Church, this city, which is as long as a minister is permitted to serve the same congregation, will preach his farewell sermon next Sabbath at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. He will preach on the theme, Bourbonism vs. The Law of God. Everybody invited to both services.

Caught.

Our readers will remember that some weeks ago, thieves paid a visit to the gardens of Dr. Morgan, Major Ross and others in the lower part of the city, and helped themselves to cabbage, onions, potatoes, etc. No arrests were made at the time, but since the occurrence Deputy Marshals Skinner and Dawson have been at work on the case, and this morning arrested Dave McClain and John Currans as the parties who did the work. The officers have been satisfied for some time that the above mentioned were the right parties, but as they had no satisfactory proof, the arrests were not made. Friday afternoon Currans "squealed" on his "pal," and the arrests were made. The case will be called for trial this afternoon at two o'clock, before Mayor January. The officers are of the opinion that other parties are concerned, but have no satisfactory proof of same.

THE WAR OVER.

Arabi Pasha Surrenders Unconditionally. Ten Thousand Egyptian Troops Lay Down Their Arms.

ALEXANDRIA, Sept. 15—11 a. m.—Arabi, as soon as he saw his army at Tel-el-Kebir was doomed to defeat, galloped rapidly off to Zagazig, where he had ordered a special train to be held in readiness, and conveyed to Cairo. Owing to some delay en route, he arrived there only an hour before Lowe's cavalry entered the city. His appearance caused the utmost excitement. He did not anticipate the British would enter Cairo for 48 hours at least, and when it was known the British had reached the outskirts of the city the Prefect of Police proceeded to Arabi's headquarters and arrested him. His staff had already deserted him, and not a soldier was to be seen about him. He made no attempt to resist, and was handed over to the British. He expressed a desire at once to send in his submission to the Khedive, and was furnished writing materials for the purpose. The war is considered over and word has been sent to England to forward no more troops. Ten thousand of the Egyptian soldiers have surrendered at Cairo.

Sanctification Once More.

MAYSVILLE, KY., Sept. 14, 1882.

Ed. Bulletin: I had proposed to say nothing further in reply to "Unsanctified," nor do I now propose any further attempt to answer his difficulties, but wish to say: First, that I am now fully convinced; his assertion to the contrary, notwithstanding that my first impression as to his motive was correct, namely: That his sole aim was to burlesque the doctrine of sanctification and those who believe in, and profess to have experienced it. Taking all his articles together this motive is so clear that nine out of every ten persons would come to that conclusion. That is an old, but not a very successful method of error in trying to put down the truth. Second, that his insinuation that the delay in my second reply was because I had waited to get assistance from Dr. Watson's book on that subject, was not founded on any facts in the case. It was known by many persons and perhaps yourself, Mr. Editor, that I was not at home for several days after his second article was printed, and my reply was printed as soon as I had time to prepare it. I have never read Dr. Watson's book. I have seen it, know the author, and from what I know of his ability and the great benefit his book had given to other sincere persons, believed it would be good for any one sincerely seeking light on that subject, and that he would appreciate the opportunity of studying the doctrine under one of its ablest advocates. And as to needing it myself to answer his difficulties, I think that having carefully examined the writings of two such eminent divines of the church of England as John Wesley and John Fletcher and having read it in every page in the bible from my youth, I found it an easy matter to answer the difficulties but not to satisfy him simply because he did not wish to be satisfied. I only had to set aside what I now find to be the quibbles of an ecclesiastical trifler.

When Dean Stanley had the statues of John and Charles Wesley placed in Westminster Abbey, he put the seal of his approval on both the men and their teachings, and whoever knows the sermons of John and the Hymns of Charles (and who don't know the latter, for they are in every collection of Hymns in protestant christendom) knows that the latter sung the doctrine of sanctification as emphatically as the former preached it. And Dean Stanley was one of the brightest lights the church of England has enjoyed since John and Charles Wesley left it for the church triumphant.

Third. That the observations of "Unsanctified" have been very limited as to the lives of those who profess this doctrine and experience. I know very few persons in this city who profess to enjoy this blessing, except until very recently, and perhaps his spying glass does not come down to the social range of but a very few of them—and he don't know unless he has studied the lives of the eminent men of his own, and other churches. What is the average life of those he talks of? There is not an Evangelical church in Europe or America but that furnishes us with many illustrious examples of persons professing and living this doctrine, and dying in its full enjoyment. And yet this master in the Israel that has so favored the memory of John Wesley tries to depreciate this doctrine by throwing stones and dust at David as Shimei did when he fled from Absalom. Mr. Editor I little thought, your "sincere" "Unsanctified" correspondent would end his question of "What shall I do to be saved?" by taking up a handful of mud and throwing it at those to whom he professes so sincerely to address inquiry.

There is something said in an old book somewhere about the unwisdom of "casting pearls before swine," and lest I might be so unfortunate again as to have one turn again and send me. I withhold them for the present and give pebbles instead. CAMP MEETING CORRESPONDENT.

P. S. Since postscripts are in order, permit me to ask, to what part of speech does "my" belong, as used in "Unsanctified's" last article? or is it part of its rhetoric, or of its hard logic? C. M. C.
