IRISH PICNIC

Under Joint Auspices of County Board and Hibernian Divisions.

Committees Will Make Reports at the Quarterly Meeting Tomorrow.

County Officers Pleasured With Interest Show by the Members.

GRAND GATHERING PROMISED

The County Board, A. O. H., met at Bertrand Hall on Friday night of last week and heard reports from the different committees arranging details of the picnic to be held Thursday, July 20, at Phoenix Hill Park. The board also made arrangements for the general quarterly meeting of all the divisions at Bertrand Hall at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. A full attendance of all the divisions is desired. The last quarterly meeting was one of the best. Hibernian gatherings ever held in Louisville, and unless all signs fall tomorrow's gathering will be even greater.

County President D. J. Coleman has arranged a series of short talks by leading members and the meeting will be full of interest to all Hibernians. The committees arranging for the picnic will make their final reports. Division 1 will have charge of the cafe, Division 2 the dancing hall, Division 3 the gate and Division 4 the refreshments.

The leading general committees from the County Board are made up as follows:

Press and Advertising—Joseph E. Farrell, John J. Keane, John G. Hession and John J. Barry.

Music—William Murphy, John Helton, D. J. Dougherty and T. J. Langan.

President Coleman told how he and John Hession had visited several divisions recently and urged all delegates to the County Board to visit the different divisions in turn. Every member of the County Board was enthusiastic over the picnic and all believe it will be a big success. It will be a gathering of old friends and new acquaintances. The young folks will enjoy dancing while Prof. Dennis Collins' orchestra renders Irish melodies and the latest popular dance music.

The picnic has been thoroughly advertised and the various city officials, all the Judges and city and county office-holders have accepted invitations to attend. The Press and Publicity Committee will also invite the Aldermen and Councilmen and the candidates for State offices from both the Democratic and Republican parties.

While the Hibernians want to have an Irish gathering, they also want their friends of other nationalities to enjoy the day with them.

EARTH'S INSIDE.

A few years ago scientists would have snuffed at the idea that it would be possible to predict the occurrence of earthquakes with any reasonable show of assurance. At that time the scientific theory was that these shocks were caused by great disturbances within the interior of the earth, due perhaps to the intrusion of sea water through some crevice of the ocean bed into the molten rock in the earth's inner core seething and boiling beneath the surface crust. But science now has data enough to support the conviction that the occurrence of earthquakes comes when the earth comes within the sphere of attraction of planetary bodies, such as the moon and Jupiter, as recently when the earthquake in Mexico, in Asia and possibly in other parts of the world, occurred.

This does not necessarily conflict with the idea of the existence of a great hall of molten mineral below the surface of the continents and the beds of the oceans, for it is possible to imagine that the great molten sea subject to ideas as they may be called, and that the accumulation of a high tide of this enormous mass might easily exert pressure enough on the crust to cause some incidental rearrangement of the surface strata. Science has not yet succeeded in tracing this flood tide of the inland sea closely enough to predict just where the earthquake may occur, but it is possible at least to estimate on what dates the most powerful planetary pulls may be expected.

GRACIOUS GIFT.

Among the presents received by President Taft and Mrs. Taft on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage was an exquisite crucifix that was presented with a letter of felicitations and good wishes by a Jesuit priest.

FIREMAN DEAD.

The funeral of Thomas Glynn, a former member of the Jeffersonville fire department, took place from St. Augustine's church in that city on Monday morning. He died on Saturday and the tolling of the Jeffersonville fire bells announced his passing. Mr. Glynn was born in England of Irish parents fifty-four years ago. He had lived in Jeffersonville since early boyhood and was popular with all who knew him. He is survived by his wife, two sons and three daughters. They are John and Patrick Glynn and Misses Margaret, Mary and Florence Glynn. A brother, Thomas Glynn, resides in Jeffersonville, and his venerable mother and two married sisters live in Louisville.

DEATH

Ends Suffering of Monsignor D. J. Flynn in Maryland.

The historic seminary of Mount St. Mary's, Emmitsburg, Md., has sustained a great loss in the death of Monsignor Dennis Joseph Flynn, who had been its President for a number of years. Father Flynn died at the seminary on Friday afternoon of last week. He had suffered from Bright's disease for eighteen months and his death was not unexpected.

