FOUR ROUND GO WITH WOLGAST SERVES AS BOOST FOR RITCHIE

This is the twelfth of a series of stories of the life and battles of Lightweight Champion Willie Ritchie, written exclusively for The Call.

By WILLIE RITCHIE

I was a very busy young man during my first visit east. In fact, they kept me on the job all the time, and I had seven fights in seven weeks, which I considered pretty good for a boy away from home for the first time and just taking a chance.

At last the old homesick feeling began to creep over me. I wanted to get back among my folks and my friends. I felt worse with every letter that I received, and at last I decided to pack my things and return to San Francisco, although I passed up at least four or five matches. But this did not bother me at all.

For the first time in my life I really felt independent, for I had $3,500 in the bank, and I figured that I would not have to worry for a while, no matter what might happen to me. Still, I was ambitious, and wanted more, and I believed then that I would be able to land some good matches in my native city.

I landed home about the middle of March of last year, and all my old friends seemed very glad to see me. My eastern record was a good one, and I felt very proud of it. I saved all the clippings of my fights, and I used to take great pride in showing them to everybody who took any interest in the fighting game.

WOLGAST AGREES TO A MATCH

But the game was rather dead in San Francisco then, and I was unable to land anything. I just laid around, for I did not care to go back as a four-rounder, because I believed that my eastern experience ought to put me in line for some better matches. I passed up several good offers to go over the jumps in the short distance game.

Finally, I took it into my head to see Wolgast. He was doing a theatrical turn here, and I had heard that he was getting ready to try himself out in a short distance bout, and I felt that I had just as much license as any of them to get on with the champion, and I was not a bit afraid of him, either.

"Will you give me the first chance when you decide to get back in the game, Ad?" I asked. "You can make the terms."

"All right, kid," said Wolgast, "but I am sorry that you have not got a reputation, for I will tear right after you."

"That's all right," you can tear as hard as you like. I have been up against some pretty tough ones lately."

A couple of the Pittsburg promoters wanted to stage the match and I went to see Wolgast about it, but he said that he preferred to fight in San Francisco, although he was not ready then. He again promised me that he would let me in on the first crack at him.

COFFROTH ARRANGES THE BOUT

Wolgast went south on some business and returned a couple of weeks later. Then he told me that he had arranged to give me a four-round whirl early in May, and suggested that Promoter Jim Coffroth handle the match with Jack Welsh as the referee.

I went to Coffroth and put the proposition before him. He seemed to like the idea, although he had never handled a four-round match before. We did not have any trouble in reaching an agreement, for I was willing to fight for practically nothing just to get a chance to fight with a real champion, and a hard hitter.

He signed to fight on May 11, and I had a couple of weeks in which to train, and, believe me, I sure did work hard. This is where I had a good edge on the champion. He felt sure that I would be an easy mark, and he did not do as much work as he should have. But that was his fault, not mine. Wolgast always was careless.

I trained at the Seal Rock house, and I helped the champion up across the way. Many of the fans smelled a rat and said that we probably were framing up a little love feast, and this kept the crowd down at the fight. However, those who did show up certainly saw more action in four rounds than they ever saw before.

KNOCKED DOWN BY CHAMPION

Well, Wolgast tore right after me when the bell rang, and I knew that I was in for a merry time. He kept swinging and rushing, and I stopped many a hard wallop. The crowd cheered, for they thought that the champ was back in form after his recent operation.

But I just stood up there and slugged back. I guess that he had a nice little lead in the first round, for he was the aggressor, and kept right on top of me all the time and I could not get set. We stumbled over each other in the second round, and I helped the champion up. We were fighting like mad every inch of the way, and the fans were on their feet, cheering and hollering all the time.

He caught me a right-hand swing to the jaw in the third round and I fell like a log. I really believe that this was the hardest blow I ever received, but, still, I was not dazed nor even groggy. I took the count of nine and all the time I was planning how I would start when I got to my feet, for he was standing over me.

