Bewitching Evolution. The fabled witch of olden time was sorrowy, cross and old; She wore a number seven boot, Most dreadful to behold.

Her nose bent down to meet her chin, Which had an upward turn, And in their sunken sockets deep Her eyeballs seem to burn.

Befriending none beside her cat, In darkness she abode; And, when she wished to take the air, A broomstick she bestrode.

The modern witch is beautiful, Mild-tempered, young and sweet; A pair of cunning Oxford-ties Encase her dainty feet.

Her nose is slightly retroussé, And a dimple dents her chin; Her eyes are limpid, magic pools, Where hearts keep falling in.

Surrounded by a loving throng, In splendor she abides; And on the lively boulevard A wheel she deftly rides.

THE A. P. A.

Some Expressions From a Most Conservative Standpoint.

Harper's Weekly.

Sound legislation, impartially and unflinchingly enforced, is the avowed desideratum of the A. P. A.

Its presence and power have been revealed in recent elections in New England and the Middle States, and will doubtless be felt in the approaching autumnal elections.

Whether it adopts the wisest methods to establish good, honest and thoroughly American Government, free from sectarian and priestly interference, is a question that must and will be decided by American citizens in the light of general principles illustrated by historic experience.

In some measure the A. P. A. and other like and unlike organizations, including Roman Catholic ones, are a revival on American soil of the religious-political societies which figure in, and too often disfigure, the pages of Irish history.

They are exotics—particular, not general,—seeking restricted, not National ends.

Admitting, what conflicting bodies claim, that the leaders are men of education and intelligence, loving liberty and country, and resolute in the maintenance of natural and chartered rights, so much greater is the need of co-operation in antagonism to threatening evils from every source and in promotion of the general welfare by all legitimate means.

In such co-operation objectionable elements are eliminated, mutual understanding established and humanity most powerfully uplifted to its highest possible ultimate.

AMERICAN INDUSTRIES.

THEY ARE ALL ENTITLED TO A FAIR PROTECTION.

What a Leading and Sensible Southern Democratic Paper Has to Say on the Subject.

New Orleans Picayune. An important bulletin, issued by the Census Bureau, is on the manufactures of the United States.

It is now possible to get some reliable information concerning the industries of the country, a matter of great importance in connection with the political turmoil over the question of Protection to American labor.

This bulletin presents statistics of sixty-seven industries, each of which turns out products valued at $90,000,000 and over yearly. These industries represent all manufactures of iron, steel, cotton, wool, leather, lumber, flour and grain products, the slaughtering and packing of meats, the refining of sugar, clothing, petroleum, printing and publishing, pottery and glassware, the brewing and distilling of liquors, the manufacture of tobacco and many others.

There are 287,501 establishments reported for the sixty-seven industries presented in this bulletin, or 80.89 per cent. of the total number of establishments in the United States.

These establishments show $5,349,139,842 of capital invested, or 80.45 per cent. of the total capital for all classes of industry. They also report 3,730,557 employees, receiving $1,811,186,882 wages, or 79.17 per cent. of the wages for all industries. The cost of materials used was $4,273,402,066, or 82.84 per cent. of the total materials for all industries. The value of product was $7,618,836,200, which was 81.81 per cent. of the total product of manufactures in 1890.

Here are more than seven thousand million dollars' worth of manufactures made each year in the United States by the labor 3,700,000 men. The question is, if there were no Protection in the way of a Tariff on imported goods, how much of the American manufactures would be able to compete with foreign imported products? It is well understood that in many branches of production our people cannot compete with foreign producers, and in such cases, absolute Free-trade would drive out of employment a certain number of the 3,700,000 work people who are now engaged in making those articles. Just how many people would be turned out of employment by the free introduction of foreign products cannot be stated; but it is plain that if the number should be large, any legislation which would bring about such a result would work a great wrong.

