Just when we are looking favorably on the preparedness idea, we are told that the price of warships has gone up.

The Rumanians naively allow they will let the Russian troops cross their territory if they are strong enough to whip the Bulgarians.

Gen. Villa was shot again Thursday, but the account states that he was merely wounded. This is a remarkable escape. It is the first time in a year that Villa has been shot without being killed.

It pays a city as well as an individual to keep sober. Nine dry months of the present year as compared with the corresponding last wet months shows a decrease of over 300 arrests in Guthrie, W. Va., or 1.34 as compared to 2,011 in McAlester, News-Capital.

Representative Howard M. Drake, Republican of Beaver County, in a letter to Governor Williams indicates that he is not in harmony with the alleged plan of the administration to pass a law which will make it a penalty offense to charge more than ten per cent interest. The striking feature of Mr. Drake's position is that he is a farmer and not a money lender.

Forty students are taking the fourth-semester course in the University at Norman. Poor fellows.

IF YOU NEED A MEDICINE YOU SHOULD HAVE THE BEST

Swamp-Scrub is not recommended for anything. A sworn certificate of purity is with every bottle of Swamp-Scrub by Parson, Platt, Adair & Co., Birmingham, N. Y., and enclosed with each bottle.

Life fans, electric lights, laboratories, matrons, messengers, etc. a $5,000 car for the free transportation of baggage, with men to handle it, and there is less responsibility in hauling freight than in carrying human beings.

Parents who come to this country are amazed at the degree of luxury the American traveling public demands and receives for half what is charged in some parts of Europe.

Stamrock will celebrate Christmas if not St. Patrick's Day, in better shape in view of the approach of the winter than in any other city in the United Kingdom.

Mrs. Gladys Vance was given the custody of her child at Tulsa after a three day court trial. The contention was that she was not able to maintain it. Justice Latta called attention to the fact that the child had an income of $10,000 per month and "guessed" that it would not starve.

Forty of the forty-five tracts of school land put up at auction here by the school land commission were sold the first day of the sale. The average offered was 7,460, that sold, 6,348. The total appraised valuation of the lands was $182,550. The land sold brought $189,500, an increase of $6,950.—Oklahoma City Times.

The bank at Adamson was robbed Thursday morning by two men who did not go to the trouble to mask themselves. They locked the cashier and a customer in the vault and took $1,000.

State Treasurer Alexander has a slightly different idea. It is to use the prisoners of the state reformatory at Granite in the making of bursters to be placed in all the historic spots in Oklahoma.

CRITIC AND DEFENDER OF THE WILSON ENGAGEMENT

George Burkitt, assistant postmaster at Winnetka, Ill.

George Burkitt, assistant postmaster at Winnetka, Ill., said he thought President Wilson should have waited a year after his wife's death before remarrying. Very soon after that he received word from his postmaster that his services were no longer needed. He had been "disloyal to the President." Then he wrote to Daniel C. Roper, first assistant postmaster general.

Daniel C. Roper, first assistant postmaster general, Mr. Roper answered that his case had been "formally and finally" reviewed. After the President himself took up the matter the first assistant issued a statement that the case was yet open. Anyway, the President ordered that Mr. Burkitt be restored to his position.

FIRST PRIZE WINNER THE BEST THING IN GUTHRIE

"ITS MINERAL WATERS."

By Grover C. Ralston, Postal Clerk.
In entering this article as a contestant for the prize offered for the best article on the subject, as to that which is the best thing in our city, I am mindful of the fact, that perhaps numerous things will be brought forward, as being properly entitled to the prize, which you have so liberally offered.

Some will regard the commercial organizations, railroads, schools, banks and various other institutions, as being that which is of most benefit to the city. While we will all agree upon this point, I am sure that these institutions are very useful and necessary in the building of a city, and the commercial and social transactions of the community would be at a loss without them.

WHAT IS THE BEST THING IN GUTHRIE?

(By Mrs. Florence A. Richardson, 505 East Noble.)

I have not lived in Guthrie long but I have lived long enough to answer that question. It is not her streets, although at first sight, a transient visitor might think so, because of their splendid paving—miles of it—their great old shade trees and well kept parks, neither is it her two beautiful natural parks, Guthrians are not slow to grasp opportunities to increase their civic beauties, as these natural places of beauty show by the addition of finely graded and gravelled drives and walks, resting places, and fountains.

It is not her educational facilities, although no other city in the state has better. It is not her people, whole souled, cultured and interesting as they are, treating the stranger within their gates with a hospitality unknown in many cities; but there is still something greater, Guthrians know that it is. Many Oklahomans know too, and very many outsiders of the state have learned to their lasting satisfaction, I should like to write it in capitals, The Best Thing In Guthrie is Her Water!

Other cities have beautiful streets, natural parks and pleasant people, but no other city in America has the mineral water that Guthrie possesses. No other city owns its own bath house, which makes use of this wonderful water, and helps effect miraculous cures bringing health and happiness to the great numbers who come to her for healing.

It is a pleasure that rich and poor alike, enjoy. Not alone is the water valued for its healing powers, it is also a source of entertainment. The spacious swimming pool in the bath house affords very nearly as much pleasure in the hot summer days, to Guthrians, as the seashore. Swimming parties are a favorite diversion and an hour spent in the cool waters of the pool, in the morning, braces one for the entire day. Do you not agree with me as to the best thing in Guthrie?

