

Vote for Mauldin!

I am very proud of the large vote given me in the primary on August 31st, because that vote was the reward of the clean campaign I conducted. I do not want the office of lieutenant governor, nor any other office, if to obtain it I have to employ other than the fairest and cleanest methods.

Though born and raised in the populous Piedmont section of South Carolina I never appealed to any sectional feeling and any insinuation to the contrary is absolutely false. My opponent continually and adroitly drew that line by insinuating that I was doing so. The proof that it was drawn is that every low country county went for him while the Piedmont counties, as usual divided.

Though a member of as many fraternal orders as my opponent, I never listed those memberships in any literature I distributed, nor referred to them in any speech or private conversation during the campaign, nor did I wear any insignia of any of them. I would scorn to ride into office on fraternal order membership. I respect too highly my membership in the orders which have admitted me to their ranks to seek to use them as stepping stones to office.

I did mention my service as a soldier in the Spanish-American and World wars, not because I thought that double volunteer military service at the call of my country qualified me for civic office, but because it was a guarantee of my patriotism, and because one of my opponents often said on the stump, that other things being equal, the voters ought in casting their ballots for any office to give their preference to the man who had risked his life in the uniform of his country.

Are other things equal as between myself and the opponent with whom I run over the second primary? I have had legislative experience, and he has not, and unless the governor should die in office, which God forbid, the service of the lieutenant governor is wholly legislative. I was elected from a field of 21 candidates to the legislature from Greenville County, by the largest vote ever given a candidate for that office in Greenville County. Being a farmer as well as a lawyer, I knew the needs of the farmers and could serve them in the legislature with my knowledge of the law. I was so helpful in warehouse legislation that the farmers composing the warehouse association of South Carolina invited me to make the race for lieutenant governor in 1918, which I would have done had not my service in Europe that Summer made it impossible.

My opponent in most general terms says that he is in favor of labor. I was the only candidate who made specific declarations, satisfactory to labor and fair to capital. I did this at the first campaign meeting in Columbia and at a number of other meetings during the campaign. I have never been a corporation lawyer and have always been supported by the votes of the working men of my country. They know that I am their friend because I have proven my friendship to them.

I have not been a factionalist and have not appealed to any factional feeling or prejudice in this campaign. We can never have the needed harmony in South Carolina if the divisions of the past are to be permitted to determine the votes of today. My opponent preached harmony on every stump, and yet, so far as I am able to observe, is the only candidate in the State campaign who has sought to profit by reviving the bitter factional antagonisms of the recent past.

I want the vote of every white Democrat in South Carolina, regardless of his past line-up.

Honest, Effective and Growing

The latter fact all on account of the first two. ANTI-FERMENT has never (before) been advertised direct to the public. In spite of this fact more has been sold every year than the year preceeding. Its friends have recommended it to their friends because of the honesty of its claims and its effectiveness when used as directed.

What it is Recommended for

That form of Dyspepsia in which the food ferments, or sours, before it is fully digested by the stomach; giving rise in that organ to Colic, Heart-burn, Distention or Flatulence any many other familiar but distressing symptoms. This sour, half-digested food passing into the intestines acts as a foreign irritating body, and produces Diarrhoea, Dysentery or Flux, inflammatory and dangerous diseases. (These disorders are commonly known as indigestion.)

Why it is Recommended

ANTI-FERMENT helps Nature neutralize the acid condition of the contents of the stomach and bowels, soothe inflamed and irritated surfaces, and stimulate the secretory glands into normal and easy action.
