

REMARKABLE MISSIONARY

Dr. Royal J. Dye Will Speak at The First Christian Church on Wednesday Night.

Dr. Royal J. Dye, returned missionary from Bolongo, Africa, will speak at the First Christian church Wednesday night at 7:15 o'clock, and the house should be crowded.

Dr. Dye is a most remarkable man and his story of that dark continent is most interesting and thrilling.

When he first went among these tribes of Africa, they were the worst type of savages and cannibals; had no written language and no religion and were entirely devoid of morals and spirituality. Dr. Dye has now constructed for them a written language and has printed, in that language, arithmetic, readers, spellers, and other school books, and is fast giving to this benighted race an education and insight into the higher order of things.

There was no church or missionary when he went there thirteen years ago, but today his church numbers nearly 2000, and the tabernacle is practically filled at every service. His Bible school has an average attendance of from 1200 to 1500 every Sunday, and now these men are today most devout Christians, and out of their scant earnings support 176 native missionaries and are sending the gospel into the darkest swamps and jungles of that dark continent. They are indeed setting their white brethren in America, and elsewhere an example in missionary giving and sacrifice that they would do well to emulate.

Dr. Dye's story is most interesting and entrancing and all who can should hear him Wednesday night as every body is invited.

ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING IN PROFIT RESTAURANT

Floyd Profit Discharges Revolver, Without Warning, And Willie Emmerson is Wounded.

Floyd Profit shot Willie Emmerson in Profit's restaurant Tuesday night at about 11:30 o'clock.

The weapon used was a 38 hammerless Smith-Wesson, which the boys had been tampering with, and the shooting is reported to have been accidental.

Emmerson was leaning his face on his right hand, and the ball penetrated the hand, lodging in the neck or shoulder. No probe for the bullet has been made.

Dr. Isaac Browne, who attended Emmerson, anticipates no serious results.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES

Mark Laying of Corner Stone of Winchester's New Government Building on Wednesday Afternoon.

In a haze of glory the cornerstone of Winchester's new government building was laid Wednesday afternoon under the auspices of the Masonic Lodge.

The ceremony was witnessed by large crowds from every available spot that furnished a view. The windows of the McEldowney Building and the Court House were filled with eager spectators. The tops of other nearby buildings also furnished place of vantage for eager witnesses.

The Masonic Lodge formed a parade in front of the Fraternity Building at 2:30 and marched south on Main to Fairfax; east on Fairfax to Highland, where they were joined by the children of the city schools. The parade then marched south on Highland to Hickman; west on Hickman to Main; north on Main to Broadway; west on Broadway to Wall street and to the Government Building.

The Grand Chaplin Rev. Frank B. Wentworth offered prayer, invoking divine blessing on the ceremonies.

To the patriotic strain of "America," as sung by hundred of school children, the cornerstone was then laid. The exact time was 3:15.

In the stone were placed the latest copies of the Winchester News, Sun-Sentinel and Democrat, and a copper plate, bearing the names of those instrumental in securing the building for Winchester, of the officials of the lodge and of the members.

Past Eminent Commander Joe E. Walt, of Cynthiana, assisted in the ceremony. From a cable over the speakers' platform was suspended a large United States flag, which waved gracefully during the ceremonies.

The program was carried out as follows:

- Song—"America," by School Children.
- Prayer—Grand Chaplain, Rev. Frank B. Wentworth.
- Laying of Corner Stone by Grand Master David Jackson and ceremonies incident thereto.
- Music—Selected, Woodmen Band. Address—Grand Master Jackson. Song—"Star Spangled Banner," School Children.
- Address—Hon. Charles M. Harris.
- Music—Selected, Woodmen Band. Address—Hon. John M. Stevenson.
- Music—Woodmen Band.
- Benediction—Rev. Leonadis Robinson.
- D. S. Hagagr, Master of Ceremonies.

PERRY BUILDING SOLD TO J. W. POYNTER

Handsome Business House Occupied by Parrish, Bradley & Co., is Sold For $12,500.

