GREAT INTEREST MANIFESTED

In The Brooks-Lewis Revival

If the Brooks-Lewis revival does not revive the languishing interest in religious matters here, it will not be the fault of Messrs. Brooks and Lewis nor the good women of the city. Rev. Brooks is preaching good, practical sermons and Brother Lewis is charming the people with his singing. The combination draws like a mustard plaster. It gets you there and warms you up. The good women are working like beavers, making a house to house campaign and inviting everybody to come out and take part in the meeting. Its meeting, your meeting, our meeting, without church distinction.

The young folks have become interested in the services and have organized a splendid chorus and this, strengthened by musical instruments and adult voices, makes splendid singing.

The meeting is fairly begun and this week will show some of the best efforts ever put forth in this city. If any one fails to get an invitation, it is because he cannot be found. A card will be left under his door showing him that the ladies have called on him.

The doors are open. Come and make it your meeting. Your presence will encourage others.

Flag Raising

Monday morning at ten o'clock there was a flag raising at Caldwell High School building in this city. A large number of citizens and patrons and the scholars of the various departments gathered in the auditorium where patriotic songs were sung and oratory followed.

First on the program was the singing of "America," by the entire audience standing, the school orchestra playing the accompaniment. The music was under the direction of Miss Cynthia Davidson, and the manner in which the school children sang was most inspiring and elevating to every one.

Prof. Lewis, who has charge of the music at the Brooks-Lewis revival at the First Christian church, was present and thrilled and charmed the audience by singing two songs. He has a fine voice and is a splendid singer.

At the conclusion of the songs, Prof. D. W. Bridges, superintendent of the school, in a few well chosen words, introduced Hon. W. B. Smith, the veteran lawyer and splendid citizen, who knows more of the history of this city and county than any living man. More than three-quarters of a century ago, Mr. Smith attended school as a boy in a small building where our present magnificent school building now sits in majestic pride.

At the conclusion of the speech-making, the children formed in line and passed out of the building very orderly and lined up in front of the great institution of learning where they sang "The Star Spangled Banner," with vim and vigor. As they sang the last stanza of the National air, a large American flag was unfurled over the dome of the school house and floated serenely in the gentle breeze, amidst the vociferous applause of the children and visitors.

After the flag raising the scholars and visitors returned to the auditorium where Prof. S. S. Myers, teacher of voice culture at the Normal School delivered an oration on "The Battle of Gettysburg." Prof. Myers was in the battle of Gettysburg, his parents residing there at the time the climax was reached in the great battle that was fought between the North and South and the destiny of the nation was settled. He was but a mere boy, an inquisitive boy at the time, and he gave a glowing description of the hard fought battle and the impression it made upon him. His speech was greatly appreciated by all who heard it.

Berea Notes

Berea College students are organizing three companies and will soon begin drilling on the campus. They expect to be equipped with regular army rifles from the government in the near future. President William G. Frost has made an appeal to all persons who have any old army rifles or other guns that have seen service to loan them to the College in order to fit up a company until they can get their equipment from the government. This movement shows a very patriotic spirit prevailing at Berea College and is highly commendable.

Prof. E. F. Dizney, of Evans, has been selected by members of Garded School Board as principal of the school for next year. He has not formally accepted, but hopes to adjust matters so he can accept the position. He is a well known and popular educator and a splendid man for the place.

The Boys' Agricultural Club was organized last Tuesday afternoon with 57 members. This was one of the most interesting meetings of the kind ever held in Berea. Lona C. Fish, our State Champion corn grower was elected president without opposition. He has been a club member for four years and has been a faithful worker. Miss Lila Bowman, the only girl member, was unanimously elected secretary. The club members will raise all kinds of crops and also animals of their choice. The club expects to add several new members by May 1st.

The Jackson County Oil Co., recently incorporated at Berea, with an authorized capital of $40,000, is planning to drill at once. Over $22,000 of the capital stock has already been issued. The company has under lease 10,000 acres in Eastern Kentucky counties, including Jackson, Lee, Laurel and Rockcastle.

Thus as another has passed over the Silent River, reminding us of our approaching fate, be it Resolved, by us,

1st. That the death of our Brother and friend is a positive loss to Masonry, to society, his community, but above all to his devoted wife and children.

2nd. That we will revere his memory and imitate his virtues.

3rd. That we extend our sincere sympathy to his family in their great bereavement.

