HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

Three divisions will meet this coming week, Divisions 1, 2 and 4. Many divisions throughout the country are adopting names in addition to their regular number.

A gold watch was presented to Patrick Higgins, the retiring President of Division 42 of Boston.

Baltimore Hibernians will celebrate in honor of St. Patrick with two banquets on Monday, March 18.

In the presence of a very big attendance the degrees were conferred on a large class at Duluth this week.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Chelsea, Mass. added $300 to their treasury last year. They pay $5 sick benefits.

Forty candidates were initiated into the Ladies' Auxiliary at Brighton, Mass., at the January meeting.

Cardinal Moran, the Grand Honorary Chaplain of Hibernianism under the Southern Cross, gives the order in Australia magnificent support.

The national movement in Ireland is finding in Hibernianism a most influential auxiliary. Political fanaticism fast disappears before its onward march.

Reports from the different building committees will have to be acted on in the next couple of weeks as the time for vacating the present hall is drawing near.

As there will not be another initiation until after Easter, the divisions will have splendid opportunity to secure larger classes for that event. This is the time to secure new members.

The parade to be held by the Hibernians of Manchester, N. H., on Saturday, March 16, will be on an elaborate scale. Committees are now preparing a series of historical floats and tableaux.

Division 4 meets Wednesday night and a large attendance is looked for. One of the important questions to be considered and of interest to every member will be the selection of another meeting place.

Very Rev. Father Falloona, addressing the division at Ballcastle, Ireland, declared that next to a mission or retreat the A. O. H. was the most potent influence in securing regular attendance at the sacraments.

Every reader of this column should lend his best effort to make the Halligan lecture an unqualified success. They are assured that the entertainment will more than satisfy them and please the most exacting.

Division 1 has sent out special notices requesting the presence of every member at the meeting to be held Tuesday night. This was not done without good reason, and therefore a larger attendance is looked for.

St. Patrick's day will be celebrated in an elaborate manner by the order in Buffalo. The entire County Board and the Presidents of divisions will arrange for the event, which will probably take the form of a banquet at one of the leading clubs.

Division 1 of Glen Falls, N. Y., organized only six years ago with a charter list of thirty-six names, has now a membership of 450 and a treasury of several thousand dollars. At the installation the members presented their President, John Mannix, a purse of $200 as a testimonial for the excellent work he has done in their behalf.

The Rev. George F. Flynn in addressing the members of Division 8 of Springfield, Mass., stated that there should be twice the number of Hibernians in that city, and advised that what the organization needed most was publicity, and that the members should at all times speak of the work of the organization to all with whom they came in contact. This applies to all other cities as well as Springfield.

Division 3 of Worcester, Mass., celebrated the thirty-fifth anniversary of its organization with a banquet at which covers were laid for 350. Rev. William Goggin, County Chaplain and pastor of St. Paul's church, invoked the divine blessing. Later while Father Goggin was responding to a toast Mayor John Duggan entered the banquet room, when the entire gathering arose and received him with three hearty cheers.

WILL AID POPE.
The newspaper men of Belgium, who every year raise a large subscription for the Peter's Pence fund and present it to the Pope through a yearly pilgrimage which is made to Rome, are this year making extraordinary efforts to double the usual amount. ($150,000) raised in Belgium in order to enable the Holy See to help the clergy and hierarchy of France in their present difficulties.

OTHERS LEFT BEHIND.
The Knights of Columbus charity ball, which was held Monday night in Madison Square Garden, New York, excelled all previous events in the matter of attendance. The amount of charity performed by this organization in taking care of its sick members and procuring employment for those who have lost their positions so impressed those who are familiar with charitable work that the demand for tickets for the ball was unprecedented. An additional feature of the ball was the address by Archbishop Farley on the French question.

FEAR NO FIRE.
A stream of water from a street hydrant that will reach the eighteenth story of a skyscraper with pressure enough to break office furniture inside is what the New York fire department will have at its disposal by the Fourth of July. From fifty to sixty such streams, each delivering 500 gallons a minute, will be available at any fire as soon as the new high pressure water service is put into operation. This service, already installed on Coney Island, is being completed in Brooklyn and in Manhattan below Twenty-third street between the North and the East rivers. In the opinion of the Fire Underwriters, Chief Croker and the engineers of the water department, it will absolutely guarantee New York against any such disastrous conflagrations as the Baltimore fire or even the big burnings of the last five years.

