LOVE CAUSES BOSTICK TO COLLAPSE

Train Bandit Breaks Down in Jail When Questioned About Seewheart

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26.—John Bostick, the confessed train bandit and murderer, broke down twice in jail today.

The first was when he was questioned about his sweetheart.

The second was when Mrs. Roberts Chase Harding, one of the victims of the Sunset express, clasped his hand for a moment and told him she was sorry that he was a bandit. She offered him her forgiveness. He clasped her hand and burst into tears.

Bostick today declared that on no consideration whatever would he reveal the name of his sweetheart. By declaring that he would not add another sentence to his confession he is questioned about her again, he forced an agreement with the sheriff which is, in effect:

I, John Bostick, confessed train robber and slayer of H. E. Montague, agree to tell Sheriff Hammel everything if I am not asked about the young woman. If I am asked I shall say nothing more.

Sheriff Hammel's answer was, "I agree and will not ask about her nor seek her further."

The arraignment of Bostick on the charge of robbing the Sunset express and murdering H. E. Montague was to have taken place at 10 o'clock before Justice Young, but because of the unusual interest in the affair it was postponed to a date not announced.

Sheriff Hammel was compelled to resort to a ruse today to clear the streets of five thousands of spectators congregating to see Bostick.

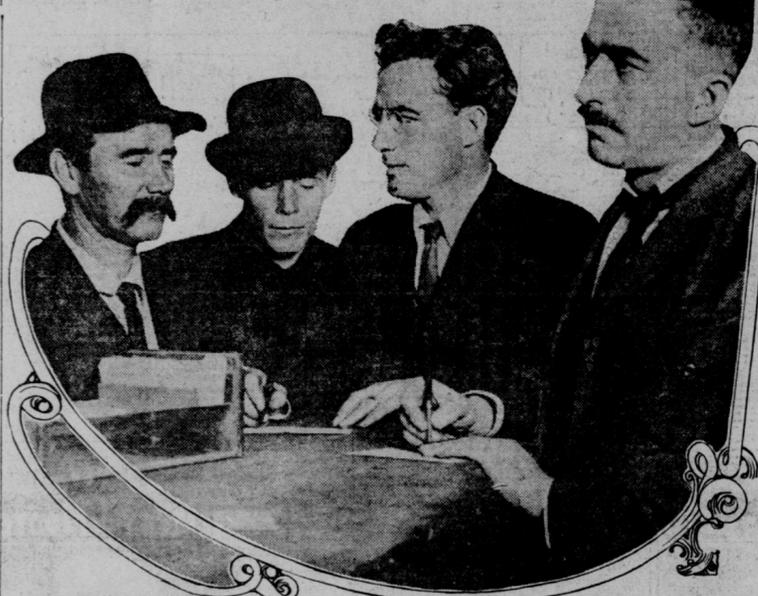

A deputy sheriff of Bostick's physique was dressed in the bandit's clothes and he, apparently under heavy guard entered a waiting automobile. The machine, with thousands following it, drove around until the last spectator had given up the chase.

Rev. John Jackson Accuses Bogart and Fitzgerald of Making Misleading Statements; Men Complain of Food

A fresh clash over the work of aiding the unemployed, with the co-operation of the city, developed today at a meeting of the special relief committee appointed on Wednesday by Mayor Rolph. Harry R. Bogart, manager of the co-operative employment bureau, in the old Sailors' home, charged that he had not been given proper aid in registering those asking assistance.

At the same time the Rev. John M. Jansson of the Hamilton Methodist Episcopal church, representative of the church federation, came out with a statement accusing Bogart and Edward Fitzgerald, the co-operative superintendent, of making misleading statements in regard to keeping the churches closed against unemployed who wished to sleep in them.

With Supervisor Hayden, the Rev. Mr. Jackson went to the Sailors' Home this afternoon to adjust all difficulties. Jackson said: "Neither myself nor the Rev. Albert Ehrigott of the Y. M. C. A. were assigned to do the housing problem.

That was left entirely to Mr. Bogart. Even so, we had accommodations for 100 more than we needed, and 400 men can now be taken care of in the churches. More are in sight."

BOGART FEARS RIOTING

At today's meeting, Bogart declared there was constant danger of a riot at the Sailors' home, and said he was compelled to phone for police aid four times when some of the refugees harangued their fellows.

"We are now without police protection," he said.

To his charge that Rev. Albert Ehrigott had not sent clerks to help in registering the men, the pastor replied that he did not know he had been detailed to that duty.

COMPLAIN OF BAD FOOD

A committee of 17 from the unemployed told the committee the food was bad. They brought sample trays.

Bogart denied the charges, but admitted a lack of trays, due to low finances.

The supervisors ordered 100 new trays and gave permission for the unemployed to have representatives supervise the cooking.

Supervisors Hayden and Hilmer were appointed to provide 1,000 blankets. Superintendent of Public Buildings Reardon said the men could sleep in the unoccupied new morgue building, certain stores and the Mayor's building on the civic center.

Applications have come so fast that officials have been unable to keep pace with them, but a careful count and record of the time when they were received will be made today. Banks in New York, Chicago and Boston have not applied in great numbers for membership, but Secretary McAdoo is of the opinion today that their applications soon will be forthcoming.

Mr. McAdoo and Secretary of Agriculture Houston, the organization committee provided for in the law, got down to hard work today on plans for the division of the country into reserve districts and the location of reserve banks. An official announcement of the plan is expected tonight or tomorrow.

"What's the matter, John?" inquired the mayor. "Not hungry?"

"Hungry? I should say I am," sighed the treasurer. "I could eat a municipal bond."

"Come along then," urged Rolph. "There's broiled squab."

"Broiled squab," growled McDougald. "Down in that auto there is $100,000 in gold I just got from the Bank of California, and I can't leave it in the street, even if I am starving. Goodby."
