

PERSONAL POINTS.

If you have friends visiting you, or if you are going away on a visit, please drop us a note to that effect.

Colonel William Ort of Concord was in the city yesterday.

Miss Stella Logan spent yesterday in Ripley visiting friends.

Miss Rains is on a visit to the family of Joseph Faber at Bellevue.

Miss Mayme F. Bowden of Savannah, Ga., is the guest of the Misses O'Meara.

Miss Mamie Wheeler returned home last night after a visit to friends at Newport.

George S. Russell of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, is here to attend the funeral of his aunt, Mrs. Mary Ann Russell.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Haldy of Cincinnati came up yesterday to attend the funeral of their granddaughter, Milda Schaeffer.

Miss May Martin, who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Martha Martin, of this city and relatives in this section for the past three months, left this morning for her home in Kansas City.

THE GIRL I USED TO KNOW.

When in a reverie serene I stray with willing feet To the time when I was young and green And mighty in conceit. There comes to me a memory Of the days of long ago. And the pretty, sun browned face I see Of that girl I used to know.

We "went together" moons and moons; Together we rode and strolled; Together we spent our afternoons And romanced in moonlight cold Till all the town had set it down On the cards as a certain "go" Between myself and that maiden brown— That girl I used to know.

There are surprises in the years, That girl and I apart, Forgot each other without tears Or damage of the heart. I met her once—the other day— With another girl in tow. "My daughter, sir," I heard her say— That girl I used to know!

And so I wonder, as I see Those pleasant yesterdays, If yet it may not come to be, In Time's uncertain ways, That I may learn to fall in love As in the long ago, But this time with the daughter of That girl I used to know! —Eugene Field.

J. P. NASH, after a few days illness, is out again.

THERE were 92 deaths in Cincinnati last week, against 108 for the same week last year.

MISS IDA BUFFINGTON, high up in Covington society, is soon to marry a Mr. Sironoin.

THE next Y. P. S. C. E. Convention will be held at Carlisle November 2d, 3d and 4th.

THOMAS JUDD died Saturday at Ashland, from injuries received about six weeks ago.

JUST as if they hadn't enough "wind" already, Ashland is soon to have another brass band.

EDITOR JETT of Augusta has changed the publication day of The Vindicator from Wednesday to Friday.

AMERICAN Life Insurance Companies are said to have paid $1,030,000,000 in death claims during the year 1891.

'SQUIRE W. V. WELDON, late of the newspaper guild in Augusta, contemplates breaking into the tobacco business.

EX GOVERNOR FORAKER when asked what the effect of Wayne MacVeagh's bolt would be answered: "It means the loss of one vote."

JOSEPH HAMPTON, an aged citizen of Franklin, shot himself twice in the breast in an attempt to commit suicide. It is thought it will be a success.

CHARLEY POOK of Dayton, who was a prominent church leader, is somewhere in Canada with several thousand dollars that don't belong to him.

JAMES SMITH has THE LEDGER's thanks for a copious supply of Chicago's copious papers with copious accounts of the Columbus celebration.

AT Paducah John Vogt, aged 14, hit James Frederick Ross, aged 18, on the side of the neck with his fist. He died almost instantly. They quarreled over a game of baseball.

MYRTLE DEATLEY, aged nine years, daughter of Harrison DeAtley of the Sixth Ward, died Saturday morning of diphtheria. The funeral services took place this morning. Interment at Tollesboro.

AT the late election in Newport Mr. Ahlering, Republican, was chosen Mayor by a decided majority; and The Journal, a Democratic newspaper, intimates that he will not get the office without a wrangle. It is now held by a Democrat who was not elected to it.

PUBLIC DAILY LEDGER

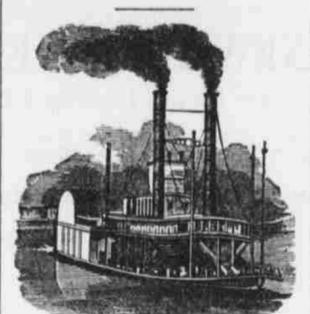

FIRST YEAR. MAYSVILLE, KY., MONDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1892. ONE CENT.

STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

WHAT IS GOING ON ALONG THE BEAUTIFUL OHIO RIVER.

Driftwood Gathered on Shore and Stream by The Ledger's Weather-Beaten Old Tar and Piled Up Ready For Use.

There is only two feet of water in the channel at Portsmouth—the lowest for eight years.

The M. P. Wells, now trying to run between this city and Cincinnati, spends most of her time on the bar at Eight Mile.

The Cincinnati papers announce that there will be no more boats for Upper Ohio points until further notice—that is, until there is a rise in the river or until it goes dry and a sled line is started along its bed.

REMEMBER, THE LEDGER prints "Help Wanted," "Lost," "Found," and similar notices not of a business character, free of charge. The only thing we require is that the copy be sent in before 9 o'clock on day of publication.

NEAR Scott's Ridge Station, Marion county, Dan Horton emptied a load of shot into his wife and the babe she had in her arms. The child will recover but it is thought the wife will die. The authorities promised to arrest Horton a day or so ago.

NEAR Grayson Sylvester Adams was shot and instantly killed, and his nephew, Oscar Adams, seriously wounded by J. D. Bennett. They had quarreled over a right of way, and Adams and his nephew were beating Bennett with clubs when he shot them.

KENTUCKY now holds the fastest trotting record, Nancy Hanks 2:04; the fastest four-year-old stallion record, Mouquette, 2:10; the fastest two-year-old race record, Silicon, 2:15; the fastest race record, any age, Martha Wilkes, 2:08; the fastest three-year-old record for a filly, Kentucky Union, 2:13.

M. E. BOWDITCH, a merchant of Bowling Green, was arrested at Louisville for having set fire to his store. At the same time Mrs. Bowditch and a colored servant were arrested at the former place on the same charge. There was a big insurance on the stock and the fire occurred in a way that needs some explanation.

W. H. CHATFIELD of Cincinnati wanted to make a living without working for it, so he went into stock gambling. Losing all he had, he induced his young wife to invest every dollar of her property, and to-day they are both broke. So much for bucking against the religious tiger. If Chatfield had played honest faro, he would have been called a gambler; but as he tackled the "brace game" known as the Stock Exchange, he is only a "speculator."

GROVER CLEVELAND, when President, appointed a New York negro, as black as the ace of spades, over Colonel Dick Wintersmith of Louisville, a white Kentucky Democrat, for Register of Deeds at Washington. The position was a $30,000 one. How can those white men, who propose to scratch Judge Holt because he voted for a negro over a white man for a little $2,000 a year office, swallow Grover Cleveland who gave a negro a $30,000 job over a white Kentucky Democrat?

THE French were the originators of the modern exposition, and their first effort in this direction was in 1798, the idea having been suggested by Bonaparte just before he left on his ill-starred expedition to Egypt. When he returned and became First Consul he encouraged the idea, and between 1801 and 1815 half a dozen expositions were held in Paris. They were so popular and so profitable that the French continued them, and the last great fair held in Paris was the most successful ever known.

A CINCINNATI saloon-keeper, whose place of business was entered by burglars, has published a funny advertisement in one of the papers. "I invite those who were impolite enough to call on me during my absence and helped themselves to my wine, lunch, beer and cigars, to come again when I am at home. If they will return the empty bottles I will pay them three cents apiece for them. Should they desire to bring any of their friends I will see to it that a musical entertainment is arranged for their benefit."

MRS. MARY ANN RUSSELL.

The End of a Noble Christian Life—Funeral at 10 o'clock This Morning.

Mrs. Mary Ann Russell, wife of Christopher Russell and mother of M. C. Russell, died at her home on East Third street at 6 o'clock Saturday evening after an illness of several weeks.

