

CONVENTION STILL DEADLOCKED

Cox, McAdoo and Palmer Still Hold Strength, But Delegates Look for a Compromise

San Francisco, July 5.—The Democratic convention went to its 23rd ballot today for the presidential nominee without apparent prospect of any change from the last roll call Saturday night.

Chairman Robinson called the convention to order at 10 o'clock. The Lord's Prayer was recited, the Star Spangled Banner sung and the Declaration of Independence read.

At 10:32 the balloting began. The 23rd ballot, the first of today, showed no material change in the deadlock, although there were fluctuations on all sides.

The leaders stood: McAdoo, 364 1-2; Cox, 425; Palmer, 181 1-2; Davis, 50 1-2. McAdoo lost eight.

As the favorite sons vote stood pat, some delegates added a touch of humor. Missouri threw a half vote for Ring Lardner. Washington and Kentucky threw one vote and a half for Irvin Cobb.

Kentucky voted: McAdoo, 5; Palmer, 3; Cobb, 1-2; Cox, 17 1-2.

The 24th ballot failed to break the deadlock, and there were growing signs of irritation among the delegates at the attitude of the favorite sons states which refused to break.

The leaders stood: McAdoo, 364 1-2; Cox, 429; Palmer, 181 1-2; Davis, 54 1-2.

The changes showed Cox gained 4; McAdoo no change, Palmer lost 3 1-2, Davis gained 4. On this ballot Kentucky voted: McAdoo, 5; Cox, 20; Davis, 1.

Norman L. Mack, national committeeman, after the vote said if Cox could not get the nomination there would "be a brand new deal. It will be a gray horse," said he. By a grey horse rather than a black one, Mack said he meant a compromise candidate, satisfactory to all.

The roll call on the 26th ballot then began and on it the delegates and various leaders expected something to start.

The 25th ballot stood: McAdoo, 364 1-2; Cox, 525; Palmer, 169; Davis, 58 1-2.

Bryan stated, "I think they are really looking for some one satisfactory to the deadlocked leaders and who will respond to every demand of the White House, Wall street and the liquor interests, but have not yet been able to agree on a man."

The 26th ballot stood: McAdoo, 371; Cox, 424 1-2; Palmer, 167; Davis, 55 1-2. The search for a dark horse began to take form.

The 27th ballot stood: McAdoo, 371 1-2; Cox, 423 1-2; Palmer, 166 1-2; Davis, 60 1-2.

The 28th ballot stood: McAdoo, 368 1-2; Cox, 423; Palmer, 165 1-2; Davis, 62 1-2.

The 29th ballot stood: McAdoo, 394 1-2; Cox, 404 1-2; Palmer, 166; Davis, 63. Indiana turned 29 of her 30 votes to McAdoo and Washington's 14 were given him. These were mainly for Cox.

The 30th ballot stood: McAdoo, 403 1-2; Cox, 400 1-2, Palmer, 165; Davis, 58. There were rumblings that Georgia might flop to McAdoo on the 31st ballot.

CORNER STONE LAYING THURSDAY

Interesting Facts Concerning The Original Presbyterian Church And Its Progress Here

The laying of the cornerstone of the new Presbyterian church on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, which will be attended by the members of the Richmond lodge of Masons, together with other Masonic lodge members of the county, will be an auspicious affair, in a way, and marks a most important and interesting period in the progress of this church in Madison county.

The first Presbyterian church to be built in Richmond or Madison county was during the month of July, 1832. Its dedication was on July 5 of that year. The church recently razed, or a part of it, is said to be the remnant of that edifice, which was a two-story structure of brick. This church, however, was rebuilt in 1858-59, and again in 1887. This is the structure complete and that was torn down a few months ago.

Readers of the Daily Register will recall the spirited campaign which followed the decision to build the new church now under course of construction and of the fact that a donation of $20,000 by Waller Bennett stimulated the work.

The Presbyterian church was founded, or rather organized, in Richmond and Madison county in 1827 by the Rev. James Bond, father of Rev. George Bond, the mountain evangelist.

The cornerstone will have beneath it a roster of the officials and various pastors of the church, together with interesting data regarding dates, etc. Rev. R. L. Telford, present minister, will deliver the chief address of the day. There will be a number of members, it is understood, who have not been in Richmond for years in attendance at the ceremonies. The Richmond lodge of Masons will hold a special meeting, as stated elsewhere in these columns preparatory to arranging for attending, also the invitation to the other members of the lodge.

Gets Royal Reception

Marion, O., July 5.—Senator Warren G. Harding got a royal reception from his fellowtownsmen upon his arrival today from Washington. Virtually every citizen greeted the Republican presidential nominee. He is understood to have said today that the three leaders for the Democratic nomination, Cox, Palmer and McAdoo, had no chance to win, and the nominee would probably be a dark horse.

BODY OF INFANT FOUND IN A WELL

Sunday afternoon while climbing a tree for apples on his farm near Big Hill, Claude Gentry's attention was attracted to a curious object in an abandoned well. Procuring a tub and pole, he procured the object, which proved to be the body of a female infant. Coroner Muncy, of Richmond, was notified, and with Dr. Robinson an inquest developed that the child's body had been abandoned perhaps five days and probably as many weeks.

It was scantily clad, with a cloth about its face as if for the purpose of strangling. The verdict of the coroner was that the infant came to its death at the hands of unknown persons, and that it was either strangled or drowned. Undertaker W. C. Engle of Berea, was called and the body interred in a cemetery near by.

OLD FRIENDS PLAY, DRINK, THEN SHOOT

Two Estill Men May Die As The Result Of Furth Of July Celebration Sunday

A Furth of July celebration that may cost two lives has hitherto good friends are in the hospital at Lexington in a precarious condition as the result of an alleged fight over a card game in which they participated, as well as many drinks of moonshine whiskey, according to the reports emanating from that locality.