Monsignor Flynn was born in Louisville in 1856. His parents were pious Irish Catholics and their son early evinced a desire to enter upon a religious life. His early education was received at St. John's parochial school. Later he entered the Xaverian Brotherhood and for a number of years taught at the old St. Xavier's Institute as Brother Dennis. Many of the leading business men in Louisville were instructed by him. He left the Brothers to study for the priesthood and was ordained in 1883. His first charge was at St. Mary's church, Wilmington, Del., where he was assistant priest. Later he was made pastor of St. Patrick's church, Wilmington.

In 1889 he was made a member of the faculty of Mount St. Mary's College and later was made its President. Last October he was raised to the dignity of Monsignor by Pope Pius X. at the request of Cardinal Gibbons.

The funeral took place on Tuesday, when Cardinal Gibbons celebrated mass in the seminary chapel. Father Flynn visited Louisville upon numerous occasions since his ordination, celebrating mass and preaching at the Sacred Heart church, Seventeenth and Broadway. In all the churches Sunday prayers for the repose of his soul followed the death announcement.

Passionists Will Elect Provincial and Other Officers in September.

A chapter of all the Passionist Superiors of the Western Province will be held at Sacred Heart Retreat on the Newburg road on September 8. Those to be elected are the Provincial, his two Consultors, the Master of Novices and Superiors of the Passionist retreats at Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Louisville and St. Paul, Kas.

These elections are held every three years, and this is the second time Louisville has been thus honored. There are more than 200 members of the order eligible to election, since any priest who has been a member of the order ten years can be chosen to one of these offices. The present Provincial, his two Consultors and the Superiors of the Western province will attend. Also the General of the order, who is located in Rome, will send a special representative.

Superiors are eligible to re-election for one term, and the friends here of the Rev. Father Daniel McGuire, C. P., hope he will be elected to serve three years more. The novitiate of the Western province is located in Louisville at Sacred Heart Retreat.

Higher Duties Have Been Put Upon Tried and True Mother Superior.

Mother Aloysius, well and favorably known in Louisville, has been elected Provincial of eleven houses of the Sisters of the Good Shepherd in the United States. For thirty-two years Mother Aloysius has superior of the convent of the Good Shepherd at Twenty-third and Bank streets. Only six weeks ago she was transferred to the convent at Eighth and Madison streets.

Mother Aloysius has gone to Carthage, Ohio, to assume her new duties. The convents over which she will preside are two in Louisville, two in Cincinnati, one in Carthage, one in Newport, and one each in Detroit, Columbus, Cleveland and Toledo.

Only One Regret.

The Rev. Father Charles F. Christmas, O. P., left Louisville last Sunday for New York, where he is stationed at St. Vincent Ferrer's convent. Father Christmas was one of the assistant priests at St. Louis Bertrand church for several years, and while here was Chaplain of Division 4, A. O. H. His great regret on leaving Louisville this time was that he could not visit for the big Hibernian picnic next week.

Enjoying Himself.

W. F. Mayer, the Market-street furniture dealer, has gone to Chicago to attend the furniture manufacturers' exposition. Before he returns he will take in other points of interest in the North and West.

SLATE

Written By Judge Edward C. O'Rear and Adopted By the Republicans.

Will the Gubernatorial Candidate Stand or Jump on the Platform?

The Ticket Looks Easy to Democrats and Appears Made to Order.

GOV. WILLSON GETS A SNUB

The Republican State convention was held in Louisville this week and a full set of men were named as candidates for the various offices. Judge O'Rear heads the list as nominee for Governor, Messrs. Franks and Cox having withdrawn when they saw that their combined strength would not defeat the Mt. Sterling man. The nomination of Judge O'Rear might have been a joy to him, but it was not without its disappointment. The committee on resolutions after endorsing President Taft for re-election and recommending Senator William O. Bradley for the Republican nomination for Vice President, made this the second plank in the platform:

"We approve and endorse the Republican administration of the affairs of the State, and we approve and endorse all means employed by that administration for the preservation of law and order, and favor the passage of such additional laws as may be necessary for that purpose."

In 1895 the Democrats of Kentucky in convention assembled at Louisville adopted a gold standard platform and nominated Gen. P. Wat Hardin as their candidate for Governor and expected him to stand on it. Instead he jumped on it. Will Judge O'Rear, who rebuked Gov. Willson for calling out the militia to stop night-riding and midnight assassinations, endorse this platform or will he repudiate it?

