

75 CITIZENS PETITION McDUGLE

To Respond To Colvin and Addams On School Amendments Question

Friends of Dr. E. C. McDougale, former dean of Eastern Kentucky State Normal School, have been making a canvass of the representative citizens soliciting their endorsement to bring out Dr. McDougale Saturday afternoon to respond to the addresses of Supt. of Public Instruction George Colvin and Dr. M. B. Addams, president of Georgetown College, who are making a vigorous fight for the two proposed educational amendments, which will be held at the court house at 1:30 o'clock.

Close to seventy-five citizens signed the petition urging Dr. McDougale to deliver an address opposing the two amendments, and as there seems to be a large number of people of the community who are lined up on both sides of the question, the meeting promises to be one of the most interesting held here for some time.

The following paper bearing the signature of the signers appears as follows:

We hereby request Dr. E. C. McDougale to be present and respond to the addresses made Saturday afternoon in favor of the school amendments. We have the utmost confidence in the sincerity and ability of Dr. McDougale to represent the sentiment of the large proportion of the voters of Madison who are opposed to the two amendments, and we petition him to appear and represent us at said meeting:

'SHINER COUNTIES HELP DRY OFFICERS

(By Associated Press)

Lexington, Oct. 14—Citizens of Bell county, determined that law enforcement in that county shall not be defeated because officers have not enough money with which to work, have raised a fund of $1,000 for the expense of the Bell county sheriff and the prohibition officer stationed at Pineville, according to word received at the office of Sam Collins, state prohibition director, here. The fund is to be used to pay for any needed help in raiding moonshine stills and other work of law enforcement.

One Pineville man gave $250 of the fund.

The prohibition officers in the state, of whom there will be 30 when Mr. Collins fills his force, are not allowed any but personal expenses under the present law, according to officials here. When raiders were members of the Internal Revenue Department force under the old law, providing for hunting down and destroying moonshine stills, the officers had the power to form posses and pay each member $3 a day for his services. Now he is dependent upon the flying squadrons of prohibition officers sent out from state headquarters or upon sheriffs and other peace officers in the locality where the raid is to be made.

A number of sheriffs throughout the state have been giving active help to the prohibition officers. All expenses of raids in Letcher county are borne by sheriff Tolliver, it was stated, while other sheriffs furnish deputies to aid the prohibition officers.

TRADE DAY WENT OVER WITH A WHOOP

The Merchants' contest that closed on last Wednesday, October 12, was given up to be the biggest thing of its kind ever in the city and was a success from start to finish. Early Wednesday morning the crowd began coming in and continued to come until after 2 o'clock when the streets and stores were all crowded. Fully 5,000 people were attracted to Richmond that day.

The Register office was kept busy answering phone calls of people wanting to know when the merchants' gifts would be awarded and at appointed time when the judges entered the band stand, the crowd gathered around and it was almost impossible for any one to get to the band stand. The crowd was solid for a half block in every direction.

The specialty advertising team that assisted in promoting Trade Day was on the ground to assist in every way they could, and was in all parts of town, giving out bills telling the visitors about the closing features, with a list of the live and enterprising merchants furnishing these gifts and in these and other ways helped the Register to put over this big day in Richmond's history.

After the gifts had been awarded the large crowd expressed appreciation and gratitude to the merchants for the liberal way in which they expressed themselves, and all went home happy and resolved to trade in Richmond in the future.

The merchants were all pleased with the results of Trade Day and all of them had good business. They were loud in their praise of the big day and the way it was handled, and quite a number said repeat it whenever you want to.

The Register wishes to express its thanks to the merchants for their hearty co-operation in this enterprise and assures them that it has Richmond and community at heart and will do everything possible to make Richmond a larger and better Richmond and bring all trade in this territory here—to the best merchants in the state.

GRAND JURY RETURNS 31 INDICTMENTS

Judge Shackelford Gives Special Charge About Investigation of Official's Conduct

Thirty-one indictments, mainly for offenses against the prohibition laws, have been returned so far by the grand jury. The grand jury was about to adjourn about three o'clock Thursday afternoon when Judge Shackelford asked them if they had had any representatives of the commonwealth to assist them during the day. Foreman W. A. Baxter said that they had not.

Judge Shackelford then read the grand jury two sections of the Kentucky statutes, which provide for forfeiture of office of any public official who shall be convicted of malfeasance in office and another which provided similar penalty for intoxication of an official and levay fine and imprisonment.

The Judge told the grand jury to go back and investigate their authority under these statutes. Mr. Baxter said that the grand jury had prepared to adjourn next Tuesday. Judge Shackelford told him that at that time Commonwealth Attorney Crutcher would be back from Winchester to wait upon them. Mr. Baxter said they had sent for County Attorney O. P. Jackson to his home, but he had sent word he was sick. Judge Shackelford instructed the grand jury to make a thorough investigation and ascertain their authority under the statutes.

