WILEY AGAINST FREE SUGAR.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, in his capacity as "a farmer engaged in practical agriculture, and as one who has been interested during his whole active life in the sugar industry," yesterday filed with the Senate finance committee a protest against "free sugar," which he characterized as a "threat of the extinction of the industry."

"The production of sugar," said Dr. Wiley, "whether it be from beet or cane, requires the highest type of intensive culture that science has been able to suggest. The blow which free sugar would deal to the agricultural industries of this country will be only partly felt by those directly engaged in its culture and manufacture."—Washington Post.

MICHIGAN'S REPUBLICANISM.

Michigan is looked upon as a stronghold of the third termers, but in the primaries held there Tuesday straight-out Republicans did nearly all the voting, casting 146,596 ballots while the Moosers cast but 5,623.

In fifty-seven of the seventy-eight counties not one Progressive vote was cast. In eight of those in which they went to the polls their total vote was less than one hundred. And in only two did they pass the five-hundred mark. In one county they cast one thousand votes. The Democrats say that the votes they lost to the third termers were so few as not to be worth counting.

Says the Indianapolis News on this score: "Michigan, as every one knows, was supposed to be a very strong Roosevelt State, indeed it is one of those that the Roosevelt people expected to carry. Governor Osborn is a Progressive of the Progressives, and was one of the 'seven little governors,' though we believe he is not supporting Roosevelt as a third party candidate. Every one, therefore, expected the Progressive party to make a great showing in Michigan. Yet in such a state the Roosevelt party polled only 6,600, and this was limited to twenty-one out of the seventy-eight counties."

This is good Republican reading. It justifies the Taft men in counting on Michigan's electoral vote.

WAR REMINISCENCES

DEPICTS WOMAN AS HEROINE. Newspaper of 1855 Gives Story of Mrs. Martin, Who Was on Saratoga Battlefield.

In view of the fact that some recent research that has been given magazine and newspaper publicity has tended to show that all the fighters of the American revolutionary war were not as patriotic or as brave as history has set them down, a clipping in the possession of C. L. Miller, a Princeton citizen, is of interest just now in that it not only shows conclusively that there were "some" brave and intrepid men in the American ranks, but it brings out what is rare in history, the recital of woman's valor on the field of battle in that momentous period. It also deals Maj. Gen. Horatio Gates, American officer, a hot shot on the "bravery" displayed by him at the battle of Saratoga.

The clipping is from an original copy of the Troy (N. Y.) Whig of November, 1855, and is self-explanatory, since its words come from the lips of one who saw and participated in the noted conflict at Saratoga. He says: "Mrs. Margaret Martin, who is stopping at the residence of her grandson in this city, is 98 years of age. She is one of the few remarkable women of the revolution who took part in the memorable occurrences of the struggle for American independence. Her husband, Gilbert Martin, was a surgeon in the army of the American general, Gates, and was engaged in the battle at Saratoga.

"Mrs. Martin, then a very young woman, was on the field during both struggles constituting this battle, and terminating the defeat of the splendid army which Burgoyne had transported with such immense labor and expense from Canada, confidently anticipating that he would be able with it to divide the army of the patriots and secure Sir Henry Clinton in his possession of the southern line of defenses.

"Mrs. Martin represents the struggle as most terrific. She says that toward evening, when Burgoyne, maddened by the consciousness that all his splendid schemes were about to be defeated, directed his whole reserve and cavalry force upon the feeble army of the patriots, the contestants stood within half musket range of each other and poured in their deadly volleys, while whole files on either side fell in their tracks, and still neither gave one inch.

"Toward evening Dr. Martin was wounded in the shoulder, and while his wife was in the act of affixing a bandage she herself was wounded in the hand. Says she: 'Gilbert sprang up like a chaffed lion. 'Peggy,' said he, 'I'll go and teach those cowardly fellows better manners than to shoot a woman.' And I saw him no more till the fight was over."

"Of such material were the men and women of the revolution. We can readily imagine that the field of Saratoga was a strange place for those of the 'softer-sex.' Mrs. Martin, however, has evidently been a woman of uncommon energy of character. Her frame still exhibits evidences of strength, and her eyes sparkle as she recounts the deeds of that glorious day or speaks of that cowardly Gates, who stayed safe and sound all day in his tent, and cared not for the men who were falling like sheaves in the harvest."

A Song Book Saved His Life. At the battle of Peach Orchard, when McClellan was making his change of base, a Michigan infantryman fell to the ground as if shot dead, and was left lying in a heap as the regiment changed position. The bullet that had hit him first struck the barrel of his gun, then glanced and struck off a button of his coat, tore the watch out of his vest pocket and struck the man just over the heart, where it was stopped by a song book in his shirt pocket. He was unconscious for three-quarters of an hour, and it was a full month before the black and blue spot disappeared.

At Pittsburg Landing a member of the Twelfth Michigan infantry stopped to give a wounded man a drink from his canteen. While in this act a bullet aimed at his breast struck the canteen and buried itself in the leg of a horse. The canteen was split open and dropped to the ground in halves.—Harper's Weekly.

THE COMB'S MORNING STORY

You know the story the comb tells. It's a very discouraging story, too. Day by day, a few more strands are added, of hair that is turning grey, losing its vitality, its strength and its health. Grey hair is as unbecoming as old age. Natural pride should have its own say. You wish to look young and it is your DUTY to appear so. You can't even LOOK young if the silver threads begin to show. Be a "Young Woman" in looks, always. The grey hairs belong to the chaparral and to the grandmother.

Public SALE

Saturday, Sept. 28, 1912, at 10 o'clock a. m., as Agent for the heirs of Rachel J. Chausser and Isaac F. Chausser, I will sell the

FARM

Consisting of About 137 Acres!

Said farm lies on the South of Millersburg, about one-half mile from town on the east side of the Maysville and Lexington turnpike; the L. & N. R. R. running along west side. This is one of the most desirable farms in the county. It has on it a 2-story brick house, with new roof, and is in good condition; a tobacco barn and warehouse, with plank floor and good tobacco screw; stable, corn crib, buggy house, chicken house, smoke house and apple-dip ice house, three cellars; also tenement house, two cabins, and the best spring in the county, and two other wells with never-failing water. This farm is well fenced, and is in a good neighborhood as anyone could wish, and can all be plowed. There is about 35 acres in corn and the rest in grass. Anyone wishing a home will make a great mistake if they don't attend this sale, as there is no more beautiful situation on the Maysville and Lexington turnpike, and it is one half mile of two of the best schools in the state, both male and female colleges, and only 7 miles from Paris. It will be sold as a whole, or divided to suit purchasers. Terms made known on day of sale.

J. C. JEFFERSON, Agent for Heirs.

At the same time and place, as Administrator of Isaac F. Chausser, deceased, I will offer for sale on the premises a large lot of farming machinery, stock, household goods, etc.

J. C. JEFFERSON, Administrator.

Deafness Cannot be Cured hygienic applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound in your ears, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; unless it is treated by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