She was a most estimable lady and possessed a noble Christian character. For long years she had been a devoted member of the Christian Church. A wide circle of friends and acquaintances, who had the highest regard and esteem for her, will be grieved to learn of her death.

The maiden name of the deceased was Miss Mary Ann Maule. She was a native of Pennsylvania, having been born in that state on June 14th, 1814. In November, 1839, she was united in marriage to Christopher Russell in Highland county, O. Her husband survives her and is among our most respected citizens. Since their marriage they have always been residents of Maysville. Of seven children born to this union but M. C. Russell of this city is left.

The funeral will occur at 10 o'clock this morning from her late residence, services by Rev. C. S. Lucas, Pastor of the Christian Church.

MR. AND MRS. SIDNEY DREW as stars will be at Washington Opera-house one night only—Wednesday, October 26th.

ALBERT C. CORRINGTON of Millersburg parted with a female friend and his gold watch at the same time in Cincinnati a few evenings since.

CIRCUIT COURT was adjourned until the 10th of November—two days after the election. It is thought that most of the lawyers and litigants will have reduced their heads to the proper size by that time.

At Wellsburg, Bracken county, Saturday morning Stanley Stairs, a young man, accidentally discharged a shotgun, the contents entering the body of Miss Mertie Brevard, a young lady who lived in the family. She was alive at last accounts, but her condition is critical.

A SPECIAL to The Commercial Gazette from Augusta says: J. P. McCartney, Republican candidate for Congress in the Ninth District, addressed a very large audience at Brookville yesterday. The crowd was enthusiastic over his eloquent thrusts at Democracy, and the prospects are quite flattering for his election.

The prices to see Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew are: Gallery 25, Balcony 35, Dress Circle 50, Parquet 75 cents. At Opera-house October 26th.

DR. M. S. SALE of Lexington, owner of Temple Bar, the sensational trotting stallion and who was ruled off, together with his horse at Cleveland last year, is red-hot over the way he has been treated by the Board of Review. He says he is debating in his mind whether or not to have all the members of the board arrested for defamation of character and prosecute them to the full extent of the law.

A WORTHY BRACKEN COUNTYMAN.

Martin Finn of Brookville an Honor to Irish-Americans.

Martin Finn is a native of Ireland, a fact of which he is not at all ashamed, and no one has cause to be ashamed of it for him. He came to this country in 1858, going directly to Brookville, and there he has remained ever since, not only "growing up with the country," but raising a worthy family as well, thus helping the country to grow up with him.

Immediately on his arrival he began work on the turnpike, and it was not long until he became a contractor for a portion of the road that leads to Milford. On the completion of his contract the company owed him some $600, without the ability to pay it, and it is one of the incidents of his life that although he has a long-standing judgment against the concern, on which considerable has been paid, the balance of the original debt and interests exceeds $1,000.

Several years ago Mr. Finn engaged in the hotel business, and his house has long been the resort for all who travel through that section. The Finn Hotel is one of the institutions of Bracken county, and for genuine hospitality and plenty of good eating it is second to no other house in this part of Kentucky.

Mr. Finn has acquired a handsome competency, and it is THE LEDGER's wish that he may be spared to enjoy it for many years.

A Cholera Case.

A reported outbreak of cholera at Helmetts, N. J., created much excitement in that vicinity. Investigation showed that the disease was not cholera but a violent dysentery, which is almost as severe and dangerous as cholera. Mr. Walter Willard, a prominent merchant of Jamesburg, two miles from Helmetts, says Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has given great satisfaction in the most severe cases of dysentery. It is certainly one of the best things made. For sale by Power & Reynolds, Druggists.

THE CAMPAIGN IN GREENUP.

A Good Meeting and Deep Interest at the Courthouse Saturday Night.

There was a large gathering at the Courthouse in Greenup Saturday night, notwithstanding the inclement weather. Speeches were made by Hon. B. F. Bennett, Greenup's Representative in the Legislature, and Thomas A. Davis of this city.

