A Word to Republicans.

The hope of the party lies in the expansion of a stalwart Republican press. The Republican who reads or otherwise helps to support a Democratic paper to the exclusion of one of his own party newspapers is untrue to the Republican cause.

THE New York Herald sounds a notable alarm and warns the victors against the repeal of the McKinley bill and the sudden overthrow of the Protective system.

It predicts a business panic and crash if the platform of the Chicago Convention is carried out. It advises against an extra session of Congress, because it fears the fanaticism, rashness and folly of the Democratic majority.

The Herald utters the opinions of the conservative business men of New York and New England, but the Free-traders of the South and West resist this view and the demand for an extra session and a Free-trade experiment increases in vehemence and volume every day.

The sagacious Northern leaders recognize their danger and understand that an extra session and the establishment of the Free-trade policy would produce business convulsion and chaos. The free importation of foreign goods would stop every mill in America, and they could not be run again except by a reduction of wages to the European level.

The change from the Tariff system, to which all business is now adjusted, to the Free-trade policy cannot be made without an upheaval in the industrial world. Capital and labor would both suffer and stagger under the blow. The Democratic politicians who are not blind fanatics and partisans see that such a catastrophe would provoke a popular cyclone of resistless and relentless fury. As the suffering and sacrifice would be unparalleled, so the popular revolt would be stupendous and overwhelming.

To avoid this danger, the moderate Democrats are advocating caution, delay and gradual change of the Tariff bill. They know that the party that destroys present property will be destroyed by an indignant people. And yet, they forget, in their selfish fear, that they told the people that Protection was "robbery, a fraud" and "unconstitutional," and that Free-trade would bring increased prosperity and comfort to labor. If the Tariff is an injustice to the people and a tax upon labor, it should be repealed. They promised repeal, they demanded repeal in their platform, their leaders and orators advocated repeal, their demagogues repeated the atrocious lies and slanders of the Anarchists against manufacturers and capitalists, but now they have secured power by these infamous methods, they want to dodge and skulk to retain their power. But the cowardice and double dealing are not accepted by the Southern and Western leaders.

They insist that the platform shall be obeyed and adopted. The Calhoun fanatics are determined that the victory they won at Chicago shall be established in permanent laws by Congress. And there is nothing in the character and career of CLEVELAND to justify the belief that he will stand firm against the South.

A BRITISH blue-book just issued contains information as to wages in Ireland, which ought to be of considerable interest to Irish-Americans, as well as to Americans in general. The blue-book in question deals more especially with the condition of agriculture. It informs the public that the wages paid the agricultural laborer in Ireland vary from one shilling and six pence—that is from thirty-six cents to sixty cents a day—in summer, without lodging or board, to twenty-four cents in winter, also without lodging or board. It is almost needless to say that, in winter, the laborers suffer untold privations. It is worth while to recall the fact that Ireland owes the poverty of her agricultural classes chiefly to the British policy which destroyed the Irish manufacturing industries and compelled the people to resort almost wholly to the soil for support, just as Great Britain has endeavored, but so far in vain, to destroy the manufacturing industries of America in order that British manufacturers might flourish at the expense of the American wage earner.

Wages in Ireland.

AMONG all the Democratic statesmen who insist that the Treasury is bankrupt there isn't one who would sell the draft for his Congressional salary at 1 per cent discount.

THE London Daily Telegraph announces the Cynon Tin Plate Works have resumed after a suspension of three months. There has been a general resumption in Swansea, Morriston and Llanelly districts. This is a very pointed object lesson which we fear is to be off repeated within the coming period of Democratic Free-trade supremacy. The first evil effects of this inevitable result will be felt by the workmen, and then the consumer will begin to realize that he is in the hands of one of the most exacting trusts in the world, which, upon the destruction of America competition, will proceed to advance prices far beyond the present figures.

What is true of the tin industry is true, practically, of all industries. As the fires are kindled in Europe for supplying the American market they will die out here.
