WEDNESDAY, JUNE 9, 1907.

Large deposits of gold have been discovered in Georgia. It is probable the Democrats down there are unearthing a lot of gold lumps who were buried by the Bryan voters last fall.

Ex-Mayor Jacob, of Louisville, was married last week to Miss Edith Ballitt, of that city. This is "Rosedale Charlie's" second and not his first matrimonial venture, as the Interior Journal would have it.

Democratic victory in November is in the air, and every one who mixes with the people can feel it. The Republicans lead it, too, and only hope to make a breach in our ranks through which they may crawl into office.

If it is not necessary to endorse the Chicago platform, it was your duty to go into the primary and assist in the selection of the best men. The ticket has been named and all Democrats should rally to the nominees and elect them from top to bottom.

Our West Main street friends mention that the Democratic convention at Frankfort endorsed the Bryan, Blackburn, Altgeld and Tolson platform. We wish to inform our neighbors that they failed to endorse or note the appearance of the Hanna-McKinley prosperity bond pronounced under the existing good standard.

Concerning the late Indian revolt in Montana, the war-whisperer of the Nicholas Democrat thus whoops:

Shades of Slog-Nasty Jim; wrath of Sear-Face Charlie! These Indians at Upper Tongue are all graduates of Calist's school. If it has the John G. curriculum all is explained. They are on a bust.

The Climax has from the outset announced its purpose to stand by the Democratic party in its local, state and national organizations. An honest and open primary has been held, and it now proposes to wield what influence its conventions course may have given it to elect the ticket that shall use the rooster as its emblem.

Aerial navigation has become at last a practicality, an accomplished fact. After ten years of silent, exhaustive labor and study, Prof. Langley has launched an air ship which will both "fly and light," and the vast depths of uncharted space have been opened to navigation, furnishing a new highway to the common service of mankind.

Those Democrats who think it unnecessary to have endorsed the Chicago platform, need not stand back on that account. If the candidates nominated in Madison are not good enough on that platform they would have been no better without it. If you want Democracy to triumph, if you want a Democrat, don't let your county pass into the hands of a party you have always fought and which has always fought you.

The Climax urges all those Democrats who have recently been engaged in a controversy among themselves to bury their past differences, put their backer behind them, and march forward with and unbroken front with the determination to prevent this city and county from passing into the control of that party which by its jobbery and corruption has disgraced the fair name of Kentucky. The Climax appeals to every Democrat to rally to its support in the prosecution of this good work.

We observe that Hon. Samuel Avritt, lately of Lebanon, but now a prominent member of the Louisville Bar, is a candidate for Judge of the Law and Equity division of the Louisville Circuit Court. In half a century, the people of the Falls City have had no opportunity to honor a higher type of the just judge, upright citizen, and Christian gentleman. If the voice of one who knows the man well could elevate him to his proper station that one would willingly suffer for all mistakes he might incur, for Samuel Avritt is one of the truest, wisest, gentlest and best of men. If Jefferson county would honor him, let her honor this noble and excellent man.

In line with its policy to support the cause which needs assistance, and oppose the wrong which needs resistance, the Standard Journal says:

"Notwithstanding certain politicians have sought and obtained nominations for county offices by the Republicans, there seems to be little disaffection in Boyle. In the primary last Saturday 1,307 votes were cast, whereas but 1,206 were recorded for Bryan. This shows that the Democrats are united on local issues and that the excellent ticket nominated will be elected. The redemption of the county will be hailed with delight by all who love Democracy and honest government."

Like the single standard no less, but loving his party more, honoring the honesty of purpose of the minority, but obeying the will of the majority, opposing Republicanism, supporting Democracy, the Standard Interior-Journal plants its guns on the ramparts and fires upon the common enemy, fit example for the emulation of the disgruntled element who are seeking in their tents.

Editor Walton says:

"The State convention which met at Frankfort Wednesday, was a strictly 16 to 1 body. There was no effort and no apparent desire to do the issue for harmony's sake and a straight out declaration for the Chicago platform was made. Bryan was endorsed and described as 'the peerless orator and statesman.' Chairman P. P. Johnson was retained as chairman of the State Central Committee and a program for an active campaign mapped out. The endorsement of the large crowd was unbounded and if the delegates reflect the feelings of their constituents there is going to be a Democratic victory this year that will set the pace for all future years. The Democrats never had a better opportunity nor more campaign material than the State and National administrations have manufactured for them and it would be hard to get the stray sheep back into the fold when they are fully acquainted with the manner in which the Republicans ran things. The Interior Journal hopes to add its full quota to the fighting strength of the Democratic army and to proclaim in November next that Kentucky is fully and forever claimed."

