In addition to the names in our last issue, Mr. N. B. Deatherage and Prof. G. D. Smith have been appointed delegates to the Southern Educational Meeting in Richmond, Va., in April. This is an honor well deserved for no better choice could have been made.

The Parent-Teachers Association met on Friday at 3 p. m., at the Model School. The address of the afternoon on "Practical Morality" was delivered by Dr. D. H. Scanlon, while the subject was discussed by Prof. Hoskinson, Mrs. Mary Bates Miller and Miss Gibson. The program in full was interesting and helpful and was enjoyed by a large number of the members.

Bluegrass League

In Paris, Richmond and Mt. Sterling, the bluegrass league proposition is now in doubt and it seems that all these towns are about ready to quit losing large sums of money each year, even though the sport is fine. Paris and Mt. Sterling, especially, are very doubtful, while Richmond will decide within the next few days. The Mt. Sterling fans are crying for a team and are calling on the people in general for subscriptions to get a start.—Winchester Democrat.

Dr. G. W. Evans Dead

This community was startled last Thursday evening to learn that Dr. G. W. Evans had suddenly died from heart failure. Dr. Evans had not been in good health for some years, but it was not suspected that he was in any immediate danger. He and some friends had been in the habit of gathering at the Masonic Club rooms for an afternoon social intercourse. Last Thursday his friends collected as usual, but the doctor did not appear and one of them went for him. He came with him to the club room and a very pleasant social hour was in progress. It was noticed that Doctor Evans leaned forward as if to cough, then sank slowly to the table and died in a few seconds.

Dr. Evans was 70 years of age. He was a native of Clark county, but came to Madison county in his early life and was married to Miss Nannie Chenault, of this city. To this union there were born six children, G. W. Evans, Jr., L. P. Evans, Joseph Evans, Overton Evans, William Evans, and Miss Mary, now Mrs. T. H. Pickels, all of whom survive him. He was a prominent physician and enjoyed a very extensive practice for many years. In his early life he was a surgeon in the United States army, which position he filled with credit. In the latter years of his life he was engaged in the real estate business and was successful. He has done much for the betterment and extension of this city. He was a member of the Baptist church of this city, and always took an active part in church work.

After the death of his first wife Dr. Evans married Miss Mary Spencer Smith, of this city, who survives him.

The funeral was conducted at the home on Saturday afternoon at three o'clock by Rev. C. C. Marshall of the Baptist Church assisted by Rev. C. K. Marshall, thence his burial in the Richmond Cemetery. The music was unusually beautiful and the flowers and their profusion attested the popularity and esteem in which he was held.

All of which was cordially declined with thanks.

Dr. C. K. Marshall, of this city, now residing with his son-in-law, J. S. Collins, has been invited to deliver an address in Baltimore in a church which he dedicated twenty-five years ago while pastor there. Dr. Marshall will also take in the inaugural ceremonies while East.

Mrs. Shepherd Injured

Mrs. Geo. Shepherd, wife of the Baptist minister who formerly lived here, met with a peculiar accident last week, at her home in Winchester. ## The Webb Inter-State Shipment Bill

"A bill divesting intoxicating liquors of their inter-state character in certain cases.

"Be it enacted, that the shipment or transportation in any manner or by any means whatsoever of any spirituous, vinous, malted, fermented or other intoxicating liquor of any kind from one State, Territory or district of the United States or place non-contiguous to but subject to the jurisdiction thereof into any other State, Territory or district of the United States, or place non-contiguous to but subject to the jurisdiction thereof, or from any foreign country into any State, Territory or district of the United States, or place non-contiguous to but subject to the jurisdiction thereof, which said spirituous, vinous, malted, fermented or other intoxicating liquor is intended by any person interested therein to be received, possessed, sold or in any manner used either in the original package or otherwise in violation of any law of such State, Territory, or district of the United States or place non-contiguous to but subject to the jurisdiction thereof, is hereby prohibited."

President Taft vetoed the bill Friday, February 28, 1913. In doing so he gave in his reasons that he thought the bill was unconstitutional. An additional reason for giving it the axe was that it would cut down the revenues $77,000,000 per annum, and that Congress had not provided any revenue to take its place.

In less than two hours after the bill was vetoed, the Senate passed it over the veto by the vote of 63 to 21. Bradley and Paynter voted to sustain the veto.

Saturday in the house the bill was passed over the veto by the overwhelming vote of 244 to 95. The Kentucky delegation divided as follows, to-wit: Johnson, Helm, Thomas, Fields, Democrats; Langley and Powers, Republicans, voting for the bill. James, Stanley, Sherley, Rouse and Cantrill voted against the bill.

The bill is now a law and for the first time in its history the State can effectually enforce the local option laws.

Terrible Outrage in Woodford County

On Thursday a negro boy by the name of Si Williams, who worked on the farm of Mr. Lee Moffatt, was sent to the house on an errand, when he demanded money of Mrs. Moffatt, and on being refused snatched up a club and struck her over the head. The aged aunt of Mrs. Moffatt, Mrs. Robt. Black, rushed to the rescue of her niece, when the negro fiend turned on her and inflicted a terrible blow. Both women are in a serious condition and it is thought the negro will be lynched if caught.

Normal Notes

The Art Exhibit held during Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week was a great success, all round. The handsome collection of pictures furnished pleasure and instruction to the crowds who came to enjoy them. The evening program rendered by the Model, High and Normal Schools were given in a manner highly creditable to the performers and to those who had drilled them carefully and well. Although "Mr. Bob" had been recently given at the opera house, it was greeted with a full audience. The Martha Washington Tea on Saturday afternoon was a delightful function.

[We are giving copies of some of the famous pictures in the above named art exhibit as a prize for one year cash subscriptions.]

Judge Redwine Dead

D. B. Redwine, Judge of the 23rd Judicial district, is dead at Hot Springs, Arkansas, where he had gone in the vain endeavor to regain his health. Judge Redwine was three times judge of the district, having been elected to the office in 1892, 1898 and again was elected in 1909. He had been in failing health for many years and was not able to hold the courts most of the time during his last term of office.

He married a Miss Hurst, a daughter of Hon. William Hurst, of Campton, by whom he has two children, all of whom survive him.

Mr. Hugh Riddell is an applicant for the office made vacant by Judge Redwine's death, and also O. P. Pollard of Breathitt county. Each gentleman claims to have the office clinched.

It would appear that Mr. Riddell's chances are the best, for it will be remembered that when his father died before the expiration of his term of office, that Gov. A. E. Willson appointed as his successor, Judge J. P. Adams, a Republican. As Judge Riddell was elected for a full term which he did not get to fill out, and as it is customary to appoint a member of the family when it can be done, it would appear that Mr. Hugh Riddell is in a position to get the office. And we hope that he may land the plum.

LATER—Friday night Gov. McCreary settled the matter by appointing Mr. Hugh Riddell as Judge to serve until the next regular election.

Mr. Riddell should make a good Judge. He has had a wide experience at the bar, is well qualified, young and energetic. His life is before him.

We congratulate him and wish him abundant success.
