

Personal Mention.

Mrs. J. H. Cope left for Hendersonville yesterday. Mr. J. H. Rowell paid a visit to Denmark yesterday. Mr. D. K. Ray of Denmark, was in town Wednesday. Capt. J. B. Hunter, our popular Sheriff, is out again. Mrs. J. A. Murchison left for the mountains yesterday. Mr. J. A. Rice went up to Denmark Saturday last. Mr. G. Frank Bamberg has returned from Hendersonville. Mr. J. A. Byrd returned yesterday from his Northern trip. Mr. J. A. Spann returned from his Northern trip Tuesday. Mr. Otis Brabham and family visited relatives in Allendale this week. Hayne F. Rice, Esq., has gone on a trip to Greenville and Spartanburg. Mr. David Black of Waterboro, is on a visit to his brother, Dr. J. B. Black. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Barton of Denmark, were in town on Sunday visit. Mr. Sam Miklos, son of Mr. C. A. Miklos, we regret to learn, is seriously ill. Clerk of Court C. B. Free, we are sorry to learn, is seriously ill at his home near this city. Messrs. Decania Dowling and David Bernstein paid a visit to Denmark on Sunday. Auditor W. E. Sease and Deputy Sheriff Feltner Hunter went to Denmark Tuesday on business. Probate Judge B. W. Milley has received his commission and been formally inducted into office. Mr. J. C. Garbis, of the American Long Distance Telephone Company, spent last night in town. Mr. Marshall P. Moore spent several days in the city this week. His many friends here were glad to see him. Mr. G. P. Kease, now of Atlanta, spent a few days in this section this week, visiting relatives and friends. Maj. and Mrs. Havelock Eaves left Sunday afternoon for a trip to New York, Niagara Falls, and other Northern points. Mrs. J. B. Black and two little daughters, with Mr. and Mrs. F. N. E. Bailey, left yesterday for the mountains. Misses Mollie Green, of Klein; Geneva Baul of Smoaks, and Julia Milhouse, of Blackville, are visiting at Dr. J. B. Black's. Mr. D. R. Edwards and family, of Lawley, Fla., left for Beaufort yesterday, where they will be the guests of their relative, Mr. Barrie Brown, for a short time, prior to their return home. The freight trains are bringing in lots of goods. "Jumbo" whips, at G. Frank Bamberg's, only 10 cents. A carload of wagons to arrive at G. Frank Bamberg's next week. Thanks to Messrs. Smith & Riley, fire insurance agents, for blotters. "Bob" Sisk—a thoroughbred Jersey heifer. Apply to W. D. Hagan. Don't forget the free lecture at the Methodist church next Wednesday evening. What's the matter, correspondents? Nothing happening in your part of the country? Our merchants are expecting a good trade this fall, judging from the amount of goods bought. Farmers, have you seen that "new collar" that G. Frank Bamberg has? It fastens at the "bottom." To Rent—One store on Main street, Ehrhardt, S. C. For terms apply to C. E. Hagar, Ehrhardt, S. C. Our city fathers should take precautions against having the town without lights, as it was last Thursday night. Rev. Wm. Haysworth, pastor of the Grahams Baptist Church, at Denmark, has received his sixth call from that congregation. Mr. D. Bernstein has taken a position in the photograph gallery of B. F. McMillan, and is prepared to serve his friends with first-class work in photography. J. A. Vernon has opened up a first-class market and ice house. Meals at all hours, 25c. Good service and polite attention. Everybody uses a knife. It is economy to buy a good one. D. Dowling has the best that are made, and at reasonable prices. He guarantees every one, refunding money if unsatisfactory. The long distance telephone men have all left town. The line is now finished to Branchville, and the work is being rapidly pushed. They expect to have the line completed to Charleston in about six or eight weeks. Thursday night the town was in total darkness, the street lamps not being lighted. The rain came down in torrents, and it was as dark as pitch. The writer went home about eleven o'clock, and it was so dark he actually had to feel his way. We understand the lamplighter was sick. A fine argument for electric lights. Groceries, groceries, groceries, at Huggins's. Melon growers should not forget the meeting in the court house here the first Monday in September. If our farmers expect to plant melons next year, it is imperative that they have an organization to look after the matter of freights, otherwise the railroads will again take advantage of them, and they will have to stand it. Close out a lot of good tobaccos at cost, at Huggins's. We want every man in Bamberg county to take THE HERALD. If you are not now a subscriber, a postal card will bring you a sample copy. We have had a great many kind things said of the paper in the past few weeks, for which we are very grateful. Now, we want to double its circulation, which will enable us to print a still better paper. Shrimp, ten cents, at Huggins's. The annual Newberry College reunion will be held at Mt. Pleasant Church, near Ehrhardt, next Wednesday, the 23rd. President Geo. B. Cromer will be present and address the gathering, as well as other prominent speakers. The public is cordially invited to attend. A picnic dinner will be given on the grounds. The large crowd is expected, and a pleasant and profitable occasion looked forward to. Go to J. A. Yernon's restaurant for a good meal. The Bamberg Nursery Company has issued a beautiful catalogue of their fruit trees, shrubs, plants, roses, and ornamental trees. It will be sent free upon application. The compilation was done by Mr. H. J. Brabham, and reflects great credit upon him. They have almost anything you want in their line, and are absolutely reliable. This is an enterprise that all Southern planters should patronize, because, purchasers have the advantage of getting plants grown in South Carolina soil. J. A. Nimmans and J. R. Roof, two of our reliable citizens, will run an excursion to Augusta Thursday, September 14th. The train will take passengers from St. George to Blackville, inclusive, and the fare for the round trip is only one dollar. A separate card will be provided for their white friends, and they guarantee good order. Buy a ticket from the agents as usual in their circles. This is a profitable excursion to visit Augusta, and we have no doubt but that they will make the excursion a great success.

