General Sheridan's Condition Last Evening Shows Great Improvement Over the Previous Day.

The Sick Man Sleeps Occasionally and His Pulse is Gaining in Force and Regularity.

The Opinion is Expressed at Washington that the Mills Bill was Strengthened by the Caucus Last Saturday.

PASSED A BAD NIGHT.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—General Sheridan's physicians issued the following bulletin at 10 o'clock this morning: General Sheridan passed a bad night, having an irregular pulse, labored respiration and being delirious since daybreak. Within the last hour there has been a slight but distinct improvement in his symptoms. At 11:15 the General awoke after a brief sleep. His mind was entirely clear. He recognized every one about him. Oxygen has been administered constantly since he awoke. It is said that his facial appearance is but slightly changed.

There was a general feeling of relief in General Sheridan's household this morning when the physicians issued their bulletin that "there had been a slight but distinct improvement in all his symptoms." The night was an anxious one. The distinguished patient seemed to grow weaker, and the chances of his recovery less and less as the hours dragged slowly along. Indeed, he was so low in the early hours of the morning that his faithful attendants well nigh abandoned hope, even the members of his staff, who have been in constant attendance since his first attack last Monday and who have all along contended that the General would pull through seemed despondent and discouraged and answered inquiries as to the General's chances with a dubious shake of the head. The history of the case shows that the most dangerous time for the General is between the hours of 2 and 6 in the morning and this morning was no exception to the rule. All the physicians and nurses were with him during that period and the discouraging news that came from the bedside from time to time filled the anxious watchers with great fear.

SHERIDAN BETTER.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—At 5 o'clock General Sheridan was resting quietly. Colonel Kellogg, one of the general's aides, expressed the opinion that the general was really better. He instantly recognizes any of his friends who enter the room and often inquires as to his health. "At no time," said Colonel Kellogg, "has the general given up hope." Mrs. Sheridan bore up bravely under the trying ordeal and, though unable to obey the doctor's advice to take some sleep, she showed rare confidence and composure. The children did not realize the gravity of the situation and they slept calmly through the hours which some feared might be their father's last. They know that there is something wrong in the room, but so far have been kept in ignorance of the true state of the case. The appearance of the children at the windows was one of the most pathetic features of the situation to the visitors who called while the General was reported to be slowly sinking. A consultation was held at 9 o'clock, and all the physicians agreed that the General's symptoms at that hour showed a slight improvement. This news dispelled for some time the feeling of gloom which hung over the household during the night, and bright glances of hope were exchanged among the friends assembled in the library. Colonel Kellogg, one of the General's aides, was particularly encouraged. He said to an Associated Press reporter: "The General is improving slowly and we are encouraged on certain symptoms. The General is a most remarkable man and seems to have an inexhaustible supply of strength. He had a very bad night, but rallied again this morning when we began to fear he could not do so."

Colonel Blunt, another aide, was somewhat conservative. He appeared on the front porch for a few moments and said that the General seemed to be a little better this morning.

A GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The following bulletin, prepared at 8:30 p. m., and issued at 9 p. m., says: General Sheridan has passed a most comfortable day. He slept at intervals, and at 5 p. m. had a quiet sleep of nearly an hour's duration, from which he awoke feeling refreshed and cheerful. He has slept occasionally since. His mind is perfectly clear. He is stronger. His pulse has gained in force and regularity, and at no time has exceeded 110. The respiration shows great improvement, and the condition of the blood is better. The odors of the legs has an irritable disappearance. He takes sufficient food, and his tongue, previously much coated, is now clean. His secretions are normal. He says he feels splendid. (Signed.)

MIDNIGHT BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—MIDNIGHT. There is little to add to the 8:30 o'clock statement. General Sheridan's favorable condition continues. He sleeps easily and restful; wakes occasionally; makes some rational remarks and goes to sleep again. (Signed.)

FULLER'S NOMINATION CONSIDERED.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The Senate committee on judiciary this morning again considered the nomination of Mr. Fuller, to be Chief Justice, but did not reach a conclusion. It was decided to hold a special meeting on the case next Thursday, when it is expected the matter will be disposed of.

THE MILLS BILL STRENGTHENED.

Special to the Gazette.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The opinion is expressed here that the result of Saturday's caucus has been to materially strengthen the Mills bill. It is apparent that the Democrats desire unity on the subject and are willing to make concessions. The impression sought to be made by the protectionists, that revenue reformers are dictatorial and uncompromising, has thus been exploded. The statement is freely made that when the national Democratic convention shall have spoken not the slightest obstacle will remain in the bill as amended. It is not expected a vote will be reached in the House before June 25. It is not believed the Republicans will attempt any filibustering schemes before final vote on the bill, but should such a purpose manifest itself, Mr. Mills and his friends will meet the emergency by asking the rule may be suspended and the bill passed by a majority vote.

