

THIS LETTER IS WORTH READING.

"Gentlemen:—For five weeks I suffered intensely from a bad case of Eczema, which covered my chest, stomach, back and both arms. After trying three physicians and one skin specialist, and by actual count twenty-nine different ointments and lotions, I accidentally learned of Hancock's Sulphur Compound and Ointment. As I was willing to try anything once, I purchased a bottle of the Liquid and Ointment. The first application gave me instant relief from that awful itching inflamed surface of my skin. I persistently used this remedy for one week and at the end of that time I had hardly a trace of the disease on my person. If any reader needs a testimonial as not being absolutely unsolicited, an incoming letter to the address below enclosing a check for $1.00 will convince any one beyond a doubt. WALTER C. GARGES, 600 Oak Ave., Columbus, O., or OHIO LIQUID SULPHUR CO., Altamira, Md., for Booklet.

High Standard For Doctors. "Upon you," said Senator Smith in addressing young South Carolina doctors, "will rest the responsibilities of discharging that office which may mean, in some terrible crisis, the difference between sunshine and gloom, between happiness and a desolate home." Any man who goes in to the medical profession, "consciously unprepared to meet the responsibilities of the conflict, is a criminal both, before the judgment seat of his own conscience and in the sight of God.

"If for some reason known to yourself and unknown to your professors you feel yourself unprepared for this, the grandest profession to which a man may give his life, yield up your diploma and retrace your studies until you do feel that you have a right to enter the field so richly ripe for the proper discharge of the healing touch."

"Legislators will depend upon you for proper information in the passage of laws to guard the public health. It is your duty as the special guardians of the public health to allow no false modesty to stand in your way, or any ancient evil custom to prevent you from boldly and righteously doing your duty to prevent in every way possible the spread of that which makes the lives of the innocent miserable."

OLD SOAKERS Get Saturated With Caffeine.

When a person has used coffee for a number of years and gradually declined in health, it is time the coffee should be left off in order to see whether or not that has been the cause of the trouble.

A lady in Huntsville, Ala., says she used coffee for about 40 years, and for the past 20 years was troubled with stomach trouble. "I have been treated by many physicians, but all in vain. Everything failed to perfect a cure. I was prostrated for some time, and came nearly dying. When I recovered sufficiently to partake of food and drink I tried coffee again and it soured on my stomach."

"I finally concluded coffee was the cause of my troubles and stopped using it. I tried tea and then milk in its place, but neither agreed with me, then I commenced using Postum. I had it properly made and it was very pleasing to the taste."

"I have now used it four months, and my health is so greatly improved that I can eat almost anything I want and can sleep well, whereas before I suffered for years with insomnia."

"I have found the cause of my troubles and a way to get rid of them. You can depend upon it I appreciate Postum."

"There's a Reason." Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Woman's Realm

Dolls For Fashion. Long before women's newspapers were started, and fashion plates in their modern form were thought of, women derived their knowledge of the fashions from dolls dressed in modern costumes, which were sent from one country to another, more especially from Paris, then, as now, the leading centre of the mode.

London in Winter. Cheerfulness is necessary to support one through a London winter. I admit the difficulties of attaining such a mood, but none the less I am convinced of the necessity for it. When it is not raining, it is foggy, and if by any chance for one day it is neither, you know it will be both to-morrow.

I think an especial Order of Merit ought to be awarded to the people who remain cheerful in all circumstances. There is no virtue which lends more to social popularity.—Lady Gordon.

Lady Hamilton's Poses. Emma Hart, afterward Lady Hamilton, had a great fascination upon the portrait painter Romney. Born in the humblest circumstances, and at one time being a maid of all work, she successively became the wife of Sir William Hamilton and Lord Nelson's innamorata. Romney was never weary of painting her features, beautiful more because of the expression she was capable of assuming than because she was really handsome. The infinite variety of her poses has been immortalized by the great portrait painters—and also caricatured unmercifully. A set of the latter in the British Museum would make the gods weep!—London Opinion.

Mother of the Woman. "The child is mother to the woman" may be an apt paraphrase to describe the significance of the following incident: A Perth Amboy (N. J.) matron recently, in honor of a visiting friend, baked an imposing chocolate layer cake. Chocolate frosting covered the entire outside of the cake, which was left on a kitchen table to cool. To the mother, entertaining her friend, her daughter called, explaining her absence: "Muvver, I've keenin' up for oo." Presently the mother went to the kitchen. "See," said her daughter, exhibiting the cake, taken apart and cleaned of all its chocolate, "I've cleaned this nassy cake."

Too Sensitive. "If I had a child it might have all the freckles it wanted and a nose that turned skyward and a hasty temper, and I shouldn't worry," writes a mother. "But there is one thing it would not have if I could help it, and that is an over-sensitive disposition. What a curse sensitiveness is both to men and women! How it makes them suffer needlessly and imagine all sorts of slights which were never intended."

"And all this can be cured in infancy. A child begins by being self-centred; it ends by growing morbid. The wise mother sees this tendency, and directs the child's attention away from itself to more cheerful and less selfish thoughts, thus saving it countless misery in the future."—Home Chat.

Teach the Child. The modern theory of child training is to shift the responsibility of wrongdoing to a child's own shoulders. It is early taught to weigh right and wrong and count the cost. Mothers who are in despair over the behavior of their children should try making them free agents. Show them plainly how unpopular they are making themselves by their horrid behavior. Appeal to the reason. Teach them to form their own decisions and abide by the results.