A NEW THING FOR BAMBERG.

We have just received an up-to-date and elegant line of books and stationery. There is more to come yet, but we have now almost anything you want in this line. Our stock is brand new, was carefully selected, and is as complete as possible. We have all kinds of writing papers and envelopes. Paper for polite correspondence, and for business. By the pound, quire or box. Tablets, inks, pens, erasers, rulers, inkstands, fountain pens, penholders, pencils, pocketbooks, card cases, visiting cards, tissue paper, both plain and crepe, office supplies of all kinds, blank books, ledgers, day books, cash books, journals, etc., all kinds of rulings and bindings, vest pocket memorandums, etc., etc. We also have a full line of school supplies, including slates, pencils, pads, composition books, sponges, etc. We handle Waterman's Ideal Fountain Pens, the best pen made, and fully guaranteed. Your money back if you want it. We will also have a full stock of all books used in the city and county schools, and will sell them at prices adopted by the State Board of Education. We realize that a book store is something Bamberg stood much in need of, and we hope the people will show their appreciation of our enterprise by a liberal patronage. Our goods were bought right, and you will find the prices much lower than you have been paying. Come in and see what we have. It will cost you nothing, and we are anxious to show our goods. The ladies especially invited. A full line of books, by standard authors, in cloth and paper bindings, to arrive next week. THE HERALD BOOK STORE.

THE HERALD BOOK STORE.

Our attention is directed to the ad. of these gentlemen. They have paid $50,000 in losses to "policy" holders in three years, and solicit your business on the basis of prompt settlements in case of loss. They make a specialty of insuring gin houses. DAVISON & FARGO. This reliable firm of cotton factors solicit your shipments, promising the very highest prices for cotton with fair treatment and honest dealing. They claim to have the best cotton market in the South, and this claim seems reasonable. Try them with a consignment. We feel sure you will be pleased. See their ad. J. F. FOLK. This gentleman represents seven of the largest and best insurance companies in America and England, and if you want insurance that insures he is the man for you to see. All losses are adjusted and paid promptly, and Mr. Folk asks for a share of your business. All classes of risks written. Mrs. Seanie Brown—Tresspass Notice. T. J. Counts, Master—Master's Sale. W. E. Sease, County Superintendent of Education—Special Notice. Lecture at the Methodist Church. Edward Thomson, LL.D., the eloquent lawyer-preacher will deliver his popular address on "True Americanism" on the night of Wednesday, August 23rd, in the Methodist church, in Bamberg, at 8:30 p. m. This is a first-class lecture—equal to the best—and yet, admission will be free, because the Sunday League of America has engaged Dr. Thomson to give this lecture in thirty-five cities of this State, and our city has been selected as one of the places.