Good morning! The Climax is eleven years old to day, and has the largest subscription list in Madison county.

It is certain that this State would have had a Democratic Governor to-day and would have given Bryan 10,000 majority last fall, had we not had a Democratic daily paper in Louisville instead of the decoy ducks which misled so many Democrats who hitherto had looked to them for guidance and counsel. The party here this season until outaged patience ceased to be a virtue, when the Louisville Dispatch was called into existence. It is to-day the most able, fearless and convincing exponent of Democracy in the South, and has taken the position in the hearts of Kentucky and Tennessee Democracy which the one-time great Courier-Journal possessed.

The Climax is indebted to several prominent Democrats for their proposal at the late county convention to incorporate in the Resolutions an endorsement of the Climax as the only straight-out exponent of Democracy in the county, and calling upon the party by whom it stands to stand by it. The well intended compliment is thoroughly appreciated, but it would be unnecessary to call the attention of the party more fully to its recognized organ in this county. It has increased its circulation about four hundred in the last twelve months and is just that much ahead of any other paper published in Madison county. It is, however, due to the Democracy that any paper which purports to be of the faith of Jefferson and Jackson, and believes in that cardinal principle of the right of the majority to rule, should come out and avow its intention to stand by the platform and the nominees of the Democratic party. That is the only criterion by which to judge the politics of papers or of individuals.

A newspaper that denies the faith and yet calls itself Democratic is, in almost strictly scriptural language, "a liar, and the truth is not in it." It is time for the Democrats of Kentucky to buckle on their armor and "fight the devil with fire." In this instance, at least, he cannot be made hotter than the devil desires.

The State Convention at Frankfort last week nominated Sam J. Shackelford, of Daviess county, for Clerk of the Court of Appeals. It was the closest race in many years, but the result was accepted by all the delegates in the same spirit which animated them during the deliberations of both bodies. Great speeches were made by McCreey, Blackburn, Smith, Bronkton, Enloe, and others. Prominent men from all sections were present, who reported the party everywhere to be in a united, determined mood, barring the disaffection in quarters where the single standard has beguiled its devotees into slothfulness or open revolt, all of which bow to a tendency to solidify the majority and to win decisions by the ever growing influence of the single standard.

The convention was one of the finest ever held in Kentucky. It was an intelligent and conservative, but loyal and determined, expression of the people. It shows that Democracy is yet gallantly in the fight for justice and the people like the hero it has always been, it comes out from defeat stronger and more determined than ever. It will come again and again, if need be, to the banks of the money sharks, the corporations and the evil doers of the age. It will enforce the rights of the many against the encroachments of the powerful and greedy few, and it will ever lay down its arms until there be equal rights to all and special privileges to none.

Madison county was represented by Hon. J. B. McCreey, W. B. Smith, and A. T. Chennault, Messrs. J. B. Chennault, S. Powell, D. M. Chennault, Matt Cohen, J. P. Simmons, and Clarence E. Woods.

An Abscess

In the Stomach Caused Great Suffering—Was Confined to Work.
"In October, 1885, I had an abscess in my stomach. I was also taken with pleurisy and coughed very badly. I was treated by physicians but did not improve. I gave up all hope of ever getting well. My right side was swollen. I was not able to walk across the room and was confined to my bed. I was advised to try Hood's Sarsaparilla and began taking it. In three days I could see a change for the better. I kept on taking Hood's Sarsaparilla until I had taken four bottles and continued to improve. I am now able to do good day's work on the farm." M. E. MANS, Demosville, Kentucky.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Hood's Pills purify and digest the food, owing to cool weather.
Several Dearwallow friends were out at preaching Sunday.
Our gentlemanly agent, H. K. Smith, has returned from Nicholasville, where he was called to work the wives for a few days. Mr. Wolf, who has been visiting here in his stead, has departed. Elder D. Combs preached Friday and Saturday nights, and Sunday at our school house, with two additions to the church. He will continue indefinitely, alternating between Thomas school house and here.

LOCAL.

The Sam Stone Sale.
The largest land sale in years in this county took place on Wednesday, where at 5501 acres belonging to Auditor S. H. Stone were sold. The Rodes tract of 102 acres, well improved, brought $102,500, total $10,000. The Simmons tract, 1713 acres, brought $80, or $13,730 for the price; the White tract, 233 acres, $70 per acre, $15,820. Total $48,145, all purchased by Col. J. W. Caperton, President of the Richmond National Bank, who is residing upon the Rodes tract. Possession given Jan. 1, 1908, one fourth the purchase money to be paid then, the balance in 6, 12 and 18 months.

