PRICES of farm products continue to go up, while the price of silver continues to fall.

What's grabbed you? The price of voters in Ohio probably has gone up, but if there has been one good sale in Madison in five years we can name a hundred poor ones.

"BRYAN is the legitimate and logical candidate of all the silver forces for President in 1909."

"This is the emphatic and unqualified opinion of Senator Teller, who has returned to Washington and was in his seat in the senate chamber for the first time in several weeks."

"Bryan will be more and more the legitimate and logical candidate. I believe he will be the nominee of the silver forces in the next national campaign, and that there will be no difficulty in combining on him."

JUDGE CASTRILLI of the Franklin Circuit and State Fiscal Court, holds unconstitutional the act passed by the late Legislature authorizing the State to issue $500,000 worth of bonds.

"Did the adoption of gold by Portugal lift that country into the position of a first class power? Did the change of Germany from silver and gold to silver alone in 1873 degrade the German character or check the progress of that great people?"

State Board of Sinking Fund Commissioners. The act in question was drawn by the committee on revenue and taxation and it finally invalidated knocks out the most important part of the otherwise valuable legislation by the Republican General Assembly.

HITS BUILDING ASSOCIATIONS HARD. It is almost certain that the building and loan companies operating in Kentucky will be forced to cease operations since the decision of the Court of Appeals rendered Saturday.

The adverse decision to the companies came as a great shock, as it was confidently believed that the court would decide favorably to them. The court holds that even the due is 'interest' and that the borrowers, who have been paying from 12 to 17 per cent. in dues and interest, are entitled to recover or be credited by all in excess of a 6 per cent. interest he has paid.

A full copy of the opinion has not been received in this city, but enough is known to know that the law under which they have been operating is unconstitutional, and that the result will be a big thing for the borrowers with a small number of shares of stock and a big loss to those who have purchased the stock as a matter of investment.

The following is the official synopsis of the decision: First—The provision of the building and loan statutes, to the extent that it authorizes the exaction of monthly or weekly premiums of 6 per cent. per annum, in addition to 6 per cent. per annum legal interest, on sums loaned members of the association, is violative of the constitutional provision prohibiting the legislature from passing any special or local law regarding the rate of interest, as well as contrary to the provision of the bill of rights prohibiting the grant of separate or exclusive privileges to any man or set of men.

Second—The subscription for stock in such associations and the advance of money thereon are nothing more than a lending agency, borrowing of money, and the premium is interest exacted for the use of the money in addition to the legal rate of interest, and such premium is usury.

That the friends of silver are ready for another fight with the advocates of the gold standard is evidenced by the large attendance at the convention of the Ohio Bimetallist League held at Cincinnati last week, when Wm. J. Bryan, Col. Geo. Washington, Gen. E. B. Finley, ex-Congressman Towne, Gen. A. J. Warner and Editor Bartine, of Nevada, addressed the assemblage of 500 delegates from Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia and Kentucky.

Many grand old warriors of both parties were there to see the reorganization of the forces which, last week, so bravely and manfully withstood overwhelming numbers, and while forced to temporary retreat, are massing for an onslaught that would be irresistible. There was a genuine feast of oratory, the star parts taken by W. J. Bryan, whose speech is on our first page, Mr. Towne, Hon. H. F. Bartine, Hon. C. J. Brown, Gen. Warner and other speakers.

The CLIMAX, which was represented in the person of one of its editors, gladly reproduces below the salient points in Mr. Bartine's address.

been under the constitutional standard of both metals? "If I owe a $1000 mortgage it would be a mighty good thing for the mortgagee to receive his bill at the rate of $2 for $1."

NOT A CENT. "Suppose there were only one person living on the surface of this globe how much gold would he be worth?" "England is the world's greatest creditor; the United States is at once the greatest debtor and producer. It is, as Mr. Gladstone says, to the interest of England's creditor classes to enhance the value of gold, because it enables them to write more and more of the unfortunate debtor. But it is to our interest to put down the value of gold, because by doing so we reduce the value of everything we have to sell, and lighten the burden of our debt."

"How much would a national bank note or a greenback be worth if there was no law supporting it? Nothing at all."

"After silver had perfectly performed the work of money for 4,000 years with no complaint anywhere on the score of inconvenience, they suddenly bring to light the alleged fact that it is too heavy and bulky for money use, and they indulge in no end of sarcasm at the expense of the 'cart-wheel' dollar. One would imagine from their talk that silver had from some inscrutable cause changed its specific gravity."

"Was ALL RIGHT THEN. "Silver was all right when used and to be carried from country to country on mules and camels, or in stage coaches, or old fashioned sailing craft; but in modern railroad train or ocean steamer is not equal to its transportation because of its bulk and weight."

"The fact that the silver from Potosi and Mexico fairly lifted Europe from misery and debasement to the dark ages, is one fact they appear to have forgotten."

"Under bimetallism, gold and silver would compete with each other in supplying the demand for money just as effectually as spring wheat and winter wheat compete with each other in supplying the demand for bread."

"If the present gold standard gives us an honest dollar, then international bimetallism, by making it cheaper, will make it a 'dishonest' dollar."

"The free coinage of silver will increase the supply of money with which to pay higher prices, while the higher tariff will not add a dollar to the world's stock of money."

