FREE grass is now the "irrepressible conflict."

MACKIN and Gallagher may be fine Democratic rounders but the attempt to save them and defeat the ends of justice is a disgrace to civilization.

THE boulevard rowdies of Paris tried to hiss Miss Van Zandt, the young American actress, from the stage. She didn't hiss worth a cent

WILL the "grass commissioner" chase the cowboys or follow the trail of the cowboys' employers? He won't hesitate—the one carrieth "a gun," the other "a wad"

BREE TRYON thinks he could accept a bribe of $1500 without being guilty of any wrong doing. This speaks in eloquent terms of Bayou City honesty. Joe is Billy Baker's especial pet.

BEN BUTLER or St. John have not yet heard the soul-inspiring words "take suthin'" from the Washington dispenser. This seems to settle the question that Massachusetts and Kansas were either playing "solitaire," or else it was a game of 'three pluck one" with the man from Maine as chief plucker.

OHIO has a citizen who claims the sun is but 3000 miles distant from the earth—that is, Ohio. Under former administrations this is an over-estimate—with President Cleveland in the chair, the Ohio man may find that "the times are out of joint," and the city of magnificent distances is further away from Ohio than his calculation would make it

THE reason the rascals do not go with that degree of rapidity expected is probably because in the White House are two very interesting Republican ladies who are sisters of the president. Miss Cleveland is a blue-stocking from way back, and any man who has sense enough to get himself elected president knows better than to run counter to the wishes of a female of this kind.

THE Globe-Democrat is palming off the pictures of lunatics and convicts as likenesses of Texas legislators and legislative officers The picture of one of the journal clerks was evidently taken out of a rogue's gallery.—[Austin Statesman.

Late developments would indicate that the rogue's gallery should be the most reasonable place in the world where one could expect to find the phiz of more than one of the "clerks."

THE inexorable logic of facts get away with THE GAZETTE, and that lively paper has infinite difficulty in making the world believe that that part of Texas on and west of the one hundred and first meridian is a fine agricultural region, or fit for anything else than a vast grazing region.—[Waco Examiner.

Why do you not print the facts to which you allude? We have seen none in your columns yet—only words, Horatio, words. Print the facts if you have any.

THE following telegram from a citizen of Sedalia, Mo., to THE GAZETTE will be of interest in Fort Worth and Cleburne:

The impression which gained some circulation in Texas that Maj. Wm Gentry, a prominent farmer of this county and step-father of Vincent Wicher, who recently killed young Hall, will go on his bond or help to defend him, is a mistake. Maj. Gentry will have nothing to do with him and he has no friends in Missouri, except his mother, who will assist him.

Not Before the Convention.

In an editorial printed in THE GAZETTE yesterday it was stated that Maj. John Henry Brown of Dallas had been an aspirant before the convention which nominated Dr. Crowdus for mayor. Such was our information; but we are informed by a citizen of Dallas that such is not the case, and we hasten to correct the statement, for THE GAZETTE has no desire to misrepresent any man. It is bad enough to run against the nominee of one's party when that nominee was made the choice of the party fairly and who is honest and capable, without adding to this the sin of having been a contestant for the place before the convention.

THE GAZETTE says this in simple justice to Maj. Brown, but if Democracy in Dallas means anything, Dr. Crowdus should be elected

Oklahoma and Gen. Hatch.

Some time since Gen. Hatch was reported as saying that the cattlemen had no permanent improvements in Oklahoma A little later he is reported as having acknowledged that there were some dug-outs and a few houses there There are quite a number of army officers largely interested in cattle companies One of these is a vice-president of the National Cattlemen's association Possibly Gen. Hatch is interested in cattle companies—and he has a perfect right to be; but there is great complaint among the "boomers" about his conduct. As there are equally efficient officers in the army, would it not be well to transfer Gen Hatch and his colored cavalrymen to some other portion of the country, and send another officer, with white troops, to take his place? It would do no harm, at least.

Fort Worth's Opportunity.

