A Snake for Soap Grease.

Walton (Ga.) News.

Two years ago a colored man, near Columbus, killed a rattlesnake and put it on the fire in an oven to dry it up for the grease. In his absence his little son, thinking the snake was an eel, ate some of it and has been having fits ever since.

A $125,000 Wedding Trousseau.

New York Evening Telegram.

The trossseau of the belle of this city, who is to be married this month, is said to have cost $125,000 and was all made in America. One of her morning gowns is exceedingly beautiful. It is made of fine white Chinese silk, en princess. About the bottom and up the side of the front extends a box pleating of palest blue satin, overlaid by lace of a soft, creamy tint to match the white of the dress. The sleeves are made a la Chinese and trimmed in the same way, while inside sleeves of the Chinese silk fit the arm tightly and are embroidered in a serpentine design with gold braid. A small, white silk and lace mob cap and dainty blue satin slippers complete the toilet.

A Railroad Story.

London Society.

A few years ago an enormously wealthy banker was traveling from Munich to Vienna by rail. In the same carriage with himself was a gentleman, accompanied by a friend. The stranger was of pleasing manners, and the purse-proud banker at last condescended to enter into conversation with him, and gradually even (as he himself expressed it) took a liking to "the man." He even went so far as to say at last: "You seem to be a good sort of a fellow and a gentleman. Look here, I am going to Vienna to see my daughter, who is married there, is awfully rich and keeps a tiptop house. I will introduce you to her." The stranger thanked him, and mentioned that, by a curious coincidence, he, too, was traveling to Vienna to see his daughter. "Your daughter, indeed!" said the banker, with considerable arrogance; "and pray who may she be?" "The Empress of Austria," was the calm reply. The stranger was the Duke Maximilian of Bavaria, father of the present Empress of Austria and the ex-Queen of Naples; the the companion was his aide-camp. It is needless to add that the millionaire utterly collapsed.

A house was burning at Oshkosh, Wis., and a woman was left inside. Her husband cried, "Five thousand dollars to the man who saves her!" A fireman dashed in at great personal risk, and brought her out alive. Although her husband is very wealthy, he refused to give a dollar of the reward; but the supreme court decides that the offer of $5,000 was valid, and that the money must be paid.

The stage of a Western theater took fire the other evening, but a panic and rush for the door was averted by the manager, who, with great presence of mind, slipped to the front and said: "Ladies and gentlemen, we have prepared a little surprise for you. An immense kettle of whisky punch is now being heated, and in a few moments waiters will pass through the hall and distribute it." After that the audience had to be pulled out one by one.

Color the fence the same shade as the dwelling, or light brown, or fawn color. The dark maroon trimmings have a somewhat tawdry appearance, and we would prefer them of the same color as the house or but slightly darker. We would not make the front yard into a sort of pen, with a picket fence around it, but, if a fence is necessary, would extend the yard on at least three sides of the house, or, much better, on the four sides; otherwise its ornamental appearance is one-sided.—Country Gentleman.

In the last ten years there have been 41,000 new farms opened in Arkansas, which is an average of 600 new farms in ten years to each county.