"Mr. John Sherman says that the best dollar is the one that will be most. If that be true we have a short and easy way to prosperity. All we have to do is to wipe out of existence a large portion of the money we now have, make it exceedingly scarce (the scarcer the better), greatly increase its purchasing power and the thing is done."

"When the great panic of 1893 came we had the McKinley law, the highest tariff ever enacted, and the law was not clanged until 15 months after the panic burst upon us."

HANNA'S UNSELFISH PATRIOTISM. "A few like Mr. Hanna, of your state, are chiefly concerned about their own election, and, of course, want a law that will make their calling sure. Don't misunderstand me, I am not accusing Mr. Hanna of selfishness. On the contrary I know, as all the rest of you know, that in desiring a full term after the expiration of his present one, he is actuated by the loftiest patriotism, and the most complete spirit of self sacrifice. He has promised the people prosperity. He has promised the people peace. He has promised the people a full term of at least six years to make delivery; but he is determined that the people shall have prosperity, no matter how long it takes, what hardships he may have to undergo, or what personal sacrifice he may be compelled to make in order to give it to them. He is even anxious to take upon himself all the arduous duties of a United States Senator, not for his own sake—perish the thought—but simply and solely that prosperity, like a white-winged dove, may settle upon the humble cot of every honest laborer in the land."

"But you all know as much about Mark Hanna as I do, and I will not squander time in expatiating upon his virtues. It is well, though, for you not to lose sight of the fact that he is only human, and that omniscience is not a human attribute. He promised prosperity immediately upon the election of McKinley. Seven and a half months have rolled away, and up to date we have not even heard a rustle of the bird's wing. A man who can so easily be mistaken seven and a half months, may be mistaken seven and a half years."

"My friends, prosperity cannot be restored this country by higher taxes—by taking more away from those who are already the poorest and giving it to those who are already the richest. Neither can it be done by taking money out of the arteries of trade and piling it up in the Treasury of the United States."

"Why, my friends; there has never been a minute during the last five years when the government could not meet every obligation. In that sense there has never been a dollar of money that has been there, and if there had been there plenty of silver lying in the treasury, an idle and useless mass, which could have been coined to meet it; and it would have been within both the spirit and the letter of the law to have used it for that purpose."

"I have not the slightest faith that we shall ever get an international agreement, unless we force one by taking the first step. Our commissioners abroad are of course having a good time. They are being courteously received and well entertained, as everybody knew they would be. At the banquet board, where they are the guests of enthusiastic European bimetallists, the situation is painted in rainbow colors, but I see nothing to indicate that we are any nearer to an international agreement than we were in 1878."

"The creditor classes of Europe absolutely control the financial policy of their respective governments, and they will never voluntarily surrender the advantage which the gold standard gives them. If we want silver restored we must do it ourselves."

"I care not under what party name the battle is fought, so long as there is absolute fidelity to the cause. The Democracy of Jackson and the Republicanism of Lincoln, under any name, will make a combination good enough for me, and it ought to be good enough for any American citizen who has the best interests of the country at heart. "The star of Wm. J. Bryan has risen in the West. Let the true Democrats of the country take that star as their guide, let them follow the road lighted by its rays, let there be no wavering or faltering or temporizing with the uncertain elements, and I believe the silver Republicans will go with them to the end. We can accept the Democracy of Bryan, but we will not accept anything that is even tinged with that peculiar brand of Democracy which is exemplified in the persons of Grover Cleveland and Jno. G. Carlisle. For in our opinion, it is both un-Democratic and un-American."

upon her arrival home the E. W. S. Club will form a house party, to be given by Mrs. John Taylor, of Madison county.—Lexington Argonaut.

One of the largest, swiftest and most enjoyable social functions which have graced local society in many moons, was the reception given on Thursday night by Mrs. C. D. Chennault to her guests, Mrs. S. G. Humphreys and Mrs. L. S. Johnston, of Woodford. More than three hundred invitations had been issued, and hence there was a very large attendance.

Mrs. Mary Neale Thompson and Miss Margaret Chennault assisted in entertaining; Miss Mariawille Smith dispensed iced tea, while Miss Minna Crutcher presided at the colossal punch bowl. The dining room was a symphony in pink, the hall a yellow poem, whilst the air was redolent with the perfume of Japanese incense. The supper was notably excellent and served in the height of fashion. Misses Florrie Chennault and Lettie Taylor distributed the souvenirs. A feature of the evening was the singing of Mrs. Harry B. Hanger and the violin renditions of Mrs. John T. McClintock. Altogether the affair was recherche and will be remembered.

S. P. Deatherage in the Race. Mr. Sam P. Deatherage is elsewhere announced for councilman from the University Ward, subject to the action of the Democratic party. It is a pleasure to say of this entry that he, if elected, would make a model officer. He is an honest, capable, industrious, patriotic citizen who it would be an honor to call a "City Dad." Watch him run!

Deputy Sheriff Dudley's Fishing Party. On Saturday last a number of young folks gathered on Silver Creek near Bogie's Mill, where fishing was the feature of the day, though the river failed to see one sign of a pole or reel. No catch was had. The party consisted of the following: Dudley, the deputy sheriff, and a number of his friends. The occasion proved a gala day for all present, there being about 40 of both young and old folks present. All expressed their thanks to Mr. Dudley, incidental in the pleasant event, and are now looking forward when another such day may be had.