CLEVELAND-THURMAN.

It is Said That the Ohio Statesman is Willing to Accept the Nomination for Vice-President.

Black, Morrison and Gray not Strong Enough in the Deaf Bl States to Fill the Bill.

With Blaine Out of the Way Alger of Michigan is Looked Upon as Cleveland's Most Probable Opponent.

Presidential Prognostications.

Special to the Gazette.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Grover Cleveland and Allen G. Thurman of Ohio will be the Democratic ticket next week, and it is dollars to cents they will be unanimously nominated next week and will win the presidential pennant. This morning Mr. Allen Thurman arrived here and called on Secretary Whitney. In the afternoon Secretary Whitney, Senator Gorman and Congressman Scott held a long conference in the Senate finance committee room. It was there agreed that all matters discussed should be kept quiet, but Secretary Whitney was so delighted with the conference that he told the entire story to his friends. He also claims credit for the entire transaction. The necessities leading to the nomination of Mr. Thurman were numerous. Objections of one kind and another were interposed against Messrs. Black, Morrison and Gray, and the President found it would be a doubtful expedient to nominate any of them. They would not prove strong enough to carry.

THE DOUBTFUL STATES.

So it was decided to unite on Thurman, and he has decided to accept. The ticket is received with delight by the party leaders. The only objection raised against Thurman's nomination is his age, but this will not prevent his running, nor will it hurt him in the campaign. It looks now as if Cleveland's political opponent would be Alger of Michigan. This is said with the understanding that Blaine is out of the race. Judge Graham has a known record, and with him out of the road the Illinois delegation will go to Alger, and with either Casanovey Dewey or Walter Phelps as vice-president they would have a strong ticket. Just at present all the eastern men are working for Graham. Tom Platt of New York is understood to be in favor of Alger. Should he be so, the Judge's nomination would be secured. If he remains firm ex-Governor Alger of Michigan will be the Republican nominee.

Prohibition Convention.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., May 28.—Although the Prohibition national convention does not meet until Wednesday morning the preparations of the local committee are practically complete. The place of meeting, Tomlinson hall, has been neatly decorated with flags, banners and flowers, appropriate mottoes being interspersed among gaily colored ornaments. Delegates are arriving on every train, but the main body will not be here until to-morrow. At present there are on the ground scattered delegates from Connecticut, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oregon and Tennessee, but no state delegation is complete. The Georgia delegation to arrive to-morrow is headed by Sam Small, and numbers among its members Bishop Turner of the African Methodist Episcopal church. The convention should include 1094 members. Chairman Samuel Dickie of Alton, Mich., and Treasurer S. D. Hastings of Madison, Wis., of the national committee, are already here. The full committee meets to-morrow afternoon for reorganization. Mr. Dickie will probably be re-elected chairman, although Walter T. Miller, of Ohio, has a strong following. Gov. St. John, of Kansas, will probably be the temporary presiding officer. Among the delegates already arrived there is one name mentioned for presidential nominee, that of Clinton B. Fish, of New Jersey, although a large number would be glad to vote for Gov. St. John, who has declared himself in positive terms as out of the field.

HORSE THIEVES CAPTURED.

Special to the Gazette.

Officers in the Territory Steal Up on a Gang of Them.

VINITA, I. T., May 28.—The Territory has suffered uncommonly this season at the hands of horse thieves, and their invasions have grown almost unbearable. Cattlemen who are compelled to keep large numbers of horses have been especially unfortunate and as a result have used extra exertion in hunting them for some days in this section. Officers have been waiting for a band of thieves who went to Arkansas two weeks ago with twenty horses, and this morning Deputy United States Marshal Isbell succeeded in capturing them near Adair, a short distance below here. There were four of them, Jess Cochran, Jr., George Cochran, Dad Maxwell and Joe Moseley; and the officers came upon them just after sunrise and before they were awake, thus preventing any chance for resistance. Three of them are Cherokees, and one of the number, George Cochran, recently escaped from the national prison, where he was sent for ten years for killing a companion. Moseley is from Jack county, Texas, and is said to have a very unsavory reputation. It was learned some days ago that the gang was headed for this section with three barrels of whisky, and it is probable that they were warned of danger and fled on the route. Some of the horses which they took away were disposed of at Bentonville and Mayville.