There seems to have been a joker on the committee on resolutions, who put a Democratic plank in the platform. The plank reads:

"We favor the adoption of an amendment to the Federal Constitution providing for the election of United States Senators by the direct vote of the people."

Is that not excellent Democratic doctrine? Gov. Willson was snubbed all around. His own district refused to send him as a delegate to the State convention, so he went to Lexington instead of coming to Louisville. Then the convention ignored his name in endorsing the present State administration. None of his personal friends were given places on the ticket.

Judge O'Rear dominated the convention and named his running mates. He declined to heal sore places by accepting Mayor E. S. Helburn, of Middleboro, or Robert W. Slack, of Owensboro, as candidate for Lieutenant Governor. Mr. Slack stands high with all classes in the State. He is a member of the Second Congressional district, and Mr. Helburn is a tower of strength to the Republicans in the Eleventh district. Will they take their medicine and work for Mr. O'Rear and his "23" platform?

None can expect Gov. Willson to wear his shirt for the O'Rear ticket; neither is anything in the way of extraordinary effort expected from Senator W. O. Bradley. The Senator is holding office; is satisfied with his job, and is satisfied with the indorsement for Vice President on the national ticket in 1912. But is he satisfied with the attitude of the Louisville Evening Post, O'Rear's leading organ, which has never failed to take a dig at Senator W. O. Bradley?

To sum up the situation, it would appear that the Republican ticket was made to order by the Democrats and for the express purpose of defeat. The ticket is such that none but narrow-minded men can support it. It stands to reason that it will have the unqualified support of the Louisville Evening Post. If there is a strong man on the ticket, it is Herman F. Moore, of Louisville, the nominee for State Treasurer.

Nearing Completion.

The new annex to St. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital is nearing completion, and competent critics declare it will make the hospital one of the finest in the United States. It is five stories in height and will contain 100 rooms when completed. From the second to the top floors balconies have been erected that are to be enclosed in glass. They will be used as sun parlors. Later a new chapel will be erected for the Sisters.

Holy Cross Fete.

Tickets are now in circulation for the lawn fete and supper to be given by the Holy Cross Debt Paying Society on the church lawn, Thirty-second and Broadway, on Monday and Tuesday, August 1 and 2. Admission will be only one cent. Supper will be served on both evenings to adults for twenty-five cents and to children for fifteen cents. The committee has secured many booths have been erected for the sale of various articles and some donations have been made. Mrs.

Tom Wellington, Mrs. Khinder and their coworkers in charge of the dining room will have plenty of good things to eat on hand. All are invited to go down and eat supper. You will meet clever ladies and gentlemen at every booth.

DEFENSE

Of Irish in Ireland Is Offered by Able Editor.

The Irish Standard of Minneapolis comes to the front with a defense of the Irish Catholics in Ireland. Very truthfully it says:

At present it is part of the political game of the opponents of home rule to slander and libel the Catholics of Ireland. It is astonishing that they have the audacity to accuse the Irish Catholics of intolerance, considering the cruelty to which the majority of the people of Ireland have been subjected by persecuting and avaricious Protestants. But the politician who is unscrupulous, says the Liverpool Times, will stoop to the lowest methods of vilification, and he does not hesitate to describe as a criminal the unfortunate victim of the penal laws. In all the organs of the anti-home rule attacks upon the Irish Catholics, made not because the assailants believe that the charges are true, but simply for the purpose of arousing prejudice against the Government's Irish policy, are the order of the day. A correspondent of the West Herts and Watford Observer, like many other writers on the same side, accuses men in Tipperary and Tuam and Bandon of having persecuted Protestants in the past. They did nothing of the kind. Everybody is aware that in 1898 and at other times there were in Ireland outbreaks in resentment of oppression. In desperation the sufferers, with weapons in their hands, took the field against the representatives of injustice and tyranny, and blood was freely shed. To call these uprisings acts dictated by religious bigotry is to falsify history.

Minneapolis.

New Cathedral Will Have Largest Nave in World.

The first gathering of people to assemble within the walls of the new pro-Cathedral of Minneapolis, filled all the available space in the structure. The occasion was marked by the presence of Archbishop Ireland, Gov. Eberhart, Bishop Lawler, Senator Pauly and other men of prominence in religious and civic life in the Twin Cities. The principal address was delivered by Archbishop Ireland. He referred to the pro-Cathedral as "the pride of Minneapolis" and in reviewing its growth lauded the zeal and energies of the people of the city who made its erection possible.

