

THE THIRD WEEK

ere and fast passing into history. The work is going on like chain lightning. The very city is awake, and the ls are shaking from center to circumference, in the eyes of the other fellow. He never saw the like; he can't lerstand why the crowds all center to one spot in this city. He never dreamed but what he was the big bee of town. He thought he was the whole cheese, but he has found out there are others, and more to follow.

THE CARNIVAL IS GOING ON

It is going without a break. They tried to break through our lines, but found it a pretty hard thing to do e STRASS-ROGAN CO. has made the prices and sent word to the farmer and the working man, and they re-nded nobly to the call. He was not deceived, we never practice it in our business, and we are not going to prac-e it to day. We had

Over $15,000 Worth of Goods

we wanted to sell out to the people, and we sent word to all of them. We did not pick out the en few, and how well we are disposing of them we leave to one and all, and we do not believe is a man, woman or child within the borders of this county, but will vouch for it, that the peo-ple are centering at the bargain spot of the city. They are buying, they are not just visiting and looking around but they are taking away bundles and arms full. They are asking their neighbors to help carry their loads. The delivery wagons are busy, which ever way you look, up or down the streets, crossings or side streets, you will see bundles marked from the big store owned and controlled by the Strauss-Rogan Co. We are still hammering away in the

and each and every lady in this city, in this county we believe, is now talking for the Strauss-Rogan Co. They know the prices here, they know the treatment they get, and they know the quality of the goods, they know they never had an opportunity of buying anything better. They know they can look like fashion plates, and come here and find what the fashion plates tell them about. They don't have to be satisfied with one or two kinds, why, they can find most anything they want. We believe by this time, you have heard of it, or have been here and got some bargains. We believe you will be back and get some more of them. And if you have not been here, you are making arrangements to come and help us make the LAST DAYS OF THIS CARNIVAL the greatest of them all. We are shouting out aloud: we are talking from the shoulder: we are talking to get the dollar, and at the same time we are talking to give more for your dollar than any other man ever gave you in this city. Will you be with us? Come, join the procession and get a part of the many bargains awaiting you here, and at prices that will never again be quoted on such quality of goods in this city. For the third time we bid you welcome.

The Paris Waiters' Trick.

"I was in a Paris cafe," said the American tourist, "when there was a sudden quarrel not far away, and I suspended my eating, as did everybody else, to see what the trouble was. It appeared that one of my countrymen, whom I had not noticed in entering, had dined at a table not far away, and when he received his check he handed the waiter a ten dollar gold piece. The waiter put the coin into his mouth and made change for $5 only. The Yankee kicked and swore there was a swindle, but the waiter took the $5 from his mouth and held it up and said: "See! It is here. It is the coin he gave me. Is it not for him to apologize?" "It looked that way to me, but my countryman knew a thing or two. He grabbed the rascal by the throat and choked his mouth open, and, lo, a ten dollar gold piece dropped to the floor. The fellow had the $5 in his mouth to work the trick, and when I got to thinking the thing over I remembered that it had been successfully worked on me a dozen times over."—Chicago News.

SHOWING OFF A GUEST.

The Innkeeper Was Determined Fessenden Should Appear. One night while ex-Secretary of the Treasury Fessenden was on a political mission to the northern part of Maine he stopped at a small hotel. In the center of the house was a big stove that warmed two rooms. In one of the apartments Judge Fessenden established himself and prepared to take proper comfort during the evening. Just as he had got well located with a book the landlord, a six foot French Canadian, came in. "Excuse me, 'sair," said he, "but Mr. Ed Wigzone of Mayville, she be in de odder room, an' 's he want to see Mr. Fessenden?" "Tell Mr. Wigzone say she wan see Mr. Fessenden quick, an' she gues 'o de house, an' I say she gon to see him." Forthwith the big landlord swooped down on the astonished gentleman, seized him, tucked him under his arm and strode across into the room of the peregrinary gentleman from Mayville. "Mr. Wigzones," calmly said the landlord, as matter of fact as though he had just delivered a pitcher of ice water, "here be Mr. Fessenden." He set the indignant "caller" down on a chair and retired smilingly.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Vanity in a woman is bad enough, but conceit in a man is worse. You can't tell anything about a man by his looks. Like mice pies, some of them can look very innocent. If you can't have your way, take consolation from the fact that every man encounters his stone wall. When parents are old and poor and become a charge to their children the children often act like all persons act who have been paid in advance. How profligate we are with the hours of rest when it is bedtime and how we haggle over the flying minutes when it is time to get up in the morning! Mark this in favor of father: The woman who is charging things to father at a dry goods store buys more freely and with less worry than the timid woman who charges to her husband.—Arlington Globe.

Mr. E. L. Mards who conducts a general merchandise business at Pope, Va., writes: I had a child who got down in very bad shape. My system was so completely run down that I was scarcely able to attend to any work. I took 3 bottles of Rydale's Tonic and felt like a new man before I had finished taking it. It did me more good than anything I ever found and my health was good all last summer. W. E. Brown & Co.

TRIPLE EXTRACT.