The grand jury then adjourned to the grand jury room again. The list of indictments so far brought in are for the following offenses:

- Having and transporting liquor—7.
- Carrying concealed a deadly weapon—8.
- Malicious cutting and wounding—1.
- Keeping liquor for sale—9.
- Shooting on public highway—2.
- Breach of the peace—1.
- Violating the prohibition law—3.

James McDonald, who was tried Wednesday on a charge of having liquor for purposes of sale, was given a $50 fine and 30 days in jail. Officers caught him at Fort Estill station with two gallons of moonshine. He said he was taking it to Bourbon county for his own use. But he did not take the stand in his own defense when the trial was held.

Miss Pearl Collins' claim for $5,000 for services against the estate of her grandmother, Mrs. Arethusa Tevis, was thrown out of court on peremptory instructions. This claim was presented in the suit of Judge J. C. Chenault, administrator of the estate, to wind it up. Other co-plaintiffs with Judge Chenault, interested in the suit, were Mr. and Mrs. Evan R. Tevis, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Tevis, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Tevis, Mrs. Reba Jones and Miss Henrietta Tevis.

RAILWAY EXECUTIVES NOW IN SESSION

Chicago, Oct. 14—Confronted by a possible strike over wage reductions and insistent demands from shippers for lower freight rates, railway executives met here today to discuss a proposal to reduce transportation charges in proportion to future wage reductions. The executives declined to indicate what definite steps are under discussion which, under their plan, will be necessary before freight rates are reduced.

Soon after the conference met the executives received a letter from Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the brotherhood of locomotive engineers, asking a conference on behalf of the big six railroad unions, which have voted a strike. Stone was notified the letter will be considered.

When the executives met it was understood they would ask the Federal Labor Board for further wage reductions, promising to pass all future cuts along to public in lower freight and passenger rates. Meanwhile, the crisis is rendered more acute when the labor board handed down a decision providing for restoration of piece work. The railroad executives are jubilant while the union leaders feared for the effect on the men.

Teachers of Madison County and Richmond

The teachers of several counties and cities in Kentucky have requested "Eastern" to establish study centers for them to meet on Saturdays to study one or more courses. These teachers see clearly that if present salaries are to be maintained in the face of a falling market, they must give better service. Already the complaint is going forth from tax payers that they are getting no better service for higher teachers' salaries than for the former salaries. As one farmer put it to the writer: "We are paying big salaries to teachers, getting the same old group, or worse, and no better teaching I'm against it."

"Eastern" is ready to help. If the teachers of this county and city, enough of them, are interested in such a class, we are glad to offer it. One credit can be worked off in ten weeks. The only cost will be the enrollment fee. Teachers who are interested should write to us at once. For the sake of the children, let us make the schools better.

TWO WHITLOCK MEN WOUNDED IN AFFRAY

When an Argument Arises Over Housing of Tobacco—Lunsfords Placed in Jail

A shooting affray took place near Whitlock station early Friday morning when an argument arose between Willie Sams and his brother, E. S. Sams, and Mack Lunsford and his two sons, Frank and General. According to information received here it seems that the argument was started over housing of tobacco which was recently tried in court. The Lunsfords are tenants on the Sams' farm and according to the reports received here Friday morning the subject of their differences over the tobacco housing was again brought up, and neither of the parties being able to come to an agreement, a shooting affray ensued in which both Willie Sams and Mack Lunsford were wounded. Sams was shot in the neck and head, and Lunsford received a wound in the hip.

Willie Sams came to Richmond and swore out warrants against the Lunsfords. Sheriff Whitlock and Deputy Sheriff Johnson left immediately for the scene of the trouble and arrested the three Lunsfords. They were placed in jail to await their examining trial.

SKELETONS 14 FEET UNDER RIVER BED

(By Associated Press)

Dixon, Ky., Oct. 13—Fourteen feet beneath the Tradewater river bed and twenty-two feet beneath the surface of the river, the skeletons of a deer and horse, and a number of queer implements have been found by O. C. Vaughn, a local man who had charge of the work of placing a large bridge over this river between Webster and Crittenden counties. It was necessary to go fourteen feet beneath the river bed to find rock for substantial abutments.

The most singular thing found, according to Mr. Vaughn, was a small rock that had threads on the outside the size of a 3-4 inch pipe and threads on the inside for a 3-8 inch bolt.

Three logs were found resting on the bedrock, one a poplar, one a gum and the other an oak. They were very brittle, but aside from this were in a fair state of preservation.

Many conjectures have been made as to the number of years the skeletons and trees have rested so far beneath the river bed.
