FIELD HOSPITAL UNIT FOR RICHMOND

Company For State Guard Work To Be Recruited Here at Once By Dr. O. F. Hume

Richmond is to have a Field Hospital unit in the Kentucky State Guard.

Dr. O. F. Hume has just been authorized by the Adjutant General's department at Frankfort to begin examinations Thursday of men who have petitioned for membership in this important unit of the state militia force. The minimum roster will be 50 enlisted men and six officers, four of whom will be physicians, one dentist and one supply officer.

The organization of the Field Hospital forces will prove a valuable move for Richmond in many ways. It is estimated that about $100,000 supplies will be required to equip the unit. An armory has about been arranged for in the central portion of the town. This will be fitted up and drills will be held regularly.

Dr. Hume, who is an ex-serviceman himself, says that it is planned to enroll the entire force from ex-servicemen, if possible. It is expected that many will be glad for this valuable training and opportunity to put the experience and knowledge they gained in the great war to further use and benefit.

It is hoped to have the unit fully organized and equipped in time to take part in the fall encampment at Camp Knox.

ROTARY HOLDS FIRST NOONDAY MEETING

With only two absentees, the Richmond Rotary Club held its first noonday luncheon meeting at the Hotel Glyndon Tuesday from 12:30 to 1:30. Considerable rivalry for perfect attendance records is being manifested between teams captained by Allen Zaring and T. K. Hamilton, respectively. The former's team won on the first roll call of the members. President Webber, of the Winchester Rotary Club, was an appreciated guest and made a few interesting remarks. The Richmond club is always glad to have visitors. Several more applications for memberships were received, and will be acted upon soon. As usual, Manager Smyer of the hotel, furnished a delightful menu.

AGED MAN HURT BY FALL FROM LADDER

Alex Davis, of the Eastern part of the city, fell from a step ladder Monday morning while picking cherries and broke his right arm above the elbow, in two places. Mr. Davis is about 70 years of age and his friends are uneasy over his condition. He suffered considerably Monday night.

(By Associated Press)
Mount Holly, N. J., June 13—Mrs. Doris Brunen, widow of John T. Brunen, circus owner, who was shot and killed March 10th, is under arrest here on a charge of murder. Authorities say she was arrested upon information furnished by persons already held in connection with the case.

LEXINGTON PUTS ON GRIDIRON SHOW

(By Associated Press)
Lexington, Ky., June 13—Foil-bles of Kentuckians and national and international organizations and figures ranging from reform organizations to Gov. Morrow, President Harding, Walter Camp, Max Oser and prohibition were exposed to view of the public at the first annual gridiron dinner of the Henry Watterson chapter of Alpha Delta Sigma, journalistic fraternity of the University of Kentucky here last night. At the beginning, "King Baldy the First, King of Gluttony," impersonated by Prof. Enoch Grehan, announced that the meeting was designed to "knock everything and everybody."

As the guests, among whom were prominent men from all walks of life, including the governors, members of the state administration, publishers of newspapers, educators and business men, entered the Palm Room of the Phoenix Hotel, ballots were handed out for the election of King of the affair. Prof. Enoch Grehan, head of the department of Journalism, was elected King by an overwhelming vote and took this oath:

"I, Duke of Journalism, Lord of Paragraphs and High Flunkey for my wife, do here avow and affirm that I will do at all times that which is befitting a scholar and a gentleman. I will refrain from Coca Cola, Conan Doyle and other spirituous combinations and will heed the warning of fire and the Louisville Chief of Police. I will be a hearty supporter of Bulgin and his party and I will drink milk with my coffee. I further avow and endeavor to affirm that I will never take the Pogo, cooties or the Smart Set to my bedroom and I will refrain from atrocious asininity, diabolical deluges and bemoaning degradation. Never will I have anyone cast into Newport or a fit. I will renounce Irvin Cobb, H. N. Menckin, Will Kaltenbacher and all their works and I will do that which is at all times in hearty accord with the advertising policy of the Standard Oil Company. I have spoken the truth for I do not lie, that is, often, so help me Governor Morrow."

After a brief oration by the King, announcing the potent of the gathering the dinner started. Epitaphs of prominent Kentuckians were read during the meal that of Governor Morrow reading, "what Ed said went and he went with it."

A wireless dispatch was received which attempted to make the next candidate for governor on both the republican and democratic tickets. There was a great deal of static in the air, but the operator could not catch the full name. He did however, catch the first letter which was "S." Is it Stoll or Simms?" was asked the toastmaster.

A telegram of regret was received from President Harding. Wire trouble prevented the message being deciphered. But the telegraph operator feared that if he waited for the wire to clear up and for a repeat the message would not arrive. So he delivered the following: "Detained by the business." There were conjectures from various members of the cast. Did the President mean "Treasury, Harvey or Daugherty?"