JUDGE BUYS FINE PLACE.
Judge Matt O'Doherty has bought the fine Hurst country place on the Brownsboro road. The property includes over seven acres and a large modern residence, a most desirable country home. It is not known whether or not the Judge will make the place his summer residence. The sale was made through the well known real estate agent, L. F. Brown.

INTO ETERNAL REST.
Rev. Father William Gibbons, one of the best known members of the Marist order in the Southern States, passed into eternal rest last Saturday at New Orleans, after a lingering illness. He was born in Mobile forty-eight years ago. Because of the name and his residence in the Crescent City many thought the dead priest was related to Cardinal Gibbons, but such was not the case. Father Gibbons was an earnest worker and popular with people of all denominations, and everywhere the sad announcement was received with expressions of sincere regret.

EVERYONE PLEASED.
The euchre given by Kadeski Company C. U. R. C. K. of A. Wednesday evening at Masoni Temple Hall was a pleasing success, every table being filled at 8 o'clock and the game called shortly after. Scally's Band was in attendance and kept the crowd in good humor with a programme of lively airs. Forty handsome prizes were distributed to the successful contestants and many pleasing comments were heard on the handsome appearance of the company in their uniforms. The exhibition drill was dispensed with on account of the slippery condition of the floor.

NOTED DETECTIVE DYING.
Detective James Gaffney, of the Covington police force, is ill of an incurable stomach disease, which has prayed upon him for several years, and his physicians say that death is but a short time off. Detective Gaffney has been connected with the Covington police force for twenty years, prior to which time he was San Francisco, where he took part in many of the most noted criminal cases of that city. He served several years as a United States officer. He has a national reputation as a sleuth.

HURT BY FALL.
Thomas McNally, a well known foreman on the Louisville & Nashville road, slipped on the snow and ice while crossing a turn table in the South Louisville yards Tuesday evening and fell to the ground. When assistance arrived it was discovered that he had sustained a double fracture of the left leg below the knee. McNally was at once taken to Sts. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital, where he was attended by Dr. George W. Griffiths and is now resting easy.

CHURCH SUPPER.
The ladies of Jeffersontown will serve an elegant supper to their friends next Tuesday night in the school house there for the benefit of St. Edward's church. They expect quite a number from the city and everyone who attends is promised a good time. This supper will be of the old-fashioned Kentucky style, to which will be added several novel and entertaining features.

FIRST EVER HELD HERE.
The United States will have, this year, its first International Eucharistic Congress. It will convene at Pittsburg in the autumn. His Holiness Pius X. will send a representative in the person of His Eminence, Cardinal Serafino Vannutelli. The preliminary preparations will be made at a conference of the Priests' Eucharistic League of the diocese of Pittsburg.

EIGHT HOURS.
The contracting carpenters have granted their men the shorter work day and hereafter Louisville will be numbered among the eight-hour cities in that trade. This has been the only issue between the contractors and their men, and its settlement has been effected with good feeling on all sides.

PANNED OYSTERS.
For each person allow one slice of toast, two tablespoonsful of hot milk and six oysters. Cut the bread in thin slices, remove the crust and toast golden brown. Butter, arrange in the dish and pour over the milk. Let stand for a moment to soak, then arrange the oysters on the toast, dust with salt and pepper and place in a very hot oven for five minutes or until the shells ruffle.

MAKING GOOD COFFEE.
First scald the coffee pot and be sure that it is thoroughly scoured and no stain is on the inside, then put in about one cupful more of water than you will require when it is done. Let it boil hard for five minutes and then put in the coffee, which must be ground rather fine. Turn the pot away from a hot fire and let it simmer for ten minutes, then set it back where it will only keep hot and settle for five minutes. Put cream in the cups first and pour the coffee into it. Never attempt to use the coffee a second time nor add to the old grounds. Throw all out and start fresh with a clean pot.

IRELAND.

Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

Henry O'Connell has been elected Chairman of the Dundalk Urban Council for the third consecutive term.

The death took place on Friday of the Rev. John O'Kane, at Inshowen. Deceased was a vigorous advocate of the National rights.

Fire that broke out in the tow and waste store of Messrs. P. and T. Gallagher, on Nelson street, Belfast, did considerable damage.

On the recommendation of the Right Hon. Earl of Rosse, the Lord Chancellor has appointed Denis Fay, of Edenderry, to the Commission of the Peace for the King's county.

