TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 23.

GOVERNORS and senators will be made and unmade on the capitol question.

IN POLITICS every man is presumed to be guilty until he is proven innocent.

SOON the wires will begin to hum again with reports of what the doctors do not know about the condition of Gen. Grant.

IT is a base slander on Dallas to say that the churches and Sunday-schools took part in the triumphal march of the beer festivities.

IT is a wonder the Bible revisers put in the word sheol when such a convenient word as Dallas was out of a job. Either one is synonymous of "the grave."

HOT journals seem to be the prime difficulty with the Dolphin. Such a little thing as that ought to be easily arranged when ice is worth only a half a cent a pound.

THE boys who go to Lampasas should be careful to preserve a calm exterior. It is stated, though unofficially, that Maj.-Gen. John M. Claiborne has stuffed his saddle-bags with copies of the riot act.

IF CARTER HARRISON wants to gain prestige by attacking the gamblers why doesn't he tackle some one of his size? Why not commence at the top and rout the produce exchange, which is an overgrown bucket-shop?

MISS LIZZIE DOUGLASS, a beautiful young lady living near Fort Smith, has a cocoonery in which are over 20,000 bombyx mori, or silk-worms. The man who captures Miss Lizzie can depend on luxuriating in silk underwear.

A DALLAS company is going to furnish the Three Forks with water-power. It proposes to dam the Trinity and when they get a good lot of water, let it down as required. The good citizens of Dallas have had occasion to d-n the Trinity heretofore.

THE efforts that are being made to induce Congressman John H. Reagan to become a gubernatorial candidate smack very strongly of the intrigues of some would-be dark horse. Mr. Reagan is old enough to appreciate the value of flattery for a purpose.

THE Associated Press needn't take the trouble to telegraph any more that a Pennsylvanian who has been tendered an office will accept. An intelligent public only cares to know two facts—that he is a Pennsylvanian and that he has a chance to accept.

OUR friends, the enemy, over in Dallas need not worry over Waxahachia. The good people may be a little tardy, but they will come in all right. The difference between $15,000 and $25,000 will not have any visible effect on the road to the Crescent city. On to New Orleans.

THE fear of a division of the state is beginning to haunt a few moribund journals in the south and east. So long as North Texas educates the children of her dependent neighbors in that section they will continue to regard with holy horror the idea of secession.

THE beauty of keeping up a sort of stock-farm of hereditary rulers in England is well illustrated by the recent accession of sappy-headed Lord Garmoye to a seat. Any man who is capable of being handled like a puppet by an actress must be an ornament to the house of lords, surely.

IT is said that Gov. Roberts—Prof. Roberts, we should have written—is engaged in writing a poetical gem which will be a companion piece to Tennyson's "You, you!" The cash balance "which Roberts left so grand" is to take the place of Nelson's Navy; otherwise the poems will be nearly similar.

SAM JONES says the gambler, that is, he who can watch thirteen bets, the full limit, and "keep cases" at the same time, is a gentleman compared with the man who dabbles in bucket-shops. Sam evidently never tried to pick up a "sleeper;" he must have done his gambling on the short side of American wheat while the war news was coming in.

A HITCH in the Fort Worth & Waxahachia railroad.—(Lampasas Dispatch.)

There is no "Fort Worth & Waxahachia railroad;" but there is a Fort Worth & New Orleans railroad, upon which work is now progressing. The only "hitch" is, whether Waxahachia wants to have the road pass that point.

IN ONE of the counties in the good old state of Mississippi the prosecuting attorney and his assistant refused to prosecute a murderer because they knew the defense would ring in a packed jury on them. If all prosecuting attorneys would act on what they know and refuse to be a party to a farce before a packed jury, we would have some high old times, even in Texas.

THE idea of the Saturday half-holiday, as suggested in the Evening Tribune of yesterday, seems to meet with popular favor. It is a prominent move in many of the great cities North and South. Let us have plenty of rest and time for recreation during the long weeks of hot weather before us.

THE GAZETTE believes the merchants of Fort Worth would find it profitable to them to inaugurate the same movement here.

Fit For Agriculture. Four years ago when Baird was five or six months old we began to import vegetables from Dallas, Fort Worth and other eastern towns. Today not a bean, box or crate of such goods comes. Our local gardeners can best any of those towns on rice vegetables and in two years we will beat them on peaches and grapes.—(Clarendon.)

