GREAT TOBACCO MEETING TO HEAR SAPIRO JUNE 14

Madison County Farmers and Growers Seem To Favor New Plan He Will Explain Here

Aaron Sapiro, marketing expert, will come to Richmond Tuesday, June 14, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon to explain his tobacco marketing plan which is so interesting every farmer in Kentucky and the burley region.

At a meeting of a large number of prominent farmers and big growers here Monday afternoon, a unanimous invitation was extended to him to come to Richmond.

Mr. T. S. Burnam, local member of the state-wide organization committee, presided at the meeting of the tobacco men, explained the high points of the Sapiro plan and urged that the growers of Madison give it a trial. He was followed by James C. Stone, of Lexington, who went into detail about the plan of co-operative marketing of tobacco. Mr. Stone answered many questions from his auditors. He said that he had started in against the plan but had been convinced of its feasibility to fit conditions in Kentucky and is now convinced that it will mean the salvation of the Kentucky tobacco farmer.

Mr. Burnam asked for expressions from others present. Mr. Waller Bennett said that he had been convinced that the plan is worth trying to save the tobacco situation in Kentucky. He pointed out that the whole plan seems to be promoted unselfishly by Judge Bingham and others, and that honesty in its management was one of the fundamental requirements to make it a success. Others who endorsed the plan and desired to have Mr. Sapiro come here were Messrs. Lewis Neale, C. F. Chenault, T. J. Curtis, Jas. Neale, and others.

It was decided to invite him here to speak on June 14th at two o'clock in the afternoon. He is now in North Carolina, telling the tobacco growers there of the advantages of organization in selling of their crops, and will be in Kentucky the week of June 13-18, and Richmond growers consider themselves fortunate to have him here. It is expected that tobacco growers, farmers, and tenants from all over Madison and adjoining counties will be present to hear Mr. Sapiro. Madison will undoubtedly be one of the 22 districts proposed to be established in Kentucky, if 75 per cent of the growers sign the contract to join the organization. Every grower signs for the number of acres he raised last year and poundage that he sent to market. And when 75 per cent of the burley districts has signed up the organization will become effective.

Mr. Stone, who is himself a Madison county native, went into lengthy detail of the plan, and gave his hearers much valuable information. He told how the crop is financed each year, and of the selling organization, endorsement of the plan by all bankers who have considered it, and answered fully every question that was asked him.

The farmers plainly wanted to hear more about it from Mr. Sapiro and indications are that he will be greeted by a tremendous crowd when he speaks here on the afternoon of June 14th.

BOOTLEGGERS' TRIP TO PARIS CUT SHORT

Deputy sheriff Sam Bush again demonstrated to the bootleggers that it is going to be hard for them to get by the officers here in Madison county when he went to Fort Estill and captured James McDaniel, who was waiting at the station for the northbound train where he expected to ride over to Bourbon county. He had with him a suit case and upon opening it the deputy found two gallons of white whiskey. He was brought in to Richmond and appeared before Judge Price. He waived the examining trial, and was held over to the grand jury in the sum of $200. He told the officer that he was from the Big Hill section.

FEW LIVE UP TO THIS HIGH IDEAL, THOUGH

(By Associated Press)

Danville, Ky., June 7—The newspapermen who enter the profession without the training afforded by the universities of the country is seriously handicapped, Keen Johnson, of the University of Kentucky, today declared in an address on "Making Newspaper Men" before the annual mid-summer session of the Kentucky Press Association. He expressed the belief that it is more difficult to make a good newspaperman than it is to make a lawyer, doctor or minister.

The newspaperman, he said, should have a thorough knowledge of the English language, should have a working knowledge of history, finance and economics and should know the mechanics of the newspaper. All of these the School of Journalism is trying to teach in the university.

In speaking of the ideal newspaperman Mr. Johnson asserted that he must "be able to think cogently, analyze accurately and set forth succinctly the results by which conclusions are reached. An editor to whom has been given the gift of discernment, the ability to correlate facts and the analytical mind necessary to deduce from such probable outcome is the prophet of the age as well as crystallizer of public thought. In assuming the position of editor there is placed in his hand the most potent instrument of the age, an instrument that has exposed evil and corruption to the white light of an intelligent public thought, quickened public conscience and led aroused people to action."

The editor, he asserted, should be of judicial temperament and should keep his mind open. He also must have high regard for the ethics of his profession and must be intellectually, mentally and morally without fear.

Mr. Johnson stressed the teaching of English as "the most vital thing in training a newspaperman, for men rise in the newspaper world in proportion to their ability to use clear, expressive, forceful English."

He told his auditors that every graduate of the University of Kentucky School of Journalism had made good, but said that he must not be understood as saying that a course in journalism inevitably produced a capable newspaperman. He asserted, though, that he believed that graduates of journalism had a better chance than the man without the university training.

GOOD SADDLE HORSES IN BIG DEMAND

Shelby Harbison, a prominent horseman from Fayette county, was in Richmond court day and took back with him six good saddle horses which he purchased from different parties at prices ranging from $175 to $250 each.

Wm. Tremere, of Wilmore, also bought three fancy saddle horses and Smith and Turner four.

Good saddles horses are becoming scarce in the country and there is a steady demand for them.

SCHOOL BOARD ANSWERS QUESTIONS

Propounded By J. Hale Dean and Others Regarding Location of New School

1. Should the location be decided by the Board, or should it be decided by the taxpayers and parents of those who attend the schools?

Answer to Question 1: There is no law in existence providing for a referendum on the location of a school house. To incorporate the question of location in the question submitted, would invalidate the election.

2. Should those who purchased property and built homes because they were close to a public school be now deprived of that benefit without being consulted?