The men, who are said to be residents of Miller creek, Estill county, are Joseph Embury and Luther Young. The former is married, having a wife and several children. Young is single. The shooting took place during the afternoon and it was late Sunday night when friends found the two men, investigated their wounds and prepared to have them conveyed to the hospital, where, it was reported, neither has much chance for recovery.

The men, it is claimed, had been friends for years, but decided to have a celebration of the Fourth in a day of pleasure, and procured a quantity of whiskey. They started a card game during the afternoon, which is given as the cause of the dispute which may prove fatal to both. Neither has been able to give any particulars of the affair.

BIGGEST FAIR YET PLANNED AT BEREA

Plans for the biggest and best Berea Fair in its entire history are nearing completion said President J. E. Johnson and Secretary E. T. Fish, who were down Monday shaking hands with their many friends here. They put in a lot of fine talk boosting the only fair in Madison county and they received lots of assurance that big delegation will be present from Richmond and this end of the county every day of the exhibition. The dates of the fair this year are August 4, 5 and 6, and all indications point to a record breaking attendance and the best fair yet. A number of crack saddle and driving horses are being prepared here to be shown at the Berea fair.

Object Of Murder Veiled In Mystery

Liberty, Ky., July 5.—Secrecy veils the motive for the killing of William Smith, 35 years old, motive picture over, who was shot last by his brother-in-law and business partner, James Snow, 40. Snow, who gave himself up to the sheriff, will make no statement other than that his act was justifiable. The two men's wives, who are sisters, were the eyewitnesses and they have refused to talk. The shooting occurred in the Snow residence, opposite the Smith home.

MYSTERY SHROUDS BOYLE MAN'S DEATH

Whitesburg, Ky., July 5.—An unsolved mystery surrounds the death of William Sims, 30 years old, whose body was found on the L. & N. main line track near McRoberts Sunday night.

A coal train had passed over his body, severing his legs from the body, before it was finally picked up by the train, on which "Buck" Jones was engineer.

An examination of the body revealed the fact that Sims had been beaten over the head with a heavy weapon, his skull fractured. It is believed he was attacked and his body placed on the track in an effort to hide the deed.

A Neighborhood Quarrel

Weed Cutters in Demand

There is a big demand for weed cutters, and farmers are paying a good price, many of them taking the men to board during their employment, it is said the weeds were never more plentiful, nor workmen more scarce than at the present time. The time for cutting weeds along the public highways has also arrived.

These Scales Weigh Some

The Daily Register calls attention to the mistake made in the advertisement for Mr. L. R. Blanton, which was run last week. It was the intention of the advertiser to say that the large pair of wagon scales had a weighing capacity of 12,000 pounds and not 1,200 as appeared in the advertisement. This is a rare bargain for some one in need of scales, and already Mr. Blanton has had several prospective purchasers who read the advertisement in the Daily Register.

Richmond Ball Team Off For Mt. Vernon

The Richmond ball team, in charge of George McCoy, departed Monday morning for Mt. SPECIAL FEATURES IN EVIDENCE TODAY

Court Day And Fourth Of July Spirit Mingle With Light Horse Sales

While there was a general Monday morning resumption of business in Richmond, city and county offices being open, there was the general court day observance and many horses and mules on the streets with selling starting slowly. At noon there were light sales reported, and the prices were likewise.

The regular Fourth of July spirit seemed much in evidence, from the fact that court day was not as much for business as to "visit," thus business was stagnated.

There was a tendency towards a good time and many diversions. One was Doel Maupin, who tuned up a violin at First and Main streets, and he did it properly. He rendered "Billy in the Low Ground," "Leather Breeches" and a number of other favorite numbers that brought a crowd, including a traffic policeman, who seemed to have lost his power of speech—he enjoyed it, too; a woman selling baskets and a boy leading a pet ground hog which he refused to sell added to the extra numbers of the bill. A blind man selling lead pencils seemed to be wishing that Fourth of July came every day. He had a pencil for all who tendered a nickel, his stock in trade being one of the few articles not purchasable at that price.

Webber Hamilton, hearing Mr. Maupin's music, wanted to have a dance then and there. A number of "other" young men were also willing, but there was an absence of the fair sex. The court day proceedings went on, proceeding slowly, but all enjoying themselves.

At noon there were many added attractions and an immense crowd, apparently happy, but not buying or selling many mules or horses.

RAVENNA TRAGEDY MAY END FATALLY

A young man apparently 18 years old, giving his name as Bryant, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded Saturday night at Ravenna, it is alleged, by Joe Spivy, a railway detective. The victim of the unfortunate affair is in a hospital hovering between life and death.

Reports from Ravenna are to the effect that the young man arrived in Ravenna late at night, awaiting the arrival of the midnight train. He is said to have been slightly under the influence of liquor. It was when he believed officers were watching him that he started from the depot, where he had spent some time, that he was called upon to halt by Spivy. Failure at the first command is said to have caused the officer to fire at the young man who started to run, and he received a bullet in the back. He fell and was taken to the hospital. He had been working in the oil fields and had about $300 in his pockets, which he is said to have saved. He had no whisky in his possession.

Judge O. K. Noland Here

Judge O. K. Noland, of Estill county, was a visitor in Richmond today. He stated that in as much as he formerly lived near the Madison county line and well acquainted here, he decided to spend the day with friends. He said he feared Richmond was going a little ahead of the times with the street improvement, contemplated White Way and other improvements.

Recovery Now Expected

Judge John D. Goodloe, whose condition has been serious at the Berea hospital, where he recently underwent an operation for gall stones, and whose life was despaired of for some time, rallied Saturday night, recognized many friends, and it is believed that his recovery is now but a matter of time.