4th. That this tribute be published in a local paper, spread at large on our records, and a copy sent to the family of the deceased.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Adopted by Richmond Lodge No. 25, F. and A. M.

Joseph B. Willis, who died at his home in Crab Orchard, Ky., April 9, was a native of Madison county and the last of a large family. He was born December, 1848, and was the youngest of eleven children of John and Susan Baker Willis, pioneer citizens of Madison county. It is worthy of notice and to be regretted that with his death the name of his immediate family becomes extinct locally, a name that has been in Madison county from its earliest history.

He was educated in the public schools of this county and at the old Madison Seminary. In early life he engaged in farming. Later he became a deputy sheriff, and then the sheriff of Madison county. He discharged the duties of that important office efficiently and honorably.

He was twice appointed postmaster of Richmond by President Cleveland, holding that office for eight years. In this position, as in all others, he was faithful and pleased the patrons of the office.

He was a kind father, an affectionate husband, a loyal friend and an upright, progressive citizen. He received all the degrees of Masonry from Entered Apprenticeship to Knights Templar in the local bodies, always manifested a marked interest in the progress of, as well as a belief in, the usefulness of the order. He was buried in the Richmond cemetery with the beautiful service of the order, the Templars forming a guard of honor.

Thus as another has passed over the Silent River, reminding us of our approaching fate, be it Resolved, by us,

1st. That the death of our Brother and friend is a positive loss to Masonry, to society, his community, but above all to his devoted wife and children.

2nd. That we will revere his memory and imitate his virtues.

3rd. That we extend our sincere sympathy to his family in their great bereavement.

4th. That this tribute be published in a local paper, spread at large on our records, and a copy sent to the family of the deceased.

Community Meetings

Forest Hill

A community meeting was held at Forest Hill on last Friday night. Although the sky was murky and a down pour of rain seemed imminent, yet a large and enthusiastic crowd was present. At this place Miss Tempest Terrill, of Richmond, has charge of the school, and judging from appearances, this is one of the most successful schools in the county. A large number of students were in attendance at the meeting and they conducted themselves in a highly creditable manner. A song service was one of the delights of the evening. There is an organ in this school building, where preaching is held monthly, and it seems to us that everybody in that community could sing, and it was greatly enjoyed by the visitors.

Mr. Ben Boggs, County Agent, presided over the meeting. The speakers on this occasion were Mr. C. C. Thomas, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and Frank Leslie Russell, attorney. At the conclusion of the speech-making, the Girls' Canning Club being organized in the county was briefly explained and a number of membership cards were distributed among the young ladies present. We have since learned that ten girls in this community have joined the ranks. The people of this section are wide-awake and hospitable, and it is a delight and pleasure to meet them.

College Hill

A large and enthusiastic meeting was held at College Hill, Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. About one hundred farmers, their wives and daughters, attended this meeting and great interest was manifested. The meeting was addressed by Mr. Ben Boggs, County Farm Agent, and Mr. C. C. Thomas. The people of the College Hill neighborhood are wide-awake, active and progressive citizens. This is one of the greatest sections of the county for the production of food supplies. Here fine watermelons, fruits and vegetables are grown in great abundance, and the ladies take a deep interest in the canning of fruits and vegetables. Seven new members were added to the Girls' Canning Club, which makes this the largest community club in the county.

We congratulate the good people of College Hill upon their splendid work and trust that other communities will follow their example.

Kingston

A community meeting will be held at Kingston, Wednesday night, and at Kirksville, Friday night. The public is most cordially invited to attend these meetings. They will be of lasting benefit to each and all. You will become better acquainted with your neighbor, and come to "Know Thyself."

The Christian Science Society will have a reader here on the night of April 24th, at 8 o'clock, to deliver an address to the public on the lines of work of this church. The reader is Clarence W. Chadwick a member of the Board of Lecturers of the Mother Church, of Boston, Mass., and is one of their eminent speakers.

Important Work

Under normal conditions the work of the county agent has been fraught with splendid results but under present conditions the value of this work can hardly be estimated. It has been a hard matter to get our farmers to fully appreciate the value of the free bulletins that are constantly being issued by the Department of Agriculture, and the county agent is not only bringing the facts contained in these bulletins to the attention of the farmer but he is making demonstrations that are convincing the farmer that scientific and intensive farming pays. Now that the nation is facing a great crisis that will likely result in an unusual demand for food products, the suggestion and aid of the county agent will be invaluable. It is the desire of the Climax-Madisonian to co-operate in any way possible with the agents and reports of the work being done will be given prominent space in the paper, as we feel that it is an important work and should receive more general recognition.

