THE MORAL CENSOR WHO HAS RECENTLY DIED

Anthony Comstock.

Anthony Comstock, the most notorious enemy vice has ever known, has died at the age of 71. He has conducted many score raids on book-sellers and institutions which he believed held obscene pictures. His most famous raid was that on the New York Art Students' League, in 1895, where he seized a magazine containing nude pictures for the study of art. That proved a boomerang, and he came near getting into serious trouble for his blunder.

He was born March 7, 1844 in New Canaan, Conn.

EVANGELISM, OLD AND NEW IS RECOUNTED

DR. GEO. O. NICHOLS TELLS OF GREAT STRIDES MADE BY CHRISTIANITY

"Evangelism is the proclamation of the gospel of Christ. Modern evangelism is the more recent method of that proclamation. It is meeting modern conditions. A careful study of the work of the church will reveal that different methods have been used in different ages of the world. It is the same gospel but the methods of its presentation have changed.

The church is responsible for contact of the world with the gospel. It is not responsible for conversion but for every effort that can be made to lead men to Christ. The history of the church is a history of revival. The church was born in a revival of religion and every advance it has made has been a revival. Men never object to revival except in the sphere of religion. We hear of revival in business and revivals in civic matters and revivals of interest in all lines and these are hailed with delight. The one who is interested in the greatest good to the greatest

DONNELLY WAS ON DANGEROUS GROUND AT ARDMORE

Henry J. Donnelly was in Ardmore when the explosion occurred and narrowly escaped death or severe injury. He was standing in an alcove near the Whittington hotel at the time. Three people were killed within a few yards of where he took shelter and the street in front was covered with debris ten seconds after the blow up. "I certainly am fortunate" said Henry today in recounting the disaster.

He has a number of photographs showing the effect of the explosion.

After the war Mr. Comstock went to New York and became a clerk and later a bookkeeper in a store in that city. In 1873 the New York Society for the Prevention of Vice was organized and he became secretary and special agent. In the same year he procured an appointment as a United States post office inspector.

From that time until his death Mr. Comstock carried on an unceasing campaign against vice of all kinds. He fought not only the publication of obscene pictures and literature, but lotteries, policy games, and the operations of all types of swindlers.

BAD BOOZE AND SCARLET WOMAN CAUSED SHOOTING

CHIEF NICHOLS WILL RECOVER; JAILER MAY LOSE ARM; LUNG IN JAIL

Special to Daily Leader.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 1.—Chief of Police W. J. Nichols and Jailer John Biddel, of Oklahoma City, were shot Friday afternoon by Patrolman J. O. Lung, following an altercation between Chief Nichols and Lung.

The chief was shot three times, in the left hand and twice in the left leg, just below the knee. Biddel was shot once, in the left arm just below the elbow. Neither of the men are hurt seriously.

The trouble that caused the shooting arose when the chief questioned Lung about a joy ride in a cab with drunken women which Lung was reported to have made. Lung was in the captain's office alone at the time the chief began questioning him. The door was closed, and the two men talked for several minutes. Then Lung began to scream, "You can't call me a liar, you can't call me a liar," and officers and others who were standing in the hall burst the door open.

The chief had been sitting in a chair, and when the door was burst open Lung had his arm about the chief's neck, and was beating him over the head with his automatic pistol. The chief was stunned by the blows, and almost fell to the floor. He then ran out of the door, Lung leaping after him, shouting, "Don't try to get away from me, you — I'll kill you before you get out of the room."

As the chief fell through the front doorway to the building, the insane officer began shooting, firing three shots at the chief, all of which took effect. Jailer Biddel, standing in the hall, received one of the shots in his arm. He was taken to the University hospital, and his chief to Wesley hospital. Lung was overpowered and put in the jail dungeon. He appeared to

TRAGEDY ENACTED LAST NIGHT AT SHOW GROUNDS; WOUNDED MAN WILL DIE

While 65,000 people were enjoying the opening scene of the Queen of Sheba pageant last night at the fair grounds, under the big Ringling circus tent a real tragedy was taking place on the outside near the sideshow.

After the last performance of the sideshow and just as the show under the big canvas was about to meet. A quarrel ensued, which resulted in a pistol duel. Cotton shot three times, one bullet taking effect in the throat and from the effects of which Dr. Conrad today says he will probably die. The stricken negro was hastened to Conrad's sanitarium immediately after the affray and surgical attention given him. The wound in the neck caused paralysis. The negro who did the shooting escaped. John Ringling, head of the circus, instructed the authorities here to make every effort possible to apprehend the assailant of Cotton and also instructed Dr. Conrad to give the wounded man every attention and send him the bill.