Finally I got up and went into a clinch. I tried hard to put me down again, but I was strong and fought right back. We were flailing away at each other when the bell rang. Believe me, this was one of the speediest rounds I ever fought, and I felt all right after I got to my feet. Confidence again helped me.

He tired in the last round and I finished strong. I think that I had a good lead and was entitled to the decision. It was a decision affair, although the majority of the newspapers said that Wolgast had a lead over me. However, I did not kick, for I knew that my reputation had been made then.

The next chapter of the life of the lightweight champion will appear in Saturday's Call.

HERE'S A CHANCE FOR LA GRAVE OR ROGERS

Winner of Tomorrow Night's Bout May Get On With Petroskey

There is a chance for either Antonio La Grave or Al Rogers to get in on a 20 round bout with Sallor Ed Petroskey in the near future, so it is up to these tearing middle weights to give the fans the best they have in them when they come together in the main event of the four round show tomorrow evening.

Petroskey decisively defeated Leo Benz up in Butte last evening, and his manager, Louis Perente, with that the sailor will take on either La Grave or Rogers provided that one of them shows class enough. Such a match would provide a nice dish for the fans, as all three men stand well locally.

The betting is at even money for tomorrow evening's mixup, although nobody will be surprised if La Grave steps into the ring the favorite. He has a great following over in Butte, and every time he starts the fight from over south back him to the limit, for he has been a good meal ticket for them.

Rogers is one of the toughest middle weights who ever broke into the local four round game. He fought La Grave off his feet on two previous occasions, and there are many who believe that he will slip over a knock-out on his old rival this time. Anyhow, Rogers is sure to make things hum and La Grave is sure to come back at him.

The real live bout of the evening will be furnished by Eddie Miller vs. Owen Hooker, claimants to the bantam weight championship of the Pacific coast. These lads are speed marvels, and there is nothing about the game that they do not know. Hooker is the better hitter, but Miller has more boxing class, so it looks like a toss-up between them, although Miller will rule the favorite.

Young Joe Gans, fresh from New Orleans, will try to show the fans a few things about the game when he goes against Bubbles Robinson, the well known colored scrapper from Los Angeles. Gans comes highly touted as a good boxer and a hard hitter.

Fred Wharton, the latest knockout sensation of the short distance game, will try to put Leo Crevier away. Crevier is a shifty feather weight, who has shown much boxing class. If Wharton beats him, he will be in line for a main event shortly.

The other bouts are as follows: Charles Givens vs. Walter Scott, lightweights; Ralph Graunau vs. Eddie White, feather weights; Herb Brodie vs. Frankie Jones, lightweights; Jack Morris vs. Frank Johnson, heavy weights.

Chappell Is Leader In the Association

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Long distance hitting was a feature of batting in the American association during the 1913 season, according to the official averages issued by President H. C. Brown here today. Premier honors among the sluggers went to Riggett of St. Paul, who made a total base count of 330, leading the league in home runs with an even dozen and making 23 triples, also a year's record.

Chappell of Milwaukee (later with the Chicago Cubs) was the virtual leader of the hitters, with an average of 349 for 85 games.

Looks as though there must be an agreement between the soccer teams of the California football association to play the games each Sunday. For the last three Sundays tied games have been the rule, two each Sunday being the record to date.

Professor Doolittle of the University of Pennsylvania has announced that the world's tallest man, 10,000,000 to live. It is pleasing to note that Uncle Sam will be able to "do much" before the expiration of that time. He will be able to win a few more world's championships, play a few more polo games, play a few more world's championship baseball games for the America cup, and he will even have time to try and regain the lost motor boat honors.

ATHLETIC CHATTER

Fresno Y. M. C. A. has applied for membership in the local branch of the Pacific association. C. H. Toose, formerly of the Oakland Y. M. C. A., is athletic director of the Fresno organization and believes in having the "Y" affiliated with the P. A. A.

