-Of Local Interest.-

Enforce the vagrant law.

The little Park is a beauty.

Fox, the photographer, Friday.

The street sprinkling is a success.

Nothing but "pollerticks" Monday.

The spring fishing has been very poor.

The post office is being painted and papered.

New rock is being spread on some of the streets.

Garden truck is doing much better than was expected.

Candidates were as thick Monday, as fleas on a cur's back.

The magistrates will have the court house painted. It is sadly needed.

Lancaster has the best telephone system and most polite and obliging operators in the state.

The ladies have planted flowers in the five beds made in the little park, and it will soon be a thing of beauty.

The Ladies Aid Society, of Christian church will give a strawberry supper in early part of the season. Date will be given in next issue.

The Danville "Prep" nine played ball in Lancaster Friday, the home team winning. The visitors were not only good players but perfect gentlemen.

Big Sale of Cattle.

Ruble & Glass, of Camp Nelson, sold 800 cattle at 41cts and 50 a t. cts. They were sold to Myers & Co., of Baltimore.

Manager James A. Beazley is doing fine work in keeping down the dust. The sprinkling is done whenever the dust becomes thick. This is done with the fire hose.

During the Athletic Tournament the W. C. T. U. will serve refreshments at the Rest Rooms. Ice cream, strawberries, etc., will be served at very reasonable prices.

The K. P. Lodge is now in a flourishing condition; and is made up of some of the best citizens of the town. Every Friday night they have work in one of the degrees. The K. P. Lodge is "a good..."

Rev. H. N. Faulconer, on invitation of Rev. Mr. Tindler, preached at the Christian church Sunday morning. Mr. Faulconer is not only a splendid preacher, but a clever gentleman, beloved by all. He preached at the Presbyterian church Sunday night.

For State Senator.

In this issue appears the announcement of Hon. R. L. Hubble, of Lincoln as a candidate for State Senator. Mr. Hubble is well-known in Garrard, and has many warm supporters. He is thoroughly qualified for the place, and is in the race to win.

Contest at Stanford.

Interior Journal:—E. H. Beazley announces that the 11th annual elocutionary contest for young ladies will be held at Walton's Opera House June 17th. A number of entries have already been received and this promises to be a most interesting contest.

Kentucky Editors.

The Kentucky Press Association will meet in Louisville Monday, June 13, elect officers, attend to routine business and leave Tuesday night for a visit to the World's Fair. A most pleasant trip is in store for the boys, and every editor in the state is figuring on going.

$1.50 to Cincinnati, Sunday.

The L and N. will run another $1.50 excursion to Cincinnati Sunday. The Zoo is now wide open, the theatres have not closed, base ball is in full blast and many other attractions are open. Train leaves Lancaster at 5 a. m. Returning, leaves Cincinnati about eight o'clock.

We understand the ladies composing the Cemetery Committee will soon resume the work of beautifying the local City of the Dead, which is good news to those having an interest there in. They have done much good work but there is still room for improvement and we trust the ladies will receive all needed assistance in the noble work.

Splendid Address.

We have heard many compliments passed upon the remarks of Hon. Wm J. Price in delivering the address to the graduating class Tuesday evening. Mr. Price is a son of Mr. Wm C. Price, head and proceeded to gab while a business man is engaged with another party. Every person has some fault, but that of butting in is the worst. The other day, we saw a fellow enter a certain bank, stork right back into the private room where the cashier was talking with a gentleman, flop down into an easy chair and cock his brogans upon the table. Such a thing as apologizing for intruding, or even removing his hat seemed an unknown quantity to the fellow, and he had had opportunities to learn better, too. Good manners should never be forgotten, and this little squib is to remind those who so far forget themselves. A gentleman will act the gentleman under all circumstances.

County Sunday School Convention.

The county Sunday School convention will be held in the Methodist church Tuesday. The program, as published in a recent issue of The Record, is an interesting one, and if you haven't a copy get one. Last year, the country churches showed much more interest in the meeting than did the Lancaster people, and it is hoped that all interested (and every body should be) will not only attend the meeting but assist in entertaining the visitors.

See Enoch, the Manfish, at the Carnival. His feats under water are very daring, and will interest and amuse you.

Sunday School will not be held at Herring's school house Sunday afternoon, on account of the decoration exercises.

Lightning struck Judge Robinson's hen house and killed every chicken therein. The Judge would be in had shape should a Methodist camp meeting strike the town.

Decoration Sunday.

The Knights of Pythias will hold their annual decoration of graves next Sunday. The exercises will be held in the Christian church at two o'clock in the afternoon, consisting of songs, prayer and an address, at conclusion of which the Knights will proceed to the Cemetery and conclude the services, placing a design on the grave of the deceased brethren.

To Raise Maple Trees.

The seed from Maple trees is now ripe and falling. A four-year old Maple is worth 25 cents. There is nothing easier to raise. They will grow anywhere and on almost any kind of soil. All that is necessary is to open a trench along the fence (or any where else) about three inches deep, drill the seed and replace the dirt. They will grow faster if cultivated, but they will grow without it. Why not raise Maples in the fence corners in the place of briars and weeds?

