

WILSON CALLS TO PIONEERS' BLOOD

Nevada Applauds Appeal For League—Urges Sons To Go Forward As Fathers Did

Aboard President Wilson's Special Train through the regions made famous by the pioneers of Western America President Wilson passed on the beginning of his homeward journey from the Pacific Coast.

And to the descendants of these pioneers he pointed out in his addresses that in the same way as the forward moving men and women of '49 had blazed the trail which opened up our land so the forward looking men and women of 1919 must blaze the way which shall lead all the world to peace and justice, just as those brave souls of '49 had gone ahead, never fearing what was in the next canyon ahead of them. We must go ahead now, the President pointed out, confident that in our leadership of the world through the League of Nations, we will find the right way that will bring them all to the promised land.

From Los Angeles to Sacramento and then through the territory which Bret Harte immortalized in his short stories, the presidential train moved until it reached Reno, the first scheduled stop on the eastward route. Packer Flats, Dutch Flats and the other old mining camps which Harte so breezily told of, all were seen by Mr. Wilson on his journey and he related to his companions what he remembered of the stories concerning them.

Thousands Cheer Wilson.

The President delivered a brief talk at Sacramento from the train platform, but at Reno he was met and cheered by many thousands, and the inhabitants proudly asserted that the town held more people than it had ever known since the Jeffries-Johnson prize fight of ancient history, and here he gave his formal talk of the day.

He said he was exhilarated to find himself in one of the last remaining frontier communities of the nation, because the people were still forward looking. The critics of the League of Nations have their eyes over their shoulders. They are looking backward and therefore they are stumbling. They are always striking their feet against obstacles which others see and which do not lie in the path of progress of civilization.

The President contrasted the present peace conference with the last great so-called peace conference that which was held in Vienna in 1815. The ancient conference, he said, was one where a small coterie of autocrats were able to determine the fortunes of their people without consulting them, whereas the conference of 1919 was devoted to establishing the rights of all peoples to their own type of government.

Just before the conference of 1915, the President said, there had been signs of the breaking up of the old order of things though there were but 8,000,000 people subject to the crown of Great Britain.

Autocracy Overthrown.

In America they had thrown off allegiance to that crown and had defied the British Government on the ground that nobody at a distance had a right to govern them and that nobody had a right to govern them whom they did not choose to be their government. That was the beginning of the conditions which have culminated in today's situation. The President pointed out that in every autocratically governed nation in the world up until 1914 there had been revolutions. That is, in every autocratic nation save Germany, and one of Germany's prime ideas in starting the war was to re-establish the idea of absolute autocracy, but the rest of the world would not stand for that, he asserted, and therefore America came in to rid the world forever of the autocratic idea. And having pledged herself so to do, he said, she would see the job through.

I consider this to be the greatest charter of human liberty ever adopted. It was not written essentially at Paris. It was written at Chateau Thierry and in Belleau Wood and in the Argonne.

Our men did not fight over there with the purpose of coming back and letting the same thing happen again. They did not come back with any fear in their hearts that their public men would go back on them and not see the thing through they went over expecting that the business should be finished and it shall be finished.

Do you realize that the rest of the world deems America indispensable to the guarantee of future peace and of a restoration of normal life upon which future peace depends? The world does. That they know our power, they know our wealth, they know our indomitable spirit, and when we put our name to the bond then Europe will begin to be quiet, men will seek the peaceful solution of normal industry and normal life. Men will take hope again and cease to think of the revolutionary things they can do and begin to think of the constructive things they can do and this will be the case in America as well as in Europe. The President explained away the oft repeated objections to the League, the Shantung matter, Article X, and the question of whether Great Britain has more votes than we have, which he declared untrue.

He said what was needed was to clear the deck of these criticisms which had nothing to them and look forward to a fulfillment of the destiny of America. The whole world, he said, had finally come to the vision of the little body of three millions of Americans strung along the Atlantic Coast in 1776, but the fire they started has consumed every autocratic government in the world.

VIRGIL GAINES BUYS THE SIMMONS FARM

Madison county farms and real estate of all kinds is in constant demand, and sales are numerous. A prominent real estate agent expert predicted the other day that within five years the best blue grass land would be selling regularly at $500 an acre.

