THE East Kentucky News says: A family of fourteen bass, that had been navigating the waters of the beautiful Ohio and growing fat in their travels, having learned at some points below that Col. Frank Owens, of Maysville, had left that city last week on a visit to his friends at Grayson, came up little Sandy to the pool below the dam at Pactolus and there awaited the arrival of Col. Owens and Capt. Steve Nethercutt. On Saturday the gentlemen named repaired to Pactolus and succeeded in landing the old he bass, his wife and all their children, from the oldest son to the youngest daughter. The Republicans Select John C. Kirk as Their Candidate for Jailer—No Other Nominations Made.

Between twenty-five and fifty of the Republican stalwarts and Half-Breeds, of Mason county, assembled at the Mayor's office last Saturday afternoon, April 8th, and proceeded to nominate some one to make the race for jailer. Why they did not nominate a full ticket, is, we suppose a party secret.

The meeting was called to order by N. Cooper, Esq., and by motion made and carried, he was selected as permanent chairman, and A. M. J. Cochran permanent secretary; a committee of three were appointed to confer with the several candidates for jailer, and see if they had agreed among themselves as to who should make the race. After a short interval the committee reported that the several candidates were unable to come to any agreement concerning the matter, but were willing to abide the decision of the meeting.

Wm. Hunter, W. N. Howe, John Kirk, John Masterson, and Garland R. Bullock were then put in nomination for jailer, and the meeting proceeded to select their man by ballot.

Hunter was dropped from the list after the 4th ballot, Masterson after the 5th, and Bullock after the 6th, on the 7th ballot Kirk was nominated receiving 12 votes to Howe's 10.

After passing resolutions recommending Richard C. Jacobs to the Republicans of Mason county, as the party's choice for clerk of the court of appeals, the meeting adjourned sine die.

The White Wolf Again.

The prowling animal that has from time to time appeared and mysteriously disappeared in various parts of the city was seen again last night in East Maysville and caused some consternation among the people who saw it. It is variously described by those who caught a glimpse of it. One person who claims to have had a good view of it, says it is a large white animal, very gaunt in appearance and has a long white beard and short horns on the upper part of the head. Another description is the same, except that the beast or whatever it is, has wings that fold closely to the body when at rest and drag the ground when it runs. There is the greatest excitement in the neighborhood where this strange visitor has been seen, and efforts are making to take it alive. Thus far they have been unsuccessful, the beast in every instance disappearing at the moment its capture seems certain.

How to Build a Tobacco Barn.

A correspondent of the Western Tobacco Journal writing from Moscow, Ohio, gives the following directions how to construct a barn for tobacco:

For curing White Burley Tobacco it is necessary to have both light and air to give color. This is conceded by all persons experienced in the culture and curing of this variety of tobacco.

I have for the past six years used a barn of the following plan, which is the best of any that I ever tried: The barn is feet wide by 120 feet long, the width divided into two spaces and the length into ten spaces. There are two sills running the entire length of the barn on the outside, and one 72 feet long in the center each 3 inches square. There are 43 posts, each 8 inches square and 20 feet long, excepting the center posts, which are framed into the top beam.

The top beam is framed into the outside post, 6 inches below the shoulder of the plate center, with braces under it, the center post being framed into the center of the beam with braces; 3 feet 10 inches below the top of the beam 4 by 4 inch ties are framed from the center to outside; 3 feet 10 inches below these ties frame in short beams, 4 by 6, from center to outside, with braces under them; 3 feet 10 inches below these beams frame in the other 4 by 4 inch ties; below this do not frame any ties running crossways, using drop ties, which can be taken out of the way when not in use.

This will give you an idea how each vent is framed. Now, to join them together, frame 4 by 4 inch ties in each set of posts, 4 feet 2 inches below the top of the top beam, both center and outside 4 inches. Below the top of the cross ties and short beams frame 4 by 4 inch ties to the bottom, excepting in the center, in which leave out the lower ties and use drop ties, so that they may be taken out when not in use. The plate pieces are 6 by 8 inches. The rafters are placed 2 feet apart from center to center, and the proper height from the beam for a tier spike, 1 by 5 inch boards, to alternate rafters.