The value of the property in Fort Worth and in Waxahachie, would be increased fifty per cent the moment that the last spike was driven in a railroad connecting the two places. To build such road, a subscription of $100 000 with an issue of mortgage bonds, bearing interest at six per cent. to the extent of $350 000, would be sufficient. The taxable value of Fort Worth property is now $5,365 000 An increase of fifty per cent. is $2,682 500 or $2 582 500 more of values by building the road, while $100 000 subscription is all that is necessary to build it Fort Worth has not grown to such a point as to lay on her oars. While the Fort is now a great and growing city, it has a prosperous rival, only thirty-two miles east of it. To lookers-on, who are not connected with our own or our rival city, the race for the supremacy between the contestants is one of great interest. Many people thought that these two cities could not reach their present great prosperity. They are now almost equal in population. Should Fort Worth once go ahead of Dallas in its population, the Fort's future would be fixed for eternity Lots now selling for from $500 to $1000 would in a few years bring as many thousands as they now do hundreds. To gain an ascendency in people there is only needed a little link of thirty-seven miles of railroad, which can be built at a trifling cost of $100,000. It is with the people of Fort Worth to boom again or not.

A Democratic Paper.

The Herald has said nothing editorially in favor of Maj. John Henry Brown for mayor, nor has it said a word in opposition to Dr Crowdus, but if the friends of the latter persist in arraigning the Herald for deeds not committed, it will publish some arraignments against their favorite that will not be pleasant to them or to their candidate.—[Dallas Herald.

Dr. Crowdus is the nominee of the Democracy of Dallas city for mayor; he is honest; he is competent; he was fairly nominated; he is identified by long years of residence and business enterprise with Dallas and its progress; nothing against his record as a man, as a citizen, has been urged; and yet a Democratic newspaper, a newspaper professing to be Democratic, coolly informs its Democratic readers and patrons that it has not said anything in opposition to Dr. Crowdus—in opposition to the nominee of the Democratic party—in opposition to an honest and a competent Democratic candidate, declared to be the choice of the party in open, fair convention! No word in opposition—has there been any word in advocacy, by this alleged Democratic newspaper, of a regularly nominated Democratic candidate?

THE GAZETTE is no blindly partisan Democratic newspaper; it would commend the Herald for its quasi opposition to Dr. Crowdus if that paper would say the nominee is dishonest or incompetent, or that he was unfairly chosen. The Herald says none of these things, and yet it does not support the nominee of the party it professes to serve THE GAZETTE holds that it is the duty of Democratic newspapers to advocate the election of Democratic nominees unless such nominees are shown to be unworthy or incapable. The Herald is a very queer Democratic newspaper.

The Gentleman from Harris.

A good deal of interest centers in the member from Harris county just now, owing to the connection of his name with certain measures before the legislature. The history of that statesman is somewhat peculiar. He sprang into notice so quickly that he astounded even himself He was a young lawyer there in Houston who "stood in with the boys," and a lot of them, headed by Jim Stacey, the Tinsley Bros. and a few more choice spirits, concluded they would hold a convention, and as a part of that day's proceedings nominated Mr. Tankersley for the legislature. The convention was called in the regular way by the proper authority, but the "boys" ran the thing. He made the canvass and his speeches were listened to; when he was sad people sighed; when he was witty people laughed, and on election day enough votes were cast for him to entitle him to represent Harris county, "Uncle Dan'l" and all. The next session he didn't come to time. Henry Fisher, one of the best criminal lawyers in the state, was elected. Fisher is a champion billiard-player, too, and at the poker table he has been known to shove up two stacks of blue checks worth a dollar and a quarter apiece on a pair of tens He is a "holy terror," and served his people well. The office went a-begging the last time Nobody seemed to care for it much, but Tankersley took it He tried to have the charter of Houston changed, but Senator Jones from the same place was too many for him; he tried his bank bill and scored a triumph, and he tried the bucket-shop bill and—well, he is not done with it yet. Such is the history of the attitudinous representative from Harris. He has a bright future before him.

IT MUST GO.