Process by Which the Odor of Flowers is Obtained. Flowers that are to be used in the manufacture of perfumes are always gathered at nightfall or quite early in the morning, when the dew is upon them. Before they are gathered, however, receptacles are prepared for them in the shape of large frames, over which are stretched cotton cloths well saturated with olive oil or almond oil. The cut flowers are brought in and are thickly spread on a frame. Then another frame is fitted over it, and that in turn is well spread with flowers. Then a third frame is fitted over the second spread of flowers, and thus the work goes on until a huge pile of flowers is prepared. This flower heap is left for two days, at the end of which time the flowers are removed from the frames and replaced by fresh ones. The frames are filled and emptied every two days until two weeks have passed. Then the cloths are detached from the frames and placed under great pressure, and all the oil is pressed out of them. The oil thus obtained is heavily charged with the fragrance of the flowers, and it is mixed with double its weight of very pure rectified spirit and put in a vessel called a "digestor," which is simply a porcelain or block tin kettle that fits in another kettle. When in use the outer vessel is filled with boiling water. In this vessel the mixture of oil and spirits "digests" for three or four days. Then, after having cooled, the spirit is decanted into another vessel, holding the same quantity of fragrant oil, and the digesting process is repeated. After being thus digested three times the spirit is found to have taken up enough of the perfume, and it is then decanted from the oil for the third and last time through a tube, one end of which is filled with cotton wool to serve as a filter. The fluid thus prepared is called "triple extract."

Playing.

To most people who have had a real childhood, not cramped by overwork, physical or mental, or starved by sorrows or filled with an intellectuality beyond their years, "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland" is not far from the children of Kenneth Grahame's "Golden Age" are real people, and "Peter Pan" is more than a delightful play. Lewis Carroll and Mr. Grahame and Mr. Barrie have all told the truth, because with real children things are always being "made believe" just a little different from what they actually are. Playing house is a fig tree where your roof is made by broad leaves and where wide branches make your floor, your successive stories, your easy stairways; playing shop on a sofa or in an invalid's chair; playing street cars with chairs for horses and quarreling as to which child should be conductor and which driver—that was before the days of electricity; playing that you are a horse out-ting hay in your stall, "a real horse, you know," as a child said to me last summer; playing wild animals in the most grewsome places until you are paralyzed with terror and afraid of yourself in the dark; "making believe" in every instance that you are grown up or different from what you really are—that is a wonderfully rich life.—Louis McCrady in Atlantic.

When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidney nerves get weak, then these organs do not stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is simply a makeshift! Get a prescription known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. The Restorative is prepared expressly for these weak inside nerves. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—tablets or liquid and see how quickly help will come. Free sample sent on request by Dr. Shoop, Racine Wis. Your health is surely worth this simple test. W. E. Brown & Co.

Are you having trouble with your kidneys? There are lots of people today who wonder why they have pains across the back, why they are tired and lacking in energy and ambition. Your kidneys are wrong. They need relief without delay. Take DeWitt's Kidney & Bladder Pills; they are for weak backs, inflammation of the bladder, backache and weak kidneys. Sold by W. E. Brown & Co.

It Would Improve It.

A clergyman speaking on charity held that charity which was not grateful and clean was bound to fail, bringing to the donor scorn instead of gratitude. "Thus," he once said in a Sunday school address, "a rich landlord while making the round of his tenants' cottages collecting rents met a little girl whose beauty much impressed him. "In the shabby front room of the cottage the landlord talked for a while with the little girl, and as he rose to go an unwonted feeling of kindness "washed his heart." "Let me see," he said, fishing in his pockets—"let me see if I haven't something to give to this dear little girl." "And, smiling and chuckling, he went through pocket after pocket. Finally in his hip pocket he found a peppermint drop, a white peppermint drop. He dusted the dust and lint from it and extended it gaily to the little girl. "Here we are," he cried. "I thought we had something. Here is a nice peppermint drop for you. And now," he ended, "what will you do with it?" "Wash it," said the little girl gravely.

NOT GOOD PATIENTS.

Doctors Are Hard to Manage, Says a Trained Nurse. "I suppose it is treason to my superior officer to say so, but doctors are certainly not easy patients to manage," remarked the trained nurse. "At least, this has always been my experience, and most nurses, you will find, agree with me in the matter. I have recently been nursing a physician through typhoid, and my experience with him was typical of the cases of the profession in general. "Doctors know altogether too much for their own peace of mind, you see. Each new symptom is recognized, and if it is an unfavorable one, why, the patient's weakened condition usually leads him to lay great stress upon it. Then, since he has always been in a position to issue orders to the nurse, he cannot easily bring himself to take orders from her, and he is disposed to criticize and take exception to treatment which the ordinary patient receives as a matter of course. "But perhaps the most troublesome thing of all is the mania which the doctor has for taking his temperature. If he has a moderately high fever and is allowed to use the thermometer as often as he wishes he can fret and worry over the result enough to send his temperature up materially. More than once rather than exasperate a physician patient by a refusal to let him have the thermometer and rather at the same time than let him know just how high his fever was I have dropped the instrument just as I was in the act of handing it to him. Of course I apologize for my carelessness at such times, and the regret really does not have to be all assumed, for I am at the expense of buying myself a new thermometer. "At one time I had an inaccurate instrument, which never registered high enough, and I used to call it my doctor's thermometer. By a little dexterity I could substitute this for the one I actually used myself, and the encouragingly low temperature it would show would greatly please the patient."—New York Times.

Six o'Clock Folk.

How many of our readers know what a "6 o'clock man" is? Miss Spurgeon, one of the lecturers in English at Bedford college, Baker street, has a country cottage and an old "Ralph's mill" in the middle of Westlton Heath, Saxmundham. The other day a non-Suffolk lady told her that her garden's wife had often said, "We are 6 o'clock people" and she had taken it to mean "early risers." But soon after some one said that this lady's husband was "a 6 o'clock gentleman," and as she knew that he didn't get up early she asked what the epithet meant and was told, "Upright, like the hands of the clock are at 6 o'clock." Another use of the word in Suffolk is seen in "living upright"—that is, on independent means.—Westminster Gazette.