At this point a man entered with a wheelbarrow. It was W. S. Smith taking his resignation as a divisional highway engineer to Road Engineer Joe S. Bogs at Frankfort.

Smith was followed by Congressman Volstead, dressed as Hamlet, as he crossed the stage he chanted "to beer or not to beer."

MILLION SUES BOND SALESMAN

The Louisville Times has this of interest to the friends of Dr. Million at his home here:

Dr. C. A. Edson, who was arrested Saturday on a warrant sworn to by Dr. V. B. Million, of the V. B. Million Drug Company who charged the former with converting certain money to his own use, was sued today in Circuit Court by Mr. Million, who seeks judgment for $1,254.25 and asks an attachment on Dr. Edson's property. Dr. Edson was a stock salesman for the Million company and the suit sets forth that he sold to Nannie G. Strayton, supposed to be a resident of Taylor county, $1,000 worth of stock in the company, for which he accepted $200 cash and a note for $800. Mr. Million says Dr. Edson collected the note May 8 and did not turn in the money. He also asks for the return of $288.68 advanced money, $85.58 paid for automobile accessories for the salesman and $100 paid for Edson's hotel bill in Campbellsville.

HARDING WANTS TARIFF PASSED FIRST

(By Associated Press)
Washington, June 13—President Harding said today at the White House that he hopes and expects the tariff bill to be passed prior to the soldiers' bonus legislation. The matter of the tariff legislation is considered by the president most important and worthy of the undivided attention of Congress. This statement made when it was reported some senate members are seeking to lay aside the tariff bill and take up the recently reported bonus bill.

two was going on in another part of the room. The toastmaster introduced himself as "Max Oser." Donning a beard, he waited around the table and delivered a discourse on his theories of marriage, during which he took exception to the statement of "Mr. Fizzblum" that he was the world's foremost living authority on marriage, declaring that marriage is both a declaration of war and a treaty of peace with "Love, the favorite, Honor, for place, and Obedy, to show, but they seldom pay off that way, for Hell, Divorce and Alimony are the long shots." He urged that "with all my worldly goods I thee endow," be taken out of the ceremony for "any mention of indemnity does not belong in a marriage ceremony." He then suggested an abbreviated ceremony and in conclusion said "I would like to remind you that I positively will not admit that I am the world's greatest living authority on the subject despite the fact that I am, for modesty forbids."

With Max Oser off the stage, Walter Camp entered and delivered a discourse on "Why is a Gridiron?"

The "piece de resistance" of the evening was a playlet by Arthur Hodges entitled "One Night in Kentucky." The characters were Woods Redspeth, a farmer, Tommy, his son; Dr. Van Meter, a physician; Brother Porter Bryan, a minister; Col. Patterson, just a candidate, and Enoch Brisbane Allen, an eloquent editor.

KENTUCKY HAS 84 NEW LAWS TODAY

(By Associated Press)
Frankfort, Ky., June 13—Kentucky today has 84 new laws, which went into effect today, 90 days after the General Assembly ended its session. Among the most important were the Smith-Minor general registration law; the McCaw anti-trading stamp law; the Smith bill, increasing the power of the State Railroad Commission; the Quarles bill, making legal school terms to 7 months; the Bright load limit bill; the Watts bill, making train wrecking, in which persons lose their lives, murder; the Moss bill, modifying the criminal syndicalism law. The McCaw anti-trading stamp bill is already under litigation and it is expected the Smith-Minor registration bill also will be attacked in the courts.

OGDEN PASSES UP CONGRESS AGAIN

(By Associated Press)
Louisville, Ky., June 13—A special to the Post from Washington says Congressman Chas. F. Ogden today made a statement declining to be considered as a candidate for renomination on the republican ticket from the 5th Kentucky district, which embraces Louisville.

L. & N. RAILROAD WINS UNIQUE DAMAGE SUIT

(By Associated Press)
Frankfort, Ky., June 13—Lon Hatfield sued the Louisville & Nashville railroad for $1,086 because it carried him past his station in Bullitt county and because the railroad failed to provide him with a seat and because his pocket was picked on the train of $81. The Court of Appeals held today he is entitled to a verdict for $1.75, the extra fare he paid from the point where he quit the train back to his home.

BELL CIRCUIT CLERK WINS $2,000 CASE

(By Associated Press)
Frankfort, Ky., June 13—In the case of Bell county versus Rice, affirmed today by the Court of Appeals, it was held the county should pay P. B. Rice $2,000 for making new index to the circuit court order book.

