"It cannot be that earth is man's only abiding place. It cannot be that our life is a bubble cast up by the ocean of eternity to float a moment upon its waves and sink into nothingness. Else, why is it the high and glorious aspirations which leap like angels from the temple of our hearts are forever wandering unquenched? Why is it that the bright forms of human beauty are presented to our view and taken from us, leaving the thousand streams of our affections to flow back in an alpine torrent upon our hearts? We are born for higher destiny than that of earth. There is a realm where the rainbow never fades, where the stars will be spread out before us like the hands and feet of a giant, where the beautiful beings which pass before us like the shadows will stay forever in our presence." In these beautiful thoughts we can all find much to be thankful for, even if a vacant chair is in our home and the dark side of life seems turned toward us. They will place a silver lining back of any cloud. As a matter of fact we all have much to be thankful for.

OPINIONS as to the results of the coming session of Congress vary not a little. Some of the statesmen already in Washington believe that Congress will pass practically no legislation. Others are just as certain that it will deliver deeply into tariff legislation. It is not very probable that Congress will transact very much business, as both parties will probably feel disposed to go ahead with much caution on the eve of a big political campaign, in order to make as few mistakes as possible. The currency will receive a good deal of attention, and an effort will be made to adopt the Aldrich plan for a central bank. The Democrats are disposed to abolish the Commerce Court, which they accuse of being too strongly biased in favor of the transportation interests. They decide unequivocally that they have "got its goat," as the sporting editors say, and an effort will be made to amend the Sherman anti-trust law, and the trust busting measures are due for a lot of anti-corporation talk.

CONGRESSMAN R. L. Henry, of Texas, chairman of the Rules Committee of the House, will make an effort during the coming session of Congress to amend the Sherman anti-trust law that "trust criminals," as he terms them, may be put in jail when they violate the law. He is convinced there is no other remedy for the trust evil. "Fines and dissolution suits are child's play for trust magicians," he said, explaining the bill he will introduce. "Fines and dissolution suits are child's play for trust magicians," he said, explaining the bill he will introduce.

MISS LORAIN LOWERY and Elizabeth Sears, of Nicholasville, are the charming guests of Miss Margaret Covington for the Thanksgiving holidays. The Sherwood Club met with Miss G. Mansfield on the Summit Saturday. An enjoyable program was rendered and a delightful luncheon served. Mrs. Clifton Weaver and son have returned home after a pleasant visit to relatives in Berea. Miss Rosalind Clark was a visitor in Berea at the same time. Dr. Crabbe spoke at Carlisle Friday before the Ninth District Educational Association on the topic, "The Normal School and its Relation to the Common Wealth."

MISS TOMMIE COLE Covington has returned from a delightful visit to Mrs. Walker, formerly of this city. Mrs. Covington visited Mrs. Combs, nee Miss Sallie Rucker, at Mayville, for a few days. Mr. and Mrs. Smith Oldham left yesterday for a six month stay in Tucson, Arizona. Mr. Oldham, who has been in poor health for several years, is hoping to be benefited by the change of climate. Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bacon of Lexington, enjoyed a white bird hunt and feast at the home of W. S. McClinton in Russell. While they were there Mrs. and Mrs. Clifton Weaver and son, Jennings, joined them in their bird feast. Miss Annie Shadden, a missionary from Oklahoma, doing work among the Indians in that section, spent several days last week as the guest of Mrs. J. B. Meffer. While here she made three addresses in the interest of her work. Dr. R. T. Scanlon, of Rock Hill, S. C., who assisted in the operation performed upon his brother, Rev. D. H. Scanlon,

UNCLE SAM seems to be looked on by the great nation as the great mediator. Whenever there is trouble anywhere else on earth, everyone looks to the United States to step in, take the combatants by the scruff of the neck, and stop the row. Turkey is the latest applicant for mediation. The "terrible Turk" was going about his accustomed ways, when Italy knocked him down and trampled on him. Everyone held his breath, awaiting the Turk's reprisal. What happened? Turkey yelled "take him off, fellows! I didn't do nothing!" And now Turkey, insisting that fighting is further from his desire, wants Uncle Sam to make Italy quit. What will Uncle Sam do?

FRANKFORT people will be pleased to know that Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Smith, of Richmond, are coming to Frankfort to live for four years. Those who know Mr. and Mrs. Smith know how attractive they are and those who do not know either has heard so much that is pleasant of them both that they feel that they know both. Mr. Smith will make an ideal private secretary to the Governor.—Frankfort News-Journal

Strayed or Stolen.

Judge Black Ill.
Judge W. R. Black, of Harbortville, was taken suddenly ill last week, and is now in St. Joseph's Hospital, Louisville. An operation was performed, and the news from his bedside is very discouraging. Judge Black has many relatives and friends in this county who will regret to learn of his illness.

Location of Suits.
In affirming a decision in a case resulting from damage to a car load of mules, for which the railroad was sued, the Court of Appeals says the suit must be brought either where the defendant resides, where the contract was made, or where the goods were delivered, and no other courts have jurisdiction.