"It is," he said, "with full assurance that all will be in readiness that I announce now the first holy mass will be celebrated in this temple on Christmas of 1912. And when it is occupied all the rich ceremonial of the old church will mark the event. I congratulate the citizens of Minneapolis on the progress they have made. Here we have a church edifice with the largest nave in the world, outstripping St. Peter's at Rome by two feet. The main floor is 22x135 feet and will seat 2,000 people, while on special occasions there will be space for 2,500. Let the blessings rest upon a people who have so far carried out this large project."

Archbishop Remembered.

The priests of the archdiocese of St. Paul, Minn., have presented Archbishop Ireland with an automobile as a token of their esteem and in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination. There will be no public celebration of his golden jubilee.

Pope Likes President.

Advices from Rome last Sunday say on the occasion of a private audience which he gave to James Hamilton Lewis, of Chicago, and Mrs. G. B. Douglas, of Georgia, the Pope spoke of American affairs and asked particularly regarding President Taft's health. He said he remembered the kindly manners of Mr. Taft when he was in Rome in connection with Philippine affairs.

Recent Deaths.

The funeral of Miss Mary Gavin, who died at the family residence, 3227 West Main street, on Monday morning, took place from St. Cecilia's church on Wednesday morning and was largely attended. The deceased was thirty-five years old and was esteemed by all who knew her.

James E. Wright died at the home of his brother-in-law, 1919 South Seventh street, Monday morning, and his funeral took place from St. Louis Bertrand church on Wednesday morning. The deceased was thirty-seven years old and is survived by his wife, who was Miss Cordelia Rensler.

Mrs. Theodore Dierson, forty-nine years old, died at the family residence, 974 Goss avenue, on Tuesday morning. Prior to her marriage she was Miss Mary Conitt. The funeral took place from St. Elizabeth church on Thursday morning and was attended by a host of mourning friends.

USELESS

To Fight Longer, the Tory Peers Are Now Ready to Give Up.

Full Surrender Is Only Thing to Save Them From Destruction.

Royal Party Visits Ireland and Receive a Hospitable Greeting.

SINN FEINER'S ENTER PROTEST

The latest advices from London say that the Tory Peers, seeing defeat staring them in the face, will pass the veto bill just as it came from the House of Commons. This will not make necessary the creation of 500 new Peers. All the Tory newspapers have thrown up the sponge, even those who were a week ago declaring that the Lords would die in the last ditch. The London Spectator, the leading Tory weekly, has turned completely around and is followed by the Daily Telegraph, the leading Tory daily. Both urge the insanity of pushing Premier Asquith to the creation of 500 new Peers.

It is said that Premier Asquith would have been willing to accept an amendment proposed by the Tories—it merely provided that the veto bill should not be used to carry further attacks on the powers of the Lords without another election. The amendment was not regarded favorably by the Liberals, but it is hardly possible that it will be tacked on the bill now. The passage of the veto bill will leave the Lords without power.

As a matter of fact the Government proposes to compromise nothing, while the Peers are reduced to take anything offered. They recognize that their plight will be worse than it would be under the veto bill if they provoke the swamping of the House of Lords with 500 Radical Peers who would reform that House on radical lines. Political observers agree that never again can the tide of an anti-Irish home rule spirit be whipped up as it was twenty and thirty years ago, and that the home rule struggle will end in a compromise as illusory on the part of the Peers as that reached on the constitutional question now.

King George, Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales and Princess Mary visited in Ireland part of this week, landing at Dublin on Saturday. There was no demonstration on the part of the Irish Nationalists, but everywhere the royal party was treated with respect. The city was gay with green flags and in many instances the Stars and Stripes were draped beside Erin's banner.

On arrival at Kingstown harbor the royal party was received and escorted to Ireland by Augustine Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland. Accompanied by naval attaches the cortege proceeded to Dublin Castle, where the King and Queen were received by the Earl of Aberdeen, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and the Countess of Aberdeen.

In Kingstown the Irish Nationalists had displayed a scroll bearing the inscription "Welcome! We Want Home Rule." The most important daily papers in Dublin urged a generous, hospitable welcome to the royal family.