It is plain, then, that absolute Free-trade would close many mills and factories, and turn out into the world in idleness a large number of people who are now industrious and self-supporting. But it is claimed that the business of a Free-trade policy is to give the people cheaper supplies. There are between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 people engaged in agriculture and it is for their benefit that low prices of supplies are desired. But if the agriculturalists are to be benefited at the cost of the manufacturing laborers, would not that work a grave injustice? Why should 4,000,000 laborers in factories suffer in order that 5,000,000 in the fields should prosper?

But would the agriculturalists prosper by impoverishing the people who work in factories? The farmer wants to buy his supplies in the cheapest market, but he needs to sell his products in the highest. How can a high market for country produce be created by impoverishing a large body of the people who consume his products?

Then it follows that by no manner of means should a Free-trade policy be adopted, because it would precipitate into idleness a vast body of the community. But it also follows that should the other extreme of excessive Protection be attempted, the agricultural population would be made to pay unduly high for their necessities, and by just so much they would be damaged.

From this brief but succinct statement of the question it is seen that the best results will be attained by a fair Protection so well balanced as to prevent the country from being deluged with foreign cheap goods, and at the same time not to create great manufacturing monopolies and trusts. All wise statesmanship is coming to that, without regard to party, and the day is not far distant when the advocates of a fair and reasonable Protection to all American industries will have to get together and resist the destructive machinations of the fanatical extremists, both of Free-trade and high Protection. There is sense and reason in every proper effort to promote the prosperity of the country, and it must be accomplished by taking due care of all interests. Any one-sided policy, no matter whether in the interest of Free-trade or of trusts and monopolies, is equally wrong, equally damaging, and equally to be avoided.

WHO TO VOTE FOR.

CANDIDATES PRESENTED BY THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

William D. Cochran, Esq., Candidate for Clerk of the Mason County Court—Messrs. Stockton and Bullock.

Be sure to put the X mark right under the Eagle, inside of the border.

William D. Cochran, candidate for County Clerk, son of Hon. Robert A. Cochran and grandson of the late Andrew M. January, for many years the leading merchant and manufacturer of this section, was born in this city March 20th, 1868.

He has resided in Maysville all his life. From 1885 to 1887 he was a student at Center College, Danville, where he took high rank as a scholar.

He also attended the University at Wooster, O., one year.

And from there he went to Ann Arbor, Mich., graduating in the law class of that celebrated University in 1891.

Returning to Maysville Mr. Cochran was admitted to the Mason County Bar, and became one of the lawfirm of Cochran & Sons, which enjoys perhaps the largest practice of any firm in this section of the state.

He is thoroughly equipped for the office of County Clerk, and if elected the people will find in him a faithful and efficient officer.

J. M. STOCKTON.

J. M. Stockton, Republican candidate for Coroner, is a son of the late Postmaster Stockton, and a popular young gentleman. It may well be doubted if any young man in Maysville has more friends than "Roe" Stockton, and he has deserved them by his uniformly courteous treatment and his genial disposition. His election to the office of Coroner will be a just tribute to his popularity.

T. P. BULLOCK.

T. P. Bullock is the Republican candidate for Surveyor.

He comes of one of the oldest and most respected families in the county.

A worthy citizen, he solicits your support for an office which he is thoroughly qualified to fill.

The Citizens' Coal Company on Commerce street, Fifth Ward, have received a fresh supply of Pomeroy Coal, equal to the Peacock Coal, and will sell delivered, for cash, as cheap as any in the market. All orders promptly filled.

J. HAMILTON, Agent.

St. Perkins.

Springfield Republican. The initial production of "St. Perkins," the West Virginia comedy drama, will appear tonight at the Baldwin theater. The play has played to good business during the entire season and this fact alone would testify as to its being a first-class attraction as many good companies have been compelled to disband on account of poor business. At Washington Opera house Monday, November 5th.

Election Returns.

Republican officers of next Tuesday's election are respectfully requested to bring or send the results in the Mason county Precincts to THE LEDGER office as soon as the votes are counted.

Chairmen of the County Committees in the several counties of the Ninth Congressional District are requested to telegraph the results in their respective counties.

The office will be kept open all night if necessary, and there will be plenty of Republicanism on tap.

"Enthusiasm" can be brought in bottles, or it can be gotten across the street.