And we hope and believe that in four years more such will be the result with Big Spring. The soil of Howard county is fully equal to the requirements, and the seasons of this section have become sufficient; then all that is lacking is some one to sow the seed and give a little attention to the business. We do not want all stockmen, or all merchants or railroaders, but we need some farmers in the West. There is a fine opening for them—ready and profitable home markets for all they may grow.—(Big Spring Pantagraph.)

The scheme of interested parties to create the public impression that the West was fit only for grazing purposes is a failure. The only valid argument in favor of a lease law is embodied in this scheme of cattle raisers, and every day now is demonstrating the falsity of the statement and the necessity for the repeal of the odious lease law.

How to Make Roads. The best solution of the convict question which has yet been suggested is the employment of all short-term convicts on county roads. There would be no conflict with honest labor, and the people would be relieved of an onerous duty, though the tax for guards and feeding and maintaining the prisoners would not be inconsiderable. But the roads would be kept in good condition.—(Waco Day.)

The crying need of Texas is good roads. Every growing town in the state feels the need of them; every neighborhood is put to inconvenience and loss because of the lack of them. Texas wants straight roads and good roads. So great is this need that it would pay cities like Fort Worth and counties like Tarrant to incur the expense of making good roads. The dirt roads in these thickly populated communities will no longer serve the public purpose. We need macadamized roads—or gravel roads. The suggestion of the Day is one that has been made by several newspapers. It is a practical suggestion, and one deserving the serious and immediate attention of our law-makers. There would be no conflict between convict and honest labor were short-term convicts put to work on the county roads. Road work is a distasteful one, and no man would object to such employment of convicts. Were this suggestion adopted, a solution would be found at once for two serious problems. The legislature might well be called in extra session if it were certain this boon would be granted the public, as every day adds to the necessity for good roads.

The Breezeiest. (Gainesville Advance.) The Fort Worth GAZETTE is the breezeiest daily in Texas.

The Hugwump. (Corvaca Observer.) The "hugwump" is the latest out. He seldom leaves his girl before 11 p. m.

But It Doesn't. (Mesquite Mesquiter.) If Dallas possessed the energy and go-aheadiveness of the Fort she would soon rival St. Louis.

A Merciful Judge. (San Antonio Express.) Judge Beckham of Fort Worth does not set a very high valuation upon the dignity of his court. Ten times fifty dollars would have been a low fine for the indignity committed by those pugilistic lawyers. A lawyer should be disbarred for such breaches of decorum as were reported from Fort Worth in yesterday morning's Express.

Public Sentiment. (Brenham Banner.) Public sentiment is responsible for many of the killings in the state. It is well known that one man out of ten who kills or murders another is hanged. Juries are "chicken-hearted;" they have not got the moral courage to inflict the death penalty, but they completely overlook the fact that the man on trial took the law in his own hands and killed a man. If the people who are now buying themselves agitating prohibition would expend half the enthusiasm they devote to that cause to molding public opinion against murderers and making the crime odious, they would in all probability accomplish much more good. It is not whiskey, but public sentiment, that is responsible for the many murders and the few hangings that take place.

Devoted Fort Worth, Tex., Contribution. (Lock Haven Pa., Democrat.) Year 1882: $75,000 gift to the Santa Fe railroad, and now the first ten days of June $70,000 to the Fort Worth & Waxahachia railroad, and $12,000 to send the location of cotton mill to reduce imports. (Last year imported $35,000 cotton goods.) Fort Worth, 22,000 population, unfurls the banner of every man doing his duty that will inspire additional inspiration and patriotism throughout the American continent, towards capturing our own market. Year 1884: Imported wool and woolsens, $56,000,000; iron and steel, $41,000,000; silk and silks, $50,000,000; and other goods in competition with home-made goods amounting to $189,000,000, without including the 30,000 tons of imported New York salt, to brine the American unemployed labor during the Golden club delusive tones that over-production is the cause of business depression. "True for the wrong side of the ocean." Turn out your silver dollars, United States treasurer, pay transportation to the West and South, they know how to make good use of them and are now calling for more money for the people, "our town, our country," 'tis of thee." J. W. WOLFENDEN.

Jokes on Barren Ground. (Chicago Herald.) J. Armory Knox, editor of Texas Siftings, tried for two hours to make a Philadelphia audience laugh, but failed miserably. The audience going away as solemnly as it came. If he had had something smart to say about the people who objected to paying tribute to the coal, iron and steel king of Pennsylvania, he would have been greeted with roars. The way to tickle people is to reach their ribs, and Mr. Knox might have known that any ordinary chestnut would not go down with a people who enjoy every day in the week the stupendous joke that they are playing on the rest of mankind.

