FORMER RICHMOND MAN LOSES FATHER

Friends here of Thomas Caden will regret to hear of the death of the death of his father which occurred last week. The Lexington Herald contained this notice:

John J. Caden, 61 years old, died Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock at St. Joseph's hospital after a lingering illness. Mr. Caden was born and reared in Lexington and was for many years employed in the Lexington offices of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad. He married Miss Anne DeBore, who died nine months ago. The body was taken to the home of his mother, Mrs. Susan Caden, on the Maysville pike.

Mr. Caden is survived by his mother, Mrs. Susan Caden; four children, Mrs. Sue C. Krantz, of Lexington; Mrs. Roy Owens, of Cincinnati; Arthur J. Caden, of Norwood, Ohio, and Thomas Caden, of Ashland; 6 sisters, Misses Annie, Margaret, Elizabeth, Mayme, Alice and Sue Caden, all of Lexington; two brothers, Edward and Eugene Caden, of Norwood, Ohio.

Mother-To-Be, Read This—

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers. When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says: "With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse. I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes."

Note: Write for valuable, free illustrated book, "Motherhood and the Baby," containing important authoritative information which every expectant mother should have, and all about "Mother's Friend," to Bradford Regulator Company, R. 25, Atlanta, Ga. "Mother's Friend" is sold by druggists everywhere.

WE'VE MADE A Question of Fairness

Now and then we sacrifice a new car sale because we will not allow an excessive price for a used car. We do this for the protection of our patrons. If we paid Smith too much, we would have to get it back from Jones. But that would be unfair—and we believe in fairness—even if it hurts.

GOOD TELLS OF STOCK DISEASES

(By Associated Press)

Lexington, Ky., July 13—With a total value of $27,000,000 attached to it, Kentucky's livestock industry is the most important phase of the state's farming, E. S. Good, head of the animal husbandry department of the College of Agriculture, today told members of the Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association in addressing them at their annual meeting being held here at the college.

He added that while livestock farming is more profitable than grain farming, it is attended with more difficulty, partly because of stock disease. "One of the greatest losses to the Kentucky farmers is the too prevalent use of scrub sire, it being estimated that such animals cause an annual loss of 10 million dollars to the state," the speaker said. "However, this condition gradually is being remedied and through the work of the college extension division and the Bureau of Animal Husbandry the standing of the state in regard to the number of farmers who have agreed to use nothing but purebred animals in all their breeding work has been raised from forty-fifth to fifth."

"During the past twelve years, the state also has made rapid strides in protecting livestock breeders from losses caused by disease. This has been brought about largely through the creation of the Kentucky Livestock Sanitary Board, the equipment of laboratories of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station for the study of contagious diseases and the aid given by the animal industry bureau.

"During the 12 years mentioned, sheep scabies have been eradicated from flocks in the state, the foot and mouth disease, one of the most dreaded diseases of livestock, has been eradicated and the losses from hog cholera have been reduced from one to two million dollars annually to about $350,000 annually.

"The germ causing infectious abortion in mares and the one causing forage poisoning of cattle also have been isolated by workers at the station during the same length of time while biological products immunizing animals against these diseases have been perfected.

"Two of the largest single losses to breeders at the present time are caused by contagious abortion in cows and sterility in both males and females. These diseases now are being investigated and it is hoped that the results will be of much benefit to livestock breeders of the state."

THOSE BARS ON U. S. SHIPS AGAIN

Washington, July 12—The man responsible for the most open, flagrant violation of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act," declared Senator Caraway, democrat, of Arkansas, in the Senate Monday. "is the President of the United States."

He was arraigning the President for the inconsistency of his words at Marion declaring the amendment must be enforced with his permitting the American ships run by the government to continue the sale of liquor on the high seas.

"With the stroke of a pen he could close more barrooms," Caraway continued, "than was ever given to one man to do in the history of the world."

Even assuming that the Constitution does not follow the flag, Senator Caraway said that did not relieve the President.

"If he believes in law enforcement," said Caraway, "if he wanted the sale of whisky prohibited; if he earnestly desired that all should stand equal before the law, he could say to Mr. Lasker: 'We will not quibble about whether the law prohibits or permits the sale of liquor on American ships. The American people are opposed to the sale of liquor for beverage purposes. It is forbidden by the Constitution which I took an oath to uphold. It is forbidden by an act of Congress which I signed and therefore these bars must be closed.'"

He quoted from Mr. Harding's speech: "The Eighteenth Amendment denies to a minority a fancied sense of 'personal liberty,' but the amendment is the will of America and must be enforced."

"This is a noble sentiment," Caraway declared. "It is fair to presume that the president spoke after deliberation. Can his apologists, therefore, say that he connives at the breaking down of public morals?"

"If it is not impertinent, I would like to ask the President, the Attorney General, the Chairman of the Shipping Board and the leaders of the Republican party if it is a part of their programme, when they shall have put through a ship subsidy and have transferred all of the vessels now owned by the government to private ownership, to give the purchasers of the vessels so transferred a guarantee that they shall have with the ship and the subsidy, wrung from the taxpayers of America, a license also to sell 'intoxicating liquors?'"

"Certainly, the administration would not contend that it could itself violate the law, but could refuse to permit the violation of the law as soon as these ships become the property of private owners. "The dignity of the law must be upheld, for the President, in his Fourth of July declaration, proclaimed that the violation of the Eighteenth Amendment breeds contempt for the law, but no doubt he gave utterance to that noble sentiment with the reservation that this applies to the poor only. One man is ordered to jail for possessing a quart, the other may reel in his drunken revelry on board ships owned and operated by the United States."

SAYS PISTOL TOTTING BOTTOM OF TROUBLES

The editor of the Jackson Times has discovered what lies at the bottom of the murders and promiscuous shootings that disgrace not only Breathitt county, but most of the mountain country and much of the lowlands. It is the habit of "pistol toting." It is a notorious fact that annually there are shipped by arms factories, through their dealers to the mountain regions, thousands of high-power rifles and the latest make of deadly pistols and revolvers, with ammunition to match. The Jackson Times says: "Some years ago Judge M. C. Sautley, of Stanford, Ky., while denouncing the habit of carrying concealed deadly weapons from the bench, declared that the man who practiced carrying weapons was a coward and nothing else; that after the war in which he fought bravely in the Confederate army he thought he had to carry a pistol buckled around him or be at a disadvantage, this idea being the result of always carrying a gun in the army. The result, he declared, was that he was afraid to go out on the street at night, trembled at every little sound and was fast becoming a nervous wreck until, never needing a pistol, he threw it away and became a man again. Since the World War thousands of men are having the same experience until the courts and police of all the large cities are appalled at the conditions of affairs and are imploring legislatures to pass more stringent laws to prevent the sale and possession of firearms. Many a man has been killed and many a murderer has been punished who would have been honored citizens today if they had never carried deadly weapons. Of course, booze and bullets go together, but even a drunken man without a weapon will rarely commit murder. Laws cannot always prevent men from fighting, but the pioneer way, when men fought as long as they could with their fists and then went to the branch, washed each other's wounds, shook hands and became friends, was far better and more sensible, if fighting is ever sensible, than the cowardly way of carrying a pistol and committing murder at the least provocation. In nearly all accounts of killings a reporter will say, "He pulled his pistol at once," as if the pistol were a part of his clothing, as much as a pair of shoes, or a shirt, and this indicates a custom of the country and a most despicable custom it is.
