To give you the joy of the road, the breath of the wood-lands, the song of the birds in summer, the health and happiness of the Open Country. To teach you the pleasure in work, the folly of worry, the better understanding of business and its profits. To create a new and broader conception of life, love and labor, and end the fallacy of false economy: This is the mission of the Maxwell.

City council met last Thursday and decided to purchase a $5,000 Automobile truck for fire purpose. This, in our judgment is a step in the right direction. We highly commend council for this action, and hope all of our citizens feel as we do about this matter. Echos From The Teachers' Meeting.

Not seeing any account of the teachers' meeting in last week's paper leads me even at this late date to say a few words relative to it.

As advertised, it was essentially a meeting for the purpose of re-organizing. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Browne, the county Superintendent who stated the objects of the meeting, as well as to outline the purposes and plans for the work for the year.

Rev. L. B. McCord conducted the devotional exercises.

The following were elected to serve the association for the coming year: Mr. H. J. Bomar, Principal of the Manning Graded School, President; Mr. J. E. Clark, Principal of the Jordan Acad emy, Vice President; Miss Helen E. Malone, Principal of the Davis Station School, Secretary; Miss Belle Moore of the Trinity School, newspaper reporter.

The president has named the following as program committee for the year: Miss Willie Hoke of the Paola school, Mrs. J. K. Breedin of the Manning

Graded school, Rev. J. N. McCord of the Sardinia school.

The meeting then resolved itself into round table discussions on various topics, among which was some consideration on the text book matter in which some criticisms were made relative to some of the text books now in use in our schools. Mr. H. W. Mitchum sent in a paper along this line. Further discussions will be made on this topic in this way the objectionable books can be discussed with a view of having them left out at the time of the next adoption.

At this meeting were thirty-two of Clarendon's live progressive teachers. It was one of the best meetings yet held, and augurs well for the meetings to follow. The next meeting will be held at the court house Saturday Nov. 27th, at 11 o'clock.

The Eternal Conflict.

Society is nothing more than a continuation of the conflict of nature under the guidance of intelligence. It is vain to hope for any amelioration of society from the prevalence of an intellectual education. Culture of the intellect supplies new weapons for use in the conflict and may render it less rude in appearance, but cannot change its nature. * * * Doctrines and creeds are forms; the will supplies their contents. Just as a vehicle may convey substances having wholesome or injurious or indifferent properties, so any system of thinking--theological, social or political--may be made to bear any purport, good or bad. To try to shape opinions so that they may not be made subservient to any evil purpose is all labor in vain.--Schopenhauer.

Wars and Words.

The wars with Spain in the sixteenth century enriched the English language with many new words. To them, as Logan Pearsall Smith has pointed out, "we owe the Spanish words 'embargo' and 'contraband' and the Dutch word 'treacher'." Among other Dutch or Flemish terms that were perhaps brought back to England by soldiers in their campaign in the low countries may be mentioned 'furlough,' 'cashier,' 'league,' 'sconce,' 'onslaught,' 'drill' and 'domineer.' 'Comrade' is a Spanish word, but seems to have been a soldiers' term learned in the low countries, and 'forlorn hope' is a military phrase, being the Dutch 'verloren hoop,' in which 'hoop' means a troop and is cognate with our word 'heap.'--London Chronicle.

Didn't Raise Them.

A young housewife who lives in a suburban town went to the village store to make some purchases.