Court Day.

A large number of people came in Monday, but many of the farmers has teneed with their business and returned to work. Business with the merchants was fairly good. The farmers said they were well in hand with their work, and think the prospects for good crops are much better than appeared a month ago. The wheat in most localities is doing well, the average of half a crop being looked for. The politicians had full sway, and much buttonholing was done. The glad hand prevailed, and much of the oh-be-joyful was in evidence.

Uncle Sam Can Help.

The Jessamine Journal says:—There is a great outcry from all parts of the country against blind tigers. But how can such evil be stopped when to a certain extent they are endorsed by the government. There are many blind tigers in Kentucky, the owner holding a receipt showing he has revenue license. That accounts for the boldness with which so many people sell whisky openly—that they have government license. No government officer should issue license to a white man or negro unless he positively knows that he will come within the bounds of the law; and to do this the government should require every individual, who applies for license, to hold an order from the judge in the county in which he lives. That would do away with so much of this thing of selling whisky without state or city license.

Odd Fellow's Carnival and Spring Festival.

The Monumental Carnival Company is replete in every thing of high character and of moral influence and will exhibit in this city the entire week of May 30th and June 4th and none need hesitate to visit it. In the several entertainments is The Old Plantation, the original negro minstrel, Little Nellie, the high diver, Si, the Indian snake eater, Lunette, the Flying Lady who flies through the air with the aid of electricity, the great Electric Theatre and the Kaola Sisters. There is also a first-class Ferris Wheel and merry-go round with the outfit.

Prof. Kelley and his marvelous Electric Theatre, which carries its own electrical plant, will be one of the leading attractions. The shows come especially well spoken of by pulpit and press, and is indeed a novel attraction. The different views presented by the kinetoscope connected with the show comprise scenes from all the leading events of the world in the past for years and will be doubtless appreciated here, especially by those seeking historical illustrations.

Don't Butt In.

Did you ever think of the number of people who walk up and "butt in" when two or more people are talking? It is distressing that people so far forget their good manners. It is almost impossible to hold a conversation on the street without some fellow walking up with the usual "Talking secrets?" While you may not be talking secrets, yet if two persons are standing to one side it is presumed that the subject under discussion is not for the public at large. Another very annoying habit is that practiced by some men who will walk in a private office, take a seat, open their hat and proceed to gab while a business man is engaged with another party. Every person has some fault, but that of butting in is the worst. The other day, we saw a fellow enter a certain bank, stork right back into the private room where the cashier was talking with a gentleman, flop down into an easy chair and cock his brogans upon the table. Such a thing as apologizing for intruding, or even removing his hat seemed an unknown quantity to the fellow, and he had had opportunities to learn better, too. Good manners should never be forgotten, and this little squib is to remind those who so far forget themselves. A gentleman will act the gentleman under all circumstances.

Meet me on the Midway. 2t

Don't miss Little Nellie, the high Diver. 2t

Spend at least one day at the street fair in Lancaster all next week. 2t

Hurry! Hurry! come early and stay late and enjoy yourselves at the celebration next week. 2t

Important Meeting.

There will be a very important meeting of the K. P. Lodge this (Friday) night, and every member is urged to be present.

Physical Culture Class.

Mr. Thos C. Adams, who has been in Lancaster several days organizing a class in Physical Culture for men and boys, announces that on account of the coming of the Street Fair he will not open classes until the show shall have come and gone. Mr. Adams has secured a large number and predicts splendid results along Physiological lines. The Adams Bros., who travel and teach jointly, organized a second class in Stanford, which is now in progress. A second class for ladies was also taught there by Miss Adams.

Success on the Farm.

Success is what every farmer wants, and the following rules will contribute immeasurably towards bringing it. Have a place for everything and keep everything in its place. When doing anything use any tool or implement deposit it promptly in the place where it belongs. Study and plan to have as many conveniences around as possible. Exercise sociability and that with the neighbors, so that when help is needed it will be cheerfully rendered. Remember when anything needs fixing it should be attended to promptly. For instance, when the carriage wheels need packing, pack them at once. Packing is cheaper than boxing on axles. Repair promptly all broken harness, straps, snaps, cockeyes, buckles and especially the long lines of double seams when weak and likely to be torn apart when least expected. Never run any kind of machine a moment unless all bolts and bolt heads are in proper place. Keep all axles and other parts needing oiling well oiled on time. Take up every broken plank in the barn floor and every one that is weak and likely to break and replace it with a sound one. Contract no debt of any size unless you know before hand where the money is to be secured to pay it when due. Even then it would be best, as a rule, not to make the debt. Be scrupulously prompt in everything. Never postpone anything until to-morrow that should be attended to today. Finally, keep in mind the ideas, and act upon them, that to get along well, to carve out success, to get the most out of life, a good understanding of the sound theories and practices underlying a business, trade, calling or profession are essential, if the greatest measure of success is to be hoped for.—Cor. Epitomist.

