Have a nice parlor anyhow

Dear Amy:—The other day, I went over to call on our old schoolmate, Laura. She didn't seem very comfortable even when I, an old friend, came in; because I could plainly see that she was ashamed of her shabby parlor. She confided to me that although her husband gave her plenty to buy clothes with, so she could make a good appearance in public, he would not let her have money to even fix up the parlor. Isn't it dreadful for a nice girl like Laura to have to stand a thing like this.

Ja, Ja, as always, Lou.
P. S.—Bring any friend with you when you come. I'm not ashamed for any body to see my parlor. I've just fixed it up with furniture I bought from

HENRY TRAYNOR DIES IN OKLAHOMA CITY.

Body of Prominent Horseman Brought Back For Burial.

News of the death of Henry Traynor, which occurred yesterday morning in Oklahoma City, was received by his son, Walter Traynor, in a telegram from his brother, Cecil Traynor, who went to Oklahoma City, Monday, on learning of the serious illness of his father. His illness was sudden, for though he had been in bad health for some time past, he had recently been improved and on the last two days of September had won a race each day. Mr. Traynor was a resident of Richmond and well-known in Lexington and throughout the Blue-Grass region.

Mr. Traynor was 67 years old and for many years was a prominent horseman. His health began to fail some time ago and it was in the hopes of improving his condition that he went West, where he raced some trotters and pacers. He has had a number of trotters and pacers of note, the best of which were Susie S. (3) 2:30, (4), 2:15 1-2, the former champion three-year-old trotter and the great rival of Hourai as a four-year-old, Sallie B. 2:11 1-4, and Emperor Wilkes 2:20 1-4, a son of William L. and a much faster horse than his record. Others that he had were Harry Wilkes, the fastest and in many respects the best trotter of the Wilkes tribe, and Bud Crooke, 2:15 1-4, the fastest pacer ever sired by this great family-founder.

Mr. Traynor is survived by two sons, Walter and Cecil Traynor, of this city, who like their father, are successful trotting horse trainers, and three daughters, Mrs. Bland Ballard and Misses Mary and Willie Traynor, all of Richmond. The body will be brought to Richmond for burial.—Lexington Herald.

Mr. Traynor's funeral was held at the residence of Mr. Bland Ballard in this city, Sunday, conducted by Rev. B. C. Horton, thence his burial in the Richmond cemetery.

Mr. Whitlock is a most excellent gentleman, and of a large and influential family, and is one of the most energetic gentlemen in the county. Young preached the funeral sermon. A large concourse of people assembled to pay respect to the memory of their old friend and comrade. Mr. Griggs was born and reared near College Hill.

Judge Benton Orders Arrest Of Dock Smith.

Judge J. M. Benton ordered that bench warrants be sent to Leslie, Breathitt and Perry counties for the arrest of Dock Smith, charged with the murder of former Sheriff Ed Callahan, of Breathitt county.

The Callahan cases were tried at Winchester some weeks ago and three men were convicted and given life terms, after the confession of Dock Smith, who admitted that he was one of the gunmen who helped to kill Callahan. Smith was given a chance by Judge Benton, who told him the case against him would be brought up at the first hint of trouble in the mountain counties where he lived. It was learned that Smith has been running amuck for several days in the three counties, threatening the people and committing various other disorderly acts.