The Springfield, (Ill.) Daily News says of Dr. Thomson: "He is the most eloquent champion of Sunday reform in the world." The Nashville, (Tenn.) Daily American remarks: "Dr. Thomson is one of the most finished orators of the South, and though a lawyer by profession, he gives much of his time to the work of this cause, of which he is the head." The Baptist Church, Savannah, Ga.: "The lecture he gave in our church was not only superb in manner, but profoundly interesting in matter. I wish every one in this country could hear that lecture. It cannot fail to do great good." S. R. Preston, D. D., President Chicago College, (Presbyterian) at Greenville, South Carolina, writes: "With the moral power of a true orator, he captivated his audience. We were instructed, convinced, aroused. The old theme was set in a new frame, supported by overwhelming argument and brightened by lively illustration." Bishop Wallace W. Duncan, Spartanburg, S. C., (M. E. Ch. So.) thus commends the Doctor: "Most cheerfully I commend Edward Thomson, LL.D., general manager of the Sunday League of America. I have heard him with pleasure, and he is doing an important, a vital work, and is doing it well. I trust he will have access to all Christian pulpits in the land, and remove every vestige of organized and systematized desertion of the Sabbath." James H. Carlisle, LL.D., President Wofford College, Spartanburg, S. C., testifies: "His visit here left good results. I wish he could lecture in every community throughout our great Sabbath-breaking country."

Distinguished Lecturer Coming.

Rev. Edward Thomson, LL.D., of Atlanta, Ga., who is lecturing throughout the United States in the interest of the Sunday League of America, will lecture in the Methodist church on Wednesday night, the 23rd instant. The lecture will be free, and upon a subject in which all should be interested. I had the pleasure of hearing Dr. Thomson preach and lecture at our last annual conference, and I can say without hesitation that he fully met the expectations of his fondest admirers, and captivated the entire conference with his eloquence and logic. Everybody is invited to hear him. T. C. O'DELL.

Kolik Dispepsia Cure cures dispepsia because its ingredients are such that it can't help doing so.

"The public can rely upon it as a master remedy for all disorders arising from imperfect digestion." James M. Thomas, M. D., in American Journal of Health, N. Y.—Bamberg Pharmacy.

The Guards Get to Work.

Last Thursday night the Bamberg Guards held a meeting at the armory, Captain Eaves and Lieutenants Wright and Dowling at their posts. Quartermaster Sergeant Wright issued the thirty odd men present their caps, blouses, and trousers. The equipments, leggings, stripes and chevrons for the non-commissioned officers and the guns will be issued later. Captain Eaves appointed Private George Wolsey Symonds company clerk, and it was decided to pay him and the Orderly and Quartermaster Sergeants $10 each per year for their services. Monday night the company met at the skating rink, Lieutenant Wright being in command, and were drilled for two hours by squads, the drillmasters being the commanding officer, Lieutenant Dowling, Orderly Sergeant Price and Privates Dowling and Symonds. Considerable progress was made by the raw recruits, and it will not long before the Guards will have the soldierly bearing of old veterans. There will be another drill to-night. Capt. Eaves is away on his vacation and will be absent ten days or two weeks. When he returns he will probably bring with him the guns and the balance of the company stores. Immediately thereafter the command will be inspected and mustered into the service.

Kolik Dispepsia Cure thoroughly digests its food without aid of the stomach, and at the same time heals and restores diseased digestive organs.

This remedy does both of these things, and can be relied upon to permanently cure dispepsia.—Bamberg Pharmacy.

Words of Appreciation.