Mr. R. R. Perry sold Wednesday to Mr. J. W. Poynter his business property on the corner of Wall street and Cleveland avenue, known as "the Perry Building" for $12,500. Possession given at once.

This building was erected by Mr. Perry several years ago and is one of the most substantial business houses in the city. It was leased for a term of five years by the firm of Parrish, Bradley & Co., who will continue to occupy the building until the lease expires.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE IN ROW AT FRANKFORT

Two Conventions Held And Both Elect Officers And Members of Board of Agriculture.

(Special)
Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 28.—The State Farmers' Institute got into a row Tuesday that resulted in the withdrawal of President T. J. Biggstaff, of Mt. Sterling, and his friends from the convention and two institutes were held, the regular meeting being called to order in the Federal Court room by Commissioner of Agriculture J. W. Newman and the rump meeting by President T. J. Biggstaff of the State Farmers' Institute, in the Frankfort opera house.

Each body elected members of the State Board of Agriculture, Forestry and Immigration for the Fourth and Sixth Appellate Districts, and appointed committees on Credentials, Legislation and Resolutions.

There were no signs of a revolt when Commissioner Newman rapped for order shortly after 11 o'clock, and the walk-out did not take place until after the Rev. Roger T. Nooe, of the Frankfort Christian church, delivered the invocation.

How the Trouble Started
As soon as the Rev. Mr. Nooe had taken his seat President Biggstaff arose and addressing the chair, said:

"Do you propose to preside at this meeting in place of the regularly elected president of the Kentucky State Farmers' Institute," to which Commissioner Newman replied:

"There is no president to preside until one is selected."

No sooner had the Commissioner spoken than the march to the opera house started. President Biggstaff leading the way, followed by some twenty-five delegates and others.

The work of the regular institute was then taken up in earnest, Mayor J. H. Polsgrove delivering the welcome address, followed by Hon. M. J. Hennessey, of Bracken county, who sarcastically said in closing his response:

"I am glad to see the Farmers' Institute taken out of politics and I am glad to see the politicians leave the institute."

Regulars Elect Officers.

The regular institute elected Hon. J. R. Zimmerman, of Bullitt county, president; Charles Marvin, of Scott county, vice president; Jack Coleman, of Carroll county, second vice president and Harry McCarty, of Nicholasville, secretary.

Rump Convention Elects
The rump convention re-elected the old officers of the institute as follows:

T. J. Biggstaff, Mt. Sterling, president; C. M. Barnett, Hartford, first vice president; W. T. Chilton, Campbellburg, second vice president; John C. Blair, Carlisle, third vice president; J. S. Cassidy, Inez, treasurer; P. M. Shy, Paris, secretary.

Upon the re-assembling of the Institute at 2 o'clock in the afternoon Hon. E. E. Barton, of Falmouth, delivered an interesting address on "The Value of Sweet Clover." He said he had a field that has been worn, from years of cultivation in corn and tobacco, and that it was next to impossible to get a stand of either grass or clover, but that sweet clover made a good stand and grew luxuriantly.

Mr. Barton said sweet clover was the king of the legume family, gathering and storing nitrogen in the soil and rehabilitating tired fields. As a producer of humus and a giver of energy to soil bacteria it had no equal and when planted was a tonic to tired and wasted soils.

Mr. Barton said a field well set in sweet clover would produce thirty tons per acre of green material, which, when plowed under, was a great fertilizer and rejuvenator and that during periods of protracted drouth it remained green when grass was dead and brown.

Governor The "Boss Farmer."
When Mr. Barton had finished Governor James B. McCreary appeared and as he mounted the rostrum he was given a cordial welcome. The Governor was introduced by Commissioner Newman as the "Boss Farmer of the Commonwealth."

GENEROSITY OF MANAGERS

Messrs. Bloomfield & Ratliff Make Liberal Donation to Associated Charities When Receipts Show a Loss.

The directors of the Associated Charities wish to thank those who attend the Auditorium on Tuesday, as the proceeds from the two skating sessions were to be given to that organization.

The following self-explanatory letter has been received by the Secretary, Miss Sue Peddicord.

