At a largely attended meeting held in the Christian Brothers' schools, Clontarf, a branch of the Gaelic League was established for the district.

The remains of Hannah Higgins, whose funeral took place from the Cork Cathedral, were interred in St. Joseph's cemetery November 14.

The death of David Whelan, long with the Guinness Brewery, Dublin, is deeply mourned by his motherless children and his relatives and friends. His remains were interred in Glasnevin on the 14th ult.

The citizens of New Kilmainham have arranged for presenting James McCann with a token of appreciation for the valuable services rendered by him in connection with the various public boards with which he is connected.

Christopher McCormack, Moate merchant, and Mary B. Gavigan, daughter of Andrew Gavigan, of Tullamore, were married at Tullamore church, Rev. Father Callery, assisted by Father Fitzsimons, being the officiating clergymen.

At the parish chapel, Collon, Rev. Thomas Murray united Patrick Kearney, eldest son of the late Patrick Kearney, of Belloran, and Miss Elizabeth McKeever, third daughter of the late Andrew McKeever, of Belpatrick, County Louth.

An order in Council appears in the Dublin Gazette directing that in future instead of having quarter sessions four times a year at Monte, only two sessions shall be held in Monte each year, alternately with sessions twice a year at Athlone.

A meeting of the Dublin Port Sanitary Authority was held in the City Hall, Chairman Bergin presiding. The principal business disposed of was the election of Port Sanitary Medical Officer. Sir Charles Cameron was appointed to the position.

John Braniff, youngest son of the late Thomas Braniff, County Down, was recently married to Alice, the only daughter of Patrick Gregory, Denver, Col., the ceremony taking place at St. Mary's church, Belfast, Rev. Father Burns officiating.

A branch of the United Irish League has been established in Tipperary. Very Rev. Canon Cahill presided at the meeting, at which there was a very representative gathering, and the proceedings were interesting throughout. John Cullinane and Alderman Joyce addressed the assemblage.

While John Foy, of Lusk, was leading a horse attached to a cart on which was a load of hay into Fagan's yard from Amiens street, Dublin, an electric tram coming from Howth struck the wheel of the cart and overturned it. Fagan was thrown under the horse's legs and received severe injuries to his face.

The office and requiem mass for the repose of the soul of Rev. Father English, O. S. A., took place in the Augustinian church, New Ross. The respect in which he was held was evinced by the crowded attendance, and particularly by the presence of his brothers in religion, many of whom had to travel considerable distances.

Much sensation has been caused in the Drinagh district, a few miles from Wexford, by the intelligence that a young woman named Anna M'Donald had committed suicide. She was found drowned in a marble hole a short distance from her father's residence. An inquest was held, when the jury returned a verdict to the effect that death was due to drowning, which was probably suicidal.

An extraordinary occurrence, involving the death of one man, is reported from East Clare. It appears that two men named Boland were returning home at a late hour when, it is said, they were set upon and beaten by two other men, whom they in turn assailed, and one of whom subsequently succumbed to his injuries. The Bolands were afterwards arrested, and have now been sent forward on the capital charge.

bequeathed £300 to the Most Rev. Dr. M'Redmond, Bishop of Killaloe, in trust, to aid in building a Catholic church in the mountain district of Clooney parish; £20 for the poor of Quin and Clooney, and he left the remainder of his property to found a bursar or burses in Maynooth College for students from the diocese of Killaloe.

The Clontarf Urban District Council are to be congratulated on their decision to have trees planted along the road between Fairview and Dollymount. At present the thoroughfare named has a rather bare and bleak appearance, which, however, the carrying out of the improvement referred to will have the effect of completely remedying. The introduction of the electric tram car service had an immense effect in popularizing the pretty little seaside suburb, so that the visitors to Dollymount are now counted annually by hundreds of thousands.

The most encouraging sign of the strength of the movement and the depth of the national feeling on the language question is the generous response that the League appeal has met in every direction. The people at home in Ireland have at last seemed to realize the necessity of their financing the Gaelic League. Hitherto very little serious effort in this direction has been made there, and if it were not for splendid contributions of our friends both in North and South America much that has been done in the last few years would have to remain undone. But now the people have taken the matter in their own hands, with an earnestness and seriousness that gives every hope.

At the Thurles Petty Sessions Arthur Daunt, an ex-head constable of Liskeveen, summoned the Rev. Thomas Fennelly, of Parkstown, for having assaulted him at Liskeveen. There was a cross-summons at the suit of Father Fennelly charging Daunt with assault and threatening language on the same occasion. Daunt alleged that Father Fennelly caught him by the shoulder and shook him. Solicitor Ryan for the reverend gentleman characterized Daunt's statement as a tissue of falsehoods. The bench dismissed the case on its merits and on the cross-summons for assaulting Father Fennelly Daunt was bound over on his own recognisance to keep the peace for twelve months.

