LOUIS LANDRAM.

Entered at the Post Office in Lancaster, Ky., as Second-Class Mail Matter.

Member of Kentucky Press Association and Eighth District Press League.

Lancaster, Ky., October 26, 1906

Ed Walton, the clever editor of the Stanford Journal, prints the following, adding "here's what we've been telling 'em all time: In a Chicago court in her breach of promise case, the plaintiff testified that "few single men know how to kiss. I should have known Mr Dooling was married by the way he kissed me. Married men know how to kiss better than single men. Their kisses are longer and more heartfelt."

Poor old Kentucky is just now suffering from an epidemic of politics. We scarcely get through with one election until there is another burdening the people. We wish there was only one election in ten years.

The Eighth District Press League will meet in Nicholasville Saturday, the 3rd. This organization is proving of inestimable value to the members, and in many ways.

Northern dentists have formed a union. They doubtless will have a strong pull, insuring a howling success.

The scent of the moth-ball tells of the donning of last-winter's flannel.