Winchester, Ky., Feb. 27, 1912.
Miss Peddicord:

You will find our check enclosed for $8.05. This seems small, but Monday and Tuesday nights were the smallest crowds we have had. Guess it was due to the show at Opera House. In this check we donate $5 as our expenses exceeded the difference and shows a net loss to us of the above amount. We are sorry it was not more.

Yours truly,
BLOOMFIELD & RATLIFF,
Managers Auditorium.

SLAUGHTER HOUSE AND FOUR ACRES OF LAND

Tracy & Stokely, agents for W. T. Gilbert, sold his slaughter house and four acres of land situated on the Muddy Creek pike, just outside the city limits, to D. S. Haggard, Road Supervisor for Clark county, for $1800 cash.

Mr. Gilbert will conduct a slaughter house at the old brick kiln property on the L. & N. railroad.

FIRST DAY OF BIG OPENING

Of Winchester Cloak And Suit Company is a Great Success, And Store is Crowded All Day.

Wednesday was the first day of the spring opening at the Winchester Cloak and Suit Company's store, and a large crowd was present all day.

The attractive stock was well displayed, and the interior of the store presented a gala appearance. Beautiful double buttoned, hycinths, and sacred lilies were presented to the ladies who called, and this courtesy will continue through Thursday.

A cordial invitation is extended by Manager Domb to the public to visit the establishment.

NEW MANAGER.

Mr. A. G. Miller, of Eminence, Ky., is to succeed Mr. C. V. Bridwell as Manager for Winchester and Clark county for the East Tennessee Telephone Company. He is popular and thoroughly capable, and will be given a cordial welcome.

THE SKOVGAARD CONCERT

The Skovgaard concert is to be given at the home of Miss Mary Belle Field Miller on Wednesday evening beginning promptly at 8 o'clock.

This is a rare opportunity for the music lovers of the city.

ROOSEVELT UPHOLDS COLUMBUS PLATFORM

Stands by His Speech to Ohio Constitutional Convention and Explains His Judicial Recall Idea.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 28.—Standing in the Assembly chamber of the Massachusetts capitol Monday, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt explained and emphasized his new project for the limited recall of judicial decisions. Colonel Roosevelt struck out boldly and replied to those who have criticized his plan.

"Our system of government is a confessed failure," he said, "unless the people are to be trusted to govern themselves."

Colonel Roosevelt's visit to the State house was unexpected. After appearing in the House he went to the Senate chamber and spoke briefly. In both instances he was received cordially, although no prolonged applause during his speech. At the outset, Colonel Roosevelt declared:

"I know you expect me to speak today, telling you just what I think and believe." He continued:

"We of today, if worthy of endeavoring to lead the people aright, must be doing our part to secure social and industrial justice through genuine popular rule."

Favors Direct Nomination

"I believe in general popular rule. I favor direct nominations, direct primaries, including direct performance of the presidential primaries, not only for local, but State delegates. I believe in the adoption of wisely chosen devices, under which the initiative and referendum can be used not as a substitute for a representative government, but to make representative government genuinely representative; to see it corrected if it becomes misrepresentative."

"And I wish to say a few words specifically on the proposition of giving to the people in the last resort the interpretation of the constitution. My proposition is simple. It is that if the people know enough to make the constitution, they know enough in the last resort to say what it was that they meant when they made it."

"I wish to call attention to the entirely different character of the National and State constitutions. In the national constitution we deal with an instrument designed to define the limits of power between nation and states. As regards the national constitution, there must be somebody capable of deciding what these limits are, when we come to discuss relative claims of conflicting sovereignties, each sovereign in its own sphere."

State Constitutions Different

"The state constitutions has nothing analogous so that there is no question in a state of any conflicting sovereignty. There is only one sovereignty, the sovereignty of the people. You are not the sovereigns neither is the executive; neither is the judiciary. All three possess powers delegated by the people, but not parted with, whereas in the national constitution the legislative branch has no power save that which is expressly granted by the constitution."

"Under the state constitution the legislative body has all power that is not forbidden by the constitution. In the last resort, the people after due deliberation must be the masters and their representatives their servants."

