The Great Railroad King Comes to the Aid of the Bell Telephone.

The Pan-Electric telephones have been ordered out of the offices of the Missouri Pac fic system in this city. The Western Union Telegraph company has 20 per cent interest in the Bell Telephone company; Jay Gould controls the Western Union, hence the bug under the chip. The Bell Telephone company began by trying to build as the city of Fort Worth; then it threatened patrons of the Pan-Ele tric with responsibility for an imaginary 'infringement;" then it pleads with the people not to withdraw their support; now it invokes the power of the railread king. If the Bell Telephone company would append to popular sympathy and support, let it stop buildezing, whining and all unmanly dedges and depend solely upon ment's and a disposition to please and give a quid pro quo for moneys received. Its present methods of opposition are distasteful to every fair-minded man. The Western Union Telegraph com-

To the Directors and Stockholders of the State National Bank,

GENTLEMEN: - We, your committee, appointed to examine into the condi-tion of the State National bank of Fort Worth, now respectfully submit and report. We have examined the cash on hand tributes to the soldiers in the civil war, both Confederate and Union. In fact, to all intents and purposes, the lecture could have been delivered in Fanueii hall as well as Galveston. It was freighted with expressions of love and reverence for the stars and stripes and the reunited Union, while it did ample justice to the lest cause and those whogdied in its defense." on the night of February 7, and found it correct and that it corresponded with the report of the cashier; with the report of the cashler; also the loans and discounts, which we find satisfactory, and size the books, which we find are k-pt in a business-like and creditable manner. The officers and employes of the bank rendered us every assistance in an examination. One of these enjoyable social events called "surprise parties" occurred at the residence of Capt. B B. The rapidly increasing business of the popular clothing rm of Dahlman Bros has made it necessary that they provide more room in order to accommodate their trade. To this end the building next door, formerly occupied by the City Nati nal bank, is being flugd up with shelving, and the partition removed, which will give them a footing of fifty feet on Houston street. Dahlman Bros commanced business in Fort Worth several years ago, and have grown with the growth of the city. They of course have, with others, felt the effect of the dull sensons in business during all these years, but at no time have they lost acything previously gained, and their progress has been continuous and steady from the day their opening sales were made. Their increasing business under the circumstaces speaks volumes for the enterprise and bluck of the firm, and it is safe to predict for them a yet brighter future.