Judge Bennett confined himself principally to the work of the Democratic Legislature, and said that the impression that that body had not done anything was entirely erroneous. He asked his hearers to be patient until the Sheriff came around, and they would find that the Legislature had raised their taxes for one thing. It had also employed a lot of good little boys as "messengers" at $3 a day, when the Constitution only permitted the employment of four pages. But the pages were lonesome, and it was thought best to have four "messengers," so they could form four sets for boxing matches to entertain the loungers about the halls.

The Judge's satire was very amusing, and throughout his speech was strong and effective.

The Republicans are alive to the importance of the work before them, and express great confidence in the success of the ticket in that county. If every county was as well equipped as Greenup, Harrison would win in Kentucky in a canter.

THE official figures of the recent sales of trotters at Lexington show they were the most successful ever held there. The Abdallah Park sale realized $80,695 for 128, an average of $630 20. The regular sale realized $185,095 for 234 head, an average of $799 55. The two sales amounted to $265,790 for 362, a grand average of $734.

THE Directors of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association say there is no truth whatever in the rumor that the future meetings of the Association will be held in Louisville. The meetings will continue to be held in Lexington, but it is more than likely a new regulation mile track will be built that will be as fast as any in the United States.

COLONEL WILLIAM ORT, formerly of this city, has purchased the Hisey House at Concord. It has been thoroughly overhauled and refitted, and will be known hereafter as the Sherman House. Those who favor Colonel Ort with their patronage may rely upon the best treatment and a generous supply of the best that the market affords. See advertisement elsewhere in THE LEDGER.

SENATOR BLACKBURN.

His Speech Saturday Night a Fair Sample of Modern Democracy.

Senator J. C. S. Blackburn addressed the citizens of Maysville at the Courthouse on Saturday night. Of course it was a political speech and a Democratic one at that. A large crowd greeted him composed of about as many Republicans as Democrats.

The speaker's references to Cleveland were meager and Congressman Paynter was altogether forgotten. The Tariff was handled sparingly. The Force Bill, already so changed and perverted by a Democratic Congress for campaign purposes that it bears but little resemblance to the original, was still further stretched and exaggerated by the imaginative Senator.

The Democrats are pursuing different tactics toward the colored man in this campaign. Heretofore their politeness toward him at election times has been remarkable. This time it is shown that they are satisfied that the colored man cannot be induced to vote with them; therefore the cry is "damn the nigger anyway." When Senator Blackburn was in Maysville last he was a candidate for re-election. Then he made it a point to have himself introduced to the prominent colored citizens. He could be seen all over the streets engaged in conversation with them. Then he was Joe Blackburn. This time he was a Democrat.

In his speech he lauded the prosperity of the country to the skies, but did not say that all of it was due to Republican measures and Republican legislation.

His whole speech was nothing short of a gigantic misrepresentation of every subject he touched.

W. G. Dearing preceded the Senator.

Death from Diphtheria.

Milda, the eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Schaeffer, died at 8 o'clock Saturday night at the home of her parents on corner of Lexington and Second streets of diphtheria.

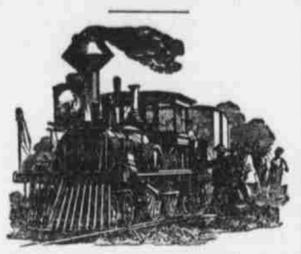

She had been ill but a few days, symptoms of the disease first showing themselves on Tuesday last.

The funeral occurred at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Haldy of Cincinnati, grandparents of the little one, did not arrive until 5 o'clock having missed the morning train. The father and mother have the sympathy of all in their sorrow.

AMONG THE RAILROADS.

THE STEEL HIGHWAYS THAT LEAD TO AND FROM MAYSVILLE.

Items of the Rail That Are Staked Up and Piled Into The Ledger's Columns By a Thoroughly Competent Engineer.