Revised Reports on Storm

(By Associated Press)
New York, June 13—Revised reports from Sunday's storm today indicated 55 to 60 persons perished in the tempest that swept the metropolitan area. It took its greatest toll from boating parties at City Island where three score bodies are reported in morgues scattered along the coast from New Jersey to Connecticut.

Col. W. A. Milton, of Louisville, is head of the Kentucky Confederate Home located at Pewee Valley. The state maintains the home which was built by funds raised by veterans. When the home is no longer needed for this purpose, it goes to the state.

TENNESSEE MEN HEAR POOL'S SUCCESS

Dark Tobacco Men Talk To Growers Who Convince Them Co-operative Is Only Plan

Lexington, Ky., June 13—Coming to Lexington with the intention of remaining in the blue grass country until Tuesday the delegation of farmers and business men from Robertson county, Tenn., which arrived Friday night to obtain first-hand information in regard to the operation of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, and to learn whether the growers are satisfied with the results it has achieved for them, returned to Tennessee Sunday to report unanimously that the members of the burley association are hopeful, happy, confident of the future and the most of those with whom they talked said they already had received twice as much for their 1921 crop as they had been paid for their 1920 yield.

The Tennesseans said they had found a man at Paris, who was opposed to the association and that he gave them the names of twelve other persons, some business and professional men and some farmers, who, he said, were opposed to the co-operative. They called on all of the twelve and found each man enthusiastic for the new method of selling burley tobacco and backing it to the limit, so far as their influence was concerned.

The Tennesseans went to Bourbon and Nicholas counties, besides making inquiries in Fayette they said. Verner A. Bradley, a member of the delegation, who besides being a large grower of tobacco is well known in west Tennessee politics, said:

"Judging from our experience today sentiment is either all one way for your new burley co-operative or we have been up against the biggest set of liars I have ever met in all my experience, and that has been somewhat extensive, as anybody who ever has been in politics much will have to admit."

B. L. Moore, a business man and warehouseman of Springfield, Tenn., said the proposition had been doubtful to the people of Robertson county. "I am for it," he said. "I have a good living and in going into this thing I may be giving it up, but I think it will be for the good of our country down there in Tennessee, as it has been for your country here."

D. W. Porter, farmer and tobacco grower, said that the visitors found one man opposed to the new plan of selling. "I never in my life say anything so one-sided about which there had been any controversy," said Porter. "We came to stay three or four days. We have learned all we wanted to know in one day's investigation and a complete answer to the propaganda being circulated against the pool in the dark tobacco district. If it has worked as well for you people as it has, I haven't a doubt in the world it will do as much for us."

"We came here to stay until Tuesday," said R. J. McDaniell, "and we're going home tomorrow. We would have gone home tonight, if there had been a train. I want you to say that we feel most kindly toward all the burley officials and members who have helped us while here and particularly toward your assistant counsel, Mr. Virgil Chapman, who gave up his own work to show courtesy to us. He and the others have demonstrated that the saying 'Kentucky hospitality' really has a meaning of its own."

"We called on bankers, blacksmiths, men in the stores, white and negro tenants in the fields, and the answer was always, 'It's done more for us than anything we ever went into,' referring to the co-operative."

John Farmer, another member of the delegation and prominent tobacco raiser, declared he had never seen anything like the apparently genuine enthusiasm manifested for the co-operative. "I heard dozens of men say," said Mr. Farmer, "that they had already received twice as much for their 1922 crop as for that of the previous year, and with another dividend coming when the crop is sold. The rest of it will be velvet, they said."

The Weather

Local thundershowers this afternoon; generally fair tonight and Wednesday; warmer in the north portion.

Tuesday's Livestock Markets

Cincinnati, June 13—Hogs 10c lower; Chicago lower; good cattle and lambs steady.
Louisville, June 13—Cattle 400, steady and unchanged; hogs 1,300, 15c lower, tops $10.60; sheep 4,200, steady and unchanged.

HARDING INSISTS ON SHIP SUBSIDY

(By Associated Press)
Washington, June 13—President Harding has notified Chairman Campbell, of the House Rules Committee, that unless a ship subsidy bill is passed prior to adjournment he would feel obligated to call a special session solely for its consideration. He said "so much is involved and such a difficult and discouraging situation will follow, if Congress fails to sanction the bill."

Labor Condemns It

(By Associated Press)
Cincinnati, O., June 13—The American Federation of Labor today adopted a resolution condemning the ship subsidy bill as inimical to the public interest and destructive of the nation's hope for sea power.

OFFERS PLAN FOR A CASH BONUS

(By Associated Press)
Washington, June 13—A proposal to pay the soldiers' bonus in cash, the financing to be done by means of special taxes on banks and through the use of the interest on foreign indebtedness, was made today in the Senate by Senator Ladd, republican, of North Dakota.