A Citizen Puts in a Protest Against the Six-Shooter.

FORT WORTH, TEX., April 3, 1885.

To the Editor of THE GAZETTE.

Seeing an item in a Fort Worth paper that the sheriff of this county had authorized a party to carry arms for fear of getting hurt, I would ask where is the authority of the executive officer of the county to authorize any party to commit a misdemeanor in a corporate city? And if he is not so legally authorized, the city officers ought to be made enforce the law.

Two shooting scrapes in two days ought to be enough, without turning scared men loose as walking arsenals. It is a bystanders turn next

I have always understood the legal way of getting protection was by swearing fear and placing threateners under bond. Respectfully,

ANTI SIX-SHOOTER.

Illegal Voting and Bribery.

To the Editor of THE GAZETTE.

While agitating the issue of the coming municipal election and the position of candidates with reference to party affiliations and influences, it would be both wise and well for "the press" and community at large to consider closely, and act decidedly upon the question of "illegal voting" and bribery.

That there is a clique and class in this city who make a business of importing and voting a gang of men who had no right of ballot or interest here, is a well-known fact, and that they have been encouraged in this businesst by men who aspire to offices of the highest trust is equally true In fact so reckless have these ballot brokers and vendors be come that they openly assert that without their influence and support no candidate dare hope for success—and they unblushingly state that money alone can secure their support As to what effect such prostitution has, or may have, upon our local administration there can be little difference of opinion among fair-minded and honorable men and it certainly behooves every honest voter and citizen to see and know that in casting his ballot he does not further the designs and prolong the power of bad and dangerous men.

The plans have already been laid and "wires pulled" with a view to floating candidates and bartering off the "illegal votes" to the highest or perhaps the last bidder, and that some bids are already in can be vouched for by parties who are in a position to know.

Now, that such a state of affairs should not exist is beyond dispute, and that there are means of relief if properly and faithfully applied cannot be denied; neither voters nor office-seekers should be permitted to violate the laws of the land and the rights of their fellow citizens without merited rebuke and legal castigation.

The question is, Who will take the initiative in a move to secure a fair election, and what influences can be brought to bear against the power of men who vauntingly declare their own shame, and proclaim themselves dictators in our municipal election? Certainly any candidate who will pander to this element and seek to obtain office through direct or indirect bribery, should not receive the support of honest men, and it does seem that among the candidates themselves there should and would be a co-operative move with a view to protection against impositions and frauds which are certain to be practiced in the coming election.

Now, it is the bounden duty as well as the interest of every candidate who is not a bidder for illegal votes, to see that he is not defrauded of his rights and robbed of his prospects by any combinations which may be brought about by dishonesty or bribery.

To this end each candidate who contemplates making a fair canvass should use his utmost vigilance in detecting and reporting any party or parties who are seeking or endeavoring to fill positions through fraud, and when such is proven undoubtedly true there should be a co-operation with a view to the defeat of such a candidate and the prosecution of all parties concerned in the fraud

Furthermore, it behooves every candidate or his working friends to be present at the opening and closing of the polls and to see that no "gang" of illegal voters possess themselves of the ballot-box.

All men who are known to be manipulators should be closely watched, and held responsible for any violation of the election laws Honest, well known, firm and fearless men should be appointed as judges and clerks, and every effort should be made by the candidates and citizens at large to prevent "illegal voting and bribery."

AN OLD VOTER.

CITY ATTORNEY'S RACE.

A Few of the Reasons Why Mr. Swayne Should be Re Elected.

FORT WORTH, TEX., March 29, 1885.

To the Editor of the Gazette.

Recognizing in the coming election for city attorney not merely an honorable contest among good men for a desirable position, but a question involving deep moral principles, I ask permission to say a few words.

In the earliest and purest days of our republic the questions put by the grandest statesmen in regard to a candidate were: "Is he honest? Is he capable? Is he faithful in the discharge of his duties?" These answered in the affirmative, the decree was, let him have naught to fear.