Virgil Gaines has bought the Simmons farm from Lee Congleton at a price said to be $175 an acre. This is a splendid place, located about five miles from Richmond on the Lancaster pike. It contains 180 acres of blue grass land.

John Tribble has resold the farm he bought from G. C. Clark at his sale last week, at $500 profit to Will Hayden. The farm is located in the White Hall section and is a good one.

James Owen is reported to have sold a house and lot at Red House to Silas Azbill for $1,000.

ENGLAND MAY HAVE A RAILROAD STRIKE

(By Associated Press) London, Sept. 24—A railroad strike in Great Britain over the question of wages appears possible. The men today sent to the government an ultimatum, rejecting the standardization offer and intimating that unless a favorable reply is received by Thursday noon, the men will be ordered to cease work. This was soon followed by a reply by Minister Geddes asserting the men's demands are unjustifiable and would involve additional permanent expenditures of forty-five million pounds annually.

A full meeting of the cabinet is called for this afternoon to consider the situation created by the ultimatum.

SHALL WE FORGET THOSE WHO DIED IN OUR PLACE?

Lieut. Thomas McCown, county chairman for the Kentucky Memorial drive, urges the teams to cover their territories as promptly as possible. Returned soldiers have offered their services to Chairman McCown, realize more than others, that the people should "give increased devotion to the cause for which they gave their last full measure of devotion."

Are the people forgetting the war: it is as great a crime to forget the war as to have taken no part in winning the war. In paying our own war debts have we not overlooked our most sacred debt—to those who rest on fame's eternal camping ground? "In Flanders fields" the poppies blow, Between the crosses row on row, That mark our place."

But is there a memorial in their home state to the Madison lads who travelled over three thousand miles to keep a rendezvous with death? Old Glory is bathed in the blood of 2,756 Kentuckians, the pride and pick of Madison willingly met their pilot face to face and through their death our flag wears a new luster.

The proposed memorial is a fitting tribute to the honored dead and citizens of Madison must not fail to complete the sum allotted and thereby give their fallen heroes a lasting and unmistakable evidence that the dedication of their lives was appreciated. "And when from blackest loss Shall be born most radiant gain: When over the gory fields shall Rise a star that shall never wane; Then and then only, our dead shall know That they have not fall'n in vain." —Contributed.

LITTLE CHANGE IN STEEL STRIKE TODAY

(By Associated Press) Reports from all steel centers today recorded little change in the alignment of the opposing forces of the labor union and steel companies. In the Mahoning Valley of Ohio, the strikers' success is complete. The industry, which is the backbone of the Youngstown region, is paralyzed with 44,000 workers idle. Elsewhere the struggle is carried on, with varying success, the issue still being doubtful in the great strategic sectors, radiating from Pittsburg and Chicago.

In the Pittsburg district, the Carnegie Steel Company announced that a considerable number of men are returning to work, which the union leaders not only deny but assert the strike is spreading.

Around Chicago a majority of the mills are closed. Some are operating with reduced forces. Riots and disorders still mark the progress of the struggle, but so far only sporadically. The latest outbreak was at Cleveland, where four men were stabbed in a battle between strikers and non-strikers. At Farrell, where the gravest disturbances today have been reported, the streets are patrolled by large forces of state troops and deputy sheriffs.

STANLEY IN NEWS ON R. R. STRIKE BILL

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Sept. 24—Sections of the Cummins railroad reorganization bill, which would forbid strikes by railroad employees, continued to draw fire from organized labor before the Senate Interstate Commerce committee today. Officials of the railroad brotherhoods attacked the proposals as a return to slavery in industry. "It makes serfs out of men," said B. H. McNamara. "It is the most bold attempt at bondage since the Civil War," declared W. N. Doak, who also discussed wages, saying a bonus and profit-sharing "under private management" is always unsatisfactory. Senator Stanley of Kentucky, asked Doak if he is not against profit-sharing "because it tends to make the individual worker lose interest in union organization?" Doak replied "only partly so, but we have found them unfair."

