"Dog on it!"

Last Wednesday a dog of national fame among railroaders passed through Richmond en route from Irvine over the R. N. E. & B., and, as usual everywhere he goes, "attracted a crowd around him."

This famous canine has traveled in the Eastern part of the country over, and numbers among his friends ten thousand baggage-masters and brakemen, who always take good care of him.

He goes from place to place, on the cars, and is fed like a lord. Around his shaggy neck is a collar filled with medals of gold and silver, inscribed with the names of men of high and low degree, besides such legends as "Famous Oweyney," "the good Oweyney," etc.

Just before the train pulled out a new acquaintance ventured to caress the wonderful dog when the latter snapped at him, whereupon Postal Clerk Sowers remarked "Oweyney can always tell a scamp."

whereupon the gentleman's blazes turned his whiskers quite erect and the dog barked and destruction before it. Here they were detained over an hour, and here they contemplated their narrow escape from drowning. It is almost past belief, but for nearly one mile, clear up to the toll-gate, the turnpike was invisible, the stream having swollen until man nor beast could keep his footing. The predicament of the travelers was visible to residents in the vicinity but they were deterred from furnishing relief until the flood had subsided sufficiently to be forded on horseback, when Messrs. Jethro, Charles and Dan M. Chenault came to the rescue. The carriage was piloted for half a mile through the torrent, over obstacles that defied the vehicle from the pike, and around fences that lay flat in the roadway.

With profound gratitude the party thanked their rescuers and proceeded homeward in safety, where they arrived at 2:15 having been out for nearly four hours. The party was bound in all directions, and frightened at times for their lives. All this occurred on the Irvine pike near town, and may seem silly, but water is water anywhere you strike it, and the party were in an imminent peril of their lives in the middle of a county road as they ever care to be on the high seas.

While this was being enacted and just as the devastation was wrought by the angry tide, Rev. Tribble, in an endeavor to lighten the load, reports from up the stream from yard for yard into the water, from yard stretching far on either side of the road. The rail on which the party were traveling broke in two and would have been carried away had not a lead seized him at their feet in the middle of a county road as they ever care to be on the high seas.

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—lightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a complicated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. This is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who use it for good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore an important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you are in a chase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physician, but in need of a family remedy, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

The angry waters which surged and leaped and rose over piles of unbroken rock six feet high. Fencing, stumps, fodder, etc., swept past, often lifting the vehicle from the ground. At last the frightful crew turned abruptly from the pike and drove across the ditch a yard deep in water, over a low wire fence and paused not until safe on a hillside from whence they viewed the sight. They had not stopped a moment too soon for the bridge above was lost to view and the angry waters rushed over in fury creating debris and destruction before it. Here they were detained over an hour, and here they contemplated their narrow escape from drowning. It is almost past belief, but for nearly one mile, clear up to the toll-gate, the turnpike was invisible, the stream having swollen until man nor beast could keep his footing. I have given Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a fair test and consider it one of the very best remedies for croup that I have ever found. One dose has always been sufficient, although I use it freely. Any cold my children contract yields very readily to this medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it for croup and colds in children.—Geo. E. Wozler, Clerk of the Circuit Court, Fordsburg, W. Va. Mr. Ward L. Smith, of Fredericksburg, Mo., was troubled with chronic diarrhea for over thirty years. He had become fully satisfied that it was only a question of short time until he would have to give it up. He had been treated by some of the best physicians in Europe and America but got no permanent relief. One day he picked up a newspaper and chanced to read an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He got a bottle of it, the first dose helped him and its continued use cured him. For sale by W. G. White, Richmond, Va. feb-1m
