IRELAND.

Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

It is stated that Right Hon. W. J. Pirrie has been invited to contest Derry City in opposition to Count Moore.

A committee of Irish ladies that will include the Duchess of Abercorn and the Countess of Arran will hold a bazar at Windsor this month for the sale of Irish fabrics.

The members of the Urban District Council of Clontarf have memorialized the Lord Lieutenant to sanction the continuance of the Royal Irish Constabulary in Clontarf.

The remains of Joseph Tierney, the eldest son of John Tierney, of Louistown, County Kildare, were interred September 20 in Great Connell Abbey. His illness was of short duration.

A young man named Patrick Hayes was killed at Ring, near Clonakilty, by being accidentally thrown out of a swing-boat. His skull was fractured and death was a most instantaneous.

John McKay, of Newcastle-on-Tyne and Cabra Towers, County Down, has declared as erroneous the statement that he would stand as an independent candidate for West Down at the coming election.

At the Church of St. Mary's, Kinnegad, Rev. Father Ledwidge united in marriage Thomas Cully, only son of the late John Cully, of Ballinabarney, County Meath, and Maggie Gould, only daughter of Patrick Gould, of the same place.

The police at Kilmacow, County Kilkenny, have arrested the local Postmaster, Patrick Colclough, on a charge of embezzlement. They brought him before Ulick Burke, by whom he was remanded to the Kilmacow monthly petty sessions, bail being accepted.

In the Belfast Custody Court Andrew Boal was put forward charged on remand with the murder of his wife. Medical evidence was given to the fact that death was due to fracture of the skull and laceration of the brain, which were either due to blows or to a severe fall. The prisoner was remanded.

At a meeting of the Ardilaun party held in the Rathmines Town Hall Francis Ellington Ball was selected to oppose Horace Plunkett for South Dublin at the general election. The issue is now fairly knit between these rival Unionists and the fact will serve to quicken the interest of the Nationalists in the forthcoming contest.

The Mayor of Waterford, Councillor Alexander Nelson, has bought the premises in Lady lane, Waterford, recently held by John Adair, and has handed the site over to the citizens for the purpose of utilizing it for the erection of a free library, reading room and museum. The Mayor's generous action is much appreciated by his fellow-citizens.

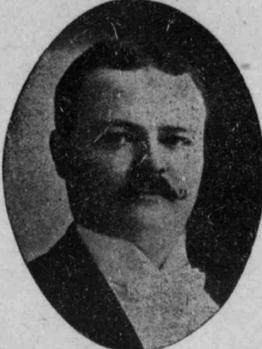

A man named Michael Conway, who was a servant of Major Urquhart, of Strawberry Hill, near Belmont, was found drowned in the Grand canal, between Belmont and Banagher. Deceased was at the Banagher fair and left for home in the company of others from the place. Nothing was heard of him until his body was found in the water. There is a suspicion of foul play in the matter.

A sad shooting fatality occurred at Silverwood, about a quarter of a mile from Lurgan. It appears that Robert Gracey, a coachman in the employ of Miss Cuppage, when attempting on the Silverwood road to fire off a revolver, accidentally shot his nephew, Allen Gracey, aged fourteen, who with a few companions was standing on the opposite side of the road. The bullet pierced the boy's heart and he died instantaneously.

Sunday week last an old man named Thomas Straine, aged seventy years, was found drowned in the Blackwater river at Moy quay. The deceased was a gatehouse keeper in the employ of Mrs. Sloan, of Dunlow House, and was missed about 9 o'clock on Sunday morning. A search was immediately instituted and deceased was subsequently discovered in the river by James Whitley. John Malone, Coroner of Cookstown, was informed and an inquest held.

The centenary of the founding of the Presentation Convent, Kilkenny, was celebrated last week. On Tuesday high mass was solemnized at 10 o'clock, when the Most Rev. Dr. Brownrigg, Bishop of Ossory, presided. The sermon on the occasion was preached by the Very Rev. Father Sheehan, of Doneraile, County

The decision of the Catholic hierarchy to issue as a bi-lingual document the pastoral to be addressed by them to the Irish people, as a result of their deliberations at the recent solemn synod held at Maynooth, may be described as no less than an epoch making event. The action of the Bishops embodies the formal recognition by the church of the language as an integral part of the national life. This departure shows how enlightened and truly national is the spirit animating the highest ecclesiastical authorities in the land. It is to be hoped now that all the clergy throughout the country will follow the example so nobly set by the episcopate.

