GENERAL SHERIDAN.

The Bill Reviving the Rank of General of the Army Rushed Through the House.

The President Nominates Sheridan, the Senate Gives Assent, and the Sick Man Assumes Command.

A Grave Charge Brought Against Fuller. Mrs. Cleveland Invited to the Cincinnati Centennial Exhibition.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—General Sheridan has signed the following formal acceptance of his commission as General: HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY OF THE UNITED STATES, WASHINGTON, D. C., June 1, 1888. The Honorable Secretary of War: SIR—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of my commission as General of the army, to which position the President has today appointed me. I hereby accept the same.

The signature was written with a pencil in a large and perfectly legible hand. Soon after the receipt of his commission as General of the army, General Sheridan took the oath of office and directed the issue of the following general order, being his first official act in his capacity as General.

General Order No. 32. Headquarters of the Army, Adjutant General's Office, WASHINGTON, D. C., June 1, 1888. 1. The following named officers are appointed aides-de-camp on the staff of the General of the Army with the rank of Colonel to date from this day: Major Michael V. Sheridan; Assistant Adjutant General Sanford C. Kellogg, Fifth Cavalry; Captain Stephen E. Bunt, Ordnance Department. 2. In addition to his duties as aide-de-camp Colonel Bunt will continue to perform the duty of inspector of rifle practice at the headquarters of the Army. By command of General Sheridan. R. C. DRUM, Adjutant-General. Official: J. C. KELTON, Assistant Adjutant-General. THE NEW GENERAL.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The Senate bill to revive the grade of General of the Army has been signed by the Speaker of the House and the presiding officer of the Senate, and has now been sent to the President. The bill, reviving the rank of General has been signed by the President. General Sheridan was at once nominated by the President and the nomination sent to the Senate. That body immediately went into executive session and confirmed the nomination.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Lack of favorable tidings from General Sheridan has inspired somewhat unusual efforts on the part of his friends in Congress to give expression to the public admiration and respect for the warrior. The bill which passed the Senate day before yesterday and passed the House this morning, creating the rank of general of the army for his benefit, was not permitted to take the usual course, but under the personal supervision of Senator Hawley, chairman of the Senate committee on military affairs, it was engrossed within half an hour of its passage and taken by the Senator in person to the President. Meanwhile Senator Hawley had telegraphed the President suggesting that the nomination be made out in advance.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—At 3 o'clock this afternoon Senators Hawley and Manderson drove to General Sheridan's residence with the commission which the President had just signed making him general of the army. They were at once admitted and were soon joined by Mrs. Sheridan. As she entered the room Senator Hawley handed her the commission, with the remark, "Madame, I hand you this with great pleasure." Mrs. Sheridan was much moved, and exclaimed, "I know he will now get well." She thanked the gentlemen with much earnestness, and, retiring, said that she would at once hand the commission to the General. She had previously been told the bill making him general had passed the Senate.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The following bulletins were issued at 8:45 a. m.: 7:30 a. m.—General Sheridan has held his own through the night. There has been no recurrence of the imminent danger, but his general condition still justifies the general anxiety. [Signed] WILLIAM PEPPER, ROBERT O'REILLY, WASHINGTON MATTHEWS, CHARLES BRYNE, HENRY C. YARROW. So severe was General Sheridan's relapse yesterday afternoon that Father Caspelle was called to administer the extreme unction. Only by rapid work was the crisis averted. The sick man might have died at any moment. Dr. Pepper of Philadelphia, who was summoned last night by telegraph, reached Washington at 5:45 o'clock this morning and made a careful and thorough diagnosis of General Sheridan's case. The results of his examination were not of an encouraging character. It is clearly shown by the brevity and evident alarm expressed in the bulletin signed by him. He remained in consultation with the physicians until 8:30 o'clock and took the 9 o'clock train for Philadelphia. He will not return for several days at least and not then unless new and other dangerous symptoms are developed in the case.

