A NEW RAILROAD.

One is Talked of Now From This City to Rowan.

The following is from The Morehead Advance, and explains itself:

Instructions were received on Thursday by Superintendent W. W. Reynolds of the new Hixson-Rodbourn Company from the company's headquarters at Rochester, N. Y., to stop all work on the railroad now being built by the company to Pine Springs. It is a narrow gauge and was to be used to haul logs to the mill. Superintendent Reynolds was ordered to commence to change the road from a narrow gauge to a standard gauge and to push the work to his utmost ability. He was informed that standard had been purchased and would commence to arrive in a few days. A new engine has been purchased and will be here in a month or six weeks.

An Advance reporter called at the office of the company at Rodbourn Friday to interview Superintendent Reynolds. He readily confirmed the rumor that he had received instructions from Rochester to change the road from a narrow gauge to a standard gauge, and that new standard rails and a mogul engine had been purchased, but further than this he would say nothing.

To the question as to whether the road was to be built farther than Pine Springs he couldn't tell. When informed that it was rumored that the road was to be extended from Pine Springs to Flemingsburg and thence to Maysville to tap the C. and O. Short Line river division, he showed much surprise, but when asked to confirm or deny the rumor, he said he couldn't tell, but such a thing might happen and then again it might not. He refused to say anything farther about the railroad, but informed us that as soon as the railroad was built into the timber land they would put the mill in operation, and that in the meantime it would be run a day or two at a time on logs near at hand. He said he did not believe it would be over a month before the mill was in operation. When asked how soon he would commence to change the track into a standard gauge he said that ninety men were then engaged on the work and that he was adding to the force as fast as he could get the men.

This was all that could be learned at Rodbourn, but later we found out that a party consisting of Vice-President T. J. Reynolds, Civil Engineer Charles M. Smith and Anderson Short left Rodbourn Saturday morning on horseback. They proceeded along the line of the road to Pine Springs and from there they went to Flemingsburg. They returned to Rodbourn late Sunday and early Monday. A man went to Rodbourn and President Reynolds.

Mr. Alexander Sanderson, Choudrant, La., says: "Having used Ayer's Pills at least twenty-five years, I would say that for all diseases of the bowels, stomach and liver, which can be remedied by pills, these are always effective. They keep the system in perfect order."

The Dover News says: "The musicale given by our Tuckahoe neighbors at Terhune hall, Saturday night, was very well attended, and fully repaid those who heard the program rendered. The male quartette was especially good, and Mrs. John Bacon and the other ladies—sweet voices all—sang in a very pleasing manner. We were glad to have them with us."

Lee Smith, an old citizen of Bourbon county, died Thursday last, aged 88 years. He left quite a fortune, consisting of 1,800 acres of land near Jacksonville, money, notes and other property. After his death his chosen executor found in his clothes $1,315 in currency, and $18 19 in Mexican silver. In an old stone out-house in a cheese box they found $2,650 in currency, $183 50 in gold, a Carolina $5 gold piece, amounting in all to $4,179 38, and a Spanish gold piece. Several thousand dollars in notes were also found.

F. B. Ranson & Co. advertise in this issue their stock of boots and shoes at cost, having determined to retire from the business. Mr. Ranson, the senior member of the firm, has been identified with the boot and shoe business of Maysville for twenty-seven years and in that time has sold more goods in this line at retail to the people of Mason, Lewis, Fleming, Nicholas, Robertson and Bracken counties than any man that ever did business in Maysville. This certainly has given him opportunity to know the wants of the people in the shoe line. Mr. Ranson states to us that in all this time selling good, honest footwear, that there never was a stock that can compare with the one they are now offering at cost, in quantity, quality, style and price. This is a guarantee that you will get the greatest bargains of a lifetime in this closing-out sale.

"Tennessee's Partner."

A beautiful Western Idyl by Scott Marble, an interesting story of life in Nevada, will be produced at the Opera-house on Monday evening, September 23d, with Cora Van Tassel, one of the greatest favorites that has ever appeared in Maysville. She is supported by an excellent company, a carload of beautiful scenery, the Rocky Mountain String Band and the Sand Hill Quartette. We append the following from The Boston Globe: "During the past week the dainty little comedienne, Cora Van Tassel, has accomplished more in the way of winning hosts of admirers on her first week in Boston than many of the older stars have accomplished in years. Her play, 'Tennessee's Partner,' is a charming Western story full of quaint characterizations drawn from the author's memory of the people he came in contact with while a resident of the mountains."

ROT! ROT! ROT! ROTTEN!

THAT'S WHAT THE SO-CALLED GAME WAS YESTERDAY.

The Cincinnati Reds Defeated a Cincinnati Team of Misfits by a Score of 17 to 8—A Few Notes.

Yesterday morning about 250 enthusiasts and rooters for the Maysville Baseball Club went to Cincinnati to see a game of ball—the kind the Maysville Club put up at home.

After arriving at Cincinnati it was found that there was no Maysville Club, only a few of the old players.

Manager Watson hustled around and got together a club of Cincinnati amateur talent.

A fellow by the name of Diehl tried to play second.

A fellow by the name of Johnson tried to play short.

A fellow by the name of Kehoe tried to catch.

And a fellow by the name of Burke tried to play right.

Of all the miserable failures these new recruits were up in G in every particular.

The long and short of it all is they didn't know how to play ball.

The so-called Maysville Club would have been a peach for "Tacks" Parrott, but Buck put Foreman in, and if the regular Maysville team—the one that went down to play the game—McGann, Wadsworth, Hall, Zimmer, Cox, Wellner, Sutherland, Van Winkle and Dick Smith—had been allowed to play they would have shut out the Reds.

