The well-known bacon concerns of Denny & Son and Richardson, in Waterford City, are to be amalgamated, on condition that all the employees in Richardson's cellars be continued at work.

On August 7, in Arva, died Agnes Leonard, daughter of Terence Leonard, deeply and widely regretted. Her many friends in America and Australia will learn of her demise with keenest sorrow.

Maynooth was represented in the great Wolfe Tone demonstration in Dublin August 15 by 300 men and a brass band. Among them were Hugh Connell, J. Dawson, W. Gorman, J. Matthews, W. Mulligan.

The grand old Irish language will not perish in Arran Island. A branch of the Gaelic League has been established there. Seven hundred persons attended the meeting, every word spoken at it, speeches and resolutions, being in the sweet, flowing tongue of the Gael.

Nationalists of South Tipperary will this month unveil in Clogheen a monument to Father Sheehy, who was judicially murdered by the British Government in Clonmel jail, 1766, on the testimony of perjurers, who subsequently acknowledged that Father Sheehy was innocent of any crime whatever.

The members of the Newtown Cricket Club recently presented Father White, of Newfoundland, with a magnificent gold chain and an address on his leaving Carlow College, after finishing his ecclesiastical education. He was one of the most successful bowlers and batters in Ireland. His college course was very brilliant.

The great demonstration held in Haristown lately to commemorate the murder of Father Prendergast by the British Government in 1798 was headed by a contingent of horsemen numbering 250. After them marched the Monasterevan pikemen, a body of young men 300 strong, bearing imitations of the typical weapons of '98.

On Monday the Cloone fife and drum band, accompanied by a large contingent from the southern borders of the County Leitrim, visited the historic battlefield at Ballinacree, where the numbers of their kindred who fought and fell at that last desperate stand for Irish independence. The visitors were hospitably entertained by the local Centenary Club.

Parsontown was formerly named Birt, and is the second town in importance in the county. It is a good business place. The Earl of Ross resides in Birt Castle, in which is the famous gigantic telescope made and placed therein by the late Earl. A fine bronze statue of William, third Earl of Ross, by Foley, was erected by the inhabitants at a cost of £1,600.

Beautiful weather was experienced at Mullingar horse show, the only drawback being that visitors had to seek the shelter afforded by trees to escape the rays of old Sol. With the majority of exhibitors from King's county, Westmeath, and Longford, the entries were not extensive, but were up to average, the total for seventeen classes being close on 200.

Two young men named McGrath, twins, employed as apprentices in two architects' offices in Derry, lost their lives near Ballykelly, to which they belonged. They went out in a flat-bottomed boat, and nothing more was heard of them until the boat was discovered full of water. The bodies were recovered. The deceased were aged twenty-one years.

One of the oldest inhabitants of Skibbereen passed away lately in the person of Timothy Sheehy, Sr., who died at the residence of his son, Timothy Sheehy, Market street. Mr. Sheehy had reached the fine old age of ninety-four years and up to the last maintained wonderful activity of body as well as full possession of his mental faculties. His death is deeply regretted.

Most Rev. Dr. Owens, Bishop of Clogher, laid the foundation of the new church of St. Patrick, Broomfield, Donaghmoine. He presided also. The meaning of Donaghmoine is "church in the little plain." In Fincarra is a Druidical monument; in Calragh are the ruins of an abbey which was dependent on Mellifont abbey, and in Mannon are the remnants of a Danish fort.

What promises to be a valuable copper mine is reported to be worked at Capagh, about midway between Ballydeob and Schull. The presence of ore was discovered forty years ago, but the discovery was not followed up. Recently Arthur Cave, the manager of the successful Barytes mines, had investigations made, with the result that many miners were set to work. The prospects of success are good.

Many remarkable instances of longevity have been recorded lately. The latest is that of John Malay, a laborer, who reached the age of 102 years this month. The centenarian was engaged last week at Paulstown, where his dexterity in handling the sickle won the admiration of all. Malay was married three times. He has a vivid recollection of dark '47 and witnessed the famous and historic fight in Carrickschock.

The tenants on the extensive property of Mrs. Mary Hamilton, Cappenhane, have successfully concluded the negotiations for the purchase of their holdings. Mr. Wm. F. O'Shaughnessy, solicitor, Charleville, was engaged on behalf of the tenants. One tenant has not agreed to the terms arrived at. The tenants all hold under judicial leases from the year 1887. The estate is under the control of the Court of Chancery.