What Roosevelt Advocates

"There is nothing ignoble in any man fit to be a public servant avowing that he is such. Abraham Lincoln, in his first inaugural speech, spoke of his absolute responsibility to his masters, the American people."

"Now in the measure I advocate in the method of securing the proper interpretation of the constitution, remember to take what I say and not the headlines of the newspapers purporting to tell what I say. I am not advocating recall of judges, but a measure which, if adopted, will prevent the necessity for the recall of judges. I am not advocating the recall of the judge, but the recall of legalism to justice."

Wants People To Speak

"All I advocate is giving the people the right to put their opinion into practical effect as a part of the state law, if the state court declines to follow the example of the Supreme Court; declines to adhere to doctrine thus laid down by Justice Holmes, a doctrine which now is part of the law of the nation. If the courts had lived up to the doctrine which is laid down by Justice Holmes, none of the decisions of which I have complained could have been made and there would have been no need of advocating this measure. But taking my own state, the Court of Appeals of New York, in the workingman's compensation, referred in their opinion of this very decision quoted and refused to follow it."

"The Supreme Court held one view, the Court of Appeals of the state took the other view, and all I ask is that the people themselves, in such cases, shall be given a chance to declare whether they will stand by the Supreme Court of the nation, or by the chief court of their own state when it stands against human rights. If that is a revolution, make the most of it."

"Some people speak as if there were some peculiar sanctity in a judicial opinion. Very well. In which opinion? Which is the sacred opinion? The decision of the Supreme Court or the decision of a state court that conflicts with it? They cannot both be sacred and I hold that the decision that holds for human rights is sacred."

BODIES OF LITTLE ONES IN RUINS

Mass of Charred Debris is Too Hot To Permit The Recovery of Corpses of the Victims.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 28.—Although the mass of charred and crumbling ruins of the Colored Orphan's Home, on the Georgetown pike, at the end of the city limits, was still too hot to permit an investigation late Tuesday afternoon, the three little girls who were missed after the other thirty-one children had been taken from the burning building, were unaccounted for and undoubtedly they perished in the flames which destroyed their sleeping quarters.

Nothing was left of the three-story brick building except the walls and charred pieces of heavy frame work and enough fire still remained within the walls to prevent a search for the bodies of the three unfortunate little negro girls, who perished, probably without ever awakening. The children were Sallie Howard, 8 years old; Siranda Lee Mason, 9 years old, and Mattie C. Mason, 4 years old, the parents of all of whom formerly lived in Lexington.

Firemen Are Injured

It was learned Tuesday that Capt. Jack Slaven and Harry W. Schaeffer, members of the fire department, and William Walker, 10 years old, an inmate of the home, were painfully injured during the fire. Firemen Slaven and Schaeffer were caught under the timbers of a falling floor while fighting the fire and had a narrow escape, both receiving minor injuries, and Schaeffer also received a deep cut in the right wrist when smashing a window glass to enter the building. The little Walker boy sustained a fractured collar bone when sliding down the ladder to escape from the burning building.

Futile Recitally.
"Why do road agents hold up stage coaches?" "I suppose to get money." "But don't they get only stage money?"

SCOBERTH CANDIDACY IN HANDS OF FRIENDS

Woodford Representative and Congressional Aspirant is Likely to Escape Attack of Typhoid.

Versailles, Ky., Feb. 28.—Report Tuesday night from the bedside of Representative Harry A. Schobert, who is ill at a local hospital, were that Mr. Schobert's condition was materially improved during the day, and his physicians said he might escape typhoid fever, which, it was announced Monday, might develop judging from symptoms in the case at that time.

Mr. Schobert's temperature was lower than on Monday, while other symptoms led the physician in charge of his case to believe a siege of typhoid fever to be avoided. It is believed that unless new complications arise in his illness, Mr. Schobert may be up in a week or ten days.

His candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Congressman against Congressman J. Campbell Cantrill, is said to now be in the hands of his friends, and no action is said to have been taken toward his withdrawal from the race.

The Lure of Ambition.
Ambition often puts men upon doing the meanest office; so climbing is performed in the same posture as creeping.—Dean Swift.