A 40 acre tract was bought by J. D. Harris for $1,000.
Judge A. R. Barnam recently bought privately from Mr. Stone 315 acres for $22,150, or about $69 per acre. Hence Mr. Stone's land sales aggregate 9141 acres for $20,755. To this should be added $1,600 for horses and other personalty sold last week, making a grand total of $71,375.

Preparatory Exercises.
This year's exercises of the Preparatory may be said to have eclipsed all previous commencement of that character of Central University. The occasion long since became a feature of the week's festivities, and this year the crowd was larger than usual, and interested at all times. Interest was largely centered in the declamatory contests, as follows:

Geo. W. Pickles, Jr., Richmond, Ky. Subject—"Opportunities for Work."
Barber Betts, "What is the Destiny of Our Republic?"
John Ehard Creed, Richmond, Ky. Subject—"Mississippi Contested Election."
Senior Division.

C. Cromwell Peterson, Campbellsville, Ky. Subject—"Death Bed of Benedict Arnold."
Guy J. Chandler, "Campbellsville, Ky. Subject—"Voices of the Dead."
Robert F. Scudder, "Richmond, Ky. Subject—"Voices of the Dead."
H. D. Ayres, "College Hill, Ky. Subject—"The Convict's Soliloquy."

The speeches were so excellent, so uniformly good, that the judges had difficulty in bringing in decisions.
However they awarded the prizes to Messrs. Creed and Chandler, and their respective divisions, which met with popular approval. The invocation was pronounced by Rev. T. M. Hawes, of Louisville; fine music by glee club.

The honor roll was interesting, and revealed a high class of scholarship. The prizes were given, as follows:
For highest average, G. W. Pickles, Jr., Richmond; H. D. Ayres, of College Hill, and Charles Leggett of Richmond, were close contestants.
Prize for advanced spelling, H. D. Ayres.

The Principal, Prof. Chandler, complimented the school upon its excellent deportment all the year, and upon having kept up its standard to the end. Corporal punishment was inflicted only once during the entire term, which is evidence of the discipline and good order maintained.

It is a pleasure to add that Prof. Chandler, who will be retained next year, has given satisfaction to a large number of the patrons and friends of the Institution. It is due his assistants, Messrs. Burton, Lullance and Sanderson, to say that they supported the Principal in his labors and did highly acceptable work.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one druggist who has the courage to stand by the truth, and that is C. F. Chennault, of this city, the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The Word "Dollar."

According to one authority the word "dollar" is a corruption of the German word "teller" in the form of Dutch being "daaler," Danish "daler," and Italian "talero." All these different forms were derived from Joachim's Thaler, a Bohemian coin, where the Count of Schlick, A. D. 1517, coined some excellent pieces in silver of one ounce in weight. From the name of the town came Joachim's Thaler, applied to the above-named coins, as well as that of Schickelbacher. Hence, Joachim's Thaler's name, and then into Thalers. These coins gained such a reputation, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, that they became a pattern, so that others of the same kind, though made in other places, took the name, the word assuming different meanings in the various countries, reaching Spain as dollars, and through the provinces transmitted to the Western hemisphere, where it was applied to coins prior to the adoption of the federal currency. In coinage the word "dollar" is a story, being found under various spellings in almost every part of the globe. The value of a dollar has no increased of late that it will now purchase twice as much as formerly, particularly in dry goods, clothing, and foodstuffs, as the New York Store, next to Farmer's National Bank, Richmond, Ky.

The Word "Dollar."

According to one authority the word "dollar" is a corruption of the German word "teller" in the form of Dutch being "daaler," Danish "daler," and Italian "talero." All these different forms were derived from Joachim's Thaler, a Bohemian coin, where the Count of Schlick, A. D. 1517, coined some excellent pieces in silver of one ounce in weight. From the name of the town came Joachim's Thaler, applied to the above-named coins, as well as that of Schickelbacher. Hence, Joachim's Thaler's name, and then into Thalers. These coins gained such a reputation, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, that they became a pattern, so that others of the same kind, though made in other places, took the name, the word assuming different meanings in the various countries, reaching Spain as dollars, and through the provinces transmitted to the Western hemisphere, where it was applied to coins prior to the adoption of the federal currency. In coinage the word "dollar" is a story, being found under various spellings in almost every part of the globe. The value of a dollar has no increased of late that it will now purchase twice as much as formerly, particularly in dry goods, clothing, and foodstuffs, as the New York Store, next to Farmer's National Bank, Richmond, Ky.