The waters are used both in drinking and bathing. The waters used for drinking purposes are the "Sooner," bromide and Hercules, while in bathing the Hercules is used almost exclusively. For drinking purposes the Hercules is used with good result in diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys and rheumatism.

most laudable works of humanity, and on account of the benevolent manner in which this city has provided along those lines, I believe that those agencies are properly entitled to be named as that which are best for our city.

And in conclusion, I therefore take pleasure in designating the beautiful location, abundant supply of splendid mineral water of a high medicinal value and the magnificent municipal bath house in connection therewith, as being of proper importance to be designated as the best thing in our beautiful and splendid city.

Respectfully submitted, GROVER C. RALSTON.

For drinking purposes the Hercules is used with good result in diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys and rheumatism.

Bromide water is used in cases of nervousness and insomnia, and the water from the "Sooner" well is used with good effect in diseases of the stomach, and certain forms of nervous trouble. Many splendid cures have been effected through the use of these waters, and their splendid curative properties are becoming widely known.

Through the push of our enterprising city officials and citizens, the city of Guthrie built at a large expense, a magnificent municipal bath house and sanitarium, where at a small fee the famous mineral waters are administered in the most up to date and scientific manner, and at this splendid institution the public can avail themselves of the efficient healing virtues of the Hercules, "Sooner" and Bromide waters.

People's Legal Friend

BY E. R. BRANSON

She Resigned Her Claim.
Q. A woman was injured in a street car accident. Later, while suffering great pain, she signed a release of damages, and it seems to be doubtful whether she knew what she was doing. Would the fact that she signed the release prevent her from recovering substantial damages from the company?
A. A release may be avoided if it can be shown that it was procured by means of fraud or duress or if the person executing the release was in such a condition of mind as to be unable to have a reasonable understanding of its contents and meaning.

Partnership Names.
Q. In forming a partnership, could the name of one man alone be used? For instance, could the firm be styled "The Jones Company," or should it be "Jones & Brown," if Mr. Brown is the other member? Or could it be known as "Jones & Company"?
A. Any of the names mentioned could be used. There is no reason why the name of one partner alone should not be employed, if so desired.

His Conscience Is Getting Busy.
Q. If one should make a mis-statement in insuring his property against loss by fire, could he recover from the company if the property burns?
A. If the mis-statement is innocently made or is immaterial, it will not affect the validity of the policy. If it is a willful misrepresentation, and of a material character, the company could make proof thereof in defense of a suit.

An Unutterable Longing.
Q. A man has promised to make a promissory note in my favor, as he owes me some money. I have been wondering whether it would be well to have him add the word "See" after signing his name. Would this fact give the note any increased legal effect?
A. The seal should be omitted. It does not help in any way, and, in some states, will destroy the negotiability of the note.

The Life Line

By LAURA KIRKMAN

The "Hard Luck" Person.
What a misnomer! He ought to be called the "good luck" person. Every one that ever got anywhere in life will tell you that he owes his success to some sort of hardship—disappointment—ill health—penury—remorse. Adversity takes us and shakes us and makes us know ourselves; pleasures woo us from our meditations on life's meaning. Yet this lucky "hard luck" person envies the gayer, shallower man—the man doomed to mediocrity! He's getting his initiation into the big, worthwhile fraternity of Sympathy and Understanding, yet he envies the hopeless spender! He's as crazy as an electric fan!

The Selfish Wife.
No doubt, in little things she's the most unselfish woman in the world. She wants George to occupy the easiest chair. She insists upon his going out now and then with "the boys." As long as no big changes come along their union is perfect. But let him lose money. Let him say to her: "It's a choice between a smaller apartment or a smaller office," and who comes first, then, with her? Does she say, "By all means, keep the office; a good front means so much in business"? No, sir. She covers her face with her hands. "Oh, I couldn't let my friends find me in a dinky little flat after this!" she wails. And it's the office that goes. This is the wife that can't be a partner. She's the woman who can never take the depths in the word "together." Her friends are polite.

A Song of Thanksgiving.
I'm thankful that the years are long—
However long they be,
They still are laborers glad and strong,
They ever work for me.
This rose I cut with careless shears,
And wear and cast away,
The cosmos working a million years,
To make it mine a day;
This life of the pasture bars
Beneath the walnut tree,
Long ere the fire-mist formed its stars,
Was on its way to me.
The laws of property are lax—
My neighbor's farm is fine;
I'm thankful, though he pays the tax,
The best of it is mine.
No sheriff's clutch can loose my grip,
On fields I have not sown,
Or shake my sense of ownership
In things I do not own.
I'm thankful for my neighbor's wood,
His orchard, lake and lea;
For, while my eyes continue good,
I own all I can see.
I'm thankful for this mighty age,
These days beyond compare,
When boys in such a heritage
And live a large affair.
We thank the gods for low and high,
But, wrong, (as well we may),
For all the wrongs of days gone by,
Works goodness for to-day.
Here on Time's table-land we pause
To thank our heads and knees,
To thank the gods for all that was,
And is, and shall be.
I'm thankful for the glow and grace
And winsome beauty of the Near,
The greatness of the Commonplace,
The glory of the Here.
I'm thankful for man's high enterprise,
His stalwart sturdiness of soul,
The long look of his skyward eyes
That light a far-off goal.
And so I feel to thank and bless
Both things unknown and understood—
And thank the stubborn thankfulness
That makes all things good.
—Sam Waterhouse.
