MOTHER'S BUCKWHEAT CAKES.
Oh, those boyhood's recollections,
When all else my mind forsakes,
And I'm back in mother's kitchen,
Eating mother's buckwheat cakes.

In my mind I see her standing
While the toothsome morsel bakes,
Stirring up the bowl of batter
For some scores of buckwheat cakes.

See her as she neatly flops them,
Flops them without making flakes;
Oh, my mother was a wonder
In the making buckwheat cakes.

See her with that old, thin case knife,
As she from the griddle takes
Those dark, spongy, crispy masses,
Those old-fashioned buckwheat cakes.

See her deftly grease the griddle
And the extra batter makes;
For she knows the mouths awaiting,
Waiting for those buckwheat cakes.

I cover them with sweetest butter
And maple syrup—in small lakes—
For I'm now at mother's table
Eating mother's buckwheat cakes.

Then I waddle from the table,
And my stomach fairly aches,
For to my neck it is distended
With a dozen buckwheat cakes.

There is not a French chef living,
I care not how or where he bakes,
That can ever make the equal
Of my mother's buckwheat cakes.

Those are pleasant recollections,
Yet, my heart, it softly aches,
When I find I can no longer
Eat dear mother's buckwheat cakes.

And I'm through with facts and
Prayer,
And my soul its journey takes,
Give me mother's buckwheat cakes.

Question Answered. Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for Indigestion or Biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration, or Heart Failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food; regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale by J. C. FAVOR.