Messrs. Edmund Hoare and Patrick Codd, in the absence through illness of the Coroner, held an inquest at Sigginstown on the body of a child aged three years, daughter of a laborer named Redmond, who was accidentally burned to death. It appears that the child, Annie Redmond, was left in charge of her elder sister, aged thirteen, while her father and mother were at work away from home. During the day the elder sister had occasion to leave the house for a few minutes, and when she returned she found the child's clothes on fire. A neighboring woman named Lambert, attracted by the child's screams, had arrived in the meantime, but the flames were not extinguished until the child had sustained terrible injuries. She died some hours afterward. A verdict of death through accidental burning was returned.

ANNUAL ELECTION.

The annual meeting of Unity Council, Y. M. I., of New Albany, was a spirited one, the election of officers bringing out an unusually large attendance. HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

Division 1 will not meet again this year.

Attend the general meeting next Tuesday night.

Division 4 had as its guest this week President John Cavanaugh.

Division 3 of Providence realized $400 from the sale of tickets for its ball and fair.

President John Hennessy initiated another member and received one application.

A very large audience was recently treated to a delightful concert by Division 1 of Richmond, Va.

Division 5 of Baltimore has completed arrangements for a Gaelic concert on the evening of February 11.

William Ludwig, the famous Irish baritone, will appear in Minneapolis Monday night under the auspices of the Hibernians.

Division 4 will soon announce the date when its euchre will take place. From the interest already manifested the attendance will be large.

There are four good divisions in Savannah. The recent ball of Division 4 in Catholic Library Association Hall surpassed any given in that city for years.

Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Division 3 of Providence are looking forward with great pleasure to the celebration of the third anniversary, which occurs in February.

The Hibernians were well represented in the Federation convention here, among them being William J. Gilthorpe, of Kansas City, who is well known throughout the entire West.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Division 3 of Buffalo entertained their friends with a pedro party last night. The division will give its entertainment and ball January 7, for which the management has procured the best local talent.

The Visitor says the attendance was so large that the hall would hardly accommodate all who tried to get in the last meeting of Division 14 of Providence, when fifteen members were initiated and several applications received.

Interest in the order continues unabated in Boston. At a recent meeting of Division 2 nine names were placed upon the roll. A ball will be given February 13, which the committee hopes to make the grandest of the season.

Division 7 of Lynn, Mass., tendered a reception last Sunday afternoon to Patrick McHugh, recently returned from the Transvaal republic. All the divisions of Lynn co-operated in making the reception worthy the man who risked his life for the Boers.

Two well-known Boston Hibernians who were prominent in the great labor convention here are Messrs. John F. O'Sullivan and Thomas F. Tracy. They are able men and rank very high in the labor movement. Both have been fraternal delegates to the British Trades Congress.

Last week a card contest was held between Division 1 and 4 of Binghamton at the Catholic Fraternal Hall. The game was—what? Forty-five; what else could it be? The contest was very exciting, and it was only after a hard struggle that Division 1 rolled up a score of 14 to 11 for Division 4.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Division 10 of Providence celebrated its fourth anniversary at their last meeting. State and county officers and the Presidents of all the auxiliaries and divisions were present. An invitation was accepted to attend in a body the fair of the Hibernian Knights on ladies' night.

The County Board of Portland, Maine, recently gave a banquet that will long remain a memorable occasion. The ladies' auxiliary and two companies of Hibernian Knights were represented. State President Callahan made an eloquent address on Hibernianism in Maine. John Ryan, State President of Massachusetts, also made a stirring address.

CATHOLIC PROGRESS.

Speaking recently of the progress of Catholicity in New Zealand, Bishop Lenihan said: "In Auckland the progress in faith and religion has been rapid. Sixty years ago a Catholic, Thomas Byington, went there to deal with the natives in lumber. He took with him his young wife. After the birth of their first child the parents took it in a schooner 300 miles that it might receive from a priest the sanctifying waters of baptism. On the birth of their second infant it was taken 1,800 miles by schooner and across country that it, too, might receive baptism from a legitimately authorized minister of the church, although under such circumstances a lay person could have officiated. In 1838 a Bishop from France, with missionary priests, landed in Sydney and commenced missionary work. Thomas Byington lived to see the islands of the Pacific under the jurisdiction of his own vicar apostolic and in his home province 150 priests, 600 nuns and 100,000 Catholics. Such has been the progress of the church during the life of one man."

Fannes in Persian colorings and designs are much used for waists, as also are figured velveteens.