On Sunday the King and Queen visited historic Maynooth College, where they were heartily received by Cardinal Logue, Archbishop Walsh and the Earl of Aberdeen. King George and Queen Mary gave a State dinner at Dublin Castle on Monday. The royal plate had been brought over from London for the occasion. While the King and Queen were receiving hearty welcomes from some of the people, the Sinn Feiners took a special train to Bodanstown, where they held a mass meeting at the grave of Wolfe Tone and protested against the visit to Ireland of the English King.

While in Dublin King George knighted Thomas Manly Deane, a distinguished architect and designer of the Royal Irish College of Science.

Young Life Closed.

Daniel B. Pollin, well and favorably known in the East End and in Main street business circles, died at the family residence, 1924 Washington street, on Wednesday morning. He had been ill nine weeks and suffered from a complication of ailments. The deceased was twenty-four years old and was a graduate of St. John's parochial school. For several years past he held a responsible position with the brokerage firm of John L. Dunlap & Company, and was highly regarded by all who knew him. He is survived by his mother, two sisters and a brother. The funeral took place from St. John's church yesterday morning.

Wisconsin Experiment.

Advices from Wisconsin say that Gov. McGovern has signed a bill authorizing the State to engage in the annuity and life insurance business after next year. The business is to be carried on under the management of the State Insurance Commissioner and is to be conducted on the same lines as a mutual insurance corporation, but at an expense not to exceed $2 per $1,000 insurance. Premiums are to be calculated according to the American mortality table. Annuities are to range from $100 to $300 and life insurance policies from $500 to $3,000.

DAY'S OUTING

Under Auspices of Columbia Athletic Club Was Enjoyed.

The Columbia Athletic Club held a most enjoyable outing at Spring Bank Park last Sunday. It was one of the most enjoyable affairs of the kind ever given by this popular organization. The members of the club are Catholic men banded together for mutual moral, social and physical improvement, and they enjoyed a day of rare sport. The committee in charge had everything arranged in first class style.

In the forenoon, while the cooks in the kitchen, two ball teams were organized among the members. Ben Beckman was captain of the Germans, while William Larkin acted in like capacity for the Irish. The game proved a tie, although each side claims to have made the greater number of scores. August Mueller pitched a great game for the Germans and made four home runs. After four innings somebody rang the dinner bell and all scampered off the field to feed the inner man.

A bountiful supply of good things had been provided and none was allowed to go hungry or thirsty. After dinner a mock trial was held to try Ollis Harrington on the charge of willfully destroying club property by breaking a broom. Ben Beckman was the judge, Ben Speaker prosecuting attorney, William Larkin attorney for the defense. Six young rendered a verdict of acquittal.

Harrington acknowledged that he had broken an old broom, but proved that he had it replaced with a new one. The jury of young ladies rendered a verdict of acquittal.

Next came races for boys, girls, fat and thin men, married and single men, married and single ladies. A sack race provided great amusement, as did the lemon race. Lochner's band furnished the music for the dancers in which all took part. Everybody remained until the stars began to shine in the West and then started home, tired but happy, and loud in praise of the entertainment afforded by the Columbia Athletic Club.

Good Crowds Are Attending Division 4, A. O. H., and Pleasing Officers.

Division 4, A. O. H., held a splendidly attended meeting on Monday night. Threatening weather had no terrors for the members, and President John H. Hennessy and other officers complimented them for their splendid showing at all the recent meetings. Baker Masterson made application for membership and William Burke was obligated.

President Hennessy named the following new Finance Committee: Thomas Callahan, L. J. Meaney and John Collins. He also appointed Stephen J. McElliott to succeed the late Newton G. Rogers as a delegate to the Catholic Federation. Thomas Lynch, D. J. Reilly and John J. Barry were appointed to draft appropriate resolutions on Mr. Rogers' death.

Much interest in the coming picnic was shown and Division 4 members pledged themselves to help in every way in boosting the affair. All were requested to be present at the general quarterly meeting tomorrow afternoon.

During the evening Division 4 gave its hearty indorsement to the Irish vaudeville act recently presented at the Gayety Theater in this city and Frank and Kate Carlton. Mr. and Mrs. Carlton will be duly notified of Division 4's approval of their sketch.

Mackin.

Poorly Attended Meeting But Business Is Kept Moving.

The attendance at Mackin Council's meeting on Monday night was unusually small, but the business of the evening was full of interest. President Samuel L. Robertson occupied the chair. Five members were reported on the sick list. The committee named some time ago for the purpose reported that its work on revising the by-laws had been completed. No changes were made on either dues or benefits.