ROAD COMMISSION MAY BE REAPPOINTED

Frankfort, Ky., June 13—A tax commissioner and four State Highway Commissioners will be appointed by Governor Morrow before July 1.

No doubt exists as to the reappointment of all the present highway commissioners—H. G. Garrett, of Winchester, Hugh H. Asher, of Pineville, republicans, and Ben Weille, of Paducah, and Ed S. Monahan, of Jefferson county, democrats.

The Governor appears satisfied with the department, but if he were not, it is thought he would have difficulty in inducing anyone else to accept an appointment on the commission, since the Simmons act of the 1922 General Assembly, taking the appointive power away from the Governor and naming the Sibert Commission, by its terms becomes operative next December. There will be a lawsuit, it is believed, over the department.

CRAB ORCHARD

Messrs. R. E. Turley and Robert R. Burnam and their wives, of Richmond, motored to Crab Orchard Springs on Friday last and attended the Bankers' Convention in session at the Springs, where a great dinner was served toval and instrumental accompaniment by the Springs orchestra. Aside from the rest of the regular guests there were about 200 registered on Friday.

The Fire Underwriters are meeting three days this week at the Springs. Last week the Pharmacists for three days and on June 29-July 1, the State Press Association will be in convention.

The big lake and the bathing pool are popular places of amusement. Aquatic contests for various prizes and fishing go high on in the lake. A black bass 18 inches long and weighing three pounds was recently hooked in the lake by Mr. McGavock, of Jacksonville, Fla., which ties the record made last season by Mr. Severance, of Stanford. Mrs. Turley and Mrs. Burnam were amazed by the improvements everywhere at the Springs, which they had not visited in several years.

ANOTHER JAIL ESCAPE IN CLAY

Bates Shackelford Writes of Working of Prisoners Who Overpower Official

D. B. Shackelford who is in Clay county on business with his coal mines has written back home that passes are searching for seven men who escaped from the county jail there after choking Ben Reid, deputy jailer, into unconsciousness. The men, who were serving long sentences as Steve Bowlin, James Jones, Geo. Conch, Wm. Jackson, Joseph Jackson, and Wm. Felner. Having escaped from the jail on a former occasion, Bowlin was kept chained in his cell. When Reid unlocked the chain Sunday Bowlin attacked the deputy jailer and was assisted by the other prisoners it is said. After overpowering Reid the prisoners seized his weapons and escaped. It is believed the fugitives are hiding in mines and that all are now armed.

Mr. Shackelford is stopping at a boarding house right across from the jail in Manchester.

BANKERS FAVOR POOLING ALL CROPS

Group Eight of the Kentucky Bankers Association, in session Friday at Crab Orchard, endorsed the work of the Burley Co-operative Marketing Association and adopted the following resolution: "That we approve the method of co-operation known as the California plan and extend to the officers and directors of the Burley Co-operative Marketing Association our thanks for the masterful way in which its affairs have been managed."

"We believe in the extension of the plan to other commodities than tobacco, and pledge our continued support and co-operation to the farmers and tobacco growers in this district."

GOAL PRICES UP IN PINEVILLE FIELD

(By Associated Press)
Pineville, Ky., June 13—With the possibility of a railroad strike in the offing, threatening to cripple transportation, the activity in the local coal fields has shifted from mine run coal, which is reported sluggish, to domestic coal. This shift has been sufficiently strong to send the price upward in spite of the reduction of ten per cent in freight rates effective July 1. Mine run has been quoted here at $3.86, while block coal, the equivalent of mixed coal, which was approved by Secretary Hoover and the concurrence of operators, has gone as high as $3.76.

Production in the Bell county field went up another notch during the past ten days with the announcement that the Crech Coal Company at Twila had resumed operations. The Crech mines went to work on the basis of the 1917 union scale.

Baptist Preacher Enters Congress Race In Tenth

Whitesburg, Ky., June 13—Thomas Hopkins, Baptist minister, of Floyd county, has announced his candidacy for Congress from the Tenth district to oppose Congressman John W. Langley and Fess Whitaker, of this county.

Mrs. Lesetr Leter, wife of the Representative from Lincoln county, died near Hestonville as a result of injuries sustained when her horse ran away.

Winchester Policeman Makes Heroic Rescue

Winchester Ky., June 13—After carrying to safety Will Kirkpatrick, 175 pound cripple, who was trapped by fire on the third floor of the Matlack building, Policeman M. B. Tarpay entered the smoke and flame-filled building, fought his way to the third floor and brought down the wooden leg of the crippled man, without which he was helpless.