Tobacco Outlook.

Indications are that a larger area than usual will be set in tobacco this Spring, but the crop will be set ten days or two weeks later than usual. It is time now to begin setting the crop, and but few plants are large enough for transplanting. If they were they would hardly be set just now as the cut worms are very bad in cold weather. The prices this winter have been fair and just now are abnormally high. The stocks now on hand will have been consumed before the new crop will be ready for market; with empty warehouses and increasing demand, prices will hardly go back to the starvation rates that have prevailed for several years, even if a large crop should be raised this year.

Says We're Selfish.

It looks as if the Lancaster Fishing Club is trying to get a corner on all the available fishing places in Central Kentucky. Not content with having Dix river leased a mile and a half above and below King's Mill, they will to night try to lease the new lake at Lancaster with the specific understanding that only persons living in Lancaster may fish there. There are some good men in that Fishing Club, and we are at a loss to understand why men who have always been generous in other affairs, should become so selfish over a few fishing places as to want to corner all the fishing places in two counties.—Danville Advocate.

In explanation, The Record will say that only Lancaster men are wanted as members of the club. As it will require over two years' work to thoroughly stock the lake, and at the same time cost money, no man with a thimbleful of sense wishes to do the work or spend his cash for the benefit of the general public who would immediately butt in and reap the benefits of other people's labor. It is the club's intention, when the fish are "ripe," to invite its friends to enjoy the sport, but the public at large must keep out. As to the lease at the river, the writer is also a member of that club but has never been there, and, in fact knows nothing of the club's workings, but we do know that invitations have been extended to many to visit the leased property, the writer having sent several to friends in the Advocate's town. No, Sam, you are away off if you think there is any selfish motive in the matter. On the other hand, the members are striving to secure a place of recreation to which they can invite their friends, and, as we understand it, lease the property to keep away seiners and dynamiters who, as all know, are destroying the fish in all Kentucky streams.

Excursion to St. Louis.

Lancaster Excursion Club will give an excursion on the 28th of June to the World's Fair, St. Louis. Those contemplating going will do well to get our rates, and join the party leaving here by special coaches, going direct, without change. This party will be chaperoned by Mrs. Dr. W. S. Beazley and met by Mr. Henley Bastin who has been located on World's Fair grounds for the past two months. Thus enabling all going with us to make the trip and see the Fair with the least expense.

Quarters have been secured at leading Hotel, main entrance of grounds, that no time may be lost going or coming to or from the Fair. All information and particulars of trip will be furnished any one calling at Telephone Office or writing Miss Bettie Anderson, Secretary, Lancaster, or call phone 171.

Commemoration week was concluded by the graduating exercises in Christian church Tuesday evening. The invocation was by Elder F. M. Tindler, diplomas delivered by Hon. William J. Price, of Danville, the benediction by Rev. C. M. Chumbley. Mrs. Taylor, of Lexington, presided at the pipe organ, the music being exceptionally good. There were seven graduates, essays and addresses showed deep thought and careful preparation. They were delivered in a splendid manner, and many compliments were showered upon the readers and speakers. The graduates were Miss Edith M. Morrow, Mr. Robert Chester Powell, Miss Janie Gordon Doty, Mr. Chas. A. Mahan, Miss Fionnie C. Hammond, Mr. Robert Ware McRoberts, Mr. Wm. Ross Bastin. The church was crowded, many being unable to gain admission. The large crowd showed the interest taken in the school by our people, and also went to prove that the people are interested in the school and its welfare.

Through Sleeper from Lexington to St. Louis via Chesapeake & Ohio Railway.—Beginning April 28th, the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway will inaugurate a through sleeping car line to St. Louis via Louisville and the Southern Railway, to leave Lexington daily at 5:30 p. m. and reach St. Louis at 7:30 a. m. Returning, this sleeper will leave St. Louis at 10:10 p. m. and will reach Lexington on C & O train number 22 11:10 a. m. the next morning. tf

Advice to Candidates.

The lion and the lamb shall lie down together—that's politics.

Every man that says he is for you is sure to vote for you—that's a lie.

Say you are forced by your friends to be a candidate—that's hot air.

Begin making promises early—that's sure defeat.

Believe every one who says they have a power of influence if they only had a few dollars—that's bankruptcy.

Worry over every report you hear—that's insanity.

Kiss the babies—that's deceit.

Patronize church fairs and benevolent entertainments—that's business.

Why Not Try This?

As warm weather has arrived, why not fall in line with other up-to-date towns and close the stores at 7 o'clock every night? It is done in every other live town, so why not here? The clerks and merchants are always at work by 7 a. m. and in warm weather, a little recreation is not only enjoyable, but a necessity. All this talk about after supper trade is bosh, and if you want to do good work, you cannot work fourteen hours a day. If you adopt the plan and live up to it, the customers will soon become accustomed to it and not expect you to be there all day and night too. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy, and life is too short to wear out by over and unnecessary work.