A witticism about Morrison, Watterson, Carlisle or Frank Hurd would have touched the spot. A joke on the starving miners and iron workers objecting to the importation of foreign labor on contract would have made lots of fun. A sly reference to the stalwart and unbending Democracy of Sam Randall would have made the window-glass (taxed 40 per cent.) rattle. An insinuation that the Western farmers who complain of low prices for their produce ought to get a higher tariff would have excited the rables of everybody present, and a feeling reference to the necessity of repealing the taxes on whiskey and tobacco, in order to give the people more money to pay their taxes on iron, steel and coal, would have brought down the house.

J. Armory Knox should read up on the peculiarities of the people whom he essays to amuse.

Fort Worth Known Abroad. (LOCK HAVEN, PA., June 19, 1885.) To the Editor of the Gazette: On my return from Mexico in a recent trip I obtained a fair idea of your enterprises.

I noted vast quantities of the best hematite iron ore in your vicinity, favorable for tin and time-plate product. We imported last year 240,000 tons of sheet iron coated with tin and lead, all of which can be annually reproduced in America by an equitable tariff.

Last year we imported cotton goods to the amount of $9,000,000. J. WOLFENDEN.

McKINNEY. An Arrest for Outrageous Assault—A Quintuple Grandpa. (Special to the Gazette.)

McKINNEY, TEX., June 22.—James Beverly, a member of one of the best families in Collin county, was today arrested, charged with having committed an outrageous assault on Minnie Jones, a little negro girl ten years old. It is believed on investigation that young Beverly will be able to show there is nothing in the charge.

A heavy rain and wind-storm prevailed here last night. No damage resulted from it. Joe Birdwell, a prosperous farmer in East Collin county, was made the grandfather of five children last Saturday evening. All were born on the same day, and were his first grandchildren.

BRENNHAM. The Citizens Take Steps to Capture the Cotton Trade. (Special to the Gazette.)

BRENNHAM, TEX., June 22.—Brenham is on the war-path determined to get more business. The bankers, business men, lawyers, doctors, and citizens generally held a meeting this evening to consider the best means to put Brenham ahead. The bankers have agreed to lower their rates of exchange and interest, the warehousemen their rates of storage and the insurance companies their premiums. The plans being discussed, if put into execution, will enable Brenham to pay a higher price for cotton than any of her rival cities.

The Houston Light Guard and four companies from Galveston passed through yesterday, en route for Lampasas for the state military encampment. It is somewhat remarkable that these soldier companies generally start on Sundays.

The most popular cigarettes at the popular price are Opera Puffs. C. J. Pitman & Co., Contractors for cement walks and cement buildings. Office 509 Main street.

TEXAS POLITICS, As it is Reflected by the Texas Newspapers.

The people of Texas can stand almost anything better than an extra session of the legislature.—(Houston Post.)

Gen. Ross is a good man, but not talkative. For seven or eight years he has been taciturn on state questions.—(Dallas Times.)

In the meantime Roger Mills is training for the senatorial race, and it may not be amiss to say that Col. Mills is one of the fastest nags that ever jumped away at the fall of a flag.—(Dallas Times.)

When John Ireland's senatorial boom lies peacefully buried on the banks of the Guadalupe this epitaph may be tenderly inscribed on its tombstone: Died of too much brother-in-law.—(Gainesville Advance.)

If Sul Ross had as much wind as his cousin, the Waco Examiner, he could easily manage to live through the gubernatorial race, notwithstanding the convention is fourteen months distant.—(Corsicana Observer.)

There seem to be some whispers on the Texas political breeze that would indicate a robust boom for Roger Q. Mills for United States senator about the time the Twentieth legislature will be ready for business.—(Galveston News.)

It is somewhat strange that schemes are being concocted and plans fixed and laid for Maxey to stay at home and another take his seat in the United States senate, when Maxey's superior cannot be found in all Texas.—(Blanco News.)

Evidently Gen. Ross believes that the early bird catches the worm. The climatic efforts of Texas are hard to calculate, but before there may be a prospect of the tables being turned and the worm catching the bird.—(Houston Herald.)

Sul Ross has announced himself for governor, and the Herald says, while the early bird catches the worm it's fearful Sul will prove himself the worm. As an addenda to the Herald's chapter we would say, Reagan will be the "bird."—(Midlothian News.)