Howard Strickler, physical director of the local Y. M. C. A., will deliver a lecture tomorrow night at the "Y" auditorium on "Athletics and the Heart." Dr. Robert Leggett, one of the "Y" athletes himself, will demonstrate the heart action and circulation.

Entries for the Pacific association basketball championship will close January 15, and the first games will be played January 20. The tournament is being conducted under the auspices of the northern federation of the Y. M. C. A.

Chairman Strickler of the P. A. A. basketball committee announced the heads of the district subgroups and stockholders of the Pacific association and San Mateo, Howard M. Strickler and R. E. Wilson; Santa Cruz, Watsonville and Monterey, W. W. Cook and Santa Clara, F. A. Saxton; Contra Costa and Alameda, Cecil Martin and W. A. Seawright; San Joaquin, Fresno and Stockton, Lodi, C. C. Cunningham; Sacramento and Yolo, R. R. Forbes; Paluma, Lakeport and Santa Rosa, M. Sandvig and L. J. Shuman; and Siskiyou, Medford, E. H. Toose. The district heads have been empowered to choose their own assistants.

W. Cairns Harper of Australia has dreams of seeing a world's lacrosse championship series pulled off in this city. They say Harper has a barrel of money and is willing to bring an Australian team over here. If he is willing to take a chance of coming out on the wrong side of the ledger, it is a fact that he will be able to see his team play. The Canadian game is one of the best in the world for speed, excitement and here up to date work. It was played by two teams three years ago by a small league, but has died a natural death.

Manager H. E. Steady of the Smiler's basketball team has arranged a lengthy series of games for his men. December 20 the boys play at Willow Grove, with the University of California, St. Mary's college, Hitchcock Military academy and Petaluma.

The day is coming when amateurs and pros are going to measure strides on the cinder path. The writing is on the wall just as plain as the type that prints all for paper. Agitations are starting everywhere, and notwithstanding the present objection of the A. A. U. to the proposed radical change it is going to come about sooner or later. Eastern Canada now has a proposition to allow the amateurs and pros to mingle, and the idea is being backed by the Quebec branch of the Canadian A. A. U. Just as soon as the thing is launched it will spread like wildfire.

POOR HERRMANN ENGLAND LOSES FOR MORE TROUBLES

PITTSBURG, Dec. 13.—That the Fletschmanns, who control the majority stock of the Cincinnati baseball club, and who in the past have dictated the policy of the team's management, are disgusted with the odium that has fallen on the club of late was indicated by the communication received here today from Horace Fogel, the former National league manager.

In his letter, sent to a prominent baseball man here, Fogel declares that the Fletschmanns are anxious to dispose of their holdings in the Cincinnati club. In part Fogel says: "As a result of Herrmann's action as 'Tinker' have been commissioned by Max Fletschmann to try to persuade 'Left' Livingston to purchase their controlling interest in the team."

"In the event of Livingston purchasing the Fletschmanns having something to say in certain baseball circles."

Livingston, to whom Fogel refers as the probable purchaser of the Cincinnati team, is the head of the Shnyder Preserving company in Cincinnati. He is also understood to have been Fogel's financial backer while the latter was at the head of the Philadelphia Nationals.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Captain R. G. Ritson, who was leader of the English polo team last year in its attempt to lift the international cup, will probably be an absentee in next year's match, for which England has recently challenged.

Captain Ritson's place on the challenge team will be hard to fill, as he showed himself to be a most capable all around horseman and a hitter in the games last summer. A serious indisposition will prevent him from taking part in any international matches, according to reports received here by followers of the game.

In order to get an early start at conditioning of both ponies and men, Lord Ashby St. Ledgers will go to Madrid early next month, accompanied by Major F. W. Barrett, Fifteenth Hussars; Captain H. A. Tomkinson, First Royal Dragoon, and W. Baiding.

Spain has been chosen by the financial sponsor for the team as the base of operations at preliminary practice in order to avoid stoppages occasioned by bad weather, such as those experienced last spring by the English team at Eton.