Surgeon Matthew G. Rush, of Farnmehul, Monaghan, died lately. For many years he was a prominent figure in the public life of the county, being the first Catholic Justice of the Peace appointed in the town. He was a member of the Poor Law Board, Lunatic Asylum Board and Town Commissioners. During the bitter days which the Catholics of Monaghan experienced in the forties and fifties he was a warm and true friend.

The employees of the Castleblingham and Drogheda breweries had their annual excursion a few days since; place, Dublin. The party numbered 600. The Directors provided an excursion train free for the employees, wives and families. In addition to this, each employee was presented with a sum sufficient to provide dinner and refreshments. The clerical staffs of the respective breweries accompanied the excursion and held their annual reunion, dining together at the Royal Marine Hotel, Kingstown.

At a meeting of the Wicklow Billy Byrne Branch of the '98 Centenary Association on Monday, James Gernon presiding, the following resolution was, on the motion of the Chairman, seconded by Charles Davis, unanimously adopted: "That we condemn in the strongest manner the action of the Chairman of Wicklow Town Commissioners in refusing to give the corporation mace to the deputation of Commissioners appointed by resolution of the board on August 3 to attend the Wolfe Tone centenary demonstration in Dublin."

By direction of Most Rev. D. Sheehan, Bishop of Waterford and Lismore, prayers for fine weather were offered up at all the masses throughout the diocese that God would preserve the harvest from destruction. Prayers were also offered asking God to render the crops abundant throughout the country, to save the people from the hardships and privations endured last year through the failure of the crops. The prayers are to be continued in each of the different churches until the parish priest of each district sees fit to discontinue them.

The Cottiers' Show and Industrial Exchange, organized by the Sisters of Charity, Foxford, promises to be no less attractive than those of past years. The number of entries in each section is large and the keenest interest is manifested among the cottiers. J. Talbot Power, D. L., Leopardstown Park, will be staying at Mallaranny with a large party of visitors, among them Countess of Fingall and the Countess of Mayo. To him the public are indebted for the special train running each day of the show, stopping at Newport, Westport and Castlebar.

The Headford branch of the Irish National Teachers' Association at last meeting passed these resolutions: "That we tender to Most Rev. Dr. Walsh our sincere and heartfelt thanks for his recent lucid and unanswerable letter on the arrear question. That the officers of the Galway County Association deserve unstinted praise for the laudable efforts they made in making the late county meeting at Galway such a brilliant success. That we feel deeply grateful to Most Rev. Dr. McCormack for his kindness in presiding at our county meeting on the 9th ult."

A dreadful thunder storm swept over Cashel, accompanied by fork lightning. Mr. Kendal O'Brien, of Golden, lost five cattle, and Mr. Vincent Scully, of Castlepark, lost eight. There were also some farms killed on Mr. Smith-Barry's farm, and several farmers lost ricks of hay, which were burned by the lightning.

In the village of Rosegreen, the lightning struck the gable of a house occupied by Mr. Michael O'Donnell, and rent the wall in two within a few inches from the head of one of Mr. O'Donnell's sons, hurling stone, mortar and other debris into the bed which he occupied.

Mrs. Brennan, who was evicted by Mr. Browne, Breaffy, succeeded in taking forcible possession of her old homestead, notwithstanding the vigilance of a large force of constabulary. She now remains in occupation, but a prosecution will be the result. Additional police have arrived and are under command of District Inspector Dowling. Patrols guard the vicinity where the house commenced on Sunday is situated both day and night. It is reported that a police hut will be erected in Breaffy. Mr. Browne has refused to allow any one of his tenants to give Mrs. Brennan a site for a house.

On Friday last three Orange bands—from Rathfriland, Ballyronney and Cloughskelt—passed through Castlewellan early in the morning on their way to Newcastle. One of the bands, to avoid the danger of any collision, went home by Bryansford, but the other two came by Castlewellan, and when opposite the Catholic church began to curse the Pope, making use of the most disgusting and provoking language. In a very short time they attracted the attention of the insulted Catholics, who were gathering, but Rev. P. Magee, Kilcoo, passing through the town, came upon the scene. He dismounted and appealed to the Nationalists to return to their homes. They at once obeyed.

