620) popular phrase, 'A nine days' wonder.'"