WEST APPOINTMENT, Va., Aug. 8, '99. Editor The Bamberg Herald.—Allow me, through your columns, to thank the citizens of Bamberg for their handsome response to Mr. Robert Clarence Jones's appeal on behalf of the Appomattox Chapter United Daughters of the Confederacy. For eighteen months we have labored with love and zeal to raise an enclosure with an iron fence the Appomattox Confederate Cemetery, where eighteen "who wore the grey," and one who "wore the blue" sleep their last sleep. This spot, dear alike to each and every Southern soldier, two and a half miles from West Appomattox, and in sight of the historic Appomattox Court House. After having had many entertainments we determined to try a "Confederate Album Quilt." In distributing the squares one was sent to Mrs. R. C. Jones, as the response was beyond our meagre sanguine expectations. The interest manifested, and the willingness with which the contributions were given, is all the more appreciated. Bamberg has added one more to the many ties which bind Virginia and South Carolina together. Mrs. JOHN RANDOLPH ATWOOD, President Appomattox Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy.

Hamilton Clark, of Chaucery, Ga., says he suffered with itching piles twenty years before trying De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve, two boxes of which completely cured him. Beware of worthless and dangerous counterfeits.—Bamberg Pharmacy.

Resolutions of the Teachers.

We, the undersigned teachers of Bamberg county, having faithfully attended the summer school at Bamberg in charge of Prof. A. J. Thackston, of the Orangeburg city schools, desire to express our appreciation of the untiring and conscientious consideration received at the hands of Prof. Thackston and his assistants, Miss Jessie McKenzie, of the Florence city schools, and to thank them for their endeavors to make the work as interesting and beneficial to us as possible. We will state further that if the State Superintendent has given such thorough and efficient instruction to every county, we feel confident that the people will find that, through the teachers thus instructed, they will be doubly repaid for the small amount appropriated and expended for holding the summer schools. Signed by L. A. Bickle, D. P. Smith, J. W. Black, T. J. Bentley, J. H. Rowell, Clara E. Riley, E. J. Murphy, J. Crum Smoak, P. K. Rhoad, G. O. Barker, Florrie Brabham, Nell McMillan.

Irritating stings, bites, scratches, wounds, and cuts—soothed and healed by De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve—a sure and safe application for tortured flesh. Beware of counterfeits.—Bamberg Pharmacy.

Our Fine Water.

Editor The Bamberg Herald.—Please allow me space in your valuable paper to let the public know what great good the water of this town has done for me. In 1893 I was advised by my attending physician, Dr. A. H. Story, of Augusta, Ga., to go to Florida, and I did so. I found water from Jacksonville to Tampa, but found little relief. I then tried the up-country, then Charleston, and again to Augusta. I had about given up all hope, when the latter part of January, 1895, I secured a position with the Bamberg Cotton Mill, and I am thankful I did, for the artesian water here has done me more good than all the doctors had done. It is not necessary for me to mention time I could not work, but I can say I have lost one day during the time I have been here from being sick. I attribute the great improvement in my health to the artesian water of Bamberg. G. W. BURNETT.

Bamberg Debating Society.

In the discussion held at the Bamberg Debating Society on Monday night last, at the Eiting School, the query being: "Resolved, That of the two passions, love and hate, love is the stranger;" the affirmative side was declared the winner. The subject for discussion on Monday night will be: "Resolved, That realization is more pleasant than anticipation." The affirmative will be led by Mr. A. C. Reynolds, the negatives by Mr. Henry J. Brabham, Jr., and the moderator at this meeting, and the society formally organized. New members are desired, and any young man desirous of joining, should be on hand Monday night. One Minute Cough Cure quickly cures obstinate summer coughs and colds, quick and safe. W. M. Mertou, Mayhew, Wis.—Bamberg Pharmacy.

Passing of the Quarto Herald.