Shaking Hands

The candidates are shaking hands, knocking the dust off the trees, turning rocks and looking for the boys. We have several thousand splendid old wool and a yard wide cards that are splendid vote getters. Hon. O. P. Jackson leads with the largest and handiest cards out—regular photographs, making a distinguished picture. We can print others at the same price.

Put up your face, boys. It talks while you sleep. There are some others who are budding and listening for the bees. If you are afraid that it will get out on you, then don't announce in this paper because it goes to every home in Madison county where a paper is read—and they will tell it on you.

Secretary of Agriculture has wired his approval of the Bureau of Registration and Information organized to co-operate with the Bureau of Agriculture.

WILLIAM M. BOWMAN

Prominent Citizen Swallows Carbolic Acid and Dies in Presence of Wife and Daughter

Mr. William M. Bowman, one of our prominent citizens and business men, took a two ounce vial of carbolic acid at his home at the corner of Moberley avenue and Third street, Saturday night and died in the presence of his wife and daughter a few moments later.

At half past eight o'clock Mr. Bowman called at the drug store of H. L. Perry & Son and bought two ounces of carbolic acid, stating at the time he had a crippled mule and wanted the acid to burn out the wound in the hoof. He got shaved at one of the barber shops and went home about ten o'clock. When he arrived at home he conversed with his wife, and in the course of his remarks he said: "Well, I'd beat me bidding on that contract. I don't see how he did. I bid as low as I could afford to take it, but he got it, and it is all right." He had reference to the new library building that is to be constructed at the Normal School.

He then got some paper, and after some figuring and writing, he arose and left the room, and his wife thinking he was going back up town to the garage, arose and locked the door. He walked a short distance to the corner, where two men were standing, and conversed briefly with them. Then he returned to the house. When his wife admitted him, he walked through the family room into the dining room, and before they ever suspected him of committing the rash act, he returned and extended his hand to his wife and bade her good bye.

Then she detected the carbolic acid. She told her daughter to get some sweet milk, and he said: "It is no use. I won't take it." Turning to his daughter, Miss Florentine, he said: "Be a good girl." He then expired in the twinkling of an eye.

Since the untimely death of Mr. Bowman, all sorts of rumors have been afloat. But none of them can be verified. He was one of the leading business men of Richmond. He was the senior member of the firm of Bowman Brothers, dealers and contractors in builders supplies, being one of the largest contracting firms in the city. This firm is perfectly solvent, and the business will be continued under the firm name. He was also a member of the Dodge and Case automobiles and auto accessories and supplies.

He was the eldest son of Mr. Jones Bowman, and was fifty-one years of age January 24, 1917. He was a moral and upright citizen, a hard working, conscientious man. He was ever ready to help those in need and stood with outstretched hand and purse to assist in any worthy cause. He was a member of the Old Fellows and Knights of Pythias Lodges, of this city, and a member of the Baptist church. His home life seemed to be ideal, and no cause can be assigned for his act, unless it was due to a state of mental aberration incident to business worries.

Deceased is survived by his wife, three daughters, father, three sisters, and two brothers, all of whom have much sympathy in the untimely death of their loved one—this splendid citizen.

Funeral services were held in the Baptist church, this city, Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock, the services being conducted by Rev. B. F. Petty. The burial was in the Richmond cemetery, with appropriate services at the grave by local lodges of Old Fellows and Knights of Pythias. The grave was strewn with choice flowers.

One of the largest lamb deals made this season was made last week by the firm of Kerns, Caywood & Patterson, of Bourbon, when 1,300 head of spring lambs were purchased at 11 and 12 cents. The deal was made with a number of Clark county farmers for delivery in June, July and August.

Mrs. V. H. HOBSON,
Long Tom Chenault, Auct.

Deaths

Mrs. George Parks, who resides in the Dreyfus neighborhood, in the southeastern part of the county, died at the Berea Hospital, Sunday night, April 9, 1917, after a brief illness of pneumonia following an operation. Her remains were brought to this city Monday and taken to the home of her sister, Mrs. John C. Powell, on East Main street, where brief funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon by Rev. B. F. Petty, of the Baptist church, thence the burial in the Richmond cemetery. Mrs. Parks was a truly consecrated christian and her death has left a void in the family circle and in the community in which she lived that can never be filled. She was the daughter of Mr. Louis Sandlin, who died at Kingston last fall. She is survived by her husband, two daughters, one son and several brothers and sisters. To these the sympathy of everyone is extended in their hour of deep sorrow. The grave was strewn with many flowers, a silent testimonial of the high esteem in which she was held.