Mr. Poultryman—If you are not getting eggs, don't blame the chickens. Help them along by feeding Conkey's Laying Tonic. Stockton's drug store has it.

Shelton Gets New Trial.
The Appellate Court, Friday last, reversed the Madison Circuit Court in the case of Tye Shelton against the Commonwealth, and remanded for a new trial. Appellant was sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Martin Page, in this county, about a year ago. In reversing the Court says that, in shooting a person with whom he was in a difficulty, Shelton accidentally killed the woman, the act would be excused by the law as an unavoidable casualty, and says the jury should have been so instructed.

Mrs. Stone Walker Injured.
Monday's Louisville Courier-Journal contained the following account of an accident which befell Mrs. Stone Walker, formerly of this city. "Mrs. Stone Walker was burned about the neck and hands and Emma Jacobs, a negro maid, sustained dangerous injuries by the explosion of an acetylene gas tank at the home of Mrs. George Boone on the Prospect car line near the Country Club, shortly after 2 o'clock last evening. Mrs. and Mr. Walker have been living at Mrs. Boone's residence while their home was being made at their own home. Last evening the acetylene lighting apparatus got out of order, and the colored maid, under the direction of Mrs. Walker, attempted to remedy the difficulty. An explosion followed, the maid sustaining severe burns about the breast and face. Mrs. Walker's injuries were not dangerous. Mrs. Walker was given medical attention at the residence by Dr. Keeler and Dr. Hobson, of Harrod's Creek. The maid was brought to the Citizens' Hospital, in Green street, near First, for treatment. The cause of the explosion was not damaged to any great extent by the explosion."

OLD PURITAN BIBLE BOXES

Curious Carved Chests for the Safe-keeping of Copies of the Scriptures.

Almost invariably after some great wave of religious enthusiasm, we are confronted by strange fragments of salvage which reflect the emotional passion and religious ardor of a departed hour, says the Queen. Such were the devotional carvings of the middle ages, the triptyches, the private tabernacles, the beautiful little ivory diademas.

Among such memorials are the vast old Puritan Bible boxes. Cumbrous, ancient arks, into which the revised version of James I. was once committed for safe ward and keeping. The sound oakboards with which they were made have resisted the tooth of time.

In the long journeys of the men of the Puritan period, when the scriptures were part of the daily accompaniment of life, the province of these boxes was readily to be seen. When in the home they were made to contain those ponderous family Bibles in which, especially during the commonwealth, the head of the house carefully inscribed the births, deaths or marriage of his children with other memorabilia of family life. This circumstance in the absence of other authentic records, and the facility of parish registers, has sometimes proved an invaluable aid. How little we could have spared, for instance, that volume in which Milton recorded the very hour and minute of his children's births.

Ash wood was sometimes used in the manufacture of Bible boxes, but oak was the most popular for its superior powers of resistance, for we must remember they were at times in the possession of ecclesiastical stewards, the vigor of whose preaching was sometimes calculated by the amount of damage done to the pulpit furniture.

Throughout the commonwealth, and by the general convention of 1656, traveling ministers were gratuitously supplied with Bibles, a very expensive item; and in struggling parishes the book, with its appropriate cover, often formed the sole effects of a new convert. It is a curious fact that Bibles were sometimes subjected to raffling, even in those austere days. In 1675 one Dr. Wilde bequeathed £250 for the purpose of providing Bibles to be raffled among the poorer brethren.

A picture estimated to be worth $25,000, which so many years has been hidden away in a lumber room at St. Mary's hall, Coventry, has just been restored and put in a place of honor in St. Mary's hall.

Owing to damp and an accumulation of dust and dirt, the picture had become so defaced that the corporation of Coventry had decided to sell it if they could get $375 for it. But Messrs. God and Cox, a London firm of picture restorers were at work upon the pictures in St. Mary's hall, and one of their experts recognized it as a masterpiece.

It was found to be one of the finest examples extant of the work of Jacopo Tintoretto, a pupil and fellow-worker of Rubens. Tintoretto was born in Antwerp, and the picture was probably painted about 1640. It represents Bacchus springing from his car upon seeing Ariadne. The canvas is about thirty feet by ten feet high. Presented to Coventry by Edward Ellice, M. P., in 1855, little value was attached to it, and it was subsequently consigned to the lumber room.

A Most Generous Nature.
They had been married but a short time, and their happiness was idyllic. Her slightest wish was law; his merest whim was gratified. And all this on $7.50 a week!

For Kentucky River.
In the report of Gen. Bixby, Chief of Engineers, he names $168,000, as the amount to be appropriated for Kentucky River. This is to be used in 1913 for the completion of Lock No. 14, the last one provided for in the existing scheme.

Rev. James M. Bailey of Farmington, Mo., a classmate of the pastor's, preached an able sermon Sunday night.