This will make your barn five tiers high, besides the comb tier. The tier rails of the top tier run lengthways, on all of the balance run crossways, and when framed this way, every tie running crossways answers the purpose of a tier, and every tie running lengthways is used for the support of the tier rails. About the center of the roof, on the inside side for light, have one square boarded up to the top upon which rests the second tier for stripping room, having plenty of window light upon the outside, and a door, about 4 feet wide, leading into the barn. Upon this stripping room, put a floor in the end in which is your center sill for bulking floor.

The other side of the barn is open all the way through for driving way. The ceiling for your stripping room is 12 feet high, just as with upper tiers, which may be piled up when the room is wanted for hanging green tobacco, and by the use of drop ties you can use all of stripping room for that purpose. To admit light and air into the center of the barn, in the gable ends, near the top, end, in weather boarding the barn, batten 16 or 18 inch boards, and put them upon hinges in the center of each vent, on the sides and on S, these to be opened for light and air as required for curing and casing of tobacco.

The tier rails should be flattened at the ends, and spiked, as a preventive of accidents. This barn is designed for using tobacco sticks 4 feet 4 inches long and can be used for any length of the same capacity, and will hold from 10,000 to 12,000 pounds without crowding.

Persons wanting a smaller barn can build upon the same plan, but shorter.

Out Again.

The morning mail resumed her place in this trade on Saturday. She has been thoroughly repaired and is now in better condition than ever, as the following from the Cincinnati Commercial shows:

The last side wheel clipper daily Maysville packet, Morning Mail, before she broke one of her shafts, made everything tremble while under way. An experimental trip was made last evening, which proved a most complete success. She easily made twenty-six revolutions a minute, and ran as steady as a chronometer, without the least perceptible jar, and at her usual speed to the relief of all on board. The Morning Mail is undoubtedly the fastest steamer of her power and size afloat. The "split wheel," or double bucket, as it is termed, was first introduced on the western waters by Captain J. M. Storer, on the Henry Clay, built at Pittsburg, 1832, and afterward by Captain Wm. Strodes' Mediterranean, also built at Pittsburg in 1833 and then the largest steamer afloat on our waters, being too large to permit her passage through the old Louisville and New Orleans. The same wheel was also used successfully on Capt. Tuft's famous Sultana. Among those on board the Morning Mail who witnessed the experiment, were Capt. John Kyle, president of the line; Capt. Wash Holloway, Capt. Lewis Glenn, Esq., Capt. H. W. Stein, of the Chas. Morgan, Capt. George Vandergrift, of the beacon light steamer Lilly, Thos. P. Cassilly, Esq., of Steamers Cassidy & Co., and Mr. Geo. Charter, the well-known steamer agent, and others. Pilot Gen. Williamson was at the wheel, and engineer Hanley at the throttle. We predict that other steamers will adopt similar wheels before long.

BATCHELDER'S Ventilated Egg Case.

Patented February 15, 1881. Indispensable to Merchants Shippers and Producers.

The outside frame of this carrier contains five trays, held in place by fasteners at end of case, as seen in cut. These Trays are constructed in reversible halves. The above cut shows one whole tray filled ready to be placed in case, each egg resting in its cardboard socket in such a manner as to be readily counted, candied, or transferred from tray to tray, or case to case, without rehandling. For cold storage this case will store 60 dozen with racks made to receive the half trays, hence this is the cheapest storage case manufactured, saving largely in space. The manner of holding the eggs on end prevents oscillation, adding, or breaking, and adds greatly to their freshness when carried long in storage. Size of 30 dozen No. 1 cases 25x12x14, weighs 20 pounds.

PRICES IN CHICAGO.

Shipper's No. 1, 30 doz. Case with Filler's complete 65 Cents. Farmer's No. 1, 18 doz. Case with Filler's complete, 55 Cents. Cardboard Filler's for filling 20 Cents. 15 per cent. discount on lots of 100 cases. Batchelder's Egg Tester, 4-1/2 x 6 doz. at once, saves to buyers many times its cost each season.