A death that has occasioned general sorrow throughout this county, was that of Miss Lillian Cobb, which occurred at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Cobb, at Elliston, this county, Saturday afternoon at four o'clock.

For many years Miss Cobb has been afflicted with asthma. On Friday she was taken violently ill and gradually grew worse until the great angel of death waited her spirit to the God who gave it.

In the death of Miss Cobb the community has lost one of its lovely characters. She was the emblem of all that was pure, good and holy. Possessing rare and beautiful traits she commanded the respect and esteem of both old and young, rich and poor, white and colored. It was perfectly natural for her to be good and true, and it is no wonder her demise has caused much sorrow in the community.

Lillian Cobb was the oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Cobb, prominent and highly respected citizens of the county. She was twenty-five years of age last November, and is the first member of this large and splendid family to cross the river that marks the Unknown Shore. She is survived by her father and mother, five sisters and three brothers. To these the heartfelt sympathy of the populace is extended.

Funeral services were held at Flatwoods Christian church, Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock, conducted by Dr. E. C. McDougle, of this city, who paid a beautiful tribute to the life and character of this charming young lady. It is said that the largest crowd that ever attended a funeral at this church was present to pay her the last tribute of respect. The burial took place in the Richmond cemetery at one o'clock in the presence of a large number of sorrowing relatives and friends. The grave was covered with flowers.

Mrs. Lou M. Feeney, wife of Capt. John D. Feeney, died at her home on North Broadway, in Lexington, Friday morning at four o'clock, after a long illness. About four years ago Mrs. Feeney suffered a paralytic stroke and had since been confined to her bed until death relieved her suffering.

Deceased was sixty-seven years of age and was well and favorably known in this community, where she was born and reared and spent the greater portion of her life. She was a great favorite with all who knew her, and by her kindness, generosity and true christian spirit which she manifested at all times, she endeared herself to all with whom she came in contact, and her death has cast a shadow over the lives of hundreds of admiring friends and acquaintances. Her home life was ideal and her counsel and advice will be greatly missed by those near and dear to her.

Mrs. Feeney was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rice, prominent citizens of this city. Her father was the leading contractor and builder of this city during his day. He erected nearly all of the buildings on the campus of old Central University, many of which are now used by the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School. Her husband, Capt. John D. Feeney, for nearly twenty years was Chief of Police of Richmond. After retiring from the Richmond Police force, Capt. Feeney, with his family, moved to Lexington, where he served on the police force in that city many years. About two years ago he resigned to accept a position on the Lexington Board of Health.

Bought Fine Dogs

Mr. E. N. Rogers, of Knoxville, Tenn., and Dr. D. M. Ryan, of Talcott, W. Va., were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Kanatzer last week. These gentlemen are great lovers of the chase and as they wanted to add to their already fine pack of Walker fox hounds, it is perfectly natural for them to come to Madison county to get them, as like saddle horses and pretty women, Madison is also famous for the finest fox hounds. It is needless to say that they both found what they were looking for in the "Buffalo Kennel" as "J. L." always keeps them on hand.

Useful Man

Some years ago an Englishman met a party of American settlers journeying westward, and got into conversation with the leader, an eminently practical man. "We only brought useful people along," said the leader. "For instance, that big man over there is our blacksmith, the man next to him is our baker, and so on." "But," said the Englishman, "that very old fellow—surely he can't be of much use to you." "Oh, yes he is," was the reply. "That's grandfather. We shall open the new cemetery with him."

Bryan Offers Services

Col. William Jennings Bryan, former Secretary of State, upon the proclamation of war by this country against Germany, sent this message to President Wilson: "Believing it to be the duty of each citizen to bear his part of the burden of war and his share of its perils, I hereby tender my services to the government. Please enroll me as a private whenever I am needed. Assign me to any work that I can do until called to the colors. I shall, through the Red Cross, contribute to the comfort of soldiers in the hospitals and through the Young Men's Christian Association aid in guarding the morals of the men in camp." Mr. Bryan, with the rank of Colonel, commanded a regiment of Nebraska volunteers during the Spanish-American War.