Miss Pope Hennessy, sister of the late Sir John Pope Hennessy, former Governor of Hong Kong, Mauritius, etc., was found dead in her bed in Youghal on Monday. The deceased lady was ailing for some time.

Patrick Morgan, aged sixty-six years, died January 22 at his residence on church street, Dundalk, leaving three grown sons. Deceased was an old and respectable resident of the Lower End who enjoyed the esteem of his employers, his neighbors, and all others who knew him.

The Most Rev. Dr. O'Doherty, Bishop of Kerry, is still seriously ill and much prostrated. His condition is somewhat critical, and the period of anxiety is not yet passed. The venerable prelate, however, has rallied somewhat, and his medical advisers are not unhopeful of his recovery.

An interesting and impressive religious ceremony took place in the parochial church at Clane, County Kildare, two young ladies, Miss Lizzie Trainor, of Ravensdale, and Miss Duggan, of Drogheda, were received into the Presentation order, founded by Miss Nemo Nagle. Very Rev. J. Kivone, of Killoke, assisted by Rev. Father Rice, of Clane, presided at the reception.

Broad street in Limerick was the scene of considerable excitement on Monday. For some time back efforts were made to remedy defects in two public houses owned by John Quinlan, T. C., and Patrick Franklin, which adjoin each other. Sunday the buildings showed evident signs of collapse, and the residents, having had timely warning, fortunately cleared out some short time before they came down with a terrible crash. No one was injured, but to add to the confusion the ruins took fire. The publicans had large stocks of spirits, etc., in the premises, which were buried in the ruins.

Mrs. Ellen Fennell, an esteemed old lady of Carrickmacross, passed away in the fullness of years and honor. A remarkable fact is that the angel of death during the last few months has taken away many of the old natives of Carrick, and the latest is the person of Mrs. Fennell, another link with the past. She had attained the patriarchal age of eighty-five and in her last illness had the happiness and consolation of all that a devoted family could do, and died fortified by the aid of Holy Church. Her last wish was to be buried in Magheross cemetery, and the funeral to this ancient spot was largely attended.

Kildare railway station was the theater of a shocking occurrence on Saturday evening, resulting in the death of a young man named William Kavanagh, of Mallow town. The latter was on the platform when a "hunt special" arrived. A friend of his named Connor shouted to him from one of the compartments. The train was being shunted at the time, and deceased, in an effort to board it in order to get to the carriage, fell from the platform. The station-master promptly signalled the train to stop, and Kavanagh was extracted. One leg was completely severed, while the other and one of his arms were reduced to almost a pulp. Clerical and medical aid were quickly on the scene, but the unfortunate man lingered only for three-quarters of an hour.

The Freeman states that the police authorities were engaged in dragging the Liffey river bed in the hope of recovering the body of J. J. Gannon, of Drogheda, who disappeared on St. Stephen's night and had not since been heard of by his family or friends. Gannon was thirty years of age and was engaged in business as a grocer and publican in West Street, Drogheda. He came to Dublin on St. Stephen's day with his two brothers, John and Michael, and that evening the three went to the opera at the Theater Royal. His two brothers left him in the smoking room of the dress circle of the theater, and returned to Wynn's Hotel, where they were staying, expecting that James would follow. As the brothers occupied three rooms the absence of James was not observed by either of the two others until next morning, each being under the impression that he had occupied the room of the other that night. Up to Thursday the brothers had got no account of James, and they then returned to Drogheda. Not finding the brother at home, they returned to Dublin on Friday, and reported the matter, but so far there is no explanation of the young man's disappearance.

HISTORIC CLONTARF.
Tomb of Irish Heroes Saved by Action of Patriotic Irishmen.
Patriotic Irishmen have saved the historic mound at Clontarf, near Dublin, from the vandalism of the Dublin municipality, which had actually commenced its destruction. The mound is regarded as a monument commemorating the battle fought there 900 years ago between Brian Boru and the Danes, and as the tomb of the Irish heroes. The leveling of the mound was undertaken by the city as a means of relieving the distress among the Dublin unemployed; but as soon as the patriotic societies heard of it they organized an indignation meeting, where a resolution

AFTER THE LADIES.
The Laws Committee of the Alabama House of Representatives has reported favorably a bill that will have the effect of making it a violation of the law to play cards anywhere at any time for things of value or money. It will make it a jail offense for any lady to play or allow played in her home any game of whist or euchre that carries with it prizes. An effort to have the card parties eliminated was lost by a good vote. If the Alabama Legislature can do no better than this it should adjourn.