DR. SAMPEY DELIVERS ANOTHER RARE GEM

Dr. J. R. Sampey was heard by another large congregation at the Baptist church last night. He spoke on Political and Economic Conditions of the World Today and as usual discussed his subjects in a way that amazed all by his wonderful, wide grasp of conditions and ability to interpret the many usual and alarming conditions that many see in present times. Dr. Sampey's lectures continue on this week at the Baptist church each evening. He is speaking at various country churches in the mornings. An all-day meeting was held at the Republican Baptist church today. Those who are missing hearing him are overlooking a real treat.

Ford and Son Get It All

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 24—Control of all stock in the Ford Motor Company has been secured by Henry Ford and his son, Edsel, through the purchase of the minority holdings of James Couzens, millionaire mayor of Detroit, and former vice president of the company. It is understood Mr. Couzens held more than 2,000 shares of stock in the company. The price paid for his holdings was not disclosed. Interests of other minority stock holders were purchased by Henry and Edsel Ford early in July, last, for a sum said to be close to $100,000,000.

BURGLARS ROB STORE AT SILVER CREEK

Burglars entered the store of Bob Duerson at Silver Creek, some time Tuesday night, and got away with a lot of goods and a small amount of cash. There was little clew left, but officers believe that James Bennett, who escaped from the county jail at Richmond a week or so ago, perhaps had a hand in the affair.

Entrance to the store was effected through a window. Sheriff Pete Whitlock and Deputy Sheriff Sant Bush, who went to the scene, found the cash drawer near the tunnel on the L. & N. tracks. It had contained $3 or $4. Mr. Duerson also missed a new overcoat, some shoes and some children's stockings. The police of surrounding towns have been telephoned to be on the lookout for the thief and stolen goods.

WHITE FARM RENTED AT $2,105 A YEAR

A splendid rental price was paid for the farm of Mrs. A. M. White which was rented at public outcry by Col. Jesse Cobb, the well known auctioneer, Wednesday morning. Mr. Jerry Parrish gave $2,105 rent for the farm for a year. The place contains 185 acres and is located about a mile and a half from Richmond on the Barnes Mill pike. There were a number of farmers desirous of renting the place and bidding was active.

Louisville Convict Escapes

Louisville, Sept. 24—Thomas Hoal, a Louisville youth who shot and killed Cashier Fawcett and wounded President J. K. Woodward, of the Merchants' National Bank, during an attempt to rob that institution in New Albany, opposite Louisville, on the Ohio river, escaped from the penitentiary at Michigan City, Indiana, where he was sentenced for life in 1909, according to word received here today.

Swore Out Peace Warrant

A peace warrant was sworn out in the Madison Quarterly Court by Mrs. Robert Griffith against John Hoskins, Charley Hoskins, Embry Hoskins and Lawrence Hoskins, ad their mother, Mrs. Tennessee Hoskins, charging them with threatening to do her, or other members of her family, bodily harm. All are prominent residents of the White Hall locality.

Missing Maysville Girl Found

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 24—Mrs. Louise Fox Bushfield, of Maysville, Ky., who disappeared from the home of her uncle here ten days ago, has been found by Raymond E. Kenney, of the National Intelligence Service, at the home of a friend in the suburbs of Canton, Ohio. When confronted by her husband and father the young woman wept bitterly, and the first words were about her mother. Mrs. Bushfield stated, amidst sobs that shook her frame, that she had been driven almost distracted because she had kept her marriage secret from her parents. If she told them of the marriage, however, she stated, she feared it would result in both she and her husband being unable to complete their studies at Columbia University, in New York. Knowing that her parents had their hearts set upon the completion of her university course, she continued to keep the marriage secret.

EDGAR DOTY SELLS THE LADY IN GREY

Edgar T. Doty has returned from his campaign over the fair circuit. As usual, he brought back a large percentage of blue ribbons. He had a splendid string of show horses this season. Numerically his stable was small, but almost everyone was a star and when it went into a ring it was usually in the money. Just before his stable disbanded, Mr. Doty sold the Lady in Grey to T. D. Anderson, of Jefferson City, Okla., who buys for W. L. Lewis, the millionaire horseman of Oklahoma. Mr. Lewis owns Maydan, which Mr. Doty handled and sold a couple of years ago, for a long price and it is understood that he will get the Lady in Grey. The price was not made public but Mr. Doty is understood to have received a big figure for the promising young mare. Mr. Doty also handled and developed the crack chestnut mare Flashlight that Harry Francis and Salem Wallace of Paint Lick, sold to Mr. Crozier owner of Liberty Girl, for $3,500.