But instead the regular club has to stand the guy of the people for what somebody else did.

Reiman was put in to pitch, and after the Reds had scored 17 runs he was taken out and Dick Smith put in at the eighth inning, after which the Reds never got to first.

Had the game been played as all thought it was in the morning—Hall on short, McGann on second, Wadsworth in center, Zimmer behind the bat and Smith in the box—the Reds would have never scored a single run.

At the start Cincinnati took the bat, and they knew how to handle it. Burke hit to short, who fumbled it, and Eddie lived. Hoy hit to Sutherland, who fumbled it, and the Dummy lived. McPhee hit to right center for three bags, scoring the two runners. Parrott hit to second, and that fodder-stalk fumbled it, and "Tacky" lived. Miller got out—second and first. Smith rolled one down to short, who waited for it, and after he got it fumbled it long enough to give the runner life. Latham rolled an easy one down past third, and made two on it. Gray lined out a good one for two bags. Foreman made an out. Burke singled, and Hoy went out.

After that inning there was no more life in the game than in a tombstone. Everybody shuddered at the idea of being shook down by such a club as that wearing Maysville uniforms.

In our half of the first Van Winkle walked. Diehl went out. Johnson doubled to right, and Van scored. Kehoe doubled to right and Johnson only took third. McGann doubled to center and both runners scored. Sutherland hit for one, McGann scoring. Burke, the right fielder, out, and so did Cox.

No more runs were made on either side until the sixth inning, when the Reds got four and the make outs two.

In the seventh the Reds got four more, while the jokes only rubbered one more.

In the second inning McGann made a beautiful catch of a low fly to deep center with his left hand, and in the fourth made one of the most sensational catches ever seen on the grounds. He run fully two squares and caught the ball, and everybody took off their hats to him. Mac is a ball player of the best kind—better, in fact, than anything the Reds have got.

The batteries were—Maysville, Reiman, Smith and Kehoe; Cincinnati, Foreman and Gray.

Here's the game by innings:

Table with 2 rows: Cincinnati and Maysville, with columns for innings 1-9 and total runs.

SHORT STOPS.

The crowd numbered about 2,000, and it was a sore one after the game.

Twenty hits in seven innings is a splendid showing for a League aspirant.

If Helleman was in the game yesterday the score would have been quite different.

THE LEDGER is indebted to the Cincinnati reporters for courtesies extended—nit! We would be pleased to see another trip to Cincinnati to see the same teams play again—in a horn!

That shortstop and that second baseman for the Maysvilles should have their dues and be placed in a nine of boys.

Yesterday's defeat was no disgrace to the Maysville team for the simple reason it was not the Maysville team that played.

The Reds want to play here October 4th. By all means let them come. There will be about steen people out to see them.

The crowd was composed of old-time "rooters" from way back, and all were for Maysville, but we didn't have our team, and of course went down in inglorious defeat.

Reiman wanted $25 yesterday morning to pitch the game. Had the management given him $25 to have stayed off the grounds we would have fared a great deal better.

Smith was put in in the eighth inning, and no man went to first. Had Richie been in at the start there's no one to doubt the fact that the Reds would have ever got a run.

Had the people of Maysville known that Reiman was going to pitch that game yesterday it is safe to say that the crowd from this city could have been counted on your fingers, and you'd had some left.

"Wonder what is the matter with Hall, Wadsworth, Wellner, Zimmer and Smith that they aren't in the game?" was the question fired at us yesterday by a number of Maysville people, and all we could say was "Wonder."

WEEKLY CROP REPORT.

UNCLE SAM'S WEATHER CLERK ON THE PROSPECTS.

Condition of Cereals and the Small Crops Throughout Kentucky Up to Monday Evening Last.

The weather conditions of the past week were not generally favorable to crops, though the advanced stage of all vegetation enables it to withstand them with less injury than if they had occurred earlier in the season. Scattered light showers fell at various places in the state during the week, occurring most frequently in the Eastern sections; but, generally speaking, the week has been very hot and dry. The temperature has been abnormally high for the season, and many correspondents report maximum temperatures of 95° and over upon several days of the week.

The chief injurious effects of the conditions described has been to pastures, which many correspondents state are badly burned by the hot dry weather, and that stock is suffering for food and in many localities the water supply is insufficient for its needs. The majority of the complaints of this character come from the Northern and Northeastern counties. Some localities in other sections than those named report similar conditions, but, as a rule, the drouth has most seriously affected pastures in the Eastern half of the state.

Tobacco is ripening rapidly, and upland tobacco is being cut and housed, the weather conditions favoring the work. In some localities much tobacco has been cut green on account of "firing," resulting from the excessive heat, and will, therefore, be of inferior quality. At the present outlook it would appear that all the tobacco yet remaining in the fields would be safely housed before the average date of the first killing frost in Kentucky, October 6th. Some complaint is made of tobacco worms, but the crop generally has not suffered from this cause, and the outlook for it as a whole is very favorable.

The dry weather has hastened the maturity of corn, and this fact may slightly affect its quality in some localities. The earlier fields are now being cut and the work will be in progress from now on to the end of the season. Very little will be exposed to damage from frost. There is but little deviation from the favorable reports regarding this crop which have been received during the past two months or more.

Fall plowing is progressing very rapidly and seeding will be commenced within the course of the next week or ten days.

Clover seed is reported to be abundant, and is being hulled.

Apples are very abundant and under favorable weather conditions, the latest varieties are rapidly advancing to maturity.

Melons of all kinds are of fine quality and very plentiful.

The reports relative to late Irish potatoes are somewhat conflicting in character, but their general condition is fair.

Good soaking rains would greatly improve the prospects for all crops yet unharvested.