TRIALS AND TRIBULATIONS OF YE EDITOR AND YE PRINTER. An O'er-true Tale in a Vernacular That is Intelligible Even to the Uninitiated Lay Reader. QUARTO—THE TURNING DOWN OF THE PRINTER. It was only after a considerable amount of gee-whoaing and heehawing, and the exercise of other vociferous persuasions, that the Printer was finally enabled to restrain the Fast Horse from an immediate gratification of Her Inordinate Appetite. She had fully made up her mind to enter that livery stable, and the perspiring Printer was almost in despair of being able to get the hammer-like head turned the other way. His efforts attracted a small crowd, several of the members of which added to his irritation by the unsolicited offer of sarcastic advice. His temper was in no wise improved when he spied the Devil on the other side of the street, who, having by a superhuman effort, wrested his eyes from a contemptuous glare of the charms of the scantily clad "cigarette girls," in the window of the cigar store, now stood on the pavement, his legs wide apart, his hat on the back of his head, his pocky hands thrust deep in the pockets of his knickerbockers, and a most sardonic grin corrugating his impish face. The Printer was driven nearly to desperation when, the grinning crowd still increasing, and his struggles with the Horse becoming more frantic, the Devil yelled to him in his shrillest voice: "She's tick der studs, Specks, 'Trow sand in her ears!" This advice caused the Crowd to laugh and jeer, and the Printer to curse under his breath. He was about to turn the stubborn animal loose, when she finally concluded to go quietly back to the front of the Times and Democrat office. The gruesome appearance of the Black Wagon, and the mystery surrounding

THE INCIDENTS OF SOMETHING HIDDEN BENEATH THE RUBBER BLANKET spread over its bed, raised the curiosity of the Crowd to fever heat, and when the Printer, in a menacing voice, warned the Devil not to leave the Horse again on the peril of his life, and started to enter the store in front of the printing office again, the assemblage had become quite a Mob, and several of the more venturesome loungers were interrogating the Devil as to what it had died of. The Printer heard the young Demon's answer as he stepped across the threshold. It was: "Smallpox!" Thereupon the Mob melted away in panic-stricken hurry, one pompous looking man in a black Prince Albert coat and duck trousers, declaring in a very loud tone that the "police ought to be notified," while a sanguinary looking fellow in a blue shirt made the horrible suggestion that they should "lynch that feller in specks!" The Printer ground his teeth in impotent rage, but being assured by the pretty and pleasant mannequined young lady clerk that

THE BOSS'S "FRIEND SIMS" had arrived, he presented himself immediately before that gentleman, and handed him the letter of application, regarding the "working off of the edition," with which the Boss had provided him. The former's "friend" proved to be a very merry gentleman of roly-poly figure, who happily read the note and said: "All right, sir, I reckon we can accommodate you!" Thereupon he called to the Foreman, and the Pressman, his Assistant, black as Erebus, and several Printers—all of whom he instructed to go out to the Wagon and bring in the Forms. The Printer accompanied them, and was overjoyed to find that the Devil's horrifying disclosures as to the Cause of Death of the Coffined Corpse under the Rubber Blanket, had driven everybody from that side of the street for the distance of half a block each way. There was a small Crowd gathered on the sidewalk opposite, and when the paper's force came out and the Printer, mounting the off hind wheel of the Black Wagon, lifted the Rubber Blanket from the Forms, a barbed-wool negro shouted: "Dey's gwine to hok der co'p in!" And the other members of the Crowd craned their necks to catch a glimpse of it. Their curiosity and interest was inflamed to fever heat, when the Printer, beginning over the Forms, uttered a despairing cry. One of the pages of type underneath the Blanket was intact, although deeply coated with the sand and grit taken up by the wheels of the Wagon from the roads of Orangeburg county, but several columns, at the bottom of its fellow, had sprung away from the chases, and were

KNOCKED INTO HOPELESS "PI." Now pi, when spelled with a final e, and composed of toothsome ingredients, is a very good thing, but with the vowel curtailed it is a thing that all good Printers view with horror. "Regular mess, ain't it?" was the Foreman's observation, as he peered over the edge of the Wagon. "Take half a day to straighten that page!" said one of the Printers. The Pressman grinned and started back into the office, while the Sable Assistant guffawed. The Devil had deserted his post at the Horse's head (she had fallen fast asleep), and was no doubt peacefully dreaming of the fodder and corn for which she seemed to have such an Appetite, and chattering to his perch on the seat of the Wagon, leered malevolently, and muttered: "Hully gee! Dat is a bust up. But den dey yure ole nigger hearse was jes' dyere to be a hoodoo!" Right then and there the Printer could have committed Wholesale

Murder, but he smothered his rage, and when the Foreman suggested that the page might be "fixed up," he felt like shaking him by the hand, and treating him to a drink of artesian water. A careful examination revealed the fact that four of the "pied" articles were of unimportant; "miscellaneous matter," put in to "justify" the page. The most serious "pi" was the bottom of one of the columns devoted to the Bosses' Great Scoop, "The Williams Disbarment Case."