Very gratifying reports were made by the committee in charge of the sunset excursion for the Social Club, by Joseph Hancock, who is arranging the trip to Niagara Falls next month.

Beware This One.

The Catholic Church Extension Society, at the request of a Right Reverend Bishop, warns the public against a woman, who calls herself a Sister, and is collecting in this country for an orphanage in Alaska. The Prefect-Apostolic of Alaska says she is an ex-religious and has no authority whatsoever to collect. She has already gone through a number of houses and has received considerable money. Archbishops, Bishops, priests and laymen are warned!

UNVEILING.

Statue of Stewart Parnell Will Soon Be Set Up in City of Dublin.

Irish-American Sculptor Died While in Zenith of His Powers.

Had Irish Wit and Love For the Land of His Boyhood Days.

MAJESTIC IN ITS CONCEPTION

Within a few months the statue of Parnell will be unveiled in Dublin. It will stand at the head of O'Connell street. The statue was designed by the noted sculptor, Augustus Saint-Gaudens, who died about two years ago. Although Saint-Gaudens won fame in the United States and France, he was born in Dublin, Ireland, in 1848. His father was a Frenchman and his mother's name was Mary McGuinness. His father and grandfather were plasterers, and young Saint-Gaudens early learned to model in clay and plaster.

When he was quite small famine swept the land and young Saint-Gaudens was brought to America by his parents. They landed at Boston, but soon removed to New York, where young Augustus attended school and grew to manhood. He attended mass and Sunday-school at the old St. Patrick's Cathedral. In his memoirs he tells us that his father, Bernard Saint-Gaudens, attended Irish festivals and gatherings and spoke in the Gaelic tongue. The first prayer he learned was the "Hail Mary."

His great statues of Lincoln brought him into prominence and he later was called upon to design many statues of America's illustrious men and to design decorations for public buildings in Boston, Washington and New York.

The Parnell statue is probably the last work of its kind, certainly the last big important work on which the triumphant sculptor was engaged. It is a pathetic circumstance that while the work was in progress he was hovering on the illness which brought him to the grave at a comparatively early age and while still at the zenith of his powers and accomplishments. His son, Homer Saint-Gaudens, says his father undertook the statue of Parnell with rest because he declared he felt in his element with this nationality. "Though on second thought, he added that Parnell was only as Irish as himself, which was half."

The sculptor went to the very greatest trouble over the likeness of Parnell. There was a great lack of material, because Parnell had not sat often and the portraits secured of him had little value from the sculptor's standpoint. The few privileged persons who have seen the Parnell statue declare it to be majestic in conception. The style is one to which Dublin has not been accustomed, but even to eyes familiar with the exquisite graces of Foley's works this superb specimen of the artist's hand is a realistic school will make irresistible appeal.

Driskill—Paxton.

Miss Marie Louise Driskill, of Fisherville, and Edward J. Paxton, of Paducah, were united in marriage at St. Bridget's church on Monday evening at 5 o'clock. The Rev. Father Herman W. Jansen officiating. W. F. Paxton and Miss Sadie Paxton, father and sister respectively of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. R. D. McMillen and Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Fisher came from Paducah to attend the ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Driskill, of Fisherville, and the young lady of many charms. The groom is Vice President of the Sun Publishing Company, of Paducah.

St. William's Fete.

There will be a lawn fete and euchre for the benefit of St. William's church on the church grounds, Thirteenth and Oak streets, on Tuesday and Wednesday, July 25 and 26. Besides the euchre there will be a variety of amusements and an excellent supper will be served. Tickets are being sold at fifteen cents, which will entitle the holder to supper, ice cream or euchre. The object is to reduce the church debt. Rev. Father L. B. Ford and his congregation are working hard for success in this project.

Twin Brothers Priests.

Among the young priests ordained recently at the Catholic University, Washington, D. C., were the Rev. Joseph Sullivan and the Rev. Daniel Sullivan. They are twins. They are the only sons of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Sullivan, of New Orleans.

Grand Ruler Sullivan.

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks held its national convention at Atlantic City this week, and on Tuesday John Patrick Sullivan, of New Orleans, was elected Grand Exalted Ruler. It is quite an honor to come to an Irish-American and shows that the Elks are not bigots.