On Sunday a large open-air demonstration was held at Breaffy, Castlear, under the auspices of the United Irish League, to establish a branch of that organization in the district. William O'Brien, accompanied by John MacHale, President United Irish League; John O'Donnell, Organizer; Edmund Barry, Solicitor, Westport, and Doris, Secretary of the United Irish League, drove from Westport with a contingent from that town, headed by the Westport brass band, and on their arrival they were loudly cheered. James Daly of Castlebar accompanied by the

On Sunday evening a lecture under the auspices of the Erne '98 Club was delivered in the Old Convent, Ballyshannon, by Mr. Jeremiah Jordan, M. P. Mr. Mooney occupied the chair and introduced the lecturer as a member of the Irish Parliamentary party and veteran of the Irish cause. Mr. Jordan received an ovation. He said it was not the first time he addressed a meeting in Donegal, and on principles as solid as the rocks of Ballyshannon. The first great meeting he attended was at Belleek in 1879, at the inception of the Land League. He was at Ballyshannon Fairgreen. At one time they were united to advocate the principles of the Land League and its successor, the National League. What the Tories wanted was to break the power of that organization whose principles were the inalienable right of every nation to govern itself.

At a recent meeting of the Rathkeals branch of the United Irish League, Mr. Joseph Sheehy, T. C., presided. The following resolutions were unanimously adopted, viz: "That as the United Irish League is identical to the old Land and National League, having for its objects a demand for national self-government, support of evicted tenants, to put down landgrabbing, to house and enlarge plots and obtain employment for artisans and laborers, also to commemorate those good men who fought and died for Ireland in the ever memorable years of 1798, 1848 and 1867, be it therefore resolved, That we establish a branch of the United Irish League in this parish so as to give every one an opportunity of standing on the same platform. That we call on all who took part in the former national organizations to join the League and again present a united front to the enemies of Ireland."

The destruction wrought by the terrible floods which accompanied last week's thunderstorm is awful. The lightning came like dancing waves, while any attempt at a description of the torrents of rain would be futile. Around Schull corn, which was cut down, was washed out of the fields and found long distances away on the tops of ditches or in dykes or one man's crop in another man's field. A high wall surrounding the workhouse was undermined and carried away. At Ballydeob the substantial bridge over the public road, which has withstood the floods of generations, was partially destroyed. The Skibbereen and Schull railway line was torn up. There is no knowing what the extent of the damage to the harvest will be, but it must be disastrous. Westward around Ballydeob one farmer had two cows killed and four sheep belonging to others were found dead with the fleeces actually burned off them.

Lady Day was commemorated in Downpatrick with the usual religious and patriotic spirit. In St. Patrick's Memorial church the high altar was specially decorated by the Sisters of Mercy, and great congregations were at both masses. The first mass was celebrated by Very Rev.

P. O'Kane and the second by Rev. J. F. McCauley. Beautiful arches of evergreens, with suitable mottoes, were erected across the streets. Shortly after 11 o'clock several bands, followed by a procession, with flags and banners, marched from the National Federation Hall, John street, to the railway terminus, where they were joined by other contingents from country districts and left by special train for Ardgliss for a monster celebration in connection with the Wolfe Tone '98 movement. At Ardgliss the places of interest, including the caves, castles and downs, were visited. A force of police was drafted from Louth and Westmeath.

A most violent and destructive thunderstorm broke over Bantry. Lightning of the most appalling brilliancy flashed incessantly, while terrific peals of thunder crashed one after another without cessation. Hail and rain fell in torrents, the hailstones were unusually large. The rivers were swollen to an extent never remembered. Immense quantities of hay and corn were swept away and scattered in all directions and made worthless. Potato gardens were torn up. Numbers of cattle were drowned. No human life has yet been reported lost. The morning mail from Cork was not able to proceed West beyond Drimoleague Junction, and the mails had to be sent by car. Tourists passing to and from Killarney have to be sent by car between here and Drimoleague, twelve miles. All the houses in the town were flooded, some six and eight feet high, and considerable property destroyed therein. Some houses were swept away.

With feelings of regret we chronicle the demise of Mr. John MacGuire, at the residence of his father, Mr. Denis MacGuire, Drumcroghan. He was a resident of Glasgow for fourteen years, where he was better known, having been identified with every movement associated with the welfare of his brother exiles in Glasgow. His house in Glasgow was a home for every Irishman who called, and the calls were not few, yet in the words of Goldsmith:

"All claimed kindred there,
And had their claims allowed."
He was the first of his race and creed elected Chairman of the Second-ward Committee in Glasgow. He was one of the first members of the Father Maginn Branch of the Irish National League and promoter and honorary Secretary of the Fermanagh reunion.