Let us review with unprejudiced eyes, and guided by the pure light of patriotism, the actions of the present incumbent, Jas W Swayne. We find that his honesty cannot be questioned; that he has met the duties of his office and performed them, not only with faithfulness but with fearlessness in the face of every discouragement, every opposition.

Unselfish, he has hazarded self-interest in the conscientious discharge of his duties. He has not vacillated, he has not weakened and he has had no sustaining power save honesty of purpose I hold that he has played the patriot, and the man, and deserves the support of a law abiding people; and that to remove him from office will, not only, be encouraging an opposite policy, one not founded in the principles of honest government, but also, paying a sad tribute to genuine integrity.

The growing tendency of the age is to depreciate the services of conscientious men. It should not be so; it must not be so in our grand state. Remember that the course taken in this election establishes a precedent, and reflect upon the influence it may have over future elections.

I would ask what seems his crime? He opposes gambling He has taken a stand on the side of morality, that indispensable support to political prosperity The gamblers would subvert this pillar of happiness, this prop of duties of men and citizens, this guardian not only of public but private felicity

There is justice in his cause; he has been and is strong, because he is on the side of right. Worthy citizens, show your appreciation of fearless integrity; support him in the discharge of his highest duty, and against the errors of those who condemn what they would not if seen in all its parts.

BROWNSVILLE.

A Daily Paper—Surveying the Military Reservation.

Special.

BROWNSVILLE, TEX., April 4.—The Times, the weekly newspaper reported yesterday as suspended, is to be resurrected as a daily, beginning next week.

W. P Gainey, present editor of the Cosmopolitan, will have control of the Times. The Cosmopolitan will probably be discontinued.

The county surveyor is making a survey of the military reservation of Fort Brown.

Judge Russell and several attorneys have arrived from Corpus Christi and district court will open Monday.

WACO.

Excursion Rates to the Races—Extensive Preparations for Easter.

Special.

WACO, TEX., April 4.—The remains of W. W Campbell of De Pere, Wis., who was killed at Little River Station, on the Missouri Pacific road yesterday, were embalmed here to-day and shipped to his home this evening. The deceased was a Mason, and local members of that fraternity paid every attention to the body.

Rev S P Wright, of this city, who was reported to have gone deranged while conducting a religious meeting at Colorado City, reached home today. His physicians and friends do not appear to feel alarmed about his condition, saying that he is simply exhausted, physically and mentally and will be all right with a few days of rest.

Next week the Missouri Pacific road will sell excursion tickets to Waco for the races, at all stations between Denison and Taylor at a round trip rate of four cents a mile. Mr. Brown of Fort Worth arrived this morning with a stable of fine horses, all runners

Next Tuesday is the municipal election and the candidates and their strikers are the busiest people in town to-day. Pool-selling on the leading candidates opened to-night.

Several of the churches have made extensive preparations for Easter to-morrow, The churches are beautifully decorated and have special musical programmes, etc

Senator Coke left Washington city to-night for Waco

BROWNWOOD EXTENSION.

A Proposition Submitted to the Citizens and Accepted.

Special.

BROWNWOOD, TEX., April 4.—Brownwood has at last succeeded in getting in a favorable consideration from a railroad company. Night before last Col. Walter Gresham, on behalf of the directors of the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe, made a formal proposition to have that road built into Brownwood within twelve months on conditions that the city would give the right of way through the county, depot grounds and $5000 A committee of twenty five citizens was appointed to see what could be done and last night had received bona fide subscription to the amount of $30 000 The depot grounds will cost nothing and our capitalists are now ready to enter into bonds to secure the right of way through the counties as soon as the line is surveyed accepting the [illegible] Santa Fe. Proposition Lampasas [illegible] also meet.

Brownwood is now unanimously acknowledged to be the best town west of Fort Worth, notwithstanding the fact that she is forty miles from any road, and this last step insures us a city of ten thousand or more inhabitants in a short while. We have suffered from our lack of railroad facilities, but now the mists are clearing away and Brownwood will soon be the metropolis of West Texas. Fort Worth and Dallas had better look to their laurels.