WASHINGTON, June 1, 8 P. M.—It is stated at the door that General Sheridan has been quite comfortable all the afternoon. He was shaved by his barber without much fatigue, and his condition generally is believed to be quite as favorable as at any time since his attack of yesterday.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The following bulletin has just been issued: 9 P. M. June 1.—The situation remains about the same. Through the day General Sheridan's mind has been lucid. There has been no renewal of yesterday's attack, though there is but an incomplete recovery from its effect. No new unfavorable symptoms have been developed. The unavoidable excitement connected with his promotion has had no delirious effect whatever. He has slept quietly through a great part of the day. [Signed] ROBERT M. O'REILLY, WASHINGTON MATTHEWS, CHARLES BRYNE, H. C. YARROW.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The most serious of charges brought against Mr. Fuller are those from Mr. Dunstun of Chicago. They allege that the Clerk of the court and Mr. Fuller were jury commissioners in 1881 and that Mr. Fuller drew the jury before which a case in which he was himself heavily interested was tried. The results, according to Dunstun, were a verdict for Fuller and the consequent recovery of a large and valuable tract of swamp land. The committee has telegraphed for a transcript of the records, and will await its receipt.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Mrs. Cleveland this morning received the ladies of the Cincinnati committee in the red parlor of the White House. Mrs. Carlisle introduced them, and they presented an invitation to the centennial. Mrs. Cleveland thanked them and said that she will be glad to go if the President can spare time.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Mr. Kilgore to-day made a sensation in the House by objecting to a passage of the bill to revive the grade of general in the army, or as it is commonly called, the Sheridan bill. Everyone endeavored to have Kilgore withdraw his objection. He was importuned on all sides and in fact begged to withdraw his objection. Mr. Mills, the leader of the House, took in the situation and rising, said: "In the name of all Confederate soldiers living or dead, I ask unanimous consent that the bill I now send to the clerk's desk be passed."

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The bill to revive the grade of General of the Army has been signed by the Speaker of the House and the presiding officer of the Senate, and has now been sent to the President. The bill, reviving the rank of General has been signed by the President. General Sheridan was at once nominated by the President and the nomination sent to the Senate. READY FOR A ROW.

Steve Dorsey Going to the Chicago Convention to Make Trouble in the Republican Camp.

The Prohibitionists Nominate John Brooks of Kansas City for Vice-President and Adjourn Sine Die.

D. G. Fowler Nominated by the Democrats for Governor of North Carolina on the Twenty-Third Ballot.

Steve Dorsey Has an Ax to Grind.

DENVER, Col., June 1.—"Steve" Dorsey, the ex-star router, at present one of the cattle kings of New Mexico, arrived here yesterday from his ranch at Palo Blanco on his way to the Chicago convention. He is going simply as a spectator, but if his statements are to be believed he goes "loaded for bear," and is confident of his ability to bring down some good sized game before his return west. Since his arrival in Denver he has on several occasions "given it out cold" to more than one of his friends that he intends to make trouble in the Republican family this fall or at least employ all his efforts in this direction as a return favor for the shabby treatment he alleges he has received at the hands of the party, both national as well as territorial. In conversing to-night upon the result of the Chicago convention he said he had no idea whatever regarding the probable choice, although he himself had some preferences, but under no circumstances whatever would he support

Dorsey has never had the most kindly feeling for a number of the Republican managers since the conclusion of the famous star route cases at Washington, in which he so prominently figured as a defendant at a cost of over $300,000, and during which he now claims to have been deserted by some of the party leaders whom he considered as his friends. This feeling of unfriendliness has been intensified by the snub given him by his party in New Mexico during the last two territorial campaigns. Since his residence in the land of the Montezumas he has unsuccessfully endeavored to control the political machinery of the territory, and both he and his friends have spent no little money to accomplish this result. His candidate for delegate to Congress, Colonel Ryerson, now a member of the national committee, was overwhelmingly defeated four years ago by Anthony Joseph De Tevis, who two years later again defeated Dorsey's candidate, Colonel J. W. Dwyer, in face of the fact that the territory had always been considered

His Washington experience, coupled with his repeated defeats at home, has aroused the spirit of the old campaigner and he is now ready to run up the black flag and battle for revenge.

A prominent Colorado Republican this evening while discussing Mr. Dorsey and the course he proposes to pursue said: "His angry threats about going to ruin the Republican party and defeat the choice of the national convention is absurd and will have no effect whatever upon any part of the Republican party. It is apparent to all that Dorsey is on the decline, he is growing old very fast, his sight is rapidly failing him and his nervous system is suffering greatly from the effects of high living indulged in during his political career in Washington, and which has been continued since he came to New Mexico. Above all he has no money with which to carry on the fight even were it possible for him to make one. Dorsey's principal trouble is his dissatisfaction with the retired life he is compelled to live on his ranch. His inability to agitate into active politics makes him sour and cranky upon every subject, and this last outbreak of his will be taken by the people more as the complaints of a spoiled child than the threats of an influential politician."

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 1.—In the prohibition national convention yesterday Neal Dow of Maine favored the minority report of the resolution committee, as did also several others, and speeches in favor of the majority were numberless. So the debate went on for nearly three hours.

Toward the close Mother Stewart of Ohio, an old-time leader of the cause of