The pay car of the C. and O. was here Saturday, and gold pieces are as thick about town as hops in a malthouse.

At Greenwood Charles Haynes and Lucien Patterson concluded to shoot out an old grudge, when John Jewett, a colored man, interposed as peacemaker. As usual, he got the most of it, being shot and killed instantly. A man named Weatherford was wounded, Haynes was killed, and it appears that Patterson escaped unharmed. All in all, it was a regular picnic of shooting.

Do You Know?

That a large percentage of deaths in this country are caused by consumption and lung trouble? A little cold neglected in the beginning often terminates in consumption. Every time you cough you increase the trouble, and an inflammation was soon started, which is difficult to control. There is one remedy that cures quickly every kind of a cough. That is Dr. Hale's Household Cough Cure. It is the best. Are you not entitled to the best? For sale at 25c and 50c a bottle at Power & Reynolds's Drugstore.

Armor Plate and Projectiles.

Recent tests of armor plates have brought out highly interesting and important facts. First the armor itself surpassed highest expectations. Second, the great power of resistance it developed has made possible the lightening of the armor designed for three of our new war vessels without diminishing their protection in the least. Third, and best of all, it was discovered that the projectiles of home manufacture were superior to those of foreign make, notwithstanding that the making of armor piercing projectiles is of very recent date in this country. It seems that with only a few years experience we now surpass in almost every branch of naval and ordnance construction the great Nations of Europe, with their centuries of experience. This gratifying result has been brought about solely by the fixed Republican policy of insisting that every part of our new warships should be of American manufacture.

Cholera.

When properly treated as soon as the first symptoms appear, cholera can nearly always be cured. The patient should go immediately to bed and remain as quiet as possible. Send for a physician, but while awaiting his arrival take Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in double doses after each operation of the bowels more than natural. If there is severe pain or cramps, take it in double doses every fifteen minutes until relieved. This Remedy has been used with great success in seven epidemics of dysentery that were almost as severe and dangerous as cholera, and if used as directed a cure is almost certain. Every family should have a 50 cent bottle at hand ready for instant use. After the disease is under control castor oil must be taken to cleanse the system. No other physic or substitute will do in place of castor oil. For sale by Power & Reynolds, Druggists.

Spread of English Language.

In 100 years the United States will probably have as many inhabitants as China, and it is not likely that Canada, Australia, New Zealand and the Cape will fall much short of half their total, especially if England be reckoned with them, says Macmillan's Magazine.

Some have indeed been found to maintain that English will not be the language of the whole even of the United States, while others point to the vigorous vitality of the French spoken by the French Canadians and the resurgence of Welsh in the British Islands as hints that languages die hard. But it is impossible to suppose that such considerations can affect the main question.

There are already signs that English is becoming the literary language of Europe. Professor Vamberry, a Hungarian, published his autobiography first in an English dress; the Dutch author of "The Sin of Joost Aveling" wrote his novel, "An Old Maid," in English, and the author of "The Crustacea of Norway," himself presumably a Norwegian, frankly owns in his advertisement that to obtain the largest possible circulation for his book, it will be written in the English language.

MADMAN'S DEED.

Chas. Emmons Goes Insane and Breaks Into a Church.

Bullets, From the Pulpit Kept the Congregation out of Doors.

The Madman Provided Himself With Food, Sword, Red Fire and Revolvers and Barricaded the Church—Overcome With Sleep, Is Finally Captured.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 24.—Gospel truth was presented at the point of the sword, also red fire and revolvers, at the Olivet Congregational church, Sunday morning. Charles M. Emmons, a gunmaker, employed in the United States armory, whose mind has long been unbalanced on religion, entered the church at midnight, and barricading the pulpit, kept the police force at bay until Sunday afternoon.

Having provided himself with an abundance of ammunition and provisions for a week's stay Emmons might have been holding the fort yet, had he not fallen asleep from sheer exhaustion. Several bullet holes in the wall and ceiling remain to recall a most remarkable Sunday.