A child so trained usually acquires self-control. This method of training is not feasible, however, without parents have the good judgment to keep in such close touch with their little ones that they can act as counsellor, as a last court of appeals and as presiding judge, whose decisions are final.

A mother of a large and interesting family said: "If I had a dozen children I would have to evolve a different way to train each one according to its idiosyncrasies."

Instead of mourning over a child's misconduct, study to make it good in spite of itself. Keep it so well that a happy disposition comes natural. Teach Mary or John self-government, but at the same time let it be thoroughly understood that you are governor-in-chief in disputed points.

One mother who had ideas on self-rule for her children allowed these children to be terrors to the neighborhood. Even in church she would sit placidly while they crawled under the pews to pinch the worshippers in front or slyly ran pins into the next person.

A mother who does not know the difference between self-control and lack of control had better abide by Solomonic precepts of child training: Applied judiciously, the method of making a boy or girl a free agent has been found to work well in the interest of family peace.—New Haven Register.

Flat Hair Dressing. In spite of the growing popularity of the undorned flat coiffure the majority of women will continue to wear their hair in a becoming manner, well aware of the fact that the newest wrinkle in hairdressing is not always becoming to every face.

This season has been pre-eminently one of elaborate coiffures and all kinds of ornaments have been worn in the hair from the simple black velvet band to the costly tiara.

Fillets of delicate workmanship and intricate design, studded with gems and great barbaric matrixes, enameled and hand carved, have been the favored coiffure ornament of the smart woman.

Bands of satin ribbon to harmonize with the color of the frock simply bound around the hair or run in and out of the soft puffs have been popular with young girls.

An exceedingly good-looking head ornament worn by a girl with wavy auburn hair was a band of black velvet, embroidered with silver and green thistles.

One of the leading jewelers shows a fillet of gold as thin as paper, composed of two slender bands that run across the head. From the top band are aqua marines hung on tiny chains that bob about with every motion of the wearer's head and emit fiery shafts of light.

Dried Bean Soup.—One pint of beans, one large onion (minced fine), four tablespoons of drippings or butter, three tablespoons of flour, a few dried celery leaves, two teaspoons of salt, half a teaspoon of pepper. Wash the beans. Put plenty of cold water over them and soak over night. Pour off the water and put the beans in a kettle with three pints of cold water. Bring the water to boiling point and pour it off. Add two quarts of boiling water to the beans and let them simmer for four hours. Add the celery the last hour of cooking. Strain the soup. Brown the onion in the drippings. Add the flour and cook, stirring often. Add the thickening and seasoning to the soup and cook twenty minutes.

Butterflies with wings of gauze, spangled with iridescent sequins in red and emerald green, are in the foremost ranks of effective coiffure ornaments, and long peacock feathers with the eyes jeweled are caught with blue and green enameled buckles. Jet ornaments are also in first favor. This shiny, glittering metal is one of the recurring fashions which smart women universally welcome.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Old rose is still a favorite. Buttons are used in great abundance. Gray seems to be perennially popular.

Of metallic nets there is a wide supply. Flower-trimmed straw hats will be the rage.

Ruchings are quite as much thought of as ever. Soutache is freely used on spring gowns and coats.

There is a fad for silk and crepe shawls at the theatre. The coming season has been heralded as a season of color.

All colors in veils are worn, but black still holds its own. Of sleeves there are many, but in actual shape they are few.

Small checks and small plaids are leading features of suitings. Long, plain velvet coats are seen at fashionable functions.

Very many of the browns have a hint of gold in their make-up. Pockets on coats are set some inches below the waist line.

Some of the new gowns have the epaulette shoulder arrangement. A striking novelty is the use of jet wings as sole trimming for turbans.

The new Russian veillings are seen with square dots as often as round ones. Men's full dress ties are being made narrower and with rounded ends.

White crepe ruching, doubled, is much used as a finish for neck and sleeves. Everything in evening gowns is clinging, high-waisted, if not directly empire.

A recently introduced fancy is the trimming of white gowns with colored lace. New effects in net are a leading feature of the lace and trimming departments.

PAINT EVERY YEAR.

No One Wants To Do It, But Some Paint Will Wear No Longer.

When you have a job of painting done you don't expect to have it done over again very soon, but to make a lasting job, several things must be taken into consideration—the proper time to paint—the condition of the surface—the kind of materials to use, etc. All these matters are fully covered in the specifications, which can be had free by writing National Lead Company, 1902 Trinity Building, New York, and asking for House-owners' Painting Outfit No. 49. The Outfit also includes a book of color schemes for both interior and exterior painting, and a simple instrument for detecting adulteration in the paint materials. The outfit will solve many painting problems for every house-owner.

Meantime when buying paint see that every white lead keg bears the famous Dutch Boy Painter trademark, which is an absolute guarantee of purity and quality. If your paint dealer cannot supply you National Lead Company will see that some one else will.

Fear of Premature Burial. The fear of premature burial, which prompted the late Lord Burton to direct by his will that his heart should be removed from his body, has caused many well-known men and women to order a surgical operation to be performed upon their bodies. Harriet Martineau left her doctor 10 pounds to amputate her head, and Lady Burton directed that her heart should be pierced with a needle. The late Edmund Yates left instructions that his jugular vein should be severed, with the provision that a fee of 20 guineas should be paid for the purpose.—Westminster Gazette.
