EXERCISE IN THE OPEN AIR

Very Few Days in Year When Person Who is Wrapped Up Cannot Sit in Sheltered, Sunny Corner. One great difference between outdoor air and indoor air is that the first circulates freely and the second is stagnant. Another difference is that floods of sunshine constantly cleanse outdoor air of its impurities, but most rooms get very little of that useful commodity. Many persons who visit the physician with complaints of poor digestion and anemia declare that they are active all day long and that going out for walks is the last thing they need.

They may be right about the amount of exercise they get, but people constantly fall sick in spite of plenty of exercise in the house, and get well again with a little outdoor exercise. A certain amount of active work about the house is good for everyone, but there ought to be some daily outdoor life as well. It does not follow that that outdoor life ought to include violent exercise, or even any exercise at all. Why should the housemother be told that she cannot keep well unless she dresses up in walking clothes and takes a long walk after a fatiguing morning of physical labor in the house? Tired people should do their resting in the open air. There are very few days in the year when a person who is warmly wrapped up cannot sit with comfort in a sheltered, sunny corner. Everyone knows how babies thrive when they take their naps outdoors; the principle applies to the adult also.

It is a matter of scientific record that people whose daily occupation obliges them to sit in the open air—such as market women, attendants at fruit stands and newspaper sellers—are robust people, who do not take cold easily. Yet it is probable that few people take less exercise. Let it be understood that this is not at all an argument against physical exercise. That is not only excellent, but in most cases necessary. But you need not forego both air and exercise because you cannot conveniently have both; open-air life without exercise is much more healthful than indoor life with it.—Youth's Companion.

RECREATION FOR AN EVENING

Object of Recent Invention is to Get Number of Marbles Into Inclosure as Shown in Cut. The Scientific American illustrates and describes an invention of Johanna L. Ryan of Rochester, N. Y., as follows: This invention has for its object to provide a game apparatus having a board with a side wall therearound, there being at one side of the board an inclosure with two openings into which a player may roll a number of marbles. Means are provided to act as guides and obstructions in rolling the marbles into the openings in the inclosure. It is the boy who dreams who sees a field of thirty alfalfa where that stunted yellow corn is growing on the timber forty. It is the boy who dreams who sees those hungry-looking cows replaced by a herd of dairy matrons that tax the capacity of the milk cans at every milking. It is the boy who dreams who sees a waving corn field where the cat-tails are growing, who sees a woven wire fence in place of old hedge, and a new barn where the cow sheds is falling to pieces. We need more dreamers on the farm.—Prairie Farmer.

IMAGINATION IS GOOD THING

It Takes Dreamer to See Transformation Intelligent Effort Will Bring to Pass. It is a good thing for the farmer boy to have an imagination. It is a good thing for him to "dream dreams and see visions." It takes a dreamer to see the transformation that intelligent effort will bring to pass on the old place. It takes a dreamer to see how much more desirable that place will be in ten years than a job in a dry goods store.

Chief Foes of an Athlete.

Concerning the use of alcohol by athletes, one of the world's best swimmers wrote: "The best qualification for an athlete is not physical strength, but abstinence and moderation. Training in the water is not the principal thing. The swimmer's chief foes are alcohol and nicotine. They undermine his efficiency. Staying up nights, lounging in saloons and coffee houses and other excesses, are to be strongly avoided."

Lesson in Politeness.

"Mamma," said little Lauretta, "Aunt Mary is getting awfully fat, isn't she?" "It isn't polite to say 'fat,' dear. You should say 'stout,'" rejoined her mother.

At dinner that evening when she was asked what kind of meat she would like, Lauretta replied: "A little of the lean and a little of the stout, please."

Betchal. This would we could improve, I say. Our progress would be ample. If I were less advice each day And much more good example.

A Wonder. Gabe—Jones is the most truthful man I know of. Steve—Why do you say that? Gabe—He had a duck eye last week, and I asked him how he got it, and he told me that a man hit him.

The Silver Lining. These days are cold, but do not put. Of this fact make a note: You never saw a thing about The man who rocks the boat.

The Wise Fool. "Politeness costs nothing," remarked the sage. "Maybe that's the reason why most people have no use for it," added the fool.

Huh! "It is a funny thing," said Bill. "To his friend, Mr. Numan; 'The man who wears a muffs will imagine he looks human.'"

Fairy Tale. "Pleased to meet you." "I had to work late." "I can take a drink or let it alone." "My, isn't your baby pretty?" "We have never had a quarrel since we were married."

Sure. "It may seem queer," said Mr. Burke. "But you can bet it's so: The more you work the more work Than anything I know."

Names Is Names. D. Light runs a grocery store in Cincinnati.

Placing the Credit. Luke wrote the following paragraph some years ago, and it appeared in his column. Since then it has been going the rounds credited to almost every publication in the country. Here it is: "One morning father missed some money out of his clothes and thought mother had frisked him during the night. So, while mother was busy in another room, father went through her hand bag in search of his coin. He found a receipted milk bill, an unpaid ice bill, a big bunk of prepared chalk, a powder puff, two coupons six months old, representing the last time he had taken her to the theater; a button book, six samples of dress goods, a clipping containing Gene Field's 'Little Boy Blue,' a sample of talcum powder, one of the baby's mittens, an old dirty pair of hosiery, a pair of undergarments and 7 cents in coin. And father felt so mean that he kicked himself all day."

Things to Worry About. The average depth of the sand on the African deserts is from thirty to forty feet.

Daily Health Hint. Never stand behind a mule when you are arguing with him.

Our Daily Special. Be a good loser, but don't make it a habit.

Luke McLuke Says: You can make a woman madder by ignoring her than you can by calling her names.

When a girl marries she usually loses a good friend and gets a grouchy boarder.

Politics is one of our most popular sports because you can talk it all day and not know a blame thing about it. When they are engaged they imagine that they can get along with one chair when they go to housekeeping. But after they have been married for while, they want two different parlor suits.

The lad who loafs around and owes everybody in town is the same fellow who is deeply worried because the Panama canal isn't paying expenses.

The old-fashioned poker player who used to walk around his chair to change his luck now has a son who can deal a diamond from the bottom when his stack gets low.

Before he gets her he thinks she is a hummingbird. After he gets her he discovers that she is a screech owl.

Conscience may help some. But the fear of getting caught is what keeps most of us straight.

A woman may have no aim in life. But she always seems to hit the target when she starts out to shoot Friend Husband.

There isn't any fun in fishing if you have to catch fish for a living.

Before she gets him she believes all he tells her about his side his money is hidden. After she gets him she discovers that about the only sport he exercises in is throwing the ball.

Once in a while father will play foxy when he comes home with a fine bun on, and he will carefully hide his money so mother won't find it. And then he will get up with a big head and a dazed feeling and stall around for an hour trying to remember where he hid the home money.

The first baby gets a silver mug, a gold ring, an ivory rattle and about $200 worth of fine baby clothes. But the sixth baby is lucky if it gets two bits and a ten cent box of cornstarch.

It is customary to promote a deputy who has given satisfaction in office. Mr. James W. Wagers has been an accommodating, polite agreeable and efficient deputy Circuit Court Clerk. adv 10-11

Mrs. Underwood Admits False Swearing. An affidavit given by Mrs. Belle Underwood, confessing that she had sworn falsely against T. Q. Wallace and Frank Chaney, who were convicted of killing her husband in Estill county, was offered to the Clark Circuit Court Wednesday afternoon, as grounds for a new trial. Judge Benton has charged Commonwealth Attorney Crutcher to investigate the matter thoroughly and bring it before the grand jury.