Emmons bought a large supply of rockets, red fire, Roman candles, pin-wheels and powder Saturday afternoon, and, taking them home, worked until midnight in the preparation of apparatus to discharge the fireworks, arousing the neighborhood by his pounding. He then gathered them all in a sack, with several oil and alcohol lamps, and taking a crowbar with which to effect an entrance, started for the church, which he has attended fifteen years. Arriving at the church, Emmons found a side door carelessly unlocked, and, making his way to the pulpit, lighted his lamps, locked the doors at either side of the platform, loaded his arsenal and began his long meditation by eating supper.

To try one of his pistols he fired a shot, startling the neighbors. Then the madman arrayed himself in the dust clothes, covering his face and hanging the big red bookmark of the pulpit Bible from a string around his belt. He also brought up flowers from the vestry and set them on the stand.

When Sexton Dickinson arrived to start his morning fires he was confronted by the ensouled apparition in the pulpit. Brandishing a revolver Emmons bade the sexton listen to the truth without interruption. Recognizing Emmons's voice, Dickinson hastily retreated, but not before the lunatic had fired three shots into the air.

The officers of the church and the police were speedily summoned, but for more than three hours Emmons stood his ground with crazy cunning. Firing three times through a side door when it was rattled, wheeling each time instantly to cover the rear whence the officers were hoping to pounce upon him. During this time the mad man read from the Psalms and Revelations, taking off his shoes after reading the verse which says: "Take off thy shoes, for the spot where thou standest is holy ground."

The bass singer of the choir, as a last resort, approached within hailing distance and inquired if there was to be no music at the service, being solemnly answered: "The daughters of music shall be laid low."

Despairing of ousting the lunatic, the plans of drowning him out with a hose or filling the church with smoke were considered among a dozen others. Just as the hose was about to be tried it was noticed that Emmons had dropped into a chair and was asleep. In a moment more he was nodding, and four officers had pounced upon him. Emmons struggled fiercely, but the revolver was caught in his robe, and handcuffs were handy. Then he gave up the struggle and was made a prisoner.

Upon search it was found that Emmons had converted the pulpit into a veritable fortress. He had poured a pound of powder into the marble urn to make, as he afterward said, the smoke of incense. He had enough canned meat, crackers and water to supply him for several days. In fact he has since admitted that he thought it might be a week before he got an audience, adding that he would have remained there till he starved.

Over a Chit.

ROBBINS, Tenn., Oct. 24.—Friday night, while driving to an entertainment here, Wm. Keene was instantly killed by his horse becoming unmanageable and plunging over a cliff to the Cincinnati Southern tracks, forty feet below, crushing him to a shapeless and killing his horse. A friend who was with him was, it is believed, fatally hurt.

Fatal Affray.

HUNTINGTON, Pa., Oct. 24.—Two Italians working in a stone quarry here made an attack on two Russian quarrymen named Michael Stone and Lawrence Kuitka. Sunday, near Union Furnace. Kuitka was shot through the heart and instantly killed, and Stone was stabbed and is in a dangerous condition. The murderers escaped.

One Lawyer Curves Another.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 24.—W. B. Schwartz and Albert Payne, prominent attorneys, fought in the streets over a court case in which they were interested. Payne knocked Schwartz down. The latter arose and drove a huge knife into Payne, cutting him in a horrible manner about the face and neck. Schwartz was arrested.

Van Loon Will Hang.

OTTAWA, O., Oct. 24.—The circuit court, refused to grant a new trial in the famous Van Loon murder case. Van Loon was brought here from the annex at the Ohio penitentiary, and had great hopes of securing another hearing. He killed William Vandemark at Columbus Grove.

Phillips Brooks' Successor.

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Rev. Dr. E. Winchester Donald, of the Church of the Ascension, New York, has decided to accept the rectorate of Trinity church as the successor of Phillips Brooks.
