There's Room For Success In the Great Southwest

Have you ever considered the great advantage of this feature of the Southwest—plenty of elbow room—where three, five, even ten acres may be had at the price of a single acre in your home section? It's worth a look, especially when the great price of the land is taken into account. It's a wonderfully fertile section. There is no better agricultural section in this country, and farms are cheap—very cheap. In Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas—simply because there are more farms than farmers. Can you afford to overlook an opportunity of this kind? Our illustrated booklets will give you the particulars in detail. If not interested, write for them anyway in behalf of your favored relatives or neighbors.

GOOD AIR FOR BABES

INFANTS SLEEP ON TOP OF SKYSCRAPERS TO AID HEALTH.

Latest Treatment Advocated for Both Strong and Weak Proves Popular in Aristocratic Section of Boston.

Putting baby to sleep in a box on top of the flat roof of a modern skyscraper apartment house, or in an iron balcony far above the sidewalk, or even in the broad window seat of an upper story is the newest method of fresh air training which is developing among the wealthy and aristocratic Boston families of Back Bay and Beacon Hill.

The treatment became so popular that almost any street in the exclusive section of the city may look up to the upper stories of houses, especially apartment houses, and outside the window is a box which in the poorer quarter of the city would be taken for a window garden. And so it is, in fact, in a garden for the little buds of the family.

The method, begun when the baby is not more than two or three months old, may be continued until the child is five or six years old, or as long as the custom of having a daily nap is kept up. It is not devised especially for sickly children, but for strong babies as well. Advocates of the method point out several advantages. For the child there is fresh air instead of the vitiated air of the house. This in itself conduces to sound sleep and good nature. It has an advantage that the mother is spared the noise and dust of the street as well as contact with other children, where is always present the possibility of contracting children's diseases.

For the mother or nurse it means a saving of many hours every day during the life of the baby, for while the little one still gets air, the mother or nurse is spared the long and often laborious work of pushing the carriage up and down the street, and they have time for other pressing household duties or for recreation.

During last winter, notwithstanding the severity of the cold, there were few days when babies were not placed in their accustomed sleeping places on the window sill or on the roof.

Most mothers or nurses wrap up the baby just about as an Indian squaw wraps up her papoose. Then it is laid on a hat box or a box of some kind, strapped securely to the box, and covered with blankets.

AMERICAN DISH CAUSES STIR

Effort of Restaurant Keeper in London to Introduce Broiled Live Lobsters Rouses Humanitarians.

An American restaurant keeper of London, who is anxious to introduce to the British public a delicacy few of them know or had heard of, placed a bill in his window announcing that "broiled live lobsters may be obtained within." Among the first to notice it was the editor of the "Animals' Friend," who hastened to contribute the terrible news to the world through the medium of the Times. He says in his letter: "Not having heard of this barbarity before and thinking the words might be merely the fancy title of some innocent compound, I entered and asked the manager if he had any live lobsters."

A SHEPHERD OF MEN.

Wonderful Pulpit Success of a Humble Frenchman.

People Flock by Thousands to Hear Former Sheep Herder Expound the Gospel—Speaks Wherever Summoned.

One of the most remarkable men in France to-day is Rev. Charles Wagner, a modest Protestant pastor, who was a humble shepherd in Alsace some 40 years ago.

He left his flock of sheep to preach the gospel to the lowly people of France, and now the good shepherd may not even count his flock of men, for they number up in the hundreds of thousands. Everywhere in all France he is welcomed. His simple speech is heard and heeded by high and low alike. He is a man of the masses. He preaches to live the modest life of a poor peasant, and seems to be endowed with an insatiable taste for work.

This simple preacher of the gospel has never been known to decline an invitation to speak. He travels far and wide, and the homage paid him on his pilgrimages is like that tendered to a ruling monarch.

Besides the thousands to whom he has preached in 40 years from the pulpit, he has reached other thousands through the medium of his book, "Simple Life." This has spread all over the continent and been translated into many languages.

Among the shepherd-clergyman's letters concerning the volume is one from President Roosevelt, who said in closing his letter to the author: "I preach your book to my countrymen."

The noted clergyman preaches in a simple little hall in the St. Antoine quarter, near the Place de La Bastille, but receives frequent calls from large provincial towns in France and abroad. Frequently he is summoned to Switzerland. The little hall where he went to preach is always crowded to the doors and hundreds of people are turned away every Sunday.

He makes an annual pilgrimage to Geneva for the teaching of his doctrines, and the people all worship him. He counts among his friends and admirers many distinguished Americans, among them ex-Gov. Levi P. Morton and John W. Vanmeter.

NEW GUN IS CONVENIENT.

King Edward Shows Much Interest in Field Fire Weapon of Danish Regiment.

King Edward, of Great Britain, was greatly interested in the new machine gun which was shown him in Copenhagen on the occasion of his recent inspection of the Royal Danish Hussar regiment, of which his majesty is honorary colonel. A company armed with this gun is attached to his regiment.

The principal features of this machine gun are that its light weight and convenient form make it especially suitable for use with cavalry and infantry. A man can easily carry it and 250 cartridges. The rate of fire can be regulated by the marksman up to 15 shots per second. Better results can be obtained with this than with the ordinary machine gun when firing at a mark, because it is served in the same way as a rifle and its movement can be more readily followed.

The gun can be taken either on foot or on horse wherever infantry or cavalry go, and it is very quickly brought into action. Better results can be obtained with this than with the ordinary machine gun when firing at a mark, because it is served in the same way as a rifle and its movement can be more readily followed.

HEARS SERMON; GIVES UP.

Fugitive from Chicago Justice Moved to Surrender While in Hiding in Texas.

Fred A. Beach, formerly of Chicago, now resident of Dallas, Tex., under the name of George A. Collins, and who surrendered at Fort Worth recently as a fugitive from Chicago justice, has given up his hiding place.

Beach was arrested by Chicago police as the result of a sermon which he heard. He declares he is willing to go back to Chicago and take his punishment.

According to the signed confession Beach was employed by the Boston store in Chicago as head bookkeeper. He says his downfall was due to gambling. He regretted that the shortcomings would be discovered when the books were audited at the end of the year, and when he was sent with a check for $10,000 to the bank to be cashed he fled after securing the money.

Beach went to Elgin, Ill.; Atholton, Kan., and Denver, Col., and then to Texas. He stopped in Fort Worth, Houston, and Galveston. From the latter place he went to Key West and then to Cuba. He returned to Dallas and engaged in the coffee business in North Texas street. He was unsuccessful. Several months ago he married Miss Ethel Miller, of Dallas. She is living in retirement with her parents.

Can't Desist.

The historians are beginning to write about Napoleon again. The Chicago Record-Herald remarks that they never find it possible to let up for more than a few months at a time.

By One Who Has Tried Many.

According to recent investigations, says the Chicago Tribune, there are 4,000 hoaxes in the United States—mostly bad.

There never was greatness without gratitude.

In Knox dog meat is in great request at certain seasons.

Last year's gown will not do this season.

In India but one pair of eyes is allowed to read or write.

Lovely's eye is the eye of the opposite sign.