RETAIL MERCHANTS MEET HERE SEPT. 25

Retail merchants throughout this section are deeply interested in a meeting which is to be held at Richmond at the court house at 2 p. m., on September 25, for the purpose of perfecting the organizing in this territory of the Retailer's Association of Kentucky.

The urgent need for organization and co-operation on the part of the retailers of the state will be thoroughly pointed out and the problems at present confronting the merchants will be discussed by experts on the questions of the hour.

The meeting is one of eighteen being held in various parts of the state this week and judging from reports that have been received in advance the movement for the banding together of the state's retailers is meeting with great success and the local meeting is expected to be enthusiastic and energetic enough to show that this section is as fully awake as any other in Kentucky.

Reds Behind Kolchak?

(By Associated Press) London, Sept. 24—A Bolshevik wireless today from Moscow says Red troops are reported to have occupied Tomsk, 500 miles east of Omsk, the All-Russian seat of government on the Trans-Siberian Railway. The report, if confirmed, seems to indicate an insurgent uprising behind General Kolchak's lines at the principal strategic and trading centers of the vast region.

ASKS $200 DAMAGES FROM BRIDGE OWNERS

For Unnecessary Delay of "Miss Ann" in Opening Toll Gate At Clay's Ferry Bridge

An interesting suit was filed in the office of Circuit Clerk James W. Wagers, this week, when Judge G. Murray Smith bought an action against the Clay's Ferry Bridge Company for the sum of $200, for alleged unnecessary and wilful delay caused to him by "Miss Ann" in failing to promptly open the toll gate at the far end of the bridge over the Kentucky river on the Lexington ton pike. Judge Smith was en route to Lexington with his family, on important business, it is said, and his attorney says that he was delayed so long at the gate that he suffered damages, which he asks. He is represented by Attorneys H. C. Rice and John Noland. The Clay's Ferry Bridge Company is composed of several local people. The part of Judge Smith's petition in which he set forth the ground of his complaint, reads as follows:

"That on the 19th day of September 1919, this plaintiff, with his family and friends was traveling from Richmond, Ky., to Lexington, Ky., and return, over the Richmond and Lexington pike and crossing the defendant's bridge mentioned above. That upon his arrival at the gate of the defendant mentioned above, he demanded that said gate be opened to allow this plaintiff to pass through, and at the time of making said demand, he tendered to and paid the agent of the defendant, the fees and charges for the crossing of the bridge of the defendant as above set forth. That instead of complying with the request of the plaintiff, the agent of the defendant, in charge of said gate, deliberately, wilfully, maliciously and unnecessarily delayed the opening of said gate, hindering, delaying and annoying the plaintiff to his damage in the sum of $200."

In view of the constant use of the bridge by travelers to and from Lexington, and experiences at the bridge toll gate, the outcome of the suit will be watched with interest.

J. R. JOHNSON GETS GOOD PLACE AT UNIVERSITY

Professor James Richard Johnson, first graduate of the College of Engineering, University of Kentucky, who received his degree in 1893, was appointed professor of Applied Mechanics by President Frank L. McVey Friday and has begun his duties in the college. Prof. Johnson lived in Richmond several years, and has many friends here.

Prof. Johnson as one of the earliest of the alumni is familiar with all the traditions of the University, and has been identified with the interests of Kentucky for more than a quarter of a century. He is known to hundreds of students and former faculty members as "Dick" Johnson, and is being welcomed back to Lexington by many alumni.

After his graduation in 1893, Prof. Johnson was 12 years an instructor in engineering and mathematical subjects there. After 1905 he was professor of mathematics and applied mechanics at the University of Nevada, and in recent years has been prominently identified with mining and road building interests in Kentucky.

Lexington bettors are said to be offering even money on the governor's race between Black and Morrow.