Answer to Questions 2 and 3: No person has an exclusive right to have a school adjoining him or keep schools away from him. The only question that can be possibly presented to a patriotic citizen would be the best location, regardless of individual preferences in the matter.

4. It seems that one of the big questions is that of adequate play grounds. Could sufficient additional ground be secured adjacent to the Caldwell site at a cost of less than that of abandoning the present site and salvage there on?

Answer to Question 4: At the time the last additions to the public school was made there was violent protest against building this addition on the old grounds on the ground that they were inadequate. And the school board searched the town to get a larger and better location, but was unable to get one except at a prohibitive price, and then at a distance farther than the hill property from the center of Richmond. Additional grounds could be purchased or condemned adjoining the present lot, but it would require several years to perfect titles, and the cost would be in excess of the bond issue asked for.

5. Is the fact that a majority of the pupils who attend the new school will be required to cross Main street two to four times a day a matter of consideration?

Answer to Question 5: This question is based upon a false assumption of fact. Probably three-fourths of the children attending the public schools come down Main street, but even if the assumption was true, it is no reason why a magnificent location should be discarded and an inadequate location used on which to spend $100,000.00, as no school child has ever been injured or contaminated while crossing Main street.

6. Why not be more specific as to the money to be allotted to the colored schools, naming the approximate amount and just what will be done with it. A satisfactory answer to this would probably secure many votes.

Answer to Question 6: The question is specifically answered in the certificate of the School Board to the Board of Council. The first essential is to get a school building erected for the white children of Richmond, who have no school, and to make such improvements in the ground and buildings to the colored school as may be possible. Plans for improving colored schools are being formulated and will be announced.

7. Why not change the method of paying off the bonds and have the heavy payments come in after years when the street bonds are about paid off?

Answer to Question 7: The method of paying off bond was adopted because it conforms to the street bond issue. The street bond issue is for 20 years and covers practically the same 20 years that the school bond issue covers. The sinking fund provided for street bonds calls for $7,500 a year. The sinking fund for school bonds calls for $4,000 a year, so that the sinking fund created under both ordinances would be exactly the same for the next twenty years. The law limits the period for which bonds shall be issued to 20 years.

BAD ACCIDENT AT NORMAL KITCHEN

Steam Percolator Explodes Injuring Assistant Cook Who May Suffer Loss of Eye

Wade Ellis, well-known local colored man, was quite seriously injured about the head when a steam percolator exploded at Sullivan Hall where Ellis is employed as assistant cook. He was rushed to the Pattie A. Clay Infirmary by Dr. Humm, who responded promptly to a call from the dormitory. It is understood that his upper lip and right cheek were lacerated in a number of places and that he will lose his right eye.

From reports it was learned that the steam percolator in the annex dining room began vibrating vigorously just after breakfast and the automatic safety valve began whistling keenly. Mrs. Frankie Kiest, who was in charge of the dining room at the time reported the fact to Mrs. M. A. Lynn, who was at that time in the kitchen of the main building. Mrs. Lynn immediately dispatched a message by one of the houseboys to the engineer at the power plant.

Ellis was employed at Sullivan Hall kitchen and overheard Mrs. Kiest's report to Mrs. Lynn. He immediately went to the dining room and after securing a bucket attempted to drain all the hot water from the percolator. He was cautioned by Walter Fox, chief cook of the annex kitchen, not to take the water out of the tanks. Fox says that he had no more than uttered the warning when the explosion occurred. Because of the nature of the cuts and the loss of blood, it was thought that Ellis was more seriously injured than he is. If complications do not arise, he should pull through with the loss of only one eye.

BOGGS TO INSPECT CAMP KNOX ROAD

Joseph S. Boggs, State Highway Commissioner, today or tomorrow will inspect the road from Louisville to Camp Henry Knox. On arriving in Louisville last night to attend the Kentucky Good Roads Convention, which being at Louisville today, Mr. Boggs said:

"Regarding the road from Louisville to Camp Knox, I have no statement to make, and will have none until I have inspected the road. I intend to do this either Tuesday or Wednesday."

Work of grading and repairing the two-mile detour, which leads up to the bridge over Salt river, was started Monday, according to J. H. Cahill, contractor. Mr. Cahill said, furthermore, that he had issued instructions to run a 15-ton roller, with a steam scarifier, or the detour to eliminate as many bumps as possible.

Mrs. Stamp Gets Divorce

(By Associated Press)
Louisville, Ky., June 7—A decree of divorce was granted today to Mrs. Eva Stamp from Walter P. Stamp in jail here charged with the murder in connection with the killing of W. Smith Russell. The grounds upon which the divorce was granted were cruelty.

8. It is noted that the large advertisements appearing in the Daily Register are marked paid for by private subscription. Would it not be better to name just exactly who is supplying this money?

Answer to Question 8: The advertisements paid for in the Richmond Daily Register are paid for by persons interested in schools of Richmond, by donations out of their own pockets, and a list of these may be readily obtained by getting a copy of the organization now supporting bond issue. However, subscriptions will be welcome from any source, providing the person giving has no other motive than to fully advise the voters of the city of Richmond as to the facts.

MANY BODIES BEING RECOVERED

In Colorado's Flood Area—Congress Appropriates Million For Immediate Relief

(By Associated Press)
Pueblo, Colorado, June 7—The known dead from Friday's flood in Pueblo totalled 55 today when three additional bodies were recovered. No burials for several days owing to impassable condition of the roads to the cemeteries. A committee of real estate men met today and estimated the flood damage at fifteen to twenty million dollars.

Most of the flood waters have receded to a point which made the down town streets and railroad yards accessible and enlarged the possibility of finding more bodies. The Red Cross estimated the list of dead would mount when the debris is removed.
