Mr. Cherry, in the legislature, was at once the most silent and most powerful member of the lower house. He said least and could control most votes. His power to get men to vote the way he wanted them to vote was not entirely dependent on the fact that he was a member of the legislature with them, and it is only fair to assume that many of them vote now the way Cherry wants them to vote. T. J. ARMOUR TO PLACE MAIN DISTRIBUTING POINT HERE. H. M. The local company heretofore has been managed out of Oklahoma City. The company will either build a large annex to their present building or will lease the Ames building on West Oklahoma avenue for its headquarters. Six new men will be employed here and several more salesmen will be put on the road out of Guthrie. A branch house is to be established at Shawnee and managed by the office here. Three men from the Oklahoma City office have been transferred here and will arrive in the morning to take up their new duties. I must allow that it sometimes rains in Ireland, but Irish rain is not quite like other rain. It is as a rule, softer than rain elsewhere, and if the truth must be told I like rain so long as one has not to say, "For the rain it raineth every day." Irish weather is not so much capricious as English. It likes to plague you, if but to prepare you to enjoy the more its sunny, melting mood. It will sweep and wall all night, and, by the next morning Ireland is one sweet smile and seems to say, "Is it raining I was yesterday? Ah, then, I'll rain no more." And the rumbles leap and laugh, and the pastures and very stone walls glisten; the larks carol on their celestial journey; there is a pungent, healthy smell of drying peat; the mountains are all dimpled with the joy of life and sunshine; the lake lies perfectly still, content to reflect the overhanging face of heaven, and just won't your honor buy the stoutest pair of homemade hose from a barefooted, bareheaded daughter of dethroned kings with eyes like dewdrops and a voice that would charm the coin out of the most churlish purse? If on such mornings as these you do not lose your heart to Ireland it must be made of stern, unimpressionable stuff indeed.—Blackwood's Magazine. Tom—You feel happy today. Dick—I feel that way. proposed to Miss Fickel last night. Tom—Go easy, old man. She's very changeable. Dick—That's why I am so hopeful. She said "No" last night.—Philadelphia Press. Though the photographer may make a specialty of negatives, he seldom says "no" when asked to take something.

Teddy was about to be 10 years old. In view of this interesting event Teddy's mother had ordered some ice cream and cakes and other dainties, and Teddy was told to invite his friends to a birthday party. The evening of the celebration came around, and all the goodies were waiting to be enjoyed. Teddy and his mother were also waiting. Suddenly the youngster said "Mother, don't you think it's time to eat the ice cream and cake now?" "No, indeed, my son," she replied, "we must wait until your friends are here." "Well, to tell you the truth, mother," began Teddy, "I just thought that for once in my life I'd like to have enough goodies, so I guess we'd better begin now, 'cause I didn't invite any one."—Philadelphia Telegraph. COFFEE THRESHED HER 15 Long Years. "For over fifteen years," writes a patient, hopeful father, "I suffered from Spinal Irritation and Nervous trouble. I was treated by good physicians, but did not get much relief. "I never suspected it might be aggravating my condition. I was downhearted and discouraged, but prayed daily that I might find something to help me. "Several years ago, while at a friend's house, I drank a cup of Postum and thought I had never tasted anything more delicious. "From that time on I used Postum instead of coffee and soon began to improve in health, so that now I can walk half a dozen blocks or more with ease, and do many other things that I never thought I would be able to do again in this world. "My appetite is good, I sleep well and had life is worth living indeed. A lady of my acquaintance said she did not like Postum, it was so weak and tasteless. "I explained to her the difference when it is made right—boiled according to directions. She was glad to know this because coffee did not agree with her. Now her folks see they expect to use Postum the rest of their lives." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pgs. "There's a reason."