The Waco Examiner, having elected Ross governor and Ireland United States senator, can now afford to rest from its labors until after the cotton is picked. Let the other places go over to next year, or we will all be out of a job at that time.—(San Antonio Express.)

The Mexia Ledger says Col. Elliott of the Herald has been mentioned in connection with the governorship. May be so, but it will be many a long hot day ere any man connected with the Texas exhibit at New Orleans is stricken by official lightning.—(Waco Examiner.)

John Ireland's brother-in-law, the Laredo Times, is seeking to prejudice its readers against Maxey. The brother-in-law says that "Maxey dug his political grave when he placed the convict upon the same level with the honest laborer." Ireland dug his political grave when he drew up the railroad striker bill.—(Henderson Times.)

Some of the papers and politicians seem to be on the fence on the prohibition question. They are afraid to come out squarely either for or against it. But they will find that this won't satisfy the people, and they will have to take some sort of a stand and stick to it. Policy men are not in demand by the people.—(Mesquite Mesquiter.)

Gen. L. S. Ross of Waco has declared himself a candidate for governor. Gen. Ross has a great many army friends in Texas who will doubtless espouse his cause with considerable vigor and enthusiasm. His reputation as a statesman is not extensive, but as a military man he won golden opinions for himself during the late war.—(Greenville Herald.)

Gubernatorial slates have become quite numerous this season, and in every instance the West has been slighted. Judge Wheeler of Cisco, one of the most talented men in the state, would make Texas one of the best governed we have ever had; and there is Judge A. T. Watts of Weatherford, another talented gentleman, raised in Texas would fill the bill to the letter.—(Ranger Chief.)

A special to the Galveston News says that Congressman Reagan, in a conversation recently with Senator Terrell at Kaufman, is reported as having said that President Cleveland is not a Democrat and has not got a Democrat in his cabinet—not even Secretary Hayard. Garland he characterized as being notoriously a black Republican. The Day doubts the truth of the story, but it is possible the banner of revolt is at last raised in Texas.—(Waco Day.)

If the race for governor is between Hon. W. J. Swain and Gen. Ross of Waco, we predict that Swain will be nominated on the first ballot. Capt. Swain is well versed in the affairs of Texas, has filled the office of comptroller for one term and part of another, and, although there has been carping, no man has dared to question his integrity or the ability with which he has discharged the duties of his office. North Texas has not been honored with the governorship for many years. For this reason North Texas will roll up a big majority for Capt. Swain if he has more strength than Gen. Ross in other portions of Texas, except Waco.—(Paris News.)

"The Prohibition victory in Limestone county," says the Waco Day, "derives special importance from three facts. First, it is the home of Speaker Foster, who is supposed to have some ambition to become a candidate for governor on a cold-water platform; second, the county lies adjoining McLennan, and contains several important railroad towns; and, third, the victory has been gained in the face of two consecutive defeats in the years 1882 and 1883. In the former year, the anti-prohibition majority was 227, in a comparatively full vote; in 1883 this majority was more than doubled, but now, in a contest which seems to have brought out the full voting strength, the Prohibitionists have swept the county by a majority of over a thousand. Mexia, Groesbeck, Kosse and other railroad towns vied with the county precincts in swelling the majority, and the popular wave seems to have met with no check anywhere except in the old town of Springfield, which cast its vote against prohibition.

LAREDO.

A Murderer Sentenced to the Gibbet. (Special to the Gazette.)

LAREDO, TEX., June 22.—Cristian Aldran, who killed Sepriano Gavin and wounded Francisco Saldana so that he died shortly afterwards, was tried in the district court here to-day and sentenced to be hanged. We now have two souls ready for kingdom-come, with more on hand. The jury in the soldier Bevin's case after being out three days failed to agree and was discharged.

Shooting Affray at Eagle Pass. (Special to the Gazette.)

EAGLE PASS, TEX., June 22.—Juan Garcia was violently abusing Americans to a crowd of Mexicans at Sabins' coal mines to-day when Pedro Gonzalez espoused their cause. The discussion ended in Gonzalez, the Americans' champion, being shot through the hand and arm, and in Garcia receiving a six-shooter ball through the heart, killing him instantly. Gonzalez fled to escape arrest.

Drowned at Colorado. (Special to the Gazette.)

COLORADO, TEX., June 22.—George A. Haine, ex-conductor on the Texas & Pacific railroad and of late a prominent steamman of this section, was drowned in the Colorado river last night while in bathing. It is supposed that he was taken with cramps. His body was recovered and was embalmed to await orders from his relatives, who live in Michigan.