"What is that article?" asked the Foreman. The Printer told him. NO FURTHER DISASTER. "You're all right then," was the gratifying response. "It appeared in this morning's State, and our men have it in hand. There's less than a stickfull pied, and you can set that up in no time. I'll loan you matter to take the place of those other articles. The Printer thanked him gratefully, and under the direction of the Pressman, who had returned to the Wagon, the Form that was intact was lifted out and carried through the store and back to the press room. Its pied brother was lifted out on the Board, and although it scattered a trail of type from the Wagon to its final resting place on the floor of the press room, it was laid thereon without further disaster. The Devil picked up the scattered type, and the pretty young lady clerk gave him a box to put it in. The Printer pulled off his coat and began cleaning out the pied lines in the Form and setting straight the balance of the page. Being provided with the "copy" of the Williams case, and shown a "case" of type, the little metal letters were soon merrily clicking together in his composing stick. Meanwhile the Foreman had lifted other matter in place of the remaining pied articles, and when the Printer finished his "take" of the Williams story, all that was necessary to do was to lift the type into place and "lock up" the Form.

Before beginning work at the case the Printer had instructed the Devil to take the Horse to the livery stable nearby and "feed Her well." The Imp reported that this had been done, and while the Printer worked he amused himself by guying the other printers behind their backs and casting jaunting glances in the direction of every pretty girl customer who came into the store in front. PRINTER AND DEVIL IMITATE THE HORSE AND EAT.

When everything was ready and the lately wrecked Form had been imposed for the press, the Pressman informed the Printer that he would not be able to put his job on until "just before dinner." The Printer had become philosophical again, and he did not even sigh as he washed the type stems from his hands, donned his coat, and went out with the Devil to "throw a snack inter him" as the latter put it. It was the Printer's first visit to Orangeburg's shire town, and he had resolved during the ride thither to see some of its beauties, but the disaster of his horse had put all desire for this sort of thing from his mind, and after a visit to the Stable, where he was informed by a negro hostler that the Horse was "jes' stuffin' herself," he submitted to the Devil's importunities, whose hunger—despite the great quantity of green apples and unripe peaches (to say nothing of the watermelon) he had consumed along the road—never seemed to be satisfied, and hunted up a restaurant. It was not much of a place that they were finally, after many inquiries, directed to by a friendly man, and the only food ready to be served at that moment, was "bread and butter and coffee."

"Dat'll do," quothasaid the Devil. "Bread is fillin' an' der coffee'll help pack it away." Immediately following this gastronomic observation, which was made while they were seated at a table covered with a cloth that had once been white, there was a bustle at the door, and a ridiculous Little Man, who was in stature and physical conformation a masculine "Miss Muncher," bustled into the room. A BITING ESTORT. It has been before stated that the Printer has but one good eye, and this is bad, and he thought he recognized in the new-comer a man whom he had met in the North, of similar build and stature. He mentioned this fact to his companion, and the Devil wended on of his little wits to attract attention, and shout ed across the room: "S-a-a-y, Shorty! My fren' here sez he knows yer. Trot over here an' shake han's wid an ole pard!" At being thus familiarly addressed the Little Man almost flew across the room, and his face was very red and angry. His head hardly reached to the top of the table where the Printer and the Devil sat, and when his angry eyes were turned upon the printer, the Printer asked: "Did I not meet you several years ago in Phila—"

"N-a-y?" broke in the Little Man savagely, and he flew back across the room again. As he disappeared into an adjoining apartment the Devil yelled: "Ta! ta! souny. Yore forgiven!" Just then the Waiter appeared with the Viands. "Shorty sorter broke it off in yer, didn't he, chee?" cried the Devil, as he seized a piece of bread and turned his leering face toward the Printer. "Regular turn down!" S. Y. LOWE. [To be continued.]