On Tuesday, September 18, office and parish high mass were celebrated in the parish church, Carristown, County Dublin, for the repose of the soul of the late deeply lamented pastor, Rev. Father Nolan, who died at the parochial house on Saturday. During the solemn ceremonies the church was filled by devout congregations of sympathizing parishioners, whose manifestations of sorrow at the loss of so devoted and zealous a priest were only too evident among all classes present. The celebrant of the mass was Very Rev. James Baxter, of Clondalkin; deacon, Very Rev. P. J. Fee, of Balbriggan; sub-deacon, Rev. N. Russell, of Balbriggan, and master of ceremonies, Rev. M. Cashin, Garristown.

Intelligence has reached New Ross of a sad boating fatality near Fethard, County Wexford, whereby a young man named William Doyle lost his life and two others narrowly escaped a similar fate. Doyle was in a boat with Richard Power and the latter's son, a young lad, the trio forming a fishing party. When they were about a couple of hundred yards from the shore the boat, which was little more than a canoe, was seen to be leaking. Power attempted to plug the hole, but with hardly a moment's warning the bottom of the boat gave way and the three occupants were struggling in the water. Doyle at once sank and disappeared. Power, however, was able to swim, and getting his little son, who is only twelve years old, on his back, he struck out for the shore. He might have failed in his object, but that two men named Hanlon and Farley, seeing his plight, put out a boat and rescued father and son. Doyle, who lost his life, was twenty-two years of age and was an only son.

FAIR FOR ST. MARY'S.

The first fair of the season will be inaugurated at St. Mary's of the Knobs, in Lafayette township, next Monday, and continue for three nights. Rev. Father Hildebrand and his parishioners hope to realize a neat sum for the benefit of the church.

A blind wood-sawyer's wife says she never saw him see, but she often goes to see him saw.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

Divisions 1, 2 and 4 meet next week.

Division 3 of Minneapolis will celebrate Hallow E'en with a grand ball.

All should labor to make the dance to be given October 29 a social success.

Division 9 of St. Paul will soon have a large and well equipped fife and drum band.

Division 4 of Chicopee, Mass., has voted to hold a bazar in January, lasting one week.

Division 1 of Brockton, Mass., will hold a bazar and fair, beginning November 12 and continue six nights.

President John Cavanaugh has gone to work in earnest for the ball. This means much toward its success.

A reception to celebrate the reunion of the order in Hudson county will be held in Jersey City on November 14.

The Hibernians are always ready for charitable work, as evidenced by their generous offer to the Sisters of Mercy.

Another division of the Ladies' Auxiliary will be initiated October 14 by County President Victory in Providence, R. I.

Matt Connolly, who sustained severe injuries at the depot three weeks ago, is still unable to leave his home on Lytle street.

The members of Division 6 of Fall River, Mass., recently presented President Moriarty with a gold watch, chain and charm.

Division 4 extends a general invitation to the "free doings" Wednesday evening. Turn out all and enjoy the hospitality of the Limerick men.

The Hibernian Knights of Providence attended in a body in uniform the laying of the corner stone of St. Anthony's church last Sunday.

Pat Holley's advice to the young men was listened to with close attention Wednesday evening. His interest in the new members takes wide scope.

One of the attractive and amusing features next Wednesday evening will be John Brown and his magic flute, without which any social function of Division 4 would be a failure.

Division 3 had an interesting meeting Wednesday night. Several strange faces were present, among them James J. Brown, whom all were glad to welcome after his long illness.

Con Hallahan supplied the smokers' Tuesday evening. Everything went well till he passed the cigarettes, and what a sight some of the old dules presented enjoying their first smoke.

State President Shine has not yet issued the commissions to the officers of the Hibernian Knights. They are expected daily. Judge Shine has now been looked for here for some time past.

Division 1 of Jeffersonville has made extensive preparations for its picnic at Forest Park on Thursday evening, October 18. This will be a jolly reunion of the membership of the Falls Cities.

In response to hundreds of inquiries, the statement is made that Jim Moore's happiness increases daily. The little daughters of Erin are now the most admired personages on the avenue, and none feel prouder than their popular father.

There is an interesting contest now on in Minneapolis between the Minneapolis and St. Paul County Boards. The county initiating the least new members before January 28 shall pay to the County Board initiating the largest number the sum of $50 in cash.

Ex-County President John Murphy, was the guest of Division 3 Wednesday night. Upon being introduced by President Cavanaugh he made a most eloquent appeal to the members to keep their division to the fore and related in a most complimentary way some of its past history.
